HEIRESS KIDNAPED.

Abductors Employ the Taxicab.

Thrilling Ride of Beautiful Maid Through Streets of Allentown, Pa.

Her Head Wrapped in a Thick Blanket to Stifle Her Cries.

Overtaken by Police, Girl Is Rescued and Two Men Are Arrested.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

ALLENTOWN (Pa.) Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Prospective heiress of a fortune valued at more than a million dollars, Miss Anna Strekel, daughter of Reuben Strekel, retired business man of this city, was kidnaped late this afternoon at her home on West Walnut street, a fashionable residence section.

She was forced by her two abductors into a waiting taxicab where her arms were pinioned, her head thrust in a blanket and then a thrilling ride through the streets of the city, a trip ending on Centre Square, where the automobile ran into the granite monument when the girl screamed and the abductors arrested.

KIDNAPERS IDENTIFIED.

At the police station the kidnapers were identified as Samuel Sinclair, operating Inspector of State Highways, with headquarters in this city, and Walter Starr, a senior at Lehigh University, South Bethlehem.

Both were committed to jail in default of $3000 bail. The girl was taken to her home and is in a serious condition as the result of her experience.

Miss Strekel is 22 years old and is a leader of the exclusive set of young society people in Allentown. She is a graduate of the Allentown College for Women and of Vassar College. She is a member of the Lehigh Country Club and of the Allentown Assembly. She is an attractive brunette and talented. The kidnaping is alleged to be due to Sinclair's infatuation for the pretty young society leader.

LOVE AFFAIR.

Sinclair is 30 years old, a member of a prominent family of Quakers at Kennett Square, Pa., and a graduate of Swarthmore College, where he was star football player and athlete.

PREFERS HIS SISTER TO BEAUTIFUL WIFE.

[BY CABLE AND FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Despite the efforts of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty and one of three strongest men in the leadership of the British government, who has used up all his eloquence in trying to bring Lieut. George Cornwallis West to a sense of his matrimonial responsibilities, Mrs. George Cornwallis West is on the point of invoking the British courts to obtain a legal separation.

She will not seek a divorce and Capt. Cornwallis West has no grounds upon which to sue.

The famous marriage of 1900 has ended at last in an open rupture. George Cornwallis West is living with his sister, the Duchess of Westminster, at Eaton Hall. The Grosvenors and the Cornwallis Wests are all allied against the brilliant American woman who, since she married Lord Randolph Churchill in 1874, has been a leading figure in British court life and the most coveted society circles.

FLOODS IN OHIO.

COLUMBUS (O.) Jan. 11.—A general flood warning for Ohio was issued by the United States weather forecaster in this city today. The prediction is made that by tomorrow all Ohio rivers will be out of their banks, but the rise may be checked some time tomorrow by cold weather.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Big business, its right to growth and its duties to the country, were discussed by President-elect Wilson in a speech before the Commercial Club of Chicago tonight.

"I don't care how big a business grows, provided it grows big in contact with keen competition," he said.

The Governor appealed for a dissolution of what he said were prejudices in this country between capital and labor.

Among Gov. Wilson's auditors were bank presidents, railroad presidents and heads of great business enterprises. Seated near him were Gov. Deneen, a Republican, and Governor-elect Dunne, a Democrat.

Contrary to expectations the Governor was not spoken to by local politicians in reference to the Senatorial situation in Illinois. His only caller today was Charles R. Crane, who frequently has been mentioned as a Cabinet possibility.

The Governor said in his speech that success of American enterprise depended upon the opening up to the rank and file of the nation, not only

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray created a tumultuous scene before the Senate Indian Affairs Committee today when she charged that Indians had been murdered to get them out of the way, that Secretary Fisher and Senator Dixon had made statements, "deliberately untrue" and that if she had opportunity to produce all her evidence "Secretary Fisher would be connected with one of the most gigantic steals going on in the United States today."

The Secretary and the Senator objected vigorously to her being permitted to make such general charges. Members of the committee demanded that Mrs. Gray produce her proofs. Secretary Fisher agreed to produce any evidence in his possession. The hearing went over to next week.

This was the advice that Joseph Ettor, the labor leader recently acquitted on charges growing out of the textile strike riots at Lawrence, Mass., uttered last night to striking hotel employees. Ettor was asked to comment on his words. "I meant just what I said," was his reply.

California created a sensation at a stockholders' meeting yesterday when he related how he had placed a dictograph in the general manager's desk and learned of efforts conspiring in his office.

The new lighthouse in San Pedro at the end of the breakwater is nearing completion, and is to be in use by March, to light the way into the improved harbor.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. Judge Outer granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Fred Fuller sent to Patton Asylum from Los Angeles. Judge Hutton signed the commitment and legal forms were not complied with according to the San Bernardino jurist.

Long Beach will vote on various proposed charter amendments Monday but the one which engages the greater part of public attention is that pertaining to sale of liquors. Baker F. Lee of Los Angeles addressed a mass meeting in that city last night.

Hemet dedicated a library which cost ten thousand dollars and citizens are so proud of it that elaborate ceremonies marked its completion. Andrew Carnegie made the financial advances.

Congregationalists of Ontario will today dedicate a new house of worship which cost the congregation fifty thousand dollars.

San Jacinto orange growers have made a close investigation of the situation relative to damage done by the recent freeze and announce with much gratification that the damage is nothing like it was first reported. It is believed that more than half a crop will be shipped.

PACIFIC SLOPE. Two constitutional amendments will be proposed to the Legislature at Sacramento, one to create a State court of commerce, and another a board to recommerition the State.

A heavy snowstorm in the Cascades has again blocked railroad traffic in Oregon and Washington. Northern California also reported a heavy fall of snow yesterday.

Oregon patronage will be distributed by President Taft, a truce having been patched up between him and Senator Bourne, and the nominations held up will now be sent in for confirmation.

GENERAL EASTERN. Before the House Rules Committee Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, social worker, and Frank C. Preate, labor investigator, yesterday testified as to the deplorable conditions under which men, women and children labor in New York canneries and packing sheds.

A contractor's paymaster was struck down with a billiard cue on a New York street yesterday and robbed of $2500.

WASHINGTON. Before the House Committee on Ways and Means yesterday tinplate manufacturers protested against a reduction of the steel schedule of the tariff, declaring that such reduction would work into the hands of the trust.

Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Harrison, widows of former Presidents, were guests of honor at a dinner given at the White House last evening by President and Mrs. Taft.

Through an order of the Navy Department, the various national gate and souvenir heads from American warships and cruisers, for military reasons, have been restored, to the great joy of the sailors.

FOREIGN. The reinstatement of Lieut.-Col. De Pary de Clam in the French army has revived the Dreyfus affair, and threatens to defeat Poincare for the Presidency.

Thirty-nine Chinese lepers were put to death near Nankin by order of the authorities, a pit being dug and the unfortunates being driven into it, and shot and burned.

MEXICO. The rebels who sacked Ayotzinco are being pursued by the Federals into the mountains and are reported to be running out of ammunition.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Pedro Lascurin carried from El Paso yesterday to Mexico proposals from four rebel generals to submit to the government in order to prevent American intervention, providing immunity be given the rebel leaders.

FINANCIAL. Grain prices declined on the Chicago market yesterday after a bullish feast of two days, and some of the shorts were caught in the resulting squeeze.

The bears on the Stock Exchange yesterday attacked the copper issues. The general list showed a fair degree of strength, but Steel displayed heaviness and the coalers and railroad issues weakened.

Monkeys, Cats, Dogs, Parrots and Other Pets on Uncle Sam's Ships Restored by Naval Authorities Despite Sanitary Plea of Medical Officers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NORFOLK (Pa.) Jan. 11.—The billy goats, monkeys, cats, dogs, parrots and other pets aboard Uncle Sam's fighting ships at the Norfolk navy yard, which were banished a few days ago, when, report said, Rear-Admiral R. M. Doyle was butted by a goat on the quarterdeck of the battleship New Hampshire, will be restored to the jackies and there is joy in the fleet again.

Assistant Secretary Winthrop of the Navy Department took their banishment seriously enough to investigate it and let it be known that the department did not approve their summary removal.

Today Admiral Doyle indignantly denied that the goat had butted him and announced that he had ordered the removal of the pets because medical officers thought they might have something to do with cerebro spinal meningitis and measles at the marine barracks. The admiral further announced that when the danger of infection was past the mascots would be permitted to return.

HIGH RECORD FOR DIVORCE.

LOS ANGELES SHARES IT WITH SAN FRANCISCO.

Desertion the Most Common Ground on Which Pleas of Legal Separation Are Based, According to the Statistics of the California State Labor Commissioner.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—State Labor Commissioner John P. McLaughlin submitted to Gov. Johnson today a report covering divorce statistics in California for the years 1906 to 1912 inclusive.

San Francisco, Los Angeles and Alameda counties show the highest percentages of divorces, while Alpine and Mono counties show a record of no divorces within the last two years.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, the percentage of divorce to marriage throughout the State was 13.66; in 1909-1910 it was 14.1 per cent., and in 1910-1911, it was 14.2 per cent. The average for the six years was 12.9 per cent.

In the largest three counties the ratio of divorce to marriage was 1 to 7. Of the total number of couples divorced in the last year recorded, 94.4 per cent. were married in California, 27.5 per cent. in other States and 3.9 per cent. in foreign countries. Wives were plaintiffs in 72.8 per cent. of the suits.

Wilful desertion was the most common ground for divorce according to the report, and the most of the divorces were granted to couples who had been married for from five to ten years. About 50 per cent. of the divorced couples were without children.

Commissioner McLaughlin said he did not know why the Bureau of Labor Statistics should be called upon to prepare records of divorces, and that he would recommend that hereafter these statistics be gathered by some other department.

THE DAY IS SET.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—After two days' debate whether the Senate had the right to rescind a "unanimous consent agreement," that body late today fixed February 10 as the date for a final vote on the Sheppard-Kenyon bill, prohibiting shipments of liquor into States where prohibition laws are in effect.

OLDS TVEITMOE N LEAVENWORTH

ynamiters Sure to Stay Several Weeks More.

iller Himself to Examine Surety Bonds.

e Will Not Burden Others With the Task.

T DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 11.—[Exclu- e Dispatch.] Charles W. Miller, ted States District Attorney, an- nced this morning that he would t ask District Attorneys in other rts of the country to investigate e sureties offered or the bonds of men convicted in the dynamite e who are now seeking release m the Federal prison at Leaven- rth pending a review of their cases the United States Court of Ap- als.

"If the bonds come to me," said Miller, "I will make any investi- tion that may be necessary and if e sureties are found sufficient they ll be submitted to the Circuit Court Appeals for approval. Thus far ave received no bonds." Attorneys friends of the convicted men have e preparing bonds under the writ supersedeas issued by the Court Appeals and in a number of cases y have submitted the bonds to the strict Attorneys and commissioners the various districts in which the fendants lived.

Bond for Olaf Tveitmoe was sub- tted to a United States commis- ner in San Francisco and bond for E. Reddin was submitted to a strict Attorney at Milwaukee. The thorities have refused to investigate e sureties offered unless requested do so by Mr. Miller and Mr. Miller ve he has no intention of burdening m with work for him. The result this attitude on the part of the strict Attorney will be to keep Tveit- e, Clancy, Munsey and others in l for several weeks longer. Mr. ller, it is also understood, will not cept as sureties any bondsmen who e indemnified against loss as a con- deration for going on the dynamiters nds.

STUS OF CASE IN CHICAGO.

Dynamiters in Leavenworth Must Wait Until May for a Ruling on Their Appeal.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE MES, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dis- ch.] The cases of the thirty-two victed dynamiters will not be tak- up by the Circuit Court of Ap- als before the third week in April. When Judges Seaman and Baker, ting en banc, granted the "writ of or" and allowed a writ of super- deas to issue in behalf of the con- ted union labor men, they fixed sty days as the time in which the ll of exceptions must be filed by ir counsel.

Under ordinary circumstances this e limit is sixty days, but on account the great mass of record in the ng trial which must be scrutinized the lawyers in preparing their bill, a time was extended. After the bill exceptions has been filed, attorneys r the government and the dyna- ters will be given twenty days in ch to file their briefs. After the briefs have been filed the procedure will then be to fix a date for the argu- ments. This date will probably be some time in May or the early part of June.

If the action of the jury in Federal Judge Anderson's court is reversed by the Court of Appeals, after the argu- ments have been heard, the case would in all probability be remanded for retrial to the district from whence it came. The Court of Appeals, how- ever, could overrule the action of the trial court if it were found that the verdict had not been based upon the law and evidence.

Error in the record during the trial of the case will be the principal issue upon which the freedom of the dyna- miters will be sought. All the excep- tions made during the trial to the in- troduction of evidence will be renewed in the Appellate Court.

The question whether the offense of which the men were convicted vio- lates the conspiracy statute will also be brought up. The defense attorneys say their clients were charged with a crime which they could not have possibly committed. They say that a conspiracy must consist of a chain of continuous events and that such was not the case in this matter. They will insist that the evidence was "so slight it ought not to have gone to the jury."

One point which they dote upon is that Judge Anderson freed six of the defendants and declared it was a "de- batable trial."

On the conspiracy phase of the case the attorneys for the convict unionites raised the contention that conspiracy in itself is not a crime. They say there is no such thing contemplated by the statutes as a conspiracy to commit of- fenses generally against the United States.

In this case, they say there was no evidence that the conspiracy was formed with the idea of carrying dynamite on passenger trains.

"PHYLLIS—TO BE KISSED."

President Taft Got the Note and the 4-Year-Old From Wyoming Moistened the Executive's Cheek.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—On Presi- dent Taft's appointment list was this brief entry:

"Phyllis Wistrand, Lander, Wyo., (to be kissed.)"

When that item caught the Presi- dent's eye, as he sat down at his desk, he looked about his office and over in one corner saw a little girl with blonde curls looking eagerly at him. Beside her was a woman, evidently her mother.

"Well, Phyllis," he said, as he rose from his chair to shake hands, "so you want to be kissed by the Presi- dent of the United States?"

"Yes sir," she lisped.

"Well," said the President as he raised her high in his arms and kissed her fairly on the cheek, "I hope you will remember that."

Phyllis is 4 years old. She went through the White House recently with her mother and announced then that she would never leave Washington until she had been kissed by the Presi- dent. She was so insistent that her mother wrote to the White House and finally made an appointment with Mr. Taft.

SHE SPEAKS FOR AN ARMY.

HELENA (Mont.) Jan. 11.—Miss Jeanette Rankin of Missoula, who has charge of the woman suffrage campaign in Montana during the ses- sion of the Legislature announced her acceptance today of an invitation to be the official speaker of the suf- fragette army which will march from New York to Washington preceding the inauguration of President Wilson. The invitation came from Gen. Rosa- lie Jones, who will lead the marchers and who directed the recent suf- fragette expedition from New York to Albany.

FIRST IN THE JOURNALISTIC PROCESSION.

During the Year 1912 the Los Angeles Times Printed Four Million More Lines of Advert sing Than Any Other Newspaper on Earth, and Surpassed Its Own Previously Unequaled Re ord by Over One Million Lines.

The newspaper advertising record for another year has been writ- ten. The official returns for 1912 are in, and, for the seventh consecu- tive year, The Times has won the pennant from all the newspapers in the United States.

The Times advertising record for 1912 has never been equaled, in any single year, in the history of the world, by any other newspaper at home or abroad.

The reason for The Times' year in and year out world-wide adver- tising supremacy is that the superior quantity, quality and purchasing power of its circulation among people who do things with both brawn and brain—people who are building an empire in the Pacific South- west—make its advertising columns more profitable to its patrons than those of any other newspaper in the world.

The following figures, which are absolutely accurate, were care- fully compiled by the Mail Order Journal, of Chicago, for the twenty- six leading newspapers of the United States.

PRINCE MURAT CAPTIVE OF CINCINNATI HEIRESS.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dis- patch.] The wedding in the first week of February of Miss Helena McDonald Stallo and Prince Michel Murat, will be quiet on account of the recent death of Prince Louis Na- poleon, a relative of Prince Murat, who is a lineal descendant of Na- poleon's impetuous marshal and King of Naples. He is a giant in stature, being 6 feet 2 inches tall, but gives the impression of an American business man rather than a member of royalty.

Miss Stallo is the grand-daughter of the late Judge Stallo, Minister to Italy under the first Cleveland admin- istration, and is the youngest daugh- ter of Edmund K. Stallo, the Cincin- nati millionaire. However, she has an independent fortune through her grandfather on her mother's side, Al- exander McDonald.

American Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and Editor Henry Watterson will be witnesses for the bride at the wedding, in accordance with the French custom. Prince Murat will have as an attendant Grand Duke Paul of Russia.

hotel-keepers in this city today over the sensational advice given the strik- ing waiters last night by Joseph Ettor, the labor leader. Ettor, speak- ing to several thousand strikers at Bryant Hall, said:

"If you have to go back to work under unsatisfactory conditions do it with your minds made up that it is the unsafest proposition in the world for capitalists to eat food prepared by members of your union."

Only one construction could be put on this by the strikers. He has or- dered striking waiters to poison wealthy men whom they serve.

"This man should be arrested im- mediately," declared Thomas M. Hill- yard, manager of the Vanderbilt Hot- el. "The moral effect on those an- archists who heard him last night is appalling. Something should be done at once."

WHITMAN POWERLESS.

Dist.-Atty. Whitman, however, when asked if Ettor could be arrest- ed, declared no action could be tak- en because his (Ettor's) language had not been sufficiently specific. He had not made plain exactly how the wait- ers were to make the food "unsafe."

Union leaders in the waiters' strike were busy trying to explain that Et- tor did not mean anything when he said it.

While the utterance was cheered at the meeting the cooler heads were appalled when they saw the words in cold type and promised to make an endeavor to curb Ettor's talk. The explanation made of Ettor's utter- ance was that he meant that the chefs would allow unsanitary conditions to continue instead of rectifying them.

The Executive Committee of the Hotel Men's Association convened this afternoon at the organization headquarters for the purpose of de- termining if any legal step could be taken against Ettor.

ROSE PASTOR STOKES GOES ON WARPATH.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Christiana Volpe, a 14-year-old girl who attempted to heckle Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes at a meeting of strik- ing garment workers in Labor Ly- ceum, Brooklyn, was driven from the platform and told to leave the hall. When men and women in the gather- ing learned that she was sincere and not "a spy of the bosses," as Mrs. Stokes denounced her, they clamored for the reading of the questions which were on a slip of paper that Mrs. Stokes took from the girl when she mounted the platform.

Those who called for the reading were also told to get out if they did not like the way the meeting was be- ing conducted and the questions were not read. They were as follows:

"Why do you preach picketing and violence and have my people clubbed by the police?

"Why don't the union leaders and you delegates go out on picket duty and clash with the police and be clubbed yourselves?

"Who wants this strike—the work- ing men and women or the labor lead- ers?

"How many people have you aided as you said you would before the strike, with funds or coal or clothing?

"Outside, it is cold and we have no coal in our homes, or food or medi- cine for our children and we are hun- gry and shivering. Are your chil- dren suffering in this way? Is this a strike or a riot in which you are mak- ing us suffer while you fight with the bosses?"

"Get off this platform and out of this hall if you don't like the way we do things," was Mrs. Stokes's com- mand to the shrinking girl. "These questions are not your own. You are a spy from the bosses. Get out of here."

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Eighteen women, all arrested during a riot of the garment workers before Schloss Brothers tailoring shop, Williamsburg, tried their best to in- ject a spirit of revolution into the Manhattan avenue court today when their cases came up for a hearing. Almost in a frenzy, they sang the Marseillaise, yelled, pounded with their fists and stamped on the court- room floor until they were bundled in a prison van and taken to the Ray- mond-street jail. With eighteen men, nineteen of the gentler sex were herded before Magistrate Dodd on a charge of disorderly conduct. All the prisoners were Poles, Lithuanians and Italians, speaking very little Eng- lish. The magistrate set the cases of the men over for Monday and heard the women first. A lawyerr epresenting all of them made a plea for mercy, saying the prisoners were quiet as doves and had taken no part in yesterday's riot.

The magistrate, however, fined each $5 with the alternative of three days in jail. One woman paid the fine and was dismissed, the others were taken back to prison. Then it was that the "doves" started something. They yelled the revolutionary fighting hymn in three languages, beat a tattoo on the walls and broke up the session of the court.

The magistrate ordered the prison van and shipped the noisemakers to the Raymond-street jail at once.

TELEGRAPH INQUIRY ORDERED.

Interstate Commerce Commission Decides to Investigate Charge of Misuse of Leased Wires.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Inquiry was begun by the Interstate Com- merce Commission on its own initia- tive into contracts for private tele- graph and telephone wires and into the rates and regulations of such service.

The American Telephone and Tele- graph Company, Western Union Tele- graph Company and Postal Telegraph- Cable Company were made respond- ents. No time was fixed for hear- ings.

Complaint was made to the com- mission that, under the terms of pri- vate-wire contracts of the Western Union Telegraph Company, use is made of its public wires at less than published tariff rates and that per- sons other than the parties to the contracts frequently use the private wires of lessees for the transmission of private messages free of charge in violation of the act to regulate com- merce.

This complaint was made the basis for the order of inquiry.

Ambassador Warns of the Rebel Activities.

Madero General Is Captured by Insurrectos.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dis- patch.] Conditions in Mexico are rap- idly becoming more acute. Henry Lane Wilson, American Ambassador at Mexico City, advised the State De- partment today that the town of Acyt- zingo, thirty miles from the capital, has been captured by the rebels, who defeated the Federal troops, killing twenty soldiers. Federal reinforce- ments which were sent to the scene of the disorder were also routed.

The railway line between Mexico City and Vera Cruz has been threat- ened by rebels and the Mexican gov- ernment has sent troops in pursuit of the rebels, and to protect the trains of the Interoceanic Railway. Rail- way communication between Mexico City and Oaxaca has been cut. In the southern part of Mexico, Mr. Wilson added, a number of small towns have been taken by the rebel forces and railroad stations and bridges have been burned and destroyed.

Railroad officials state that in many cases where these stations have been burned old and young women have been maltreated. The price of foodstuffs, Mr. Wilson continued, is rapidly increasing on account of the railway strike and great suffering will occur unless an agreement is reached within a short time.

At San Luis Potosi, a small band of rebels is engaged in robbing plan- tations. Conditions at Saltillo are quiet.

Private advices received at the de- partment from El Paso, Tex., indicate that a band of rebels has killed cat- tle and stolen horses and mules be- longing to the Ojitos ranch in North- ern Chihuahua.

ROBELO ARRESTED.

Secretary-General of the Orozco Revolution Charged With Violating the Neutrality Laws.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 11.—Ricardo Gomez Robelo, secretary-general of the Orozco revolution, was arrested here late today charged with violation of neutrality laws. He is named in the same Federal indictment head- ed by Emilio Vasquez Gomez and others, who are held at San Antonio, Tex.

Robelo, who is said to be Gen. Orozco's favorite disciple, has been here several months as business agent for the revolutionary party. Repeat- ed requests by Mexican officials for his arrest have been refused by local authorities. Dr. Jose Saenz, a Cuban named in the same indictment, is held here under bond.

From the south tonight came dis- turbing reports, including private verification of the reported capture by rebels of Gen. Blanco. The man- ager of the Hearst ranch, near Ma- dera, has appealed through the American Consul at Chihuahua City for troops to protect the property. Federal troops today discovered a large quantity of ammunition and dy- namite at Villa Ahumada, on the Mexican Central Railway, below Juar- ez. The rebel guards fled, leaving the explosives in the hands of the gov- ernment troops.

Mining men declare a critical con- dition exists at Inde, Durango, where a large American mining camp is located. Since the rebels demanded the women of the settlement and threatened to attack with 500 men, no definite news has come from the district.

Gomez Robelo telegraphed tonight a protest of his arrest to the Depart- ment of Justice at Washington, de- claring that he always had denounced the Vasquez Gomez movement. He was unable to raise a bond of $1500 and was remanded to jail, pending his removal tomorrow to San An- tonio for trial.

Col. Francisco Villa, former ex-in- surrecto leader, who recently escaped from the penitentiary at Mexico City, where he was held on a charge of in- subordination, arrived today in El Paso. No effort was made to arrest him.

VIRGINIA BROOKS DENIES IT.

Young Lawyer Friend Takes Out License to Marry Her, But She Says She Knows Nothing of It.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] When a man who gives his name as John L. Boyce stepped up to a win- dow in the marriage license bureau today and asked for a license to wed Miss Virginia Brooks, "Cupid" Stasy smiled.

"Yes, I am going to marry a suf- fragette," the applicant said, realiz- ing that the clerk recognized the name of the bride to be as the spec- tacular girl reformer who "cleaned up" West Hammond, Ill. When the man hurried away with the license an investigation was begun. James L. Boyce proved to be a young law- yer and member of a wealthy family and a close friend of Miss Brooks.

Boyce could not be found. Miss Brooks, however, was reached over the telephone.

"Why, the very idea" she said when told she was named in marriage li- cense No. 618107. "I hardly even know the man. I never was engaged or even knew Jimmie—meaning Mr. Boyce—had any matrimonial inten- tions as far as I am concerned. I am indignant. It seems as though Mr. Boyce believes the way to cap- ture a girl's heart is to go at it with a rush. He has made a mistake.

"Love—real love—is a thing that grows on a person in a time of leis- ure and relaxation. I have been too busy to think about marriage. I am no offense to him or his family when I say I would not marry him now."

"Jimmie's" mother said the news would be given out Monday. His father was too busy to talk about it.

Miss Brooks, who has been called a "man hater" denied the accusation today, but emphatically denied that she was soon to be married."

CONVICTS ESCAPE IN AUTO.

Three Break Out of Joliet in Stolen Machine and Quarrel on Their Way to Chicago.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JOILET (Ill.) Jan. 11.—Three con- victs escaped from the State Peni- tentiary here today and are thought to be on the way to Chicago in a stolen automobile. Two of the men were serving sentences for murder. They were seen two hours after their escape in the stolen car speeding north along the road eight miles from Joliet. The convicts were still in their prison garb. The farmer who saw them and telephoned the prison official here, said the men had stopped the car and were standing up in it disputing about the route.

The convicts are Sigmund Bresche, 45 years old, serving a life term for murder; Stephen Ayers, 45 years old, serving a fourteen-year term for mur- der; and Edwin Sheldon, 42 years old, serving an indeterminate sen- tence for larceny. All were sen- tenced from Cook county (Chicago) Ill.

The men were employed about the prison garage to care for cars kept there by several prison officials, and escaped in one of these machines. They were not missed until roll call at 4 p.m., and had then been gone half an hour. The automobile yard opens on the Chicago-Joliet road.

Friends of the Strebel family will not press the charges against the two men.

WESTERN UNION STATEMENT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Vice-Presi- dent Carlton of the Western Union Telegraph Company issued the follow- ing statement today concerning the inquiry started by the Interstate Com- merce Commission: "While the ques- tion is still undecided, it may not be improper to say that any action on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent the use of private leased wires for messages that should be transmitted through the regular service of the telegraph companies would be welcomed and heartily in- dorsed by the companies. It is prac- tice that we have been opposing for years."

Van Nuys-Lankershim

Profit Sharing

For upwards of a quarter of a century prac- tically the same management which today con- trols the great developments on Van Nuys- Lankershim Lands, has pursued the policy of

Sharing Profits with the Buying Public

Not only has land been bought at a minimum wholesale price, and the improvements been made at a great saving, the result of years of experience, but the whole undertaking has been so financed that the lands are put on the market at a very low price. The management is will- ing to share with you the benefit of its years of valuable experience.

In addition to this the profits of the company are reduced to the extent of HALF A MIL- LION DOLLARS, and the purchasers who build on their property are given this money by the management.

You can share the profits of the Company if you buy in the Van Nuys-Lankershim Lands.

This profit is returned on a basis of 50 per cent. of the cost of the buildings you put up, and may amount to as much as 25 per cent. of yur total purchase.

Thus 10 acres of best soil and location, at $450 per acre costs you only $337.50 per acre if you put up a bungalow costing $2250.00. Figure this out for yourself. It is an interest- ing problem in profit-sharing.

Remember: "No man is independent until he owns a piece of land."

DISSOLUTION AGREED UPON.

Espee to Give the Central to Union Pacific.

Conferences With Wicker- sham Bearing Fruit.

Disposition of Stock Is the Hard Nut to Crack.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — Steps will be taken immediately by the Southern Pacific Railroad to elect a board of directors, distinctly allied with that road, to represent it in the negotiations with Atty.-Gen. Wicker- sham for the formulation of a plan dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, in accordance with de- cree of the Supreme Court.

This fact developed today after a conference of the Attorney-General and the protective committee of the Southern Pacific appointed to look after the road's interest in connection with the dissolution.

Because of the present large hold- ings of Southern Pacific stock by the Union Pacific, the board of directors of the Southern Pacific is regarded as largely representative of the Union Pacific interests. The Attorney-Gen- eral desires to deal with men closely representing both roads in order that he may have the benefit of the points of view of each party concerned.

IN CONFERENCE.

Today's conference between the At- torney-General, James H. Wallace, Albert H. Wiggin, Frederick Strauss, J. Horace Harding and Henry Evans, all of New York, was the first dis- cussion the Attorney-General has had with representatives of the Southern Pacific since the decree of dissolution, the negotiations previously having been entirely with the Union Pacific interests.

Only the general phases of a tenta- tive dissolution plan were considered today. Its principal feature, which the Attorney-General is understood to approve, is that the Southern Pacific turn over to the Union Pacific the Central Pacific line, which runs from Ogden to San Francisco. This line, the $67,275,000 common and $17,- 000,000 preferred stock of which is owned exclusively by the Southern Pacific, would give the Union Pacific an extension to the Pacific Coast. By the tentative proposition, the transfer would be accompanied by the Union Pacific surrendering to the Southern Pacific a part of the $126,000,000 Southern Pacific stock now held by the Union Pacific and ordered relin- quished by the Supreme Court. A complication in this connection is the fact that the Central Pacific stock is now reserved as collateral for the Southern Pacific 4 per cent. bonds.

HARD NUT TO CRACK.

If this exchange is agreed upon, an involved problem faces the negotia- tors in reaching an agreement as to the disposition of the remainder of the $126,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific. Offi- cials of the Department of Justice concede that the Supreme Court's de- cision does not forbid the Union Pa- cific distributing or selling a small part of these holdings to its stock- holders. The Attorney-General as- serts, however, that no substantial proportion can go to Union Pacific shareholders.

Conferences of the last few days have encouraged the Attorney-Gen- eral to believe, it is said, that all the interested parties are disposed to make a serious effort to reach an agreement of dissolution for presen- tation to the courts for ratification.

VOTE TOMORROW ON IMPEACHMENT

ROLL TO BE CALLED ON EACH OF THIRTEEN COUNTS.

No Debate Will Be Permitted While Ballots in Archbald Trial Are Taken, but Each Senator May Explain His Stand in Writing to Be Printed in Record.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Senate agreed today to begin at 1 o'clock Monday the voting upon the articles of impeachment against Rob- ert W. Archbald, Judge of the United States Commerce Court, charged with misdemeanors and misuse of his judicial influence. No debate by members of the Senate will be per- mitted during the voting; but under a resolution offered by Senator Root and adopted, a Senator will have an opportunity to make a brief explana- tion of his vote in writing, to be printed as part of the Senate proceed- ings in the case.

Arrangements for the final steps in the case against Judge Archbald were made in a secret session of the Senate. The question of whether Judge could be impeached for of- fenses that did not make him sub- ject to indictment under the law was raised by Senator McCumber of North Dakota, but was withdrawn without formal vote having been taken. The form of impeachment proceedings based on acts committed by Judge Archbald before he became a member of the Commerce Court, was also raised in question by Senator Clarke of Arkansas, but was not voted out in the Senate.

When the impeachment court re- convenes at 1 o'clock, Monday, the first article of impeachment will be voted on without further delay. Senator Root today offered a motion that the question of "guilty or not guilty" be submitted individually, by Senator on each of the thir- teen articles of impeachment. This motion was adopted at the suggestion of Senator Clarke of Arkansas and the question each Senator, in the case of impeachment of Judge Archbald, Andrew Johnson, will answer to a general submission of the whole, to be followed by a roll call on each.

WILL PROPOSE LENIENCY.

It is expected that in case Judge Archbald should be found guilty by the vote on any such article of impeachment, a resolution will be offered by some Senator proposing that the penalty shall be limited to his removal from office and not bar him in the future from holding office.

This proposal was not made offi- cially in the secret session today, but probably will be proposed if the accused jurist should be convicted. Leading members of the Senate ex- pressed doubt today as to the success of the proposed plan to modify the penalty. The first article of im- peachment upon which a vote will be taken, alleges that Judge Archbald tried to influence officials of the Erie railroad which had suits pend- ing in his court, to grant him a favorable option upon a refuse dump owned by a subsidiary of the railroad.

Disposition of Stock Is the Hard Nut to Crack.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — Steps will be taken immediately by the Southern Pacific Railroad to elect a board of directors, distinctly allied with that road, to represent it in the negotiations with Atty.-Gen. Wickersham for the formulation of a plan dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, in accordance with decree of the Supreme Court.

This fact developed today after a conference of the Attorney-General and his protective committee of the Southern Pacific appointed to look after the road's interest in connection with the dissolution.

Because of the present large holdings of Southern Pacific stock by the Union Pacific, the board of directors of the Southern Pacific is regarded as purely representative of the Union Pacific interests. [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The senate today to begin at 1 o'clock Monday the voting upon the articles of impeachment against Robert W. Archbald, Judge of the United States Commerce Court, charged with corruption and misuse of his official powers. No debate by counsel of the Senate will be permitted during the voting; but under a ruling offered by Senator Root today, a Senator will have an opportunity to make a brief explanation of his vote in writing, to be printed as a part of the Senate proceedings.

The rules for the final steps in the impeachment against Judge Archbald provide that a secret session of the Senate, the question of whether the Judge may be impeached for official misconduct shall not make him subject to trial under the law was raised by Senator McCumber of North Dakota, but was withdrawn without action having been taken. The impeachment proceedings against Judge Archbald committed by Judge Archbald before he became a member of the Commerce Court, was also raised by a question by Senator Bristow, but was not acted upon by the Senate.

The impeachment court reconvenes at 1 o'clock Monday, the vote on impeachment will be taken without further delay. Senator Root offered a motion that the vote of "guilty or not guilty" be taken individually, on each of the thirteen articles of impeachment. This was agreed to on the suggestion of Senator Williams and the vote on each Senator, on each article of impeachment will be taken, Senator Johnson, will be followed by a roll call.

EMERGENCY.

It is believed that in case Judge Archbald is found guilty by the Senate on each article of impeachment a motion will be made by some Senator proposing that the penalty shall be limited to his removal from office, and shall not bar him in the future from holding office.

FINDS FIVE-YEAR-OLDS AT WORK IN CANNERIES.

Woman Investigator Draws Pathetic Picture of Conditions Among Recent Immigrants as She Said She Discovered Them in New York Packing Sheds—Corroboration of Story by State Official.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A pitiable picture of men, women and children of 5 and 6 years of age working under filthy conditions and living in squalid canning camps of the New York Fruit and Vegetable Canning Company was presented to the House Rules Committee today by Mary Boyle O'Reilly, social worker, and Frank C. Praete, investigators for the New York labor department. They supported a resolution introduced by Representative Allen of Ohio, for investigation of conditions in the canning industry throughout the country. Frank Gorrell, secretary of the National Canners' Association, declared that his organization, representing from 70 to 75 per cent. of the canning output of the country, invited the fullest investigation of conditions in the industry, and would assist Congress in the inquiry. The committee took the resolution under advisement.

PLIGHT OF LITTLE ONES.

Miss O'Reilly and Mr. Praete, from personal investigation of the canning camps in New York, gave the committee descriptions of horrible working conditions, filthy housing conditions and lack of sanitary equipment. Miss O'Reilly spent a month in the camp as a woman laborer. She shook with emotion as she described to the committee the plight of little children sent into the camps to earn a few pennies a day.

"There are children in the camps 4 and 5 years old," she said, "and there are children of 10 and 11. There is no record of child labor and the employers maintain that the children go to the factories with their parents. I know of a camp where three children working together earned 50 cents a day. Working in the stripping shed under the New York law is not considered factory labor. Women in the camp are paid 1 cent a pound for stripping peas. A strong, vigorous woman can strip about 50 or 60 pounds a day. A woman is paid $1 a day for husking corn, but the work is very heavy. I know of two little Italian girls who are steady workers. They are sisters, 5 and 6 years old.

"In one cannery I visited, five Italian boys from 15 to 17 years old worked 115 hours in one week. They ended the week by working from 7 o'clock Saturday morning until 2 o'clock Sunday morning, never leaving the factory. One of the boys, Tommy Seccoro, refused to go back to the factory Monday morning.

"When his mother called him he waved her away, saying, 'I'm going to cut it out. There ain't no use because there ain't no good.'"

"Did you say he worked 115 hours a week?" demanded one of the committee.

"Why, yes," returned Miss O'Reilly. "I know of women who have worked 120 hours a week, and girls of 16 to 18 who worked 20 hours a day."

KEEPS HOUSE IN CELLAR.

In one instance she said she found six children under 11 years old "keeping house" in the cellar of a shack while the remainder of the two families to which they belonged were at work in the camps.

The factories and shacks occupied by the workers, Miss O'Reilly said, "were overrun with rats, bugs, flies and every sort of vermin."

The mothers are often afraid to leave their children in the shacks while they are at work, she said, "because of rats."

The labor in the camps, Miss O'Reilly said, was largely, "recent immigrants, Poles and Italians."

"The padrone collects the 'herd,' as it is called, about June 15," she said, "and the workers are taken to the camps where they remain until late in the winter. The managing force of the canning companies never goes near the camp. They pride themselves on keeping away from them and know nothing of the conditions there."

The members of the committee wanted to know why a remedy for conditions had not been asked from the State of New York.

"I have laid the matter before the State officials," said Miss O' Reilly, "but I am no politician; I do not know just what the relations have been between the canneries and the capital at Albany."

TOO FILTHY FOR PIGS.

Mr. Praete presented the report of his investigation of nearly fifty canning camps in New York State, including those at Webster, Lyons, Clyde, Marion, Rome and other towns, throughout the fruit and truck garden sections. His description of housing and factory conditions, of filthy shacks where the workers lived and of conditions of water and sanitation, moved Representative Denver of Ohio to ask:

"Did you see these things yourself?"

"All of the statements made here are the result of my own investigation," returned Mr. Praete. "I could not find words to describe the conditions truly. Some of the places are so filthy that no pig would have been at home there."

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Official Report of Admiral Sutherland on Activity of Marines in Nicaraguan Revolution—Reduction of Pay in Brooklyn Yard Threatens Labor Trouble.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Commendation of several naval officers for heroic service and details of the engagements between the American marines and bluejackets and the rebels during the recent revolution in Nicaragua are contained in a report to the Navy Department by Rear Admiral W. H. Sutherland, who was in command of the naval forces.

Admiral Sutherland calls particular attention to the excellent conduct of Lieut.-Com. G. W. Steele, Lieut.-Com. S. I. M. Major; First Lieut. E. H. Conger and Past Assistant Paymaster R. W. Schumann.

In speaking of the service of Lieut.-Com. Steele, in command of the California, Admiral Sutherland says:

"The California's bluejackets were present at every important event which took place during the short Nicaraguan incident—at the passage through Massava, at Granada, at Chicagalpa, at the storming of Coyotepe Hill, on the summit of which a California bluejacket first planted the American flag and at Leon. From personal observation, I am cognizant of the excellent manner in which Lieut.-Com. G. W. Steele, U.S.N., organized and managed the California's battalion and I am very much pleased with his conduct during the entire Nicaraguan incident."

Commander Steele concludes his report by commending Ensign F. G. Marsh, who was with him constantly during the Nicaraguan expedition; Past Assistant Paymaster Schumann, who "lived in a box car for weeks" and handled stores "and at the investment of Leon took a rifle and accompanied the troops into the city, where he was under fire, and J. Rahlin, chief commissary steward of Denver, for faithful services.

DISMISSED FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Friday, December 13, with its widely-heralded hoodoo seems to have been unlucky for Second Lieut. Armos S. Heffley of the marine corps, whose dismissal from the service for alleged drunkenness, on that fateful day has been approved by President Taft. Lieut Heffley was charged with being drunk while on duty in New York. He was tried by courtmartial and his dismissal was recommended. Just prior to his detail to the New York station he was on the battleship North Dakota.

HONORING NAVAL HERO.

The body of Admiral John Paul Jones will be placed in the crypt of the chapel at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, intended as its permanent resting place at an early date. The crypt has been completed and has been turned over to the United States government and the date for the transfer of the remains from Bancroft Hall to the crypt will be fixed for the latter part of January or early in February. The removal will be fittingly, but simply observed. It is planned to have a modest military display. A number of officials and others who have shown special interest will be invited to take part.

Gen. William H. Carter, commanding the Central Division of the War Department, went to Washington D. C., to attend a conference called by Secretary of War Stimson for the purpose of revising rules and regulations for the army Wednesday. The creation of brigades to take the place of departments now comprising the war division will be considered.

WOOD FAVORS PAID RESERVE.

APPROVES OF TILSON BILL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—In order that a reasonably strong reserve may be established in the United States with the least possible delay, all men who have served in the regular army, marine corps or militia and are of proper age and physically fit, should be authorized to enlist at once in the reserve and receive pay, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army. Gen. Wood indorses the bill introduced by Representative Tilson of Connecticut providing for a national military reserve.

"The reservist should receive two dollars a month while in reserve," said Gen. Wood, "and when called upon in war should receive an amount equivalent to $2 for each month he may have served in the reserve. This would give the reservist something to live with his family and would encourage men to go into the reserve and to remain in it."

By way of contrast with the United States, which has no reserves, Gen. Wood enumerated the reserves in the following countries: Great Britain, 215,000; Japan, 1,000,000; Italy, 1,500,000; Austria, 2,500,000; France, 3,000,000; Germany, 4,700,000; Russia, 5,400,000.

NAVY YARD TROUBLE.

WALKOUT IS THREATENED.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Threats are made at the Brooklyn navy yard that a general walkout will be called early next week unless Congress takes immediate action to revise upward the new wage schedule. The big cut made in the schedule bulletined stirred up hostility among the walking delegates of the various unions.

PAY FOR ARMY AVIATORS.

APPROPRIATION BILL READY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Carrying $93,830,177, an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over the amount appropriated last year, the army appropriation bill was reported to the House last night by Representative Hay of Virginia, chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs. One-half of the appropriation this year will be used exclusively for the pay of the army. The bill contains practically no new legislation, but a 50 per cent. increase in the salaries of army aviators is provided for in the bill. For the use of the aviation corps, $150,000 is appropriated, this sum being considerably less than the amount asked for by the Secretary of War and Brig.-Gen. Allen, chief of the signal corps.

JONQUILS GLOW AT TAFT DINNER.

They Are Mrs. Cleveland's Favorite Flower.

Two Presidential Widows Guests of Honor.

Capt. Amundsen Presented at White House.

BY CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] The dinner given by the President and Mrs. Taft at the White House tonight in honor of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, her fiance, Prof. T. J. Preston, Miss Esther Cleveland, and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, was unique in its conception.

While Presidents in the early days of the government exchanged courtesies, and Madison, Jefferson and others visited their predecessors, it has not been the custom in late years for a President in office to entertain his predecessors, except on rare occasions, while the courtesies of an incumbent toward his successor are limited usually to a simple formality just before inauguration of a new President.

Mrs. James A. Garfield has been an annual visitor to Washington since the calamity which removed her husband from the office, for she has a daughter, Mrs. Stanley Brown, who for years lived here and of course she was much with her son, James R. Garfield, while he was in the Roosevelt Cabinet, but she came so quietly and was entertained so unostentatiously that few people knew of her presence.

The dinner of the President and Mrs. Taft was notable in that their guest of honor is the widow of a President and affianced to a young man and that they entertained their guests in the State drawing-room, where Mrs. Cleveland became a bride years ago. The presence of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of a President, also added interest, for while her marriage took place after Mr. Harrison left the White House, she shared the glory of his declining years with him and is one of three President's widows now living. Mrs. Daniel S. Lamont, Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard and as many as possible of the people who were formerly connected with the Cabinet or administration of Persident Cleveland, were invited.

The older ushers about the White House who saw Mrs. Cleveland there as a bride, declare tonight that the flowers which decorated the long table in the State dining-room were her favorites, with the massive gold service of the Madison administration were used great plaques of yellow jonquils, while vases about the gold centerpiece were filled with the same flowers. As nearly as possible, the same flowers were used in decorating the drawing-rooms and the east room, where following the dinner the musicale took place. Madame Julie Culp, the Dutch Lieder singer, who is the guest of the Netherlands Minister and Mme. Loudon, gave a delightful programme.

THE GUESTS.

The guests at dinner, were Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Chief Justice and Mrs. White, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McVeagh, Senator and Mrs. Warren, Senator and Mrs. Newlands, Senator Hoke Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lincoln, Hon. and Mrs. David R. Francis, Hilary A. Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Griggs, Rear Admiral Sidney A. Staunton, Brig.-Gen. William Crozier, Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Mrs. George W. Goethals, Henry White, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hibben, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft, Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard, Mrs. Daniel S. Lamont, Mrs. Leiter, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. M. E. Ingalls, Mrs. Gore, Miss Mary Patten, Miss Cleveland, Miss Louise Taft, Miss Helen Taft, the Solicitor-General, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, Dean Andrew West, Prof. Thomas H. Preston, Francis Lydeston, A. Clark Kerr, Capt. Louis McC. Little and Ensign A. H. Douglas.

MISS TAFT LUNCHEON GUEST.

Miss Taft was the guest of Miss Jean Oliver at luncheon today and early this morning went to the riding and hunt club to see her two small cousins, Masters Tom and Billy Laughlin, do some fancy riding stunts on their favorite ponies.

AMUNDSEN AT WHITE HOUSE.

The Norwegian Minister presented Capt. Roald Amundsen, the discoverer of the South Pole, to the President this afternoon. Mr. Taft congratulated him on his success and wished him luck on the trip he will make next year in the Arctic.

MASONIC INVITATION.

President Taft has taken under advisement an invitation to attend the Masonic Cabinet in Alexandria, Va., on February 22, under the auspices of the Alexandria Washington lodge.

BATTLESHIPS BUILDING.

HOW WORK IS PROGRESSING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Of the four battleships building for the United States Navy, the Texas, which now stands $3.7 per cent. completed, advanced 2 per cent. during December, and probably will be the first of this quartette of dreadnoughts to be delivered, according to figures made public today. The New York, which stands second, advanced 1.6 per cent. during the month, and is 67.3 complete.

ARMY OFFICERS DIFFER.

Not All Agreed on Expediency of Putting Into Effect at Once Recommendations of the War College.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Some difference of opinion developed today at the conference of general army officers here as to the expediency of undertaking at this time, by executive order, to put into effect certain recommendations of the War College. These contemplated the creation of brigadier commands, the purpose to have in existence a number of complete organizations able to act as separate units in time of emergency without delaying to organize and assemble various elements.

It was urged that it would be premature to put this plan into operation in advance of the execution of the large project of abandoning small army posts in favor of a few large posts, which could be done only by authority of Congress. The weight of opinion, however, seemed to be in favor of proceeding at once with the development of the War College plan, even though the brigade organization must necessarily, for the time being, be on paper, owing to the large distribution of the elements of each brigade.

Without reaching a final agreement, the conference adjourned until Monday.

Quickly Dispels Stomach Distress

Whatever the Trouble, It Disappears in Five Minutes After Taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

All of the unpleasant sensations attendant upon eating too heartily are almost instantly relieved by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

Heaviness of the Stomach from Undigested Food Quickly Relieved, by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When you take food into a stomach that is tired and overtaxed, the gastric juices do not form fast enough to digest it properly. So the food becomes sour and at once begins to throw off gases. Your stomach becomes inflated just as surely as if you attached a toy balloon to a gas jet. Then the gases and foul odors issue forth and pollute your breath. Your tongue quickly becomes coated and you can taste the foulness that is within you.

Now all this condition is changed almost instantly by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. This little digester gets busy at once—supplies all the digestive elements that were lacking—digests the food in a jiffy and sweetens and refreshes the mucous lining of the stomach and bowels and restores peace and content.

One grain of a single ingredient in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3000 grains of food. This saves your stomach and gives it the rest it needs. All muscles require occasional rest if they are ever overtaxed. The stomach is no exception to this rule.

Try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and you will wonder how you ever got along without them. They are sold at 50 cents by all druggists everywhere.

TO CUT COST OF LIVING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Jan. 11. — The Housewives' League of Kansas City was organized here yesterday to combat the high cost of living by co-operation. Three hundred women enrolled their names at the initial meeting. One plan to be followed will be the institution of a housewives' market, to act as a clearing-house for products going directly from the producer to the consumer. Deliveries from such a market would be made only at an extra charge and all orders would be payable in cash. The charge added to that of the original cost would be sufficient only to pay expenses of the market.

HOLDS UP TICKET AGENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Jan. 11. — An unknown man held up the assistant ticket agent of the Erie Railroad's downtown ticket office last night and rifled the safe and cash drawer. He tied the agent, Wrank Cogsil to a chair and while rifling the safe told Cogsil that he was the man who had robbed the New York ticket office of the Erie two weeks ago. He escaped with about $35 in cash, a diamond ring belonging to Cogsil and nearly a thousand dollars' worth of negotiable travelers' cheques.

CAIRO (Ill.) Jan. 11.—Gales, Ill., thirty miles north of here, the center of an epidemic of cerebro spinal meningitis, has been isolated by the surrounding country. Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Thebes, McClure and Mounds, Ill., have drawn quarantine lines which none is allowed to pass. Reports from the affected district state that many people are in a deplorable condition and lack many of the necessaries of life.

SYNOD SUSPENDS MINISTER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Jan. 11.—After a trial behind closed doors the Northern Illinois synod of the English Evangelical Church returned last night a verdict of guilty in the case against the Rev. Charles E. Raymond, pastor of the Lutheran Church here for seven years. He was suspended from church membership, expelled from the synod and his ordination papers taken from him. The Rev. Raymond was charged with conduct unbecoming to a pastor.

THREE HUNDRED B READY TO IN

Lawmakers Must Wait Until T... Embryonic Legislation Which Wi... Pugilism Measure—Presid ential El... Sacramento Tomorrow Afternoon.

BY LOU GUERNSEY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE T...

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Embryonic legislators, who for a week have been waiting anxiously the moment when they will have their chance to introduce bills and thereby take their place as lawmakers in earnest, must wait until Tuesday morning before they can take that action. While it had been announced that bills were to have been introduced Monday, the Rules Committee's work is not completed and the great mass of bills will probably go over to Tuesday. It is estimated that at least 300 bills will be presented in both houses Tuesday. The leaders of both houses plan to dispose of the rules Monday and clear the decks for the actual work of the Legislature.

MEETING OF ELECTORS.

The Monday afternoon session will be taken up chiefly by the Presidential electors. As the electors have been chosen in an entirely different manner this year and there is a split delegation, leaders of the two houses have been discussing the method of providing for the electors. The thirteen electors will be invited to hold their deliberations in the Assembly chambers and members of the Senate will be asked to attend the Assembly session and to be present when the electors meet.

TO KILL FISTIC SPORT.

Tom McCarey of Los Angeles and other prize fight promoters had better prepare for the last half of the legislature of 1913. There is a fine promise of anti-pugilism legislation. My opinion is that the bifurcated session will sound the death knell of the fistic sport in California. At any rate several bills, all of them drastic, will be introduced to knock out professional boxing matches.

Assemblyman Sutherland of Fresno, Gov. Johnson's right-hand man in the lower house, declared today that he will make every effort to push an anti-prize fight bill through the Assembly and if it goes through that body it is almost certain to pass in the Senate. Sutherland is the Progressive leader in the lower house, his determined opposition to the proposed game carries great weight. He stated that Johnson is anxious to see the professional game abolished in the State although young Johnson is a crack boxer and lover of the sport. Southern California legislators, with but one or two exceptions, are strongly in favor of putting a crimp in it.

Senator Brown of Los Angeles and Assemblyman Brown of San Mateo are both framing anti-fight bills. Senator Brown is in favor of legalizing all-round amateur contests and Assemblyman Brown would cut it down to four rounds. If either bill is enacted into law, it would put the game out of business. Assemblyman Brown's bill will define what a "boxing contest" is and what shall be tolerated in that line. As the law now stands prize fights are prohibited in California. Boxing contests, scientific exhibitions of the "manly art" are not prohibited. There will be opposition, plenty of it in the lower house. "Roughhouse" McDonald of San Francisco, a former mittiologist, is raring for the fight game. He will oppose any measure to knock out the game. The San Francisco delegation will fight shoulder-to-shoulder with McDonald.

SHIP SUBSIDY.

A bill providing for a State Ship Subsidy Commission and a fund whose object is to aid in the restoration of the merchant marine and to increase the shipbuilding industry in California will be introduced next week by Senator Finn of San Francisco. Finn says he will boost building of vessels in the State.

PROTECT OIL AGAINST WATER.

Assemblyman Sutherland will introduce a bill permitting the oil men of the State to co-operate in protecting the oil fields from ruin by the inflow of water into the oil bearing strata. The bill provides for the establishment of oil and gas protective districts to be administered by trustees elected by the owners of oil land, gas or oil wells, under the supervision of the county oil and gas commissioner. One-half or more of the owners of the land or one-half or more of the producers of gas or oil in any district may by petitioning the Board of Supervisors have the territory of their districts fixed. The assessment is limited to 20 cents per acre a year on the land, and 1 1-5 cents per barrel, and 1½ cents per 10,000 feet on the product of the oil and gas wells respectively of the district. The bill has the support of nearly all the Progressive and Democratic lawmakers in both houses.

TO SAVE LOS ANGELES MONEY.

Senator Hewitt of Los Angeles is preparing a bill to be known as the Home Condemnation measure, which he declares will result in saving Los Angeles hundreds of thousands of dollars in the next few years if it becomes a law. The proposed bill provides that whenever a city condemns a piece of property in order to straighten a street or for any other municipal purpose, all that property condemned which shall not be used in the improvement work will become the property of the city, in turn will dispose of the left-over property as it sees fit. Hewitt says that Los Angeles has saved $5,000,000 worth of property within the past five years. If his proposed law had been in effect during these years it would have resulted in a saving of nearly $500,000 to the taxpayers of Los Angeles. The bill is looked upon with favor by lawmakers from all parts of the State.

MAY TRY IOWA PLAN.

Assemblyman Bohnett of San Jose framed a drastic segregated district bill similar in many of its provisions to the Iowa abatement law which certain Iowa Congressmen are trying to put in effect in the District of Columbia. The Bohnett bill closely follows along the lines introduced for in the Wylie bill which was defeated two years ago in the Assembly by a fine-spun parliamentary quibble. It provides and defines what is a nuisance and also provides that anybody who keeps a nuisance is liable to have an injunction brought against him by any peace officer or citizen. The common reputation of the house or district is sufficient evidence. The owner of the house or premises will be notified to appear in court and show cause why the nuisance should not be abated. If he fails to appear or does not show sufficient cause why the nuisance should not be abated, the court will issue an injunction ordering the owner to abate the nuisance. Violation of the injunction is punishable by fine or imprisonment in the county jail. The bill provides that whenever a nuisance is abated the owner of the house or premises will be notified to appear in court and show cause why the nuisance should not be abated. If he fails to appear or does not show sufficient cause why the nuisance should not be abated, the court will issue an injunction ordering the owner to abate the nuisance. THREE HUNDRED BILLS READY TO INTRODUCE.

Lawmakers Must Wait Until Tuesday to Present Embryonic Legislation Which Will Include Anti-Pugilism Measure—Presidential Electors Convene at Sacramento Tomorrow Afternoon.

BY LOU GUERNSEY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Embryonic legislators, who for a week have been waiting anxiously the moment when they will have their chance to introduce bills and thereby take their place as lawmakers in earnest, must wait until Tuesday morning before they can take that action. The plan is that the bifurcated session will sound the death knell of the prize fight in California. At any rate bills, all of them drastic, will be introduced to knock out professional boxing matches.

Assemblyman Sutherland of Fresno, Senator Rowell's right-hand man in the lower house, declared today that he will make every effort to push an anti-fight bill through the Assembly and if it goes through that body it is quite certain to pass in the Senate. Sutherland is the Progressive leader in the lower house, his declaration in opposition to the roped prize carries great weight. He declares that Johnson is anxious to see the professional game abolished in California although young Johnson is said to be a fond lover of the sport. Many California legislators, with only two exceptions, are said to be in favor of putting a crimp in it.

Senator Brown of Los Angeles and Assemblyman Brown of San Mateo are framing anti-fight bills. He will introduce a measure to knock out the efforts of the San Francisco delegation to get shoulder-to-shoulder with Los Angeles.

SHIP SUBSIDY.

A bill providing for a State Ship Building Commission and a fund whose purpose is to aid in the restoration of the American merchant marine and to increase the ship building industry in California is to be introduced next week by Senator Finn of San Francisco. Finn says the present building of vessels in the United States is "rotten."

FIGHT OIL AGAINST WATER.

Senator Sutherland will introduce a bill permitting the oil men of Fresno to co-operate in protecting oil lands from ruin by the inflow of water into the oil bearing sands. The bill provides for the formation of oil and gas protective districts to be administered by boards of supervisors elected by the owners of the county oil and gas or oil wells, under the supervision of the land or one-half of the producers of gas or oil in the district may by petitioning have the boards of supervisors have the formation of their districts fixed. The tax is limited to 20 cents per acre on the land, and 1 1-2 cents per barrel, and 1½ cents per ton on the product of the wells respectively of the oil and gas. The bill has the support of the Progressive and Republican lawmakers in both houses.

SAVE LOS ANGELES MONEY.

Senator Merritt of Los Angeles is preparing a bill to be known as the "Consolidation measure, which if passed will result in saving Los Angeles hundreds of thousands of dollars in the next few years if it becomes a law. The proposed law provides that whenever a portion of a piece of property in Los Angeles is taken for a street or for any other public purpose, all that portion which shall not be used for the improvement work shall be the property of the city, which in turn will dispose of the property as it sees fit. In this way Los Angeles has already saved $1,000,000 worth of property in the past five years. If the law had been in effect it would have resulted in a saving of nearly $500,000 to the city of Los Angeles. The bill is meeting with favor by lawmakers from all parts of the State.

BAT TRY IOWA PLAN.

Senator Bennett of San Jose will introduce a drastic segregated district bill. In many of its provisions the Bennett law is the same as the Iowa statement law which has been in effect in the Dubuque district for years. The Bennett bill follows along the lines of the Wyllis bill which was introduced two years ago in the California parliament. It prohibits and defines prostitution and also provides that houses of prostitution are a nuisance to be abated by injunction brought by any peace officer or citizen. The common reputation of the house or district is sufficient evidence to make it a nuisance. The bill puts it directly up to the owner of the property and holds him responsible while the present law places the odium on the victim of the system. If the court shall close a house the owner is denied the right of selling, renting or leasing the property in question for one year after his conviction. It is the most drastic law ever drafted in California according to Bennett, but it has the support of many lawmakers from all over the State and every effort will be made to pass it by Bennett and various purity organizations throughout the State.

San Diego Senator's Joint Rules Proposition Given Cold Shoulder at Sacramento — Bills Being Drafted Have One Eye on California's Enfranchised Women.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—The joint rules devised mainly through the effort of Senator Leroy A. Wright of San Diego for the purpose of saving time and money, probably will never get a chance to do either.

Radically amended in the Assembly they finished the first legislative week with no one on the ground exhibiting enough interest to suggest that a further conference of the joint Rules Committee be held.

Senator Wright said he had finished his work unless the Assembly saw fit to ask further conference.

"The rules, I estimate, would have saved this Legislature $30,000," he said. "The saving in time and the simplification of procedure would have been noteworthy. I should like to see them adopted. They have been amended a good deal in the Assembly and I hear nothing about any further action. Certainly I am not going to press the subject, although I should be glad to see them adopted, even in part."

The main feature of the rules were a provision making it easier to hold joint committee meetings and thereby thresh out bills once instead of twice in committee, and a committee on revision, designed to save the time and expense of printing bills of incorrect form once and then doing it over again. Members of the Assembly expressed the fear that joint committee meetings might decrease the independence of action of the lower house, and it was suggested by some that many bills are killed every session in the committees of second house in which they appear, after the house of origin has passed them, through courtesy or for other reasons.

The provision for a revision committee also was attacked as conferring much power on few men.

Bills already prepared are so taken to indicate that legislation of the present session will be enacted with one eye on California's newly enfranchised women.

Senator George W. Cartright of Fresno will ask for $400,000 for the Fresno State Normal School. This school was established two years ago with a legislative appropriation of $25,000. It has now 166 students, against seventy in the well-equipped State Normal School of Manual Arts and Home Economics at Santa Barbara.

Legislators were supplied today with a roster of State, county and city officials of California, and Federal officers in the State, compiled by Frank C. Jordan, Secretary of State. The book also contains the State officials of all other States and Territories.

COST OF WAR IN BLOOD.

Twenty-one Thousand Men of the Bulgarian Armies Lose Their Lives in the War With the Turks.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 11.—The official list of casualties in the Bulgarian army since the beginning of the war with Turkey shows that 284 officers and 21,018 men have been killed or have succumbed from their wounds or disease, according to a dispatch from Sofia. Besides this, 876 officers and 51,000 men were wounded or put on the sick list. Of these 70 per cent. have since recovered and rejoined the army.

The Bulgarian government has asked for the services of seventy Russian and Czech physicians to combat the infectious diseases which appeared in various regions. The native Bulgarian physicians are all absent serving with the army in the field.

MILLIONS FOR EQUALIZATION.

Appropriation of Congress Is Demanded to Square Issue of Oklahoma Land Grants.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—An appropriation of $11,767,990 to equalize the grant of lands to the State of Oklahoma for common schools and other purposes, is asked in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Morgan of Oklahoma.

Much of the proposed appropriation will be used to compensate the people of Oklahoma for the loss in its public school fund, became available, according to Representative Morgan, by the refusal of Congress to grant to Oklahoma when that territory was admitted as a State, the land, then known as Indian Territory.

An appropriation of $5,000,000 was made to the State in lieu of granting the land and Representative Morgan says that the appropriation was not a fair recompense to the people because the Indian Territory land was not taxable.

the country's physical resources, but the business credit as well.

INNER CIRCLE.

Men had testified under oath, he said, to the existence of an "inner circle" to whom credit was obtainable, to the exclusion of those against whom that inner circle sought to discriminate.

"I am not drawing an indictment against the banking system," he said. "That already has been convicted. But I do refer to the basis of credit on the business.

"I tell you frankly that if I permitted my thoughts to dwell upon the responsibility that will fall upon me I would be daunted. I came here to ask your counsel and assistance.

"The business future of this country does not depend on the government of the United States; it is dependent upon the business men. The government cannot generate thought and purpose. Things done under the whip of the law are done sullenly, somewhat reluctantly and never successfully. The hope of America is the changing attitude of the business men toward the things they have to handle in this country.

"I want to take sternness out of this country. I want to see suspicion dissipated. I want to see the time brought about when the rank and file of the citizens of the United States who have a stern attitude toward the business men of the country shall be absolutely done away with and forgotten. Perfectly honest men now are at a disadvantage in America because business methods in general are not trusted by the people, taken as a whole. That is unjust to you; it is unjust to everybody with whom business deals and everybody whom business touches.

"They do not believe in the United States—I mean the rank and file of our people—that men of every kind are upon an equality in their access to the resources of the country, any more than they believe that everybody is upon equal terms in his access to the justice of the country. It is believed in this country that a poor man has less chance to get justice administered to him than a rich man. God forbid that such be generally true.

"And then in addition, and on top of all this, we must see to it that the business of the United States is set absolutely free of every feature of monopoly."

DISAPPOINTED.

Here Gov. Wilson paused, looked about the banquet-room and then added:

"I notice you do not applaud that. I am somewhat disappointed, because unless you feel that way the thing is not going to happen except by duress, which is the worst way to bring anything about, because there will be monopoly in this country until there are no important business men who intend to bring it about. I know that when they are talking about that they say there is not anybody in the United States who ever intended to set up a monopoly. But I know there are some gentlemen who did deliberately go about to set up monopoly. We know that they intended to do it because they did it.

"I don't care how big a particular business gets, provided it grows big in contact with sharp competition, and I know that a business based upon genuine capital which has not a drop of water in it can be conducted with greater efficiency and economy than a business that is loaded with water."

AN EPIGRAM.

Touching on conservation, he said: "A policy of reservation is not one of conservation."

Applause greeted this statement, and Mr. Wilson added that the government at Washington had been "suspicious of everybody who approached it for water power rights and the privileges of conservation generally."

The Governor proclaimed a policy of accessibility to the raw materials of the country to everybody on the same terms. A conservation policy, he said, should be free from discrimination.

"Law ought to be based upon a promise that only the man exceptional in character is going to circumvent the law," he continued. "If only the crooks tried to circumvent the law, not very much law would be necessary. But there are some men who have permitted themselves to circumvent the law who are not crooks."

Concluding, the Governor said the nation had "taken a change of venue" and now "the governmental case was to be tried before a jury composed of all the people."

HIS ARRIVAL.

President-elect Wilson arrived today and went to the home of David B. Jones, an old Princeton friend, at whose house he will be a guest until he leaves for the East tomorrow.

The trip from Trenton was uneventful and the Governor arrived in good health and spirits. In order to avoid anticipated crowds, he left the train at a suburban station, where he was greeted by a committee from the Commercial Club at whose dinner tonight he will make the principal address.

REBELS READY TO SUBMIT.

In Order to Prevent Intervention, Four Insurrecto Generals Make Peace Proffer to Lascurain.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUCSON, (Ariz.) Jan. 11.—Pedro Lascurain, Mexico's Minister of Foreign Affairs, took with him, when he left El Paso for Mexico City yesterday, a peace proposal from rebel leaders operating in Northern Mexico, according to Consul E. V. Ansya, who returned to Tucson today.

The peace proffer is prefaced by an expression of the belief that American intervention is probable unless Mexican hostilities cease at once. It is signed by Gens. Salazar, Rojas, Caraveo and Tortillo. The proposal was delivered to the Mexican Consul prior to his departure from Tucson by two agents of Gen. Salazar, who also accompanied him to El Paso. After the conference, the rebels left for Chihuahua bearing Senor Lascurain's promise that the proposal would be duly considered by President Madero and his Cabinet.

The proposal is said to contain no monetary feature, but asks for the personal safety of the rebel leaders and their men.

Insurrectos Who Sacked Ayotcingo Reported to Be Out of Ammunition and Are Being Pursued.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11.—The rebels who sacked and burned the town of Ayotcingo, Thursday, are reported as moving southward through the mountains, pursued by 200 Federalists.

In their retreat they attacked Juchitepec, ten miles south of Ayotcingo. The rebels are said to be running out of ammunition.

A Splendid $40 or $50 VICTROLA

Five Dollars is all you are asked as a first payment, and Five Dollars a month is all you need pay—or, if you prefer, $1.25 a week.

Now, Five Dollars is a small investment, yet it's as safe and sound and sane an investment as man ever made when put into a Victrola.

It's an Instrument Every Member of Your Household Will Benefit By

And the whole family will "O. K." your good judgment in making this purchase. Let us tell you, in front of a $40.00 Victrola, when you can hear its splendid music—admire its splendid finish—all about our plan.

Printed words can convey only a vague idea of the real worth of this instrument. It's the Victrola itself that will "sing its own praises" best. What we can say will be little needed after it gets through with its argument, when you listen to one song by Melba or one violin record by Elman.

The Law.

MRS. GUGGENHEIM LOSES HER SUIT.

CHICAGO JUDGE FINDS FRAUD ON BOTH SIDES.

Court Demands Improvements of the Divorce Laws to Prevent Social Confusion Like that Which He Says He Sees in the Tangle of a Multi-Millionaire's Affairs.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—The application of Mrs. Grace Brown Guggenheim to have her divorce from William Guggenheim annulled, was dismissed by Judge Heard here today for want of equity.

Mrs. Guggenheim based her application on the allegation that when she obtained her decree she swore erroneously that she was a resident of Illinois.

The then Grace Brown married the millionaire mining and smelting man in 1900 and the decree of divorce was entered the next year with alimony in the lump sum of $150,000.

Since the divorce both parties have remarried.

According to Jacob Newman of counsel for William Guggenheim, Mrs. Guggenheim's first husband was Charles Herbert of Washington, D. C. A divorce separated them. Her marriage with Guggenheim came next, but, Mr. Newman states, they lived together only three days. After this divorce, Mrs. Guggenheim married Jules Roger Wahl, a Frenchman, resident of New York.

"They lived together for four years," related Mr. Newman, "when Wahl returned to France. Whether the report is true that Wahl's parents had his marriage annulled in France I do not know."

Guggenheim married Miss Amy Steinberger, by whom he has a son, William, Jr. It was after Mrs. Guggenheim had married Wahl that she filed suit in New York State for divorce from Guggenheim, claiming that the Illinois divorce was illegal.

The case went to the Supreme Court of that State, where her bill was dismissed. In 1909 she filed another suit to set aside the original Illinois divorce but Judge Honore denied her right to file her petition after the lapse of eight years. She sent this case to the Appellate Court, where it is still pending.

In the present suit Mrs. Grace Guggenheim knew she was not a resident of Illinois when the divorce was obtained.

Mrs. Guggenheim, or Wahl, says she does not want money, but wishes to ascertain beyond doubt whether the divorce was legal.

Judge Heard in giving his decision criticised the present divorce laws of Illinois and urged that steps be taken to change them. He declared both Mr. and Mrs. Guggenheim procured the divorce of 1901 by fraud. This factor weighed largely with the court in his decision against the complainant, who was not in court when the decision was rendered.

CASTRO MUST WAIT.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Dismissed But He Still Has a Fighting Chance to Enter United States.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The writ of habeas corpus in the case of Cipriano Castro, former President of Venezuela, was dismissed by Judge Holt in the United States District Court today.

Judge Holt ruled that Castro should not be allowed to enter the country under bond, pending a decision of the board. This sustains the contention of the government that the Federal courts should not interfere until the board of inquiry at Ellis Island shall have passed on Castro's right to enter.

Castro will have to appear without counsel before the board.

UNIQUE MEDAL FOR AMUNDSEN.

Explorer Is Honored by Geographic Society.

Norwegian Pays Tribute to American Hero.

Sverdrup and Stanz Lost in Arctic Regions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the noted Norwegian explorer, was formally recognized for the first time in the United States today as the discoverer of the South Pole and honored for his achievements with a special gold medal by the National Geographic Society at its annual banquet, where he was the guest of honor. Beside Capt. Amundsen sat Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary, U.S.N., retired, to whom the society two years ago gave a similar medal, recognizing him as the discoverer of the North Pole. The Amundsen medal bears the inscription:

"This special medal awarded by the National Geographic Society to Capt. Roald Amundsen for his antarctic achievements resulting in the attainment of the South Pole, December 14, 1911."

On the other side is a chart of the south polar region surrounded by a wreath of laurels with the emblem of the National Geographic Society at its base.

A distinguished company attended the banquet to honor the distinguished foreigner, who a year and a month ago, lacking a few days, reached the goal which many explorers before him had striven for. Capt. Amundsen, in replying to the speech of presentation of the medal, modestly tried to minimise his own accomplishment and praised those who had preceded him in the antarctic fields. He referred to his own work as no greater, no more worthy of exceptional commendation, than that of many other explorers.

When Capt. Amundsen arose to accept the medal a salvo of applause greeted him. Ambassadors, Ministers, scientists, men prominent in many walks of life, joining in it.

A smile overspread the face of the explorer and he expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him.

CALLS ON TAFT.

Introduction to President Taft by H. H. Bryn, the Norwegian Minister, was the first event on Capt. Amundsen's programme today. He was given a luncheon at the home of Gilbert H. Grosvenor, secretary of the geographic society, where he met the members of the governing board of that organization, and the guests included also the British and French Ambassadors and the Norwegian Minister. Afterward he repeated his lecture on "The Dash to the South Pole," heard last night for the first time by an American audience.

HONORS AMERICAN.

Capt. Amundsen paid honor today to the memory of the late Rear-Admiral Charles Wilkes, who made a famous expedition into the antarctic region seventy-five years ago, and but for whose excellent work, Capt. Amundsen declared, his recent trip might never have been made.

Capt. Amundsen visited Miss Wilkes, daughter of the admiral. He said he thought too little attention had been paid to the explorations of that officer. Capt. Amundsen announced today that he had decided to take wireless with him on his next trip into the north polar region, leaving in July, 1914. His plan had been not to have wireless, as he feared that it might, at times during the four or five years they will be gone, carry bad news from home to his men and make them melancholy. But he has arranged that only one man shall read the wireless messages received and if they contain bad news he is to suppress them. Capt. Amundsen's reason for changing his mind was because a number of scientists had persuaded him that his various observations would be immensely more valuable if they could be checked up with simultaneous observations in other parts of the world. In the interest of science he yielded.

The explorer was much shocked [illegible] to learn [illegible] the first time of the suicide in Christiania, a few days ago, of Capt. Hjalmar Johannsen, who had been with him on his recent trip.

SVERDRUP NOT HEARD FROM.

CHRISTIANIA IS ALARMED.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CHRISTIANA, Jan. 11.—It is feared here that the famous Arctic explorer, Otto Sverdrup, and a party of sixteen persons who accompanied him on a walrus hunt in Greenland waters, have been lost. Sverdrup and his party left Christiania in March, 1912, in a motor ship, and since then nothing has been heard from the expedition. Mail sent to a station in South Greenland, where the walrus hunters were to have stopped, has been returned here marked, "uncalled for."

AFTER GAME—NOT LETTERS.

NO FEAR FOR SVERDRUP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Jan. 11.—Capt. Otto Sverdrup, the famous Arctic explorer is in Seattle. He is not related to the Capt. Otto Sverdrup reported lost on a walrus hunt in Greenland.

The former explorer is the head of a large whaling company operating in Alaskan waters. He was found at his home here today and said the man mentioned yesterday in a message from Christiania as heading party of sixteen hunters for whose safety fears were entertained, was not a member of his family. Sverdrup said the power boat Walrossen, supposed to be missing, was his property and sailed from Christiania last March with sixteen men, Capt. Samuelson being in command. Sverdrup has perfect faith in Capt. Samuelson and expected the party to winter in the Arctic. The boat, he said, "was able to withstand any ice squeeze she is likely to encounter." Capt Sverdrup rather approved the failure of his men to call for mail. "They went North looking for game, not for letters," he said.

STEFANSOON WILL GO AGAIN.

TO EXPLORE NEW LANDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Jan. 11.—Vilhelmj Stefansoon, the Arctic explorer, and his companion, Anderson, both graduates of Iowa University, announced at a reception given them by the university tonight that to carry out a second Arctic expedition, to be started in May, they had decided to close an option on a confiscated Japanese seal-poaching schooner which is held for sale by the United States government. The expedition is to explore the last unknown territory in the northern hemisphere, lying toward Siberia and Alaska. The schooner is built for Arctic work and has an auxiliary engine and accommodations for five years' supply of gasoline and stores for that period. Stefansoon recently gained fame as the discoverer of a tribe of blonde Eskimos.

RELIEF PARTY ORGANIZED.

TO HUNT GERHAN EXPLORER.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 11.—The Norwegian government has granted the expenses of a relief expedition to Spitzbergen for the German explorers under Lieut. Schroder Stranz, who started out last year in the steamer Herzog Ernest and are reported to be in dire straits. Manager Mansfield of an American coal company at Green Harbor, tried to organize a relief party, but found conditions such as to prevent sending succor to the explorers.

BANDITS IN BAITED TRAP.

Messenger's Skull Fractured, Detective Fatally Wounded and One Robber Escapes as Bullets Fly.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—A squad of detectives baited a trap for highwaymen today with a 60-year-old bank messenger and a satchel containing $3400. The highwaymen took the bait.

One was shot and may die; the messenger was beaten senseless and probably has a fractured skull. A pitched battle, with bullets peppering houses like hail was fought on the East Side. One of the highwaymen escaped; the other was captured.

The messenger, Peter E. Plunkett, left the Union Exchange National Bank, where he had been employed for ten years, with his satchel in his hand and a crowd of detectives trailing him. Within the satchel were currency and silver for the weekly pay rolls of two factories. The detectives were disguised as laborers.

As Plunkett stepped into the darkened hallway of one of the factories, two men sprang at him. One of them crumpled him up, senseless on the flagging, before he could cry out. The assailant used a blackjack. The other highwaymen grabbed the satchel and both darted away.

The detectives began blazing away with their pistols at the fleeing highwayman. The thief fired as he fled and keeping the pack at his heels, darted down a side street, through traffic, into a hallway, out a back door, over fences, back into the street, and disappeared, leaving behind a bullet-pierced overcoat. The satchel dropped in his flight, was found intact, ten feet from the factory doorway. One of the fugitives' bullets struck James A. Watson, a detective, entered his back, and passed nearly through his body.

The man who was tripped to the cobblestones said he was Frank Moran, 19 years old, a packer. He was held without bail. Plunkett was taken to a hospital.

THE DEADLOCK BROKEN.

Aleshire, Appointed by Taft, Is Confirmed as Major-General—Torney Lands as Brigadier.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The first break in the deadlock over President Taft's appointments, pending in the Senate, came today when at an executive session, Brig.-Gen. James B. Aleshire was confirmed as a major-general, and Surgeon-General George M. Torney, was confirmed as a brigadier-general. This action followed a morning caucus by the Democrats but the lines are still so sharply drawn between Republicans and Democrats that no further confirmations are expected in the immediate future except on army and navy and diplomatic appointments.

The Senate spent an hour behind closed doors before it announced confirmation of the two army appointments. The Democrats at their caucus shortly before had adopted the resolution of Senator Myers of Montana, that only army, navy and diplomatic appointments should [illegible] go through without be allowed to Senate did [illegible] objection. The Brig.-Gen. [illegible] act on the case of McClernand, Witherspoon or Col. John [illegible] mand. The deadlock between the Democrats and the Republicans is expected to continue over the majority of the 1300 nominations now pending. The Democratic caucus provided that the Democrats should adhere to the plan adopted until further action by the caucus, a suggestion made by Senator Gore.

The fight in the Senate probably will be renewed early next week to determine the length to which both parties will go in the struggle.

Napa Hotel Clerk Has Narrow Escape from Incineration and the Hotel from Destruction.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NAPA, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a lively fire on the second floor of the Napa Hotel today William Murphy, the hotel clerk, had a narrow escape from losing his life. While sleeping in bed in his room he awoke to find the bed clothes on fire and the room filled with smoke. He escaped with difficulty into the corridor. The fire department was summoned and the blaze was extinguished. A fireplace in the room had become overheated, setting the woodwork on fire.

SURELY TAKE "SYRUP OF FIGS" HEADACHY, BILIQUS, CONSTIPATED.

Sweetens Your Stomach, Clears Your Head and Thoroughly Cleanses Your Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Foul Gases and Clogged-up Waste.

All those days when you feel miserable, headachy, bilious and dull are due to torpid liver and sluggish bowels. The days when your stomach is sour and full of gas, when you have indigestion; the nights when your nerves twitch and you are restless and can't sleep could be avoided with a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Isn't it foolish to be distressed when there is such a pleasant way to overcome it?

Give your inactive liver and ten yards of waste-clogged bowels a thorough cleansing this time. Put an end to constipation.

Take a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs tonight, sure, and just see for yourself by morning, how gently but thoroughly all the sour bile, undigested fermenting food and clogged up waste matter is moved on and out of your system — no nausea — no griping—no weakness.

You simply can't have your liver inactive and your thirty feet of bowels constipated with sour, decaying waste matter and feel well. The need of a laxative is a natural need, but with delicious Syrup of Figs you are not drugging yourself. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot injure.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with scorn, any of the so-called Fig Syrup imitations. They are meant to deceive you. Look on the label. The genuine, old reliable, bears the name, California Fig Syrup Company.

Massacre.

SHOOT LEPERS IN TRENCH AND BURN THEIR BODIES.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 11.—Thirty-nine lepers recently were put to death by order of the provincial authorities of Nanking, province of Kwang-Si. First they were shot and then their bodies were burned in a huge trench.

These advices were received here today in letters from the Catholic mission at Nanking. They stated that the lepers lived in the woods a few miles outside of the city of Nanking. The mission sought permission to build at its own expense a lazarette for them and the provincial authorities, pretending to consent, dug a pit in which was placed wood soaked with kerosene.

At the point of the bayonet the lepers were driven into the pit and shot. The pyre then was lighted and their bodies burned in the presence of a large crowd. The authorities offered rewards for the discovery of other lepers, and this resulted in the shooting of one more man afflicted with the disease.

The Governor, after the massacre, issued a proclamation in which he accused the lepers of having committed outrages. The letters from the mission say there is no foundation for this charge.

ECHO OF EARTHQUAKE.

Lost Girl Traced to St. Louis, Refuses to Return to Parents Now Living in Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A heartbreaking search of almost seven years ended here today when the police found Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sorenson living in the outskirts of St. Joseph, and with them a 12-year-old girl whom they had brought up to think she was their own.

It was an echo from the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906. The day before the disaster, Mrs Martha Greenleaf sent her daughter, Alice Loree, then 6 years old, to visit the Sorenson's over night. The next day, the Sorenson's home was in ruins and so was the home of the Greenleafs. Frantic search failed to reveal any traces of the Sorensons. It was not until a month ago that Mrs. Greenleaf managed through a relative of Mrs. Sorenson, to get a clew which ultimately led to St. Joseph. Then a pathetic appeal from the mother induced the police to concentrate their efforts toward finding the Sorensons. They succeeded and wired to Los Angeles where the Greenleaf family is now living, that the Sorensons had been found.

The girl's blue eyes opened wide with amazement when her foster parents truly told her of her parentage.

"I'll never leave you, never," she cried. "I don't know these other people who say they are my family."

The Greenleafs have wired that they will institute proceedings to gain custody of the girl.

Democrats Predict Wilson Will Revoke [illegible] Postmasters Under Civil Serv[illegible]

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — Bitter criticism of the order of President Taft placing fourth class postmasters under the civil service classification was precipitated on the floor of the House today during the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill.

Representative Bartlett of Georgia proposed a resolution prohibiting the payment of per diem allowances to postoffice inspectors while they were making selections and recommendations for appointments as fourth class postmasters.

In the debate which followed the Democrats roundly attacked the Presidential order, and predicted that it would be revoked by President-elect Wilson.

ROB PAYMASTER ON STREET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—In a daring assault yesterday, Neal Henderson, a contractor's paymaster, was struck down with a sawed-off billiard cue on a street corner, in the fashionable Park avenue section, and robbed of $2500 in bills. Passersby picked the paymaster up and carried him to a hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

DENTISTRY That is Dentistry

If you are neglecting your teeth through fear of pain, or from lack of faith in dental advertisements, my proposition will interest you. I guarantee to perform dental operations positively WITHOUT PAIN TO THE PATIENT — and I make good. My system is perfection—not an experiment, but a realization, and I prove its worth every day. It is safe, certain, quick in action, and is especially adapted to the nervous or those in poor health. Neither age nor physical condition proves any bar to its use. If you continue to procrastinate, in view of the services I offer, you cheat yourself and miss a good thing into the bargain, because teeth that can be saved NOW may be lost by further delay.

I believe in dentistry by specialists, but I do not believe in letting boys or students practice on the people who entrust their teeth to my care. I am personally responsible for everything done in this office, and I think too much of my reputation to employ men to work on my patients whom I would not let work on my own teeth. If you think as I do on these matters, I believe you will consult me because it is to YOUR INTEREST to do so.

TRUST APATHY TOWARD TARIFF.

Rate Cutting Would Stifle Independents.

Tin Plate Makers Before House Committee.

Protection Democrat Tells of Party Covenant.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A picture of the United States Steel Corporation crushing the independent tin plate manufacturers in the event the tariff bars were let down for foreign products, and a revelation of the complete indifference toward tariff revision shown by the Singer Sewing Machine Company, characterized by the independents as a trust, featured today's hearing on the metal schedule before the House Committee on Ways and Means. There were many witnesses, testifying to a great variety of articles on the iron and steel portion of the tariff. The committee continued in session tonight.

Independent tin plate interests were represented by E. R. Crawford of Pittsburgh, president of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company. The United States Steel Corporation was not represented. Mr. Crawford offered a compromise suggestion of a tin plate tariff of 35 cents a ton and was sharply cross-examined. He explained that 98 per cent. of tin plate is thin steel. He said if the tariff were cut so that foreign competitors of the steel corporation were let in, he feared that the corporation would retaliate by adjusting matters so as to crush foreign competition, and that the independents hefe would go down with the foreigners.

"The United States Steel Corporation," he added, " simply suffers us to do business. It is strong enough to put us out of business in less than a week, if it cared to."

"Do you think," Representative Palmer, Democrat, of Pennsylvania asked, "that we ought to legislate on what you fear, or on the basis of the contrary history of the last eleven or twelve years?"

"You might put a weapon in their hands to enable them to make a price to keep out foreign producers, with whom we might go down."

Mr. Palmer responded by asking if the witness thought there was danger in the present state of public mind, of the corporation driving the independents but of business. The witness said that a tariff reduction in favor of foreign competition might give the corporation "an excuse" to drive out competition, and that he wanted the tariff to keep that excuse away from the corporation.

He testified to his belief that the steel corporation has steel-producing capacity today, greater than Great Britain and Germany combined, and that with all that, it represented 65 per cent. of the steel-producing capacity of this country; that it could defend its position even if the tariff were wiped out; that it felt secure and "can take care of itself from legislation, no matter what may arise."

AFTER CALIFORNIA MARKET.

He said there was a shortage of steel today, and that the corporation was "at the helm." What he was afraid of, he said, was that the steel corporation would go out after the California market.

"There goes the ghost of the corporation again," Representative Palmer said scornfully.

"Do you think," Representative Underwood (Dem.) asked, "that the steel corporation ought to be subsidized to the extent you advocate, to enable the independents to do business?"

"I don't regard it as a subsidy."

W. W. Chase, secretary of the White Sewing Machine Company, said he understood the Singer Sewing Machine Company, with great plants abroad, was interested in subsidiary lines, forestry, mining and so on. The witness, he said, would like to know the inside business plans of what he called the so-called "trust."

A DEMOCRATIC COVENANT.

Joseph Auerbach of New York, a democrat representing the metal-refining interests, and protesting against disturbance of the present duty on ball bearings, referred to the covenant of the Democratic party in writing the tariff on a revenue basis, to consider the difference in the cost of production here and abroad.

Representative Longworth of Ohio (Rep.) asked where he found any declaration of such covenant in the Democratic platform or otherwise.

"I find it everywhere," Mr. Auerbach said, adding that he would cite the utterances of the leaders.

Mr. Longworth read into the record a speech of Representative Harrison of New York, a Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, which led Mr. Harrison to say he always believed that "the question of cost of production" was more important than the price was more important than the cost of production."

Steel, grit, shot or iron sand, pig iron, silverware, textile machinery, glassware and jewelry were among other articles in testimony.

HEAVY SNOWS IN CASCADES.

Northern Pacific Traffic Is Again Stalled.

Passenger Train Buried by Small Slide.

Citrus Losses Compel Boys to Leave University.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Jan. 11.—A heavy snow storm that began at noon in the Cascade Mountains has almost put a stop to traffic on the mountain divisions of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Milwaukee railways. A Northern Pacific passenger train is being dug out of the snow near Tunnel No. 4, west of Stampede Pass. The Milwaukee has no telegraph wires, and does not know where its trains are, and Great Northern trains are marked twelve hours late.

At 9 o'clock tonight nearly three feet of snow had fallen on the Northern Pacific mountain division, but the precipitation was becoming lighter. A local passenger train due in Seattle at 6 o'clock tonight was almost buried by a small snowslide near Stampede, and it required several hours for an army of men to dig it out. The passengers, it is expected, will arrive in Seattle tomorrow morning. All trains proceed with rotaries in front of them.

Trains are marked twelve hous late on the Great Northern, but continuance of the storm makes their movements uncertain.

With no telegraph wires, traffic on the Milwaukee is at a standstill, and no trains are arriving or departing over that road tonight.

Commercial telegraph wires in Western Washington are suffering as a result of a fall of wet snow.

HARD HIT BY CITRUS LOSSES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) Jan. 11.—Damage by frost to the citrus crop will probably cause the return to their homes of many students registered at the University of California. Some estimates placed the number at 400. This was declared at the recorder's office today to be far too high.

PERFUMED BURGLAR FLEES.

Though He Has a Preference for Violet Odors, the Police Have Failed to Catch Up With Him.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN QUENTIN, Jan. 11.—When Herbert Repsold, the "perfumed burglar," slipped by the outpost stations at San Quentin penitentiary last night, the prison was in darkness. He had removed a plug from an electric connection and instantly every light in the institution went out. Repsold ran from the office of Warden John E. Hoyle, where he had been on duty as a trusty, took to the main road and had disappeared when the lights sprang up again.

Although every road leading from the prison has been patroled no trace of the fugitive has been found.

The arrest of young Repsold followed a series of crimes in Sacramento and several burglaries in Oakland, in one of which he struck down Miss Constant Meese in her home and severely injured her. In each home robbed by Repsold there remained the strong aroma of violet perfume.

EX-CELL MATE ARRESTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—R. E. Pullman, a convict recently paroled from San Quentin, was arrested here today upon the request of Warden Hoyle, and returned to the prison. He was formerly Repsold's cellmate and the local police held the theory that Pullman was suspected of having aided Repsold in the escape. Warden Hoyle denied this over the phone.

California Fish and Game Protective Association Wants to Conserve Not to Destroy Wild Life.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gun, hunting or preserve clubs will not be eligible to membership in the California Fish and Game Protective Association (the old organization) if a recommendation passed today at a joint meeting of committees of the association is adopted at the next annual convention.

When these clubs are organized for conservation of game and not for slaughter and so state specifically in their constitutions, they will be admitted. The joint committee also recommends the following:

That the organization of the great Fish and Game Association has confounded the people as well as the membership of the California association and that therefore the name be changed to the California Game, Fish and Forest Protective League.

That the present State laws are proving inadequate to save the game of the State in localities adjacent to the populous centers, even threatening its extermination and that therefore the association favors a greater reduction of bag limits, shortening of open seasons and permitting closed seasons for one or more years.

Representatives of associations in Marin, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Monterey, Santa Cruz and Alameda counties, and Visalia and Exeter were present to take part in the meeting. It was decided to make strenuous efforts to differentiate in the people's mind between the old and the new associations.

Leopold's Daughters Spurn Money.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 11.—[By Cable and A. P.] The three daughters of the late King Leopold, after a conference today, decided to reject the proposal of the Minister of Justice that they accept $7,500,000 as their share in their father's Congo accretions and withdraw their suit.

TEN THOUSAND NAMES.

And as Many Pens and Bottles of Ink Requisitioned to Demand a Vote on San Francisco Telephone Rates.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—An initiative petition bearing 10,000 signatures and calling for a special election to reduce the telephone rates of the city and county of San Francisco by approximately 20 per cent. was filed today with the City Election Commission by the Telephone Users' Association, an organization formed to finance the initiative campaign.

Under the terms of the charter, the Election Commission is required to call a special election within forty days.

The Telephone Users' Association, which is a private concern organized for profit, has obtained agreements from 3000 business men to pay one-half of the savings which they derive from the proposed rate reductions into the association during the first year the new rate schedule is in force. It is estimated that a 20 per cent. reduction would bring about an annual saving of $500,000.

DEAL IS CLOSED FOR PORTLAND HOSTELRY.

Will Pay About Half-Million Dollars for Structure—Intends to Acquire Similar Property in Los Angeles, Seattle and San Francisco. Millionaire Lumberman Interested.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Negotiations have been completed whereby Gevurtz and Sons will sell the Multnomah Hotel to a syndicate of Portland and San Francisco capitalists for a figure approximating $500,000 cash. The deal, which has been under consideration for more than a month, will be closed next week, when the stock and lease and furnishings will be transferred.

The syndicate is planning to purchase and operate a string of hostelries along the Pacific Coast and intends to purchase two hotels in San Francisco, one in Los Angeles and one in Seattle in addition to the Multnomah here.

The syndicate is headed by Roy O. Yates of San Francisco, secretary of the R. R. Thompson estate, owners of the Multnomah Hotel building and the block of property on which it stands.

Mr. Yates, who has been in Portland several days conducting negotiations, left for San Francisco tonight to confer with members of the syndicate there. They are E. J. Miller, a wealthy attorney, and J. H. Voorsanger, millionaire insurance man. Upon his return to Portland next week the papers will be signed, according to the present plans, and the stock transferred.

Immediately thereafter, Phillip Gevurtz will retire as president of the Multnomah Hotel Company, and Mr. Yates will be elected to succeed him. Mr. Yates stated today that he probably would remain in Portland for six or eight months to acquaint himself with the operation of the big concern, following his return fro mSan Francisco.

LITERACY TEST MODIFIED.

Conference Committee of the Two Houses of Congress Gets Together on New Immigration Measure.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—An important step toward the adoption of a literacy test for the admission of immigrants, which has been a subject of controversy in Congress for twenty years, was taken today when the conferees of the two houses of Congress finally agreed upon a report which will retain the test in slightly-modified form.

As the measure will be reported to the two houses the literacy provision will appear as it was passed by the House, which requires that immigrants shall be required only to be able to read, whereas the Senate bill provided that they should both read and write.

The principal reason urged for the adoption of the requirement in any form is that it will have the effect of limiting immigration from those portions of the Old World from which the least-desirable elements of laborers are received. While it was not contended that a man who cannot read is less desirable, for moral reasons, than one from the same country who can, it has been found that the least-desirable class comes from the most illiterate countries.

In the main, the other features of the Senate bill, which is the result of the labors of the Dillingham Immigration Commission, were retained. They pertain to matters of detail relating to the administration of the immigration laws, and, taken as a whole, it is believed they will constitute a code which will permit of a far better supervision of immigration than has been possible in the past.

The report will be presented to the two houses next week, and it is expected that both will accept it.

PHARMACY BOARD RAID.

Forty-six Persons at Stockton Are Charged With Violating the California Drug Law.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following wholesale arrests made in this city late last night by S. F. Scott and W. V. White, of the State Board of Pharmacy, in which forty-four persons were arrested and charged with violating the drug law, complaints have been issued against Dr. Emilie Gnekow, a woman physician of this city, and Thomas Thornton, a druggist.

Dr. Gnekow is charged with having furnished R. Burnstein with a quantity of morphine which was not prescribed in good faith. Thornton gave bond on a similar charge and announced that he would forfeit his money. The raid was one of the biggest ever made in this city, fifty special officers participating. Great secrecy marked the preliminary preparations, very few of the officers knowing anything about it until late yesterday afternoon.

BOURNE DIVIDES OREGON PLUMS.

President and Senator Bury the Hatchet.

Democratic Office Seekers Disappointed.

State Chairman Helps Break the Deadlock.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Negotiations which have been in progress in Washington, D. C., for two weeks past between President Taft, Ralph E. Williams, State Republican chairman of Oregon, and Senators Bourne and Chamberlain, have resulted in an agreement which is likely to deprive Democrats in Oregon of a number of rich plums of offices. The deadlock heretofore existing because of strained relations between the President and Senator Bourne has been relieved by Williams's intervention, according to Washington advices today. As a result rich Oregon appointments which had bade fair to go over into the Wilson administration will be made early next week.

The list of recommendations made by Williams as a result of conferences with the President and Bourne, follows:

Thomas McCusker, postmaster at Portland; John H. Burgard, collector of customs, Portland; E. C. Kirkpatrick of Dalles, United States Marshal; C. V. Johnson of Corvallis, appraiser of customs, Portland; C. L. Keye of Portland, surveyor-general; Frank L. Parker, collector of customs at Astoria; L. H. Arneson, receiver of the Dalles Land Office; Harold T. Hopkins, Register of the Dalles Land Office; Preston A. Worthington, Receiver of the Burns Land Office.

A number of Presidential postmasters in Oregon are also recommended.

Every man recommended by Williams supported President Taft.

While no appointments have yet been announced, it is practically certain that nominations in accordance with the foregoing recommendations will be made Monday.

"Isn't Her Complexion Beautiful"

This Is What They Say of Those Who Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Pimples and All Other Skin Eruptions Disappear in Remarkably Quick Time.

You can use all the lotions and creams in the world, but you won't have a good complexion unless your blood is free from the impurities which cause pimples, blotches, liver spots, blackheads and boils.

You Won't Want to Hide Your Back, Neck and Face After Using Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

No matter how splotchy or pimply your face is now, you can clear it quickly by taking Stuart's Calcium Wafers. This isn't guess-work, it is a fact. These little wonder-workers clear the blood almost like magic. Calcium Sulphide, their principal ingredient, is the greatest blood purifier known to science. Stuart's Calcium Wafers have not a particle of poison, harmful drugs or opiates in them. They may be taken with perfect freedom by any one.

There's no sense in being longer humiliated by having to appear in public with a pimple-covered, blotched face—a face that makes strangers stare and your friends ashamed. Stuart's Calcium Wafers will drive all blemishes away and make your face a welcome instead of an unwelcome sight. You'll no longer be a slave to pimples, acne, blackheads, liver spots, boils, eczema, tetter or any skin eruption.

You can get Stuart's Calcium Wafers from any druggist at 50 cents a box. They are sold everywhere and highly recommended as the greatest known blood remedy and skin beautifier.

BOWELS SLUGGISH, STOMACH SOUR, GASSY, UPSET? CASCARETS GREAT!

That awful sourness, belching acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is full of sour bile—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation.

Try Cascarets; they immediately sweeten the breath, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

10 Cents. Never gripe or sicken.

FEAR PEACE CONFERENCE MAY END IN FAILURE.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Diplomacy still is busy seeking a solution for the Balkan deadlock. Fears that the peace conference will end in failure and that the allies will take up arms again are stronger tonight than at any hour since the plenipotentiaries came to London.

Unless Adrianople should fall within two or three days, or "something should turn up," which none of the diplomats can foresee, it appears probable that the delegates will leave England before the end of another week.

A note from the powers will be presented to the Ottoman government on Monday. It is firm in tone and while recommending Turkey to leave the question of the Aegean islands in the hands of the powers makes it clear that Turkey has no alternative except to cede Adrianople.

Another note was prepared by the Ambassadors at Constantinople, but will be superseded by the collective communication decided upon at Friday's meeting between Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and the Ambassadors. Since it is necessary to telegraph the text of this note to the continental capitals for approval, it cannot be delivered before Monday.

All the Ambassadors had today separate informal meetings with Rechad Pasha and Osman Nazan Pasha, the Turkish delegates, trying, as one of the Ambassadors put it, "to square the circle" and to discover a middle course between Turkey, which insists upon keeping Adrianople, and Bulgaria, which insists that she must have the town. A Sofia dispatch says that Roumania has received energetic representations from Great Britain and Russia, which has decided her not to cross the border as she was prepared to do.

Want Morgan Again.

CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE THE ISMAY SHIP LINES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—An investigation of the International Mercantile Marine, the $120,000,000 American corporation controlling numerous foreign and American steamship companies, with J. Pierpont Morgan as the chief witness, is contemplated by the House Committee on Merchant Marine in connection with its hearing of the so-called shipping trust. Mr. Morgan is said to have organized this great company and to control its stock.

Chairman Alexander of the committee announced today that Mr. Morgan probably would be subpoenaed immediately upon his return from Europe. P. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the White Star Line, one of the important companies connected with the International Mercantile Marine Company, already has been subpoenaed and probably will be examined in the near future.

The International Mercantile Marine owns the entire capital stock of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company (the White Star Line,) the International Navigation Company (the American and the Red Star lines,) the Mississippi and Dominion Steamship Company, and the British and North Atlantic Steam Navigation Company, and owns the controlling interest in Frederick Leyland & Co., with the shipping business of Ismay, Imrie Company and Richard Mills & Co.

The combined sailings of the various companies cover forty-five services, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, Galveston, Montreal and Portland to Liverpool, to Plymouth, Southampton, London, Havre, Cherbourg, Bremen and Antwerp. The corporation also operates various lines in the distinctly foreign service.

The Doctor's Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Mason" writes: "For years I have been taking medicine to cure constipation, liver trouble and the usual diseases that come from that source. Headaches, sallow skin, kidney trouble, dark spots before my eyes, dizzy spells and twinges of rheumatism are getting worse."

Answer: Take three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur.) They are packed in sealed tubes with directions and are convenient, effective and highly curative for such ailments as arise from chronic constipation. If you are dyspeptic, also take tablets triopeptine.

"Mrs. A. D."—Incontinence of urine can be cured by using the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams, and comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.

"Oma W." writes: "I have suffered with catarrh of the head for many years. This has become so bad that it has affected my blood, also my stomach and bowels to a very great extent. I shall appreciate an immediate answer, as I suffer greatly."

Answer: I would advise you to purchase a 2 oz. package of Vilane powder; take one-half teaspoonful of the powder and add to it a pint of warm water, snuff this water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils several times a day. Make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of powder with one ounce of vaseline, or lard will do, and apply as far up the nostrils as possible. For the stomach, bowels and blood I would recommend the following tonic: Syrup sarsaparilla comp., 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and 1 oz. of fluid ext. buchu. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bed time.

"Gloria" writes: "I would like you to prescribe a good hair and scalp treatment. I am bothered with itching scalp and dandruff. My hair is faded and falling and none of the remedies I have tried have done any permanent good."

Answer: Go to your druggist and obtain a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow Mineol. Apply as per directions. This treatment differs from all and I have actually seen the astonishing transformations which result from its use. The dandruff and itching are cured with two or three applications, while it makes the hair glossy, wavy and full of intense natural color.

"Myrtle" writes: "Owing to my extreme thinness I am frequently embarrassed by slighting remarks of young people. Can you prescribe a safe remedy to increase my weight?"

Answer: I have so many gratifying reports from the users of three-grain Hypo-Nuclane tablets, that I have come to regard these valuable little tablets as a specific and prescribe them to all who are anemic, thin, wasting, nervous and debilitated. I recommend that you begin their use at once and continue regularly until your system is able to assimilate the fatty elements of your food; then you will grow plump and have plenty of red blood, with color in your complexion and bright sparkling eyes of health.

"Sick M. G." writes: "I have been affected for some months with rheumatism and have taken much medicine in vain. Please give prescription that will cure."

Answer: The most efficient prescription I have ever given for rheumatism is: Iodids of potassium 2 drams, sodium salicylate, 6 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla comp. 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and at bedtime.

"Farmwife" writes: "You once recommended a home-made cough syrup. I tried it and found it the best cough and cold syrup that I ever heard of. It was so prompt in relieving the severest coughs and colds and a pint bottle made at home lasted so long that I have forgotten the ingredients. Kindly publish again."

Answer: The splendid laxative, home made cough syrup is made by mixing a 2½ oz. bottle of concentrated essence mentholaxene with a home-made sugar syrup. Directions on the bottle tells how to make and use. It is a fine, cheap remedy.

"Johnson" writes: "I am bothered greatly with indigestion. Things I like to eat nearly always cause a heavy ill-at-ease feeling in my stomach, and my breath is bad, while I am nervous, irritable and frequently cannot sleep."

Answer: A very excellent treatment which is widely prescribed for its gradual curative action, as well as the instant relief it affords, is tablets triopeptine, packed in sealed cartons. Take a pink tablet after breakfast, white tablet after dinner and blue tablet after supper. Continue and the curative agencies will soon restore natural digestion.

"Mrs. M. C." writes: "I am recovering from a long illness, but am very weak, nervous, sleepless and have little appetite. Can you give me a good tonic restorative treatment?"

Answer: Have the following prescription filled and take a teaspoonful before meals: Syrup of hypophosphites comp. 5 ozs., tincture cahomene comp. 1 oz. (not cardamom.) Mix and shake well before using. This is a fine nerve tonic and system tonic for old and young.

John R. Mc. asks: "Don't you think it is wise to take medicine to reduce my weight? I weigh about 55 pounds too much."

Answer: I do think so; and a very convenient and effective flesh reducer is sold in sealed tubes with full directions for home use. It is called 5-grain arbolene tablets, and any well-stocked pharmacy can supply them. They are safe and reliable.

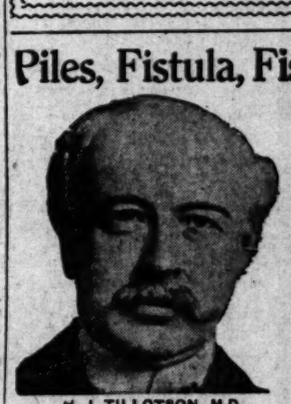
Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
[Established 31 Years.]

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or tarough unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most Safe, No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A Safe and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office and explain my treatment for Hemorrhoids, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Piles, Rectal Abscess, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Disease.

These diseases are very common and frequently found in persons of middle and advanced age; are extremely painful, often very painful, and sometimes dangerous, and frequently unfit us for pleasure or occupation. My unparalleled successes are the result of years of experience; my treatment is thorough and I cure Piles without cutting. I positively cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases; my treatment does not contain cocaine, anything. Gentleness in treatment prevents from treating many cases. I guarantee a permanent cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture.

Disregard for existing Rupture is dangerous in many lives. The smallest Rupture is the most dangerous, because of the liability to strangulation. I am curing a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the sale of Rupture Appliances; I say positively that I can cure Rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering or loss of time; do not detain you from your occupation.

Written Guarantee.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for my services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Piles, Fistula, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any rectal disease I guarantee to cure. My charges are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and private surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to all others. I cure without surgery and am never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.

With my method I absorb pile tumors by medication, applied externally, (no cutting in.) by a mild electric current. The piles are absorbed in a few days, leaving the rectum in a healthy, normal condition. There is no pain, no bad after effects and no pain or soreness.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but is an application of skilled treatments, administered by me in my office.

If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble, I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. Any one will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

REV. EDWARD BROOKS CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I wish to express to you again my heartfelt thanks for what you have done for me. After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids YOU HAVE CURED ME COMPLETELY, and during the treatment I was able to attend, aside from my usual work. I therefore commend you and your method to all sufferers from rectal disorders. Very gratefully yours,
REV. EDWARD H. BROOKS (Baptist Minister) 2212 Menlo Ave., Los Angeles.

REV. D. N. BURTON CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. White cured me without pain of piles, fistula and ulceration of the rectum. Before going to him I was a semi-invalid, being confined to my bed most of the time and unable to attend to my duties in the pulpit. It is one year since he cured me, and I have not had the slightest return of the trouble. I recommend him to all and will gladly write to any sufferer who may doubt and tell them what Dr. White did for me.

PRO-RATING OF CITR SHIPMENTS THE Committee of Five at Work on Plans Way to Save Orange and Lemon Cro tageous Marketing—Majority of Grow on to Insure Best Results.

RESOLUTIONS providing for the appointment of a committee of five to devise and carry into effect plans for pro-rating citrus shipments from the State and empowering the Citrus Protective League to take steps to secure emergency rates on citrus shipments were adopted at a meeting of representative citrus growers and shippers in the directors'-room of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange yesterday.

The committee is composed of President Chapman of the Citrus Protective League; F. H. Speich of the Speich & Speich Company, Riverside; A. C. Lefferts of the Redlands' Orange Growers' Association, and President Gray and Traffic Manager Mortensen of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. Chapman was first made chairman by unanimous vote of those present and vested with the power to name his fellow committeemen. As president of the Citrus Protective League, he will also have charge of the work of securing emergency rate from the railroads.

The resolutions adopted at the meeting were two in number. The first was worded as follows:

"It is the sense of this meeting that the railroads should be requested to grant emergency rates on citrus shipments for forty days and we empower the Citrus Protective League to take up this matter with the railroads."

The second resolution follows:

"In order to devise a plan for apportioning shipments and to put such plan in operation, we hereby delegate to our chairman, C. C. Chapman, the power to appoint a committee of five with himself as chairman, to take up the matter."

MONDAY MEETING.

Chapman announced yesterday that there would be a meeting of the Pro-rating Committee at 10:30 a.m., Monday, in the league's rooms in the Consolidated Realty building. He further announced that he expected to make arrangements to meet the railroad officials at the same time Monday.

Those seven men, representing all the more important associations and who attended yesterday's meeting, are: A. C. Lefferts of the Redlands' Orange Growers' Association was made chairman and nominated Colonel Chapman of the Citrus Protective League as permanent chairman. The election was unanimous, as was also that of Secretary Wallace of the league as secretary. "We are here to consider great things," stated Chapman in accepting the chairmanship of the meeting. "The citrus growers of this State have called on us in the past to solve many problems and have always met them bravely and successfully. At present we are facing a crisis and therefore have been called together today in a conference on the subject of shipping citrus shipments from this district in such a way that we may obtain a quick return from our damaged crop and also to consider the subject of asking the railroads for emergency rates. The meeting is now in your hands and I trust that all of you will express yourselves candidly."

A. D. Brown of Redlands opined that the Redlands had taken the initiative in this matter it was up to the other associations to make a statement. Brown then went on to relate that the Redlands crop had been badly damaged and that a great part of it might be saved through concerted action, and that the best thing to do was to ask the railroads for emergency rates.

RAILROADS AGREEABLE.

"I say the railroad men in this district are favorably inclined and they are favorably inclined to our plea but desire that the plea be presented by some body representing at least a majority of the citrus men," said Brown. "If we go ahead and flood the market with our fruit, prices are bound to drop to zero; therefore I offer a resolution that it is the sense of this meeting that the railroads be asked for a 50-cent rate, the same as seventeen years ago, until such time as the Citrus Protective League can get our fruit on the eastern markets at a marketable price. I wish to state, however, that we have no desire that the railroads that we will be unreasonable in this emergency rate in action that we may take towards a reduction in citrus rates."

ONE OF ONE MIND.

Lefferts of the Redlands Orange Growers' association remarked that there would be no good in asking for emergency rates unless there was some action put on shipments. Speich and MacRae of Rialto pleaded that their fruit be shipped, thus maintaining California's reputation, and that cash payments be required for fruit bought. After some debate, which some favored asking for a flat rate, a simple resolution was adopted that an emergency rate be asked for and that the Citrus Protective League, representing 90 per cent of the growers, make the request.

The resolution, as agreed, though no specific effect was incorporated in the resolution, that lemons in the future or oranges that were damaged should be excluded from the list under any emergency that might be granted. It was understood in this connection that the emergency rate for relief was only due to those who had damaged fruit and that those who were so fortunate as to escape should be contented with the regulation rate of $1.15 per box on oranges and $1 per box on lemons. Traffic Manager Mortensen of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange assured the meeting that the railroads would grant the emergency rates, saying that the traffic officials of the railroads had assured him of California in the matter.

ALL OF ONE MIND.

The discussion of shipments was then taken up and led to a lengthy discussion, the consensus of opinion being that the plea was a good one, and a vote was raised as to whether a majority of shippers were in favor of the plea could be gotten to agree. After some heated discussion on the part of a few, which wound up in a unanimous resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of five with Chapman as chairman, to go to Washington and try to devise some plan of pro-rating shipments to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The committee is willing to ship the fruit as stated D. C. Lefferts of the Orange Growers' Association, about 40 per cent. of the crop, and we are willing to PRO-RATING OF CITRUS SHIPMENTS THE REMEDY.

Committee of Five at Work on Plans to Effect Best Way to Save Orange and Lemon Crops by Advantageous Marketing—Majority of Growers Act in Union to Insure Best Results.

RESOLUTIONS providing for the appointment of a committee of five to devise and carry into effect some pro-rating citrus shipments over the State and empowering the Citrus Protective League to take steps to have emergency rates on citrus products were adopted at a meeting of representative citrus growers and others in the directors' room of the Citrus Fruit Growers' Exchange yesterday.

The committee is composed of Robert Chapman of the Citrus Protective League; F. H. Speich of the F. H. Speich Company, Riverside; A. Lefferts of the Redlands' Orange Growers' Association, and President and Traffic Manager Mortensen of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. Mr. Chapman was first made chairman by unanimous vote of the meeting and vested with the power to name his fellow committeemen. As president of the Citrus Protective League, he will also have charge of the work of securing lower rate from the railroads. Resolutions adopted at the meeting are two in number. The first is worded as follows:

"It is the sense of this meeting that the railroads should be requested to put into effect emergency rates on citrus shipments for forty days and we empower the Citrus Protective League to take such matter with the railroads."

The second resolution follows:

"We favor to devise a plan for another shipseason and to put such plan in operation, we hereby delegate our chairman, C. C. Chapman, power to appoint a committee of five with himself as chairman, to act in the matter."

MONDAY MEETING.

It was announced yesterday that there would be a meeting of the Protective committee at 10:30 a.m., Monday, in Mr. Chapman's rooms in the Consolidated Realty building. He further announced that he expected to make reports to meet the railroad officials on the same Monday.

Various men, representing all the important associations and districts attended yesterday's meeting. A. C. Lefferts of the Redlands' Orange Growers' Association was made chairman and nominated Robert Chapman of the Citrus Protective League as permanent chairman. The election was unanimous, as was that of Secretary Wallace of the league as secretary. "We have to consider great things," stated Chapman in accepting the chairmanship of the meeting. "The citrus growers of this State have acted on it in the past to solve problems and have always done it wisely and successfully. At present we are facing a crisis and have been called together to take some action on the subject of getting citrus shipments from this State in such a way that we may obtain relief from our damaged markets. We are to consider the subject of applying to railroads for emergency rates. The meeting is now in your hands, and I trust that all of you will express yourselves candidly."

Attorney A. C. Redlands opined that he had taken the matter it was up to the railroads to make a statement. Chapman went on to relate that the citrus crop had been badly damaged by frost and if it might be saved by concerted action, and that the only thing to do was to ask the railroads for emergency rates.

RATES AGREEABLE.

Most of the railroad men in this section, he said, are favorably inclined to do what the plea be made by a committee representing all sections of the citrus men."

"If we go ahead and get rates with our fruit, prices will come down to here; therefore I believe that it is the sense of the people that the railroads be asked to put into effect, the same rates as two years ago, until such time as we can get our fruit on the eastern markets at a reasonable price. I wish to say, however, that we have been informed by railroads that we will not get an emergency rate in order that we may take advantage of a reduction in citrus rates."

Secretary Wallace of the Redlands Orange Growers' Association remarked that there would be no good in asking for rates unless there was to be shipments. Mr. Chapman replied that no shipments would be shipped, thus maintaining the State's reputation, and that payments be required at once. After some discussion, which favored asking for a simple resolution stating that an emergency existed and that the Citrus Protective League, representing 90 per cent. of the growers, make the request, though no action was incorporated in the resolution that lemons in the process of curing that were packed should be excluded from the emergency rate order. It was stated by the committee that the relief was only due to the fresh fruit and that it is impossible as to estimate how many lemons should be contented under the rate of $1.15 per box. Traffic Manager Mortensen of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange assured the committee that the railroads would grant the emergency rates, mayor officials of the railroads had assured him of this in the matter.

ONE MIND.

The meeting was then addressed by a lengthy discussion of opinions, a good one, as it was raised as to the propriety of shippers getting together to agree on a rate, Chapman himself into the matter, pointing out that on the part of the growers, wound up by authorizing the appointment of a committee of five, with Chapman, to go to the railroads to devise means for emergency shipments at reduced rates independent of the Redlands Orange

WOMAN SHOOTS AT BURGLAR.

Pasadenan Shows Courage When Thief Calls.

Salt Lake Banker Captures a Missouri Belle.

Electrician Dies as Result of Contact With Wire.

PASADENA, Jan. 12.—A burglar who at 7:30 o'clock last night broke into the home of Mrs. H. Thompson, a widow, at No. 28 West California street, got a warm reception. Mrs. Thompson was sick in bed in her room on the second floor, but that did not keep her from turning out the burglar in a hasty fashion.

Convinced that she heard unaccustomed sounds in the kitchen, immediately beneath her bedroom, she arose and went to the stairs. Descending, she saw the man at the kitchen window. She ran back to her room and locked the door.

Then it was that she thought of a loaded revolver, and, seizing it, she went to the window and opened fire on the ground below. She said that she could not see the man, but that she believed him to be there, and that she shot to kill. She had fired two shots when neighbors came to her aid and telephoned to the police.

The burglar, aware that his presence had been discovered, made a hurried exit and left the back yard just in time to miss the bullets from Mrs. Thompson's weapon. He stole a bicycle that stood in front of a confectionary store near by and on it made his escape.

Chief of Police Wood, Capt. O'Dell and Patrolmen Shelton and Worrell went to the house immediately on receiving the call, but at a late hour last night the burglar had not been captured.

"Let me tell you," said Mrs. Thompson, "when a burglar enters my house he can expect to get killed. I certainly would shoot straight at one. And I am not a woman to shut my eyes when I pull the trigger, either."

"Furthermore, the man would not have got any valuables if I had not discovered him. I am not so foolish as to leave valuable things or money lying about."

BEAUTIES IN SOCIETY PLAY.

Among the many beautiful society girls who will grace the stage of Clunes Theater at the presentation of the "Campus Mouser," are three who might be known as the president, secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the Heartbreakers' Union, such is the havoc wrought by these "three little maids from school" among the hearts of the beaus of the smart set.

Representing as they do, three entirely different types of beauty, Miss Janet Beckwith, Miss Mamie Minock and Miss Irene Gross, have been chosen to lead the three largest specialty numbers of the performance, namely the Middy Chorus and Crack Squad Drill, the Tennis Specialty and the Parasol Girls.

The Middy Chorus is expected to be the greatest hit ever recorded here in an amateur production, including as it does, the pick of pretty girls of the younger set, and led by Miss Beckwith, who is claimed by her admirers to be the prettiest girl in Pasadena. The crack squad drill is done in a "middy" costume in approved military style. Connoisseurs in such matters state that this number is a sure winner.

Another speciality that is winning much commendation at rehearsals is the tennis number as led by Mamie Nimock. Miss Nimock plays the part of the Athletic Girl with a winsome freshness which makes the role charming. Her support in this is very good, and all, men and girls are rehearsing faithfully to make this one of the best of the show.

DIMMITT-POLLOCK WEDDING.

A pretty romance that since the announcement of their engagement, a short time ago, has been the talk of the Pasadena Four Hundred culminated yesterday in the marriage of Miss Marie Dimmitt, a beautiful former St. Joseph, Mo., society belle, and J. A. Pollock, millionaire, banker, president of the Salt Lake City Board of Trade, and well-known business man of that city, Pasadena and Los Angeles.

The wedding took place at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon—exactly four months from the time they met at Santa Barbara—at the Church of the Angels, in Garvanza. Only a few relatives and intimate friends were present. The rector of the church read the lines and the bride was given away by her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Johnson, with whom she has lived since a child. Louis N. Stott of Los Angeles, a former business partner of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride wore a modish taupe velvet suit.

After the ceremony the bride and groom and a party of friends were the guests of Mrs. Johnson at a dinner at the Hotel Maryland, where she and Mrs. Pollock have stayed for the past two months.

The bridegroom was a widower and has a handsome residence at No. 217 Bellefontaine street. Although of late he has spent more of his time in Salt Lake City than in Pasadena, he and his bride, who have gone North for a trip of several weeks, expect to make this city their place of residence. They will be at home to their friends on their return at the Bellefontaine-street place.

Mrs. Pollock and Mrs. Johnson have lived at different places on the Pacific Coast for the last two years.

SHOCK PROVES FATAL.

James Gilbert, who was employed as an extra electrician at the California-street substation of the Southern California Edison Company's system, was killed by accidentally coming in contact with a switchboard there yesterday morning. The accident happened at 9:30 o'clock and the man died before he could be removed from the plant to a hospital.

The body is now at the morgue of Turner & Stevens. The times of the inquest and funeral have not yet been announced.

Gilbert was 24 years of age and lived at No. 1742 West Fifty-sixth street, Los Angeles. He leaves a wife and child.

TWO ARCHITECTS NAMED.

The Board of Education met yesterday morning and appointed S. B. Marston as the architect to represent it on the committee that is to inspect the Polytechnic High School buildings. By the terms of the agreement, one architect is to be appointed by the school board, one by the City Council, and these two are to name a third.

At yesterday's session the Board of Education made it clear that the coming inspection of the buildings is not to be made from the standpoint of the city building ordinance, as it now stands, but "on a basis of safety and sanitation of said buildings and their fitness for educational purposes, for which they have been constructed."

The City Council some time ago, when arrangements for the committee were first made, named Edward C. Kent as the architect to represent it. The third architect has not yet been appointed. The other members of the Committee on Inspection are to be the City Building Inspector, the City Plumbing Inspector, the City Electrician and the corresponding officers of the school district.

Mayor Thum stated last night that the inspection will probably be made the middle of this week.

CITY BRIEFS.

Arthur Reynolds, president of the Des Moines National Bank of that city, is expected to arrive on the 19th inst., to pass the remainder of the winter in the city. He has rented a house at No. 627 West California street. His brother, George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental National Bank of Chicago, also expects to come to Pasadena soon, to remain for several months. Both have made Pasadena their winter residences before.

A. Claude Braden of No. 1519 Casa Grande street, who has charge of the physical culture work in the public school system, yesterday announced his candidacy for City Commissioner. The election occurs next spring.

The snow in the mountains was alluring yesterday to the Boy Scouts, who started out bright and early to have snow fights. They divided into several parties, no two going to the same canyon. All returned to the city at 5 o'clock and last night were the guests at a dinner given at the home of the commander.

Mrs. M. A. Fairbanks, mother of former Vice-President C. W. Fairbanks, and several other members of the family, are visitors in the city. They are staying at the Mira Monde.

Long Beach.

ELECTION WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Long Beach Torn by Bitterness of Campaign.

Baker P. Lee Delivers a Vigorous Address.

Lambasts Critics and Gives Reasons for Position.

LONG BEACH, Jan. 11.—On Monday, the 12,755 registered voters of the city will be allowed to exercise their franchise in voting upon thirty amendments to the charter, which was adopted five years ago, advancing Long Beach from a sixth-class village to the special class. Efforts have been made every two years to submit amendments to the charter, but delay in action and general laziness has prevented any change until now, and the city is working under back-number laws.

When the amendments were first suggested efforts were made to substitute for the aldermanic government a commission or managerial form, but the revision committee voted down both propositions and submitted to Council twenty-three amendments. Later the Federated Brotherhood asked that an initiative ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors be incorporated in the charter and the Business Men's Association presented an alternative proposition providing meal privileges for hotels of more than two hundred rooms. Both propositions were adopted and then at the eleventh hour the Progressive League, a civic organization, submitted by initiative petition five additional amendments which the Council refused to accept, but which they were compelled to by writ of mandamus from the Superior Court.

Speedily the two liquor propositions became the all-absorbing topic and in continuing discussions of whether the hotel proposition to sell liquor to registered guests at meals was more heinous a crime than to allow it to be given away in private homes, as provided in the prohibition ordinance, has caused the voters to lose sight of the other twenty-eight amendments, some of which are far more important to the city's future than the liquor question. This week meetings have been held to discuss the other amendments, but they were only slimly attended.

Indications, however, point to the defeat of amendment No. 6, which limits franchises to fifty years, with privilege to the city to assume them at any time at their physical valuation; Nos. 8 and 9, increasing the number of city officials and raising salaries; No. 14, providing for legal publication of city laws by posting; No. 15, giving the Civil Service Commission power to suspend rules; No. 21, regulating initiative and referendum elections and providing a method for signing such petitions; No. 22, limiting the industrial district to the present established boundaries.

The remaining amendments, except Nos. 24 and 25, are almost certain of adoption, those two being the liquor propositions and on which undoubtedly, the largest vote will be cast. One amendment which seems to be popular, is No. 28, providing that the City Attorney shall receive a salary of $3500 a year and give his entire services to the city, and No. 26, limiting franchises to forty years, after first being submitted to a vote of the people, with privilege of municipal purchase at the expiration of twenty-one years.

BAKER LEE'S TALK.

A meeting of the business men, who favor the liberal policy in city affairs, was held tonight, and Rev. Baker P. Lee of Los Angeles, was the chief speaker. He said in part:

"Take away the froth and fury, the venom and invective and boil this campaign down to its real issue and we find the so-called Prohibition party is advocating the most intemperate amendment ever enacted, that is, they distinctly favor giving away liquor in the five or ten thousand homes in Long Beach, but grow rabid when asked to vote for the sale of it in one hotel. In other words, they disapprove of the legitimate and rightful use of liquors when sold in a business way, but strongly favor that foolish and hurtful habit called 'treating.'

"The very argument they use in opposing the table license to the Virginia and its free use ad libitum in the home is a boomerang on their own heads. Take it practically, you may have a convivial guest in your home and drink until the wee sma hours of the morning, until both become intoxicated, but could such a condition prevail at the Virginia? No, for the simple reason that a person so doing would be promptly ejected from the hotel and would, henceforth, be persona non grata to the management.

"Ninety per cent. of the visitors to the Virginia are tourists, traveling through the country seeking pleasure and rest, expecting and demanding that they be accorded the privileges of every first-class hotel. In what possible way could the good people of Long Beach become contaminated by these eminently respectable guests of the hotel? In other words, you license free whisky in every home in the city and anathematize those who would support a law for the sale of liquors to strangers in one hotel. In other words, they say this—it is a crime to sell a legitimate article of merchandise in sane and temperate quantities, but it is a virtue and a grace to give it away by the bottleful. This latter interpretation carried to its logical conclusion would mean a wide open town, only limited by the capacity and liberality of the individual home. The Brotherhood amendment would license the gift of liquor, its only restriction being that this gift shall be in a "private residence," and yet you would deny the right accorded to the simplest cottage in Long Beach, the humblest apartment-house, the richest and the poorest residences—you would deny this right to the biggest home, the finest residence, the Virginia hotel, because they ask for the same privilege that every other hotel in the world must have. In other words, you juggle with language, strain at gnats and swallow camels, tithe, mint, anise and cumin and neglect the weightier matters of justice and fair play, you invite subterfuge, trickery and lying, rather than face the issue like men. You play upon the credulity and ignorance of the masses under the false banner of temperance for class discrimination, under the supposed white flag of prohibition you would fortify every home in Long Beach and leave the big house by the sea under the servitude of religious intolerance and you call this 'temperance.'

"Judged by even the dictionary interpretation of the word, you would brand yourselves as bigots, fanatics, or as hypocrites.

"I hope the time will come, and I believe it will, when there will be no saloon in America, but I say calmly and earnestly that I had rather be certain barkeepers in Los Angeles and be judged according to justice and mercy, of a sympathetic Savior, than to be guilty of the intemperate, inhuman and barbaric utterances of some of these alleged supporters of so-called temperance.

"I have come to you in the spirit of friendliness and fair play, as a Christian gentleman, to reason with you as reasonable people and I have ever found you courteous, save in a few instances, and these people by invective innuendo and deliberate misrepresentations have tried to assail my character and have threatened my person. As far as the latter is concerned, it matters little, for if some miscreant should shoot me down, then certainly the cause would triumph and every true soldier would count it a privilege to die on the firing line for the cause of honor and truth.

"My character you cannot touch, for it is beyond the mud-slinging arm of the moral degenerate. When it was deemed necessary in the mind of a certain lady to attempt to demean her own family and besmirch my character, according to the tradition of my fathers, I simply lift my hat, bow before her womanhood and say 'she is a perfect lady and as such it would be ungallant to contradict.' But when an assembly of preachers of a denomination that I honor and respect, so far forget themselves and the broad Catholicity of the Master they would follow, as to say they will boycott a clergyman of the church, then it is indeed amusing.

"I believe that it is of record in the last few days that John Wooley, the prohibition candidate for President of the United States for many years, has not only said the cause was hopeless, but that he personally now repudiates such a cause.

"Do you expect me to answer my critics in the same intolerant, unChristian and mud-slinging manner in which I have been assailed? Would I be justified in pursuing lex talionis in denouncing them as the 'hired men' in the cause of intemperance and vulgarity. Ah, no, there is no need for me to do that before the fair-minded people of Long Beach, beside which I hope I am too much of a gentleman to resort to ward politics, and though but an humble and penitent follower of the Master, I can only echo that divine cry from the world's highest and brightest mountain, 'Father, forgive them, they know not what they do.'

"Oh, men and women of Long Beach, we stand upon the threshhold of a new year, full of promise and brotherhood. Put away from you this constant civic wrangling, break the shackles of religious intolerance, rise to the call of the hour and by an avalanche of ballots in favor of the business men's amendment show to the world that you are living in the twentieth century and not in the Dark Ages.

"The flowers fade, the heart withers, men grow old and die; the years lie down in the sepulcher of the ages, but time writes no wrinkle on the brow of truth and toleration and so I leave you as I came, with charity to all, malice to none and plead that you will never allow your city of intelligent men and women to deteriorate into a village of intolerance and cowardice."

SLAPPED THE LADY'S FACE.

Redondo Beach Police Court Case Thrown Out Because Witnesses Were Reluctant With Testimony.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Jan. 11—case alleged to be the aftermath of a joy-ride, the details of which were carefully concealed in the evidence, was tried today before Judge Wells, when Mrs. Clara A. Dotson, charged with slapping the face of Mrs. Stella Pratt, all of Inglewood Rancho, was tried for disturbing the peace.

A number of witnesses from the rancho were present, including Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey. The evidence showed that in an altercation between Mrs. Dotson and Mrs. Pratt concerning Mrs. Bailey the former had slapped Mrs. Pratt, who was alleged to have made disparaging remarks about the character of Mrs. Bailey. After trying in vain to learn the facts of the case it was dismissed by the judge for lack of sufficient evidence.

NEWS BRIEFS.

After a jury had been secured and many other formalities attendant upon a jury trial were completed this morning for the case of James McPherson, charged with disturbing the peace, the case was postponed for a week. In the meantime, the attorneys, Job Harriman for the defendant, and W. T. Helms, Deputy District Attorney, for the State, arranged a settlement out of court and McPherson, who is a foreman for the construction work of the El Segundo pier, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5 and thirty days in jail, the latter sentence being suspended. McPherson was alleged to have created a disturbance in the Casino four weeks ago, which he at first denied.

WILL DISCUSS METHODS.

Citrus Growers to Meet at Pomona and Consider Plans for Circumventing Jack Frost.

POMONA, Jan. 11.—It is stated by prominent citrus fruit growers here that it is the intention of G. Harold Powell of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, to call another frost convention here this spring to further consider and discuss the question of the best and most effective methods to protect the orange and lemon growing districts against frost. The first convention of this kind which was held in Pomona last year resulted in great good to this community at least for it resulted in the formation of the Frost Protective Association in Pomona Valley, the members of which equipped themselves with the smudge pots and made arrangements for patroling the district and giving warnings on cold nights so that the smudge fires could be lighted.

By the use of these smudge pots, it is conceded that more fruit has been saved here than in other sections where smudging was not generally resorted to and it is believed that with better protection, a larger number of pots and more scientific methods it will be possible to eventually protect entire crops of a locality. It is planned to consider all things pertinent to this frost fighting proposition at the convention.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Last evening a joint installation of the newly-elected officers of the Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen of America, was held here. The ceremonies were followed by a banquet. The officers installed by the Royal Neighbors were as follows: Alice Nettle, Past Oracle; Minnie Paine, Oracle; Alice Laughlin, Vice-Oracle; Bessie McKee, Chancelor; Ada E. Sheets, Recorder; Emily Peery, Receiver; Edna Lester, Marshal; Muriel Downs and Milda Heathman, Sentinels.

The new officers who will serve the Modern Woodmen and were installed were: Frank Jewell, Past Consul; Alfred Davis, Consul; H. M. Downs, Vice-Consul; W. G. Sheets, Secretary; G. A. Goodlove, Banker; Grover Turney, Escort; Joseph Laughlin, Watchman; L. A. Ramsey, Sentry; S. P. Hunsaker, E. W. Svenson and J. G. Sheets, Trustees.

On Monday the Pomona Valley Hospital patients, who were taken from the old hospital building at the time of the fire, will be moved to the new temporary quarters on East Holt avenue and Hawthorne place. Much of the furniture and equipment of the old hospital was saved and it has therefore not been necessary to go to much expense in equipping the new quarters which will suffice for the patients until the new hospital building is rushed to completion by Contractor Carl Leonard of Los Angeles.

TROPICO BRIEFS.

TROPICO, Jan. 11.—"Charter Day" was most appropriately observed by the officers and members of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club yesterday at the home of Mrs. A. H. Gaarder, who, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Wattles and Mrs. H. G. Pettit, entertained the club. A paper prepared by Mrs. John A. Logan, first president of the club, was read, and Mrs. A. W. Collins, the second president, and Mrs. Dwight Griswold, present club president, each gave talks reminiscent of the club, of the aims accomplished in civic and domestic circles. Mrs. William Burke gave several musical numbers, and Mrs. Mayland Brown gave a reading. Mrs. A. W. Collins reported $130 netted at the recent Christmas Shop, in which all the members of the Tropico club were interested. Mrs. Rice-Wray gave a report of the "Reciprocity Day" in Los Angeles given by Mrs. Herron, chairman of the civic section of the District Federated Clubs. At the next club meeting, when Mrs. F. B. McKenny will be hostess, Mrs. J. E. Coleman of Los Angeles will give a talk on the work of the Coleman House Association.

Plans have been prepared and ground is being broken for the erection of a two-story brick building on Prof. William Malcolm's property at the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and Park avenue. At the opposite corner, on the Aaron Wolfe property, another two-story brick building is being built. With the erection of these two buildings four large storerooms will be added to the business enterprises of Tropico, while the upper stories will be rented as apartments. E. B. Hall is building the brick on the northwest corner of Brand and Park, while C. H. Henry is interested in the structure being erected on the Aaron Wolfe property.

The handsome bungalow home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Becker, at the intersection of Central avenue and Gardena street, was completely destroyed by fire shortly after midnight. Mr. Becker and family retired about 10 o'clock and were awakened about two hours later by the frantic barking of their dog. The entire front portion of the house was then in flames. City Marshal J. W. Gould, who was among the first to discover the fire, gave the alarm, and the Tropico life workers, who responded to the call for assistance, and succeeded in saving all of the household goods, while Dean Elving the literal.

Tonight the officers of Santa Monica Lodge No. 307 will be installed in the Third-street temple. E. E. Cole, inspector of the fifty-first district, will have charge of the work.

Pedro Olivera, a member of the first Santa Monica fire company, was struck by a motor car and knocked away at his home at No. 1107 Twenty-second street this morning. Olivera, who is in his 48 years of age, is badly injured, but in any case have to bear their share of the total. It is doubted that the value of all kinds of property is probably reduced and that all should be assessed for 100 per cent. This would in the end bring no more to the property-owners as each would in any case have to bear their share of the total. It is doubted that any great reduction will be made, but an effort will probably be made to induce the Supervisors next year to cut the tax levy to the lowest possible limit as the means of saving to tax payers.

The condemnation suit of the Pacific Electric Railroad through the property of J. A. Fraley, the jury returned out all night, gave a verdict of $9400 damages. Fraley had first offered about this amount by the railroad but held out for $18,000 on the ground that the destruction of his windbreak would cause him heavy loss. The case has attracted much attention. The case results in opening up the right of way through the Venice section.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The county authorities are arranging to try to get a bill through the legislature by which railroad and other corporations can be compelled to pay their proportion of the cost of the water district improvements. Under the present law they are not compelled to share the expense, a condition which has defeated several needed improvements in this district.

The Chamber of Commerce will at once begin the collection of the right of way fund with a view to turning over the right of way to the Pacific Electric Railroad west from San Bernardino. The railroad officials have agreed that if this is done the construction of the line will be commenced in February.

AUTO IS LEFT IN SNOW DRIFTS.

San Bernardino Men Have Rigorous Experience.

Jurror Puzzled Over Appraisement of Groves.

Jury Awards Damages in a Condemnation Suit.

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 11.—[illegible] Phillips, proprietor of the San Bernardino Mountain auto stage line, [illegible] Assistant Postmaster George R. [illegible], today returned from a [illegible] trip in the mountain snow [illegible] as a result of which they were [illegible] compelled to abandon their auto and [illegible] home on foot.

[illegible] Phillips left Thursday with a large [illegible] of provisions for the tunnel camp [illegible] the Arrowhead Reservoir and [illegible] Company in the Hook Creek [illegible], one of the most inaccessible [illegible] of the San Bernardino [illegible] mountains. Cellar accompanied him [illegible] a pleasure trip. The camp was [illegible] and the return trip begun [illegible] they had gone but a short way [illegible] they were caught in a blinding [illegible] storm and were compelled to re[illegible] to the camp for the night.

[illegible] Saturday morning another start [illegible] made, though it was still snowing. Every available piece of rope was [illegible] in winding the wheels of the [illegible] and after battling in the storm [illegible] they succeeded in reaching [illegible] Palmer ranch, a distance of five [illegible] at the head of Little Bear Valley. [illegible] last night, exhausted, and the [illegible] on the wheels worn out. They [illegible] locked big drifts of snow two [illegible] three feet deep all day.

[illegible] this morning they realized it was [illegible] to further attempt to travel [illegible] the deep snows, so they set [illegible] on foot, coming down by the government trail and reaching here at [illegible]. They report the storm as being [illegible] one in the mountains, the [illegible] being unusually heavy for so [illegible] a time.

WILL DEDICATE CHURCH WITH ONE WEEK'S SERVIC

ONTARIO, Jan. 11.—Sunday is to be a great day for Ontario Congregationalists, for on the afternoon of that day the new Bethel Congregational Church, recently completed on G street and Euclid avenue, at a cost of $30,000, is to be formally dedicated.

The dedication proper is to take place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, but a special dedication services will continue throughout almost the entire week. The Rev. Dr. Jean Lobs is the pastor of the church and the accomplishments of the dedication are largely due to his efforts.

The dedication ceremonies many noted divines from other cities will be present. Among the visitors who will take part in the dedication services are Rev. William Day of Los Angeles, Rev. J. Queen of San Bernardino, Rev. H. Williams, D.D., of Redlands, Rev. Hermes Potter of Riverside, Daniel F. Fox, D.D., of Pomona College, President James A. Blaisdell of Pomona College, Rev. A. P. Pomona and Rev. Ralph B. Hall, formerly pastor of the local church, but now superintendent of the Southern California Conference.

Sunday evening the Congregational brotherhood will give a dinner to all who have worked on the church or who have contributed to the new building. The dinner will be given in the basement parlors of the church and there will be speeches.

Tuesday evening is "Education Night," when there will be addresses by President Blaisdell of Pomona College, Merton E. Hill, principal Chaffey High School; Edward Harwood, chairman of the Chaffey High School Board, and Prof. G. A. Ragan of this city.

Wednesday evening is "Fellowship Night" and the services will be attended by the pastors and congregations of the various churches of the city. Rev. Henry C. Kendrick, pastor of the First Christian Church, will speak in behalf of the Ontario pastors and Rev. Davis of Pomona will speak for the churches of the vicinage. Larkin will also be heard.

On Thursday afternoon the annual meeting and election of officers of the coming year is to be held. Thursday evening is to be "Home Gathering Night," when there will be a supper at the church parlors followed by a reception. Friday is "Young People's Night" and Mrs. Will Douglas Turner of Pasadena will entertain with readings.

Among those who will assist during the week with the music, vocal and instrumental are Miss Mary G. Miss eVra Towner, Miss Johnson, Mrs. Florence Cowen Richards, Conard Baugh Fowler, Miss Mae Hamilton, Mrs. William Frazier, Blaikie, Miss Fannie Wallins, Ruth Thomas, W. F. Blaikie, M. Bell, H. Antrim, M. Stokes, C. Pierce, Archie Wallace and Hobalter.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED.

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 11.—Judge Oster this morning granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Fred Falter of Los Angeles, held in the State Hospital at Patton on a commitment from Judge Hutton of Los Angeles. The evidence produced at the hearing tended to show that scarcely a legal step had been complied with in the commitment of the man, Judge Oster being inclined to score the methods by which the man had been placed in the asylum. Falter is said to be eccentric but not dangerous.

SITUATION MUCH IMPROVED.

Growers in the Vicinity of Upland Believe that at Least Half a Crop Will Be Shipped.

UPLAND, Jan. 11.—The general feeling, locally, regarding the fruit situation, is greatly improved, as time goes on, and many of the growers, as well as the buyers of fruit, are now predicting a shipment of at least one-half of the crop. Even some of the lemons, it is declared, have escaped, and will be marketable. The fight with the frost called forth some heroic work, on the part of others than the ranchers and their helpers. Walter E. Allen, proprietor of one of the city transfer companies, worked steadily for thirty hours, without rest, in hauling smudging oil to the upper avenue. This is but one of many instances of self-sacrifice in the fight.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Upland City Trustees have authorized the installation of some twenty additional fire plugs, on the city water mains, and also the purchase of some 600 feet of additional fire hose, for use of the volunteer fire department. This will afford splendid protection for the more thickly populated section of the city, and it is hoped will result in a material reduction in the rates for fire insurance, which have been almost prohibitive.

The funeral of Philander M. Kirk, for several years a resident of this city, was held January 9, with interment at Bellevue Cemetery. Mr. Kirk had suffered for years with tuberculosis, and his death was not unexpected. A widow and one son survive.

The Right Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Los Angeles, is to occupy the pulpit at St. Mark's Church, corner of F street and Euclid avenue, Sunday morning, January 12. Special music has been prepared for this occasion, the full choir to appear in vestments for the first time.

The Upland Foundry and Machine Company has cast several of the new iron posts, to be used in the new electrolier lighting system for Second avenue, this city. The posts are attracting general attention, and it is said there is a prospective order for a large number of them, for one of the other cities of this county. Also, a display is to be made by the foundry, in connection with the industrial exhibit of the National Orange Show at San Bernardino.

At the annual election of Blue Lodge, I.O.O.F., in this city, F. J. Atton was made N.G.; L. S. Morse, V.G.; H. O. Biohm, Secretary; George R. Crane, Treasurer; L. E. Woodruff, Warden; J. F. "HOODOO LIL" LEAPS FIRST-STREET TRACK.

"HOODOO LIL," car No. 2 of the Los Angeles Railway Corporation, established a new record for such vehicles in the running broad jump last night by leaping thirty-three feet through the air—measured by tape afterwards—when it left the car tracks at First and Olive streets after a wild flight down the hill. One woman was injured. Two male passengers and the car crew sustained severe bruises.

On the 9-o'clock run last night the brakes were working perfectly as it started to return to the downtown loop. Three passengers were inside, Mrs. Julia Doane, a wealthy millinery merchant, formerly of St. Louis, now living at No. 16 Dudley street, Venice; Charles D. Pike, passenger agent of the Salt Lake Railroad, and Dr. W. J. Mace, No. 121 South Bunker Hill avenue.

For two weeks Hoodoo Lil has been giving trouble to its crew. It has been in more near-accidents than any five cars on the line, and has so worried its conductors that four of them have asked for transfers to other cars within the last month.

According to Motorman Harry Demmel, No. 1304 West Twelfth street, who has piloted the car for several weeks, Hoodoo Lil has been particularly mischievous during the last four days. It nosed an automobile out of the way Thursday, and it scraped a milk wagon Friday, as well as persisting in running past the stoppings. It is operated on the Sixth-street loop.

As the car came down the grade on First street between Grand and Olive streets, Pike, according to the car crew, was sleeping, Mrs. Doane was reading a tract, and Dr. Mace was writing.

In the middle of the hill the brakes screamed, the car bolted forward, and the motorman shouted the danger. The car was wild. It raged down the hill with awful velocity, the broken brakes clanking and beating against the wheels. It careened from side to side.

The motorman tried to reverse the car, without result. As it took the curve at First and Olive streets it reared into the air and sprang along the pavement to the left of the car tracks. While it was in the air, Mrs. Doane's head was forced through a window. Pike had been awakened from his doze and was skidding along the floor to the rear end of the car. Dr. Mace was jammed into a corner.

When the car struck the pavement it sprawled forward, going in the direction of the sidewalk, and jammed against a tree, where it stopped, tipped three-fourths over, generally wrecked, and with every glass in it shattered. The motorman and conductor had clung to their posts.

Residents in the vicinity heard the cries of horror and the boom of the wild car and rushed to the rescue of the victims, to find them climbing from the debris.

Mrs. Doane, the only person injured, was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where her injuries were found to be a sprained hip and a long gash on her left knee.

She had come to Los Angeles nearly blind, three months ago, suffering from nervous prostration. When she left the Receiving Hospital she suddenly recalled that her glasses were gone. The shock of the accident had restored her eyesight as she read a contract presented by a claim agent of the road before missing her glasses.

Hoodoo Lil will be repainted and renumbered.

WEDDING POSTPONED.

Detective's Advice Followed and Runaway Pair Will First Return Home to Settle Things.

Wedding bells, which were to have culminated in the elopement from Los Angeles of Miss Madeline Turner and Noel E. Mather, who is in the City Prison on a forgery charge, will not ring in San Francisco. According to a dispatch from there last night. The ceremony will be deferred until their return here so that Mather may first receive parental consent.

Miss Turner, who has cheered her imprisoned fiance, called again yesterday at the City Prison to see him. After her departure Mather said they probably would not be married here. This was in contradiction to their plans of the previous day, in which they had decided to wed before Mather's return in the custody of a detective.

Detective Ingram advised them to defer their marriage. Miss Turner says she will leave for Los Angeles tomorrow.

COMMERCIAL AGENT.

Thomas H. Fox has been appointed commercial agent for the Illinois Central, with headquarters in this city, succeeding Clarence Haydock, who was recently appointed general western agent for the company, with headquarters in San Francisco. Fox has been traveling freight agent for the company, with headquarters here for eight years. His successor as traveling freight agent is A. W. Bonnycastle, who has been in the Northern Pacific's city office. Haydock, who is now in Chicago, is expected back here this week for a short visit. He is a veteran railroad man, having been with the Southern Pacific for twenty twenty years previous to coming here, twelve years ago, as commercial agent for the Illinois Central.

LIVED HERE MANY YEARS.

Mrs. Nancy E. Fitzmier, for thirty years a resident of Los Angeles, died at her residence at No. 490 Hartford avenue, Thursday. The Fitzmier family came from Cobleskill, N. Y., in 1883. She has been in poor health for ten years, but with her energetic disposition, strong will and active mind she seemed yet to have a long life to live. She leaves to mourn her death a widower, David Fitzmier, and four children, Mrs. N. M. Allender, Bertha E., George B. and Claude E. Fitzmier.

Going Some.

PROPOSED OUTFALL SEWER WILL COST ENORMOUS SUM.

PASADENA, Jan. 11.—The long-waited-for report of Olmsted and Gillelen, engineers who have been working for the past eight months on the plan to build a trunk line outfall sewer to serve Pasadena and other cities of the San Gabriel Valley, was the main feature of the banquet given in the east room of Hotel Green last evening by the San Gabriel Valley Inter-City Commission. The total cost of the great work, which will be so constructed as to serve the growing needs of the district until 1950, is estimated at $2,296,861. The system as planned, serving eighteen cities and towns, will have a total length of ninety miles.

One of the most interesting statement of this report, which altogether covers many hundred pages of figures and diagrams, was the estimate of the increased population in the San Gabriel Valley, made necessary in order to calculate the size of the mains that should be laid. By means of careful comparisons of the increase in population in the past, with similar growth in other sections, it was estimated that the total population of the areas of the San Gabriel Valley, sewered by this improvement, amounting to 175,000 acres, would be 1,089,160 in 1950. From a similar calculation, the city of Los Angeles in that year should have a population of 2,250,000.

In order that the public may have some idea of the proposed lines of the sewer, a large map of the system has been left at the Pasadena Board of Trade, and at the office of the Trunk Line Outfall Sewer Commission, in the Ong building at South Pasadena. In the near future, reports will be prepared for each of the cities in the commission which may desire them.

There were a number of interesting features at the meeting besides the report of the engineers. One of the most important was the decision to telegraph to Senator Works and Congressman Stephens, urging the support and appropriation for the scientific investigation of the prevention of damage from frost to citrus crops. The telegram, submitted by John R. Reavis and seconded by Elwood J. Thorne, follows:

Senator Works and William D. Stephens,

Washington, D. C.,

We are advised that a bill has been presented in the lower House of Congress asking $100,000 appropriation to carry on scientific investigation of a method to protect citrus orchards of Southern California against frost. This commission, composed of 108 members from eighteen cities in the San Gabriel Valley, wherein are located thousands of acres of citrus orchards, representing millions of investment, earnestly urge you to use every means at your command to have the bill passed and appropriations made available at earliest possible time.

[Signed]

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY INTER-CITY COMMISSION.

JOHN D. REAVIS,
President.

January, 10, 1913.

In order to bring together the various interests which are affected by the agitation against billboards, the commission had invited to be present, representatives from the leading civic organizations of Los Angeles and Pasadena, and also representatives of the bill board interests. Interesting and effective remarks on the different phases of the billboard regulation were made by Mrs. George W. Herron of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Clark P. Allen, of the billboard committee of the Pasadena Civic League; Mrs. Lewis Mitchell, of the billboard committee of the Pasadena Shakespeare Club; Mrs. Calvin Hartwell, president of the Shakespeare; Attorney Burnell of the Thomas H. B. Varney Company; D. W. Coyle, prominent billboard firm; A. J. Bertoneau, secretary of the Pasadena Board of Trade, and many others. After discussion, it was decided to have a conference between a small committee of those desirinb billboard regulation an da committee representing the billboard interests affected.

The meeting, which was presided over by T. P. Lukens, one of the Pasadena members of the commission and in part by John D. Reavis, president of the commission, was attended by over 150 citizens from all parts of the San Gabriel Valley. It was decided to announce the time and place for the next meeting, after the executive meeting, which will be held at Christopher's, No. 551 South Broadway, at 12:30, Wednesday, January 15.

SURE WAY TO BANISH CATARRH

BEST ITALIAN GRAND OPERA.

"IL TROVATORE" AND "FEDORA" CLOSE SECOND WEEK.

Verdi's Greatest Composition Delights Large and Appreciative Audience, and "Fedora," the New and Sensational Opera of Umberto Giordano, Plays to Matinee Crowd.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

To suitably close the second week of grand opera, Lambardi selected "Il Trovatore" as last night's offering.

This composition is considered as the best in popular favor and in the Italian repertoire.

It seems that Verdi gave in "Il Trovatore" the full expression of his musical genius combined with his consumate knowledge of the stage.

Every important role has an opportunity for lyric effect. The chorus, always a fascinating part in the construction of Verdi's operas, is called upon to assist in forming a melodious background for the principals.

When one reflects that "La Traviata" was first played a few months only, before the production of "Il Trovatore," that both operas were composed practically at the same time, and yet have nothing in common but the finale, which is greater and more dramatic in "Il Trovatore."

Verdi, at the zenith of his powers, in 1853, challenges comparison with any composer.

While "La Travata" was received with little favor, owing to shortcomings of Signora Donatelli, the stoutest soprano who ever sang on any stage and who died the following week after creating the role of Violetta, mistakes and misunderstandings and the loss of the overture, "Il Trovatore" was an instant success, and has remained one of the most popular Italian grand operas.

It had the rare privilege of being one of the first Verdi compositions to be played in New York, where it appeared eighteen months after its iniaitia production and received a warm welcome under the name of "The Gypsy's Revenge."

The theme is commonplace, the musical composition overshadows it.

After the celebrated overture, the first act opens with the bass aria "Abbietta zingara," with fascinating echoing melody by the chorus, behind the scene. The tenor, Manrico, is introduced by "Deserto sulla terra."

With the second act the popular "La zingarella" with anvil chorus is presented. It is the type of all anvil choruses ever given and has never been equalled in quality.

The last act is mostly composed of exquisite melodies of charming effect.

For variety and beauty "Il Trovatore" stands at the head of the Italian repertoire.

Signora Bertossi impersonated Leonora with adequate lyrism and splendid singing.

"D'amor sull' ali rosee" and "Ah! che la morte" aroused enthusiastic applause from the large audience that had been attracted by the desire to hear and to see that grand opera, so liberally translated by mechanical devices.

Inez was given by Desmori, with much charm. Manrico was Signor Folco, who brought to the impersonation of his part the same histrionic skill as in Alfredo, the night before in "La Traviata."

Nicoletti, as Count di Luna, had a more important role than the one of Giorgio Germont in "La Traviato" and one entirely different in character. It is not given to many baritones to sing two parts so opposed, nor to act the role of a father and the one of a knight errant and both equally well, as evidenced by three curtain calls.

Signorina Blanche Fox played Azucena with a skill worthy of a more important part and was much applauded in the duet with Maurico "Si la stanchezza."

It is always a nervous undertaking to take the baton in a public presentation, however skilled one may be in rehearsal. Signor Barbieri directed the musicans well and with a full knowledge of the score, even if he showed an evident uneasiness.

In the afternoon, "Fedora" was given before an unusually large audience, curious to see the relatively recent grand opera of Umberto Giordano after Sardou's drama of Russian life in Paris.

Signora Ester Adaberto sang the leading role of Princess Fedora Romazov and Agostini, who had recoverted from his cold, contracted last week on the way to Redlands to present Mme. Butterfly, gave Count Loris Ispanov in his usual artistic manner.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF—GROWS HAIR

Don't pay 50 cents for worthless hair tonics—Use old, reliable, harmless "Danderine"—Get results.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, luster and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Do Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before?

LET THIS MAN READ YOUR LIFE.

Offers Free Test Readings, Advice on Business, Marriage, Occupation, Changes, Journeys, Friends, Enemies, And All Important Events of Life.

Attention of the mystically inclined seems to be centered at present upon the work of Mr. Clay Burton Vance, who, although laying claim to no special gifts of supernatural powers, attempts to reveal the lives of people through the slender clues of handwriting and birth-dates. The undeniable accuracy of his delineations leads one to surmise that heretofore palmists, prophets, astrologers, and seers of divers beliefs have failed to apply the true principles of the science of divination.

The following letters are published as evidence of Mr. Vance's ability. Mr. Lafayette Redditt writes: "My Reading received. With the greatest amazement I read as step by step you outlined my life since infancy. I have been somewhat interested along these lines for years, but had no idea that such priceless advice could be given. I must admit that you are indeed a very remarkable man, and am glad you use your great gift to benefit your clients."

Mr. Fred Walton writes: "I did not expect such a splendid outline of my life. The scientific value of your Readings cannot be fully appreciated until one has his own Reading. To consult you means success and happiness."

Arrangements have been made to give free test Readings to all readers of The Los Angeles Times, but it is especially requested that those who wish to avail themselves of this generous offer make application at once. If you wish a delineation of your own life, if you wish a true description of your characteristics, talents and opportunities, simply send your full name, the date, month and year of your birth (state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss,) and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

"Your power is marvelous,
So people write,
Please read my life—
Are my prospects bright?"

Send your letter to Mr. Clay Burton Vance, Suite 554-G, Palais Royal, Paris, France. If you wish, you may enclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Please note that 5 cents postage is required on letters posted to France. Do not enclose coins or silver in your letter.—[Advertisement.

PROMINENT SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH

THE HEAD AND THROAT.

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Do you hawk to clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now. Don't let it run into complications.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?

Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS.

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge?
Do they ring?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your hearing worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Are you constipated?
Do you bloat after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?

Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year. Consultation and examination free.

STOCK LETTER.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The bank statement was fair. Heavy liquidation of Amalgamated Copper and other copper issues was a feature of trading today but this was reflected by unsettlement in others. The foreign news was conflicting and of a character to suggest that the settlement of the Turko-Balkan affair is likely to be delayed indefinitely. The usual week-end realizing and evening-up of accounts was on a somewhat larger scale than recently owing to the fact that it is anticipated that the Supreme Court will make known its findings in the Minnesota rate case and that the Union Pacific officials will make some statement on Monday concerning the progress in connection with conformity to the supreme Court's decision in the merger suit. The week-end trade report on the whole denotes a satisfactory state of affairs, but indications are not lacking of a disposition to curtail confidential buying for forward delivery. This is undoubtedly induced in great part by the tariff hearings conducted in Washington. The stock market has not acted lately as if a broadening tendency on the "up" side is likely to show itself in a very marked degree in the face of existing conditions, and therefore it might be well to accept moderate turns on stocks purchased on sharp drives.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Owing to the fact that the special train carrying the fruit jobbers and dealers of the Coast to New Orleans allowed a short stopover in this city at about noon yesterday, most of the local produce men utilized the time to show the visitors from the North around the commodities. Consequently the Produce Exchange was very quiet. About three dealers were present, and there was only one offering of Petaluma-Santa Rosa eggs for future delivery at 33½ cents. There were no particular changes in the prices of other products. The market is rather firm on staples.

Some avocados were received. Quite a few pears still remain, some very good oranges were in evidence, but there is also a large quantity of poor stock.

Reported receipts were: Eggs, 127 cases; butter, 29,278 pounds; cheese, 1720 pounds; potatoes, 3630 sacks; onions, 1620 sacks.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Volume of Business Small, but Final Quotations Show a Number of Changes—Union Irregular.

The market was quiet yesterday morning, although there were quite a large number of changes evidenced by closing quotations. Union Oil was the nearest approach to a feature, with only twenty-two shares sold, however. The stock was irregular on small lot sales, and was off an eighth of a point on two transfers of five and ten shares respectively. At the close $90 was bid, with no offerings—the same situation as the previous day. Union Provident was at $104, and closed $103.50 bid at $104.25. Final quotations showed United Petroleum to be weaker. Olinda sold at 40 cents and California Midway at 11 cents, with closing quotations 11 bid at 11⅝.

One share of First National Bank stock changed hands at $695.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCHANGE.

Goldfield Consolidated's Net Profits for December Estimated at a Quarter of a Million.

[Special service to The Times by R. F. Tapper, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—The market ruled narrow throughout the entire list. The volume of business was small and closing quotations were not particularly changed from those of yesterday. The estimated earnings of the Goldfield Consolidated for December show a gross recovery of $422,000. The operating expenses are figured at $170,000, and the net profits at $253,000, from 27,046 tons mined.

General List Shows Fair Degree of Strength, but Steel Displays Heaviness and Coal Stocks Are Weakened—Large Changes Are Revealed in Bank Statement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Operations in stocks again centered in the copper group today. The cumulative effects of the disappointing monthly statement of copper stocks and reports of price shading were heightened by the sale of a large amount of the metal at around 17 cents, as compared with the official rate of 17¾ cents. The copper issues were the especial objects of the bear attack and proved vulnerable to pressure, with Amalgamated displaying most marked weakness. The general list showed a fair degree of the strength early in the session but the tone gradually weakened, under the influence of movements in the coppers. Steel displayed heaviness and in the railroad department the coalers and railroad stocks were weakened. The movement of the market as a whole, however, was not large, and trading was of limited proportions. Large changes were revealed in the bank statement, conspicuous among them being a loan increase of $60,000,000 shown in the actual table. It said that this change represented a shifting of loans from out-of-town banks to city banks, on account of the decline in interest rates to a point too low to be attractive to the out-of-town institutions. Half of this shifting of loans, it is estimated, occurred within the last two days, as was indicated by the fact that in the average table the loan increase reported was only $29,000.

The expected large gain in cash was made, the amount exceeding $21,000,000. The increase in loans and the cash gain were reflected in the expansion of $84,000,000 in deposits.

The mercantile agencies reported that business in New York in all departments continued very satisfactory and that there was more life in trade. The bond market was quiet and easy. Total sales par value $1,438,000 United States bonds were unchanged on call, on the week.

COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

There was no London metal market yesterday.

A report which has been received by the Braden management reveals the fact that some very important developments have just occurred at the property. These being entirely unexpected and coming as a complete surprise to the management, are very significant and are among the most important which have thus far occurred at the Braden property. They are in no way connected with the recent developments in the Teniente mine, which have been attracting such attention and are confined to the Fortuna mine, which contains the bulk of the 27,000,000 tons of developed ore estimated in the summer of 1912. According to the report just received, crosscuts which have been extended into the foot wall on two levels of the Fortuna mine, namely, the Nos. 2 and 3½, indicate the ore-bearing zone to be at least 100 feet wider than heretofore estimated. In one of these workings for 115 feet the ore averaged 2.16 per cent. copper, while in another for 147 feet the ore average was over 4 per cent. A matter of further importance is that these crosscuts have not been completed and that they are still in ore. There is a possibility, the manager states, that these developments may result in doubling the quantity of ore. The location of the cross-cuts on different levels is significant and more especially as these tunnels are a considerable distance apart, the difference in elevation between the workings being 325 feet.

Calumet & Hecla's most important work in year just ending has been in additions to its surface equipment, operations having been going ahead simultaneously on the big addition to the electrical power plant, and the building of the regrinding plant and the electrolytic works. The building for the addition to the power plant is almost completed and foundations laid for the low pressure steam turbines. It will be the first of the three plants to be finished and early in the new year will be providing 10,000 horse-power at a low cost, as half of the steam for driving the turbine engine will came from the heads. The regrinding and electrolytic plants are quite well advanced, but another year will be required to prepare them for service. The regrinding plant will treat tailings at an exceedingly low cost. It is estimated that the cost, including marketing expense, will be about 6 cents a pound. The Calumet and Hecla mine proper has handled considerably less conglomerate rock in 1912 than in 1911—about 150,000 tons—but the tonnage of Osceola dampgraloid this year has been substantially larger than in the preceding twelve-month. The mine's total production will fall slightly under the 1911 figures.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The list showed small declines during the short session. A fair demand from interests which have sold freely of late checked the falling off, however. Advices were again quite disappointing and served to offset the effect of rather bullish week-end figures. Much of the trading reported was due to evening-up. Domestic trade advices continue satisfactory in the main, although there is no apparent consumption. Declines have been reported in some directions for goods but inquiry is not discouraging.

CLOSING BANK DEAL.

Stockholders of Home Savings Ratify Purchase of National Bank of Commerce Assets.

A step was taken toward the merging of the interests of the National Bank of Commerce into the Home Savings Bank yesterday, when the stockholders of the latter institution at a special meeting ratified the deal, and voted an increase in capital stock from $400,000 to $600,000 for the purpose of consummating it. Two-thirds of the stockholders were represented in person or by proxy.

The total resources of the National Bank of Commerce, according to a statement issued the 1st inst., aggregate $1,423,954.35. They will be taken over by the Home Savings Bank about February 3, according to O. J. Wigdal, president. This will mark the closing of the deal.

At a meeting of the directorate of the Home Savings Bank, Friday night, it was decided that F. M. Douglas, president of the National Bank of Commerce, is to take the position of active vice-president, when the merger is effected. W. F. Callander, vice-president of the Home, is to retire and take charge of the loan department of the Los Angeles Title and Trust Company. Some other minor changes in the directorate may be made later.

The National Bank of Commerce stockholders will hold a special meeting Tuesday, to authorize the sale of the assets to the Home Savings Bank. They are to be offered the privilege of buying shares in the Home Savings Bank upon the sale of their stock, the market value of both issues being about the same.

BOY'S LONG WALK.

Youth Delivers a Message from Mayor Alexander to the Chief Executive of "The Hub."

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Completing a 4450-mile tramp from Los Angeles to Boston in exactly seven months, Philip E. Campbell, a 19-year-old Brockton boy who went West three years ago for his health, walked into a Boston hotel at 10:50 last evening, having covered the forty-seven miles between Worcester and this city since 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Campbell carries a letter from Mayor Alexander of Los Angeles which he delivered to Mayor Fitzgerald today. He said he is now on his sixth pair of shoes, third pair of trousers and second jacket. He says he is eighteen pounds lighter than when he left Los Angeles.

DEATH OF WILLIAM RUDDY.

William Ruddy, for twenty-eight years a resident of this city, died at his home yesterday morning, after an illness of five years from a stroke of paralysis. He was a warm-hearted and generous Christian man, and through these long and trying years he was patient and uncomplaining, his mind remaining perfectly clear to the last. He came to this city from Holyoke, Mass., where for twenty years he was superintendent of a thread mill, during which time he was Mayor of the city, member of the City Council and Board of Education. He leaves a widow, three sons, and a married daughter, Mrs. E. E. Harriman, all in this city.

WANT OUT OF PRISON.

Hundred and Fifty Convicts of Leavenworth, Five of Them Bankers, Clamoring for Release.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Jan. 11.—One hundred and fifty prisoners in the Federal penitentiary here, among them five bankers, will apply for release at the quarterly meeting of the Federal Board of Parole at the prison next Monday. Applications from the following bankers will be presented:

Paul C. Gall, Indianapolis.
Jesse Sierapowski, Pittsburgh, Pa.
C. E. Billingsley, Guthrie, Okla.
W. A. Allen and E. T. Cook, of Paris, Tex.

Since the Federal parole law went into effect more than 200 have been liberated and only four returned for violation.

LARGE OIL CONTRACT.

General Petroleum Arranges for Sale of Million Barrels to Canadian Interests, Is Report.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of 1,000,000 barrels of oil by the General Petroleum Company to Canadian interests, according to report. E. P. Howard of Vancouver, B. C., who was here a few days ago, is said to have acted as the representative of the latter in the transaction.

Although the details of the reported sale are not obtainable, the logical conclusion is that it was made to dispose of a portion of the oil which is to be transported from the Midway field to Los Angeles, via the pipe line of the General Pipe Line Company. This pipe line is expected to be completed about March, 1, and it is estimated that it will have a capacity of about 30,000 barrels per day.

Certain authorities also believe that some of the General Petroleum's oil will be disposed of to the Santa Fe Railroad, and some arrangements having this object in view are said to have been made.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Eisenmayer of No. 2649 North Griffin avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary New Year's Eve at the home of their son, Arthur W. Eisenmayer in Granite City, Mo. They formerly lived at Granite City, but several years ago came to Los Angeles to reside. They are visiting at their old home for the first time in several years. A feature of the anniversary supper was the use of the same tablecloth that served as a cover at the bridal banquet. The event was quite largely attended by friends and relatives.

DE SABLA FOR VACANCY.

General Petroleum Official May Be Chosen Director of Union Oil Company at Annual Meeting.

The election of Eugene de Sabla to the directorate of the Union Oil Company at the annual meeting of the company, January, 16, at Oleum, Cal., to fill the place vacated by J. S. Torrance when he resigned, is regarded as probable. This should be a step by which the General Petroleum Company, the purchaser of the control of the Union Oil Company, will take a hand in guiding its future destinies, De Sabla being president of the General Petroleum.

The deal for the control of the Union has not reached such a point that it is deemed likely that any other changes in officials will be made, for it is the understanding that the present officers are to be retained until final payment is made.

Is is rumored that further payment on the option for the control of the Union is likely also to be made at the time of the meeting, although nothing definite has been divulged in this regard.

The option for the control involves $1,000,000 of which $500,000 was paid early in December. Further payments were announced to be made at the rate of $100,000 a month beginning with April, until the matter is closed. There seemed reason to believe at the time of this announcement that the deal for the option would be consummated before that time, however.

De Sabla is understoood to be the possessor of personal stock in the Union companies, and is said to have indicated his desire of becoming a director.

INSPECT HARBOR.

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 11.—The Harbor Investigating Committee appointed from the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand recently appointed by Chairman Bradner W. Lee arrived here this morning on its first trip of inspection of the harbor district. The visitors included Oscar C. Mueller, chairman, and H. S. McCallum, Col. J. S. Polk, W. G. Thorpe and Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, members. The purpose of the visit was to enable the members of the committee to familiarize themselves with the harbor situation in a general way.

Upon arrival the visitors were taken in charge by John T. Gaffey, Capt. Louis Hansen and a committee from the local Chamber of Commerce. A launch was provided and the visitors made a thorough inspection of the development work completed and under way in both the river and outer harbors and at Wilmington.

THREW DIAMONDS INTO THE SEA.

SAN FRANCISCO WOMAN DISPLAYS SOME PETULANCE.

While Dining at Ship Cafe in Venice the Comparative Merit of Northern and Southern Climate Was Raised, and While Angry the Jewels Were Tossed Overboard.

VENICE, Jan. 11.—From a window in the Ship Cafe tonight, Mrs. Charles J. Jepson of San Francisco, threw into the sea three diamond rings and a pearl brooch, said by her husband, who later employed divers to locate the gems, to be worth $1600. It was explained by Jepson that he and his wife had a little misunderstanding while dining with two friends, and Mrs. Jepson became angry, said she "would have nothing on her that belonged to him," and, stripping her fingers and throat of sparkling gems, heaved them into the Pacific.

Jepson hurried outside, and engaged two boys who said they were Avalon divers to go after the gems. They made many excursions into the chilly waters, but, although the water was not very deep, they failed to recover the jewelry. Jepson announced that he would wait until low tide tomorrow and then make another effort to recover the gems.

The San Francisean talked quite freely of his marital troubles. He stated that he lived at an apartment-house on Franklin and Eddy streets, San Francisco, owning a half interest in it. Mrs. Jepson, he stated, was a Los Angeles girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Shanklin, and, after her marriage to him two years ago, could not stand the San Francisco climate. Jepson teased her about the cold snap here during the past week and she had been angry ever since. Jepson stated that it was not the value of the jewelry, but the associations connected with it that made him hire divers to try and recover the rings and brooch. Mrs. Jepson made no effort to help her husband, stating that she hoped he would never find them.

CHARTER MEETING.

As a result of a joint meeting of the Charter Revision Committee and the members of the City Council, as a committee of the whole, tonight at the City Hall, an election will be called by the Council at its meeting next Monday. At this election the people will be expected to declare whether they desire the present charter changed. A varying sentiment among the Council members as to whether the people desired a new charter necessitated the action. At the meeting many regretted the apathy of the people regarding the conduct of the city and needed changes in its government.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Agent Johnson of a local express company a few weeks ago received a small alligator, shipped him by a friend in Florida. The 'gator occupied a small tank in the back yard. Monday morning the animal was found frozen solid in a sheet of ice at the top of its tank, and, although Johnson thawed away the ice, the alligator was to all appearances dead, and he threw the reptile out into the tank again. But today, after three days of stupor, the alligator was found waddling around the tank, the rays of Old Sol having warmed him into life.

The Tufts-Lyon baseball club will play the Santa Monica nine on the Southern Pacific diamond tomorrow afternoon. Roy Hitt of the Vernon team will play with the visitors, while Andrade will pitch for Santa Monica. A good game is looked for.

City Attorney Byron Hanna and City Recorder W. A. Rennie, who are now in Sacramento, have been telegraphed by the various interests in Venice to do all in their power to block the passage of the proposed bill to close saloons on Sunday throughout the State. The cafe men are panic-stricken over the probability of the bill passing. They say that it would kill Venice, which depends on its Sunday trade. A delegation of Venetians will probably go north to reinforce the two city officials and make a determined stand against the bill.

H. S. Smith, who lives at No. 31 Breeze avenue, bought one of the new-fangled oiled mops, and, after he had demonstrated to his wife the utility of the thing by mopping up the floors, he shut it up in a closet this morning. There was an explosion soon afterward, and the fire department was called to extinguish a fire that had gained considerable headway. Spontaneous combustion had been caused by the mop.

Announcement was made by one of the local papers yesterday that R. A. Phillips had vacated his handsome Clubhouse-avenue home and had taken up quarters in the Hotel St. Marks. Last night or this morning thieves broke into the house and created disorder in looking for articles of value. The family silver was untouched, and nothing of much value was taken.

A Business Education
Every Young Man—Every Young Woman
Should have a good business education.
There are some distinctive features connected with the ISAAC WOODBURY BUSINESS COLLEGE that appeal very strongly to the student and to the business man.
January Enrollment Still Active
You can begin now, if ready—or any time. The first of the new year does seem to be a good time to start.
You will find this a very business-like school, and a pleasant, agreeable place to study and work. We are 100 feet above the street noise and dust—plenty of room and splendid light.
In schools, as in every other department of activity, there is OUT DATE—and we modestly claim that distinction. We have been leaders since 1858. Competent, well-trained teachers—correct business courses.
All persons interested in a business education, either for themselves or for a son, daughter or friend, should secure a copy of our new catalogue and acquaint themselves with the best business methods and courses of study.
This catalogue is mailed free on request, or a copy can be procured by application at the office.

SHORTHAND IN ONE HOUR—
If you have average intelligence, we guarantee to make you an expert stenographer in forty days, with Mrs. Lena A. White's wonderful Human Voice Shorthand System, accurate touch typewriting and expert training in English.
Thousands of students have memorized this marvelously simple Human Voice Shorthand System in One Hour, and become competent stenographers in forty days, being then capable of commanding the highest salaries paid to stenographers in any capacity.
Seven thousand Human Voice Shorthand graduates, now holding the best paying stenographic positions in Chicago, became expert stenographers under Mrs. White's instruction in forty days after enrollment in her Chicago school.
For information, demonstration and testimonials, call at the Human Voice Shorthand School, 317 So. Hill Street, where the author of this wonderful Human Voice Shorthand System, Mrs. Lena A. White, the world's most successful shorthand teacher, shall be pleased to receive you.
All progressive clergymen, educators, professional people and shorthand writers are respectfully invited to investigate Mrs. Lena A. White's phenomenally successful methods in mind training.

Have You as Many Teeth as You Need? Answer Me Personally

YOU SAID: If I could get these unsightly vacancies in my jaw filled with teeth that would feel and look like my own once did. Oh, how I would enjoy chewing a good, thick steak instead of compelling my stomach to do the work intended for teeth. And you said (as you looked into my mouth): I want teeth that will return my mouth to its once natural appearance. I don't want my mouth to be older than the balance of my face. I want a pleasing, attractive expression about my mouth, so my friends will think me good to look at. Furthermore, I want them comfortable and durable, and the work must be done gently and without pain.

SAY, DOCTOR, LISTEN TO WHAT I SAY: I'll agree to every one of your demands if you will put on twenty-eight (a full set) teeth equal in every respect to nature's best. And here is price—Can't you afford to take the time to come in for my estimate, together with expert advice, free, as to the best method of putting your mouth in sanitary condition? Get busy.

EDDIE "NOT GUILTY" IS JURY'S VERDICT.

Takes Nearly Five Hours' Deliberation to Reach an Agreement.

Doubt on Part of Two Men Shown by the Preliminary Ballot—Friends Say Mayor Will Be Asked to Reinstate Him as City Prosecutor and Censor of the Public Morals of Los Angeles.

A JURY in Department Eleven of the Superior Court, Judge Fred V. Wood presiding, returned a verdict of "not guilty" at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the criminal case against Guy Eddie, suspended City Prosecutor, wherein he was charged with having contributed to the delinquency of Alice Phelps, a minor female.

The case went to the jury about 11 a.m., following the closing argument of Deputy District Attorney Blair and the instructions given by the judge. At noon the jurymen, in charge of bailiffs, took luncheon at the Hollenbeck and returned to further deliberate.

The members of the jury declined to discuss their verdict, but one declared that the preliminary ballot stood ten to two for acquittal. The jurymen declined to state who were the two doubtful ones.

Judge Wood was about to summon the panel before him to inquire what was halting the members in arriving at a verdict, when the electric bell at the clerk's desk began to ring. Bailiff Aguirre hastened to unlock the door leading to the juryroom.

MOTHER-IN-LAW FAINTS.

Eddie sat composed, but under high nervous strain. He scanned the faces of the jurors. As soon as the foreman announced the verdict of acquittal, Eddie embraced his wife, who sat beside him. Mrs. Parks, his mother-in-law, fainted under the excitement.

Judge Wood thanked the jurors for their performance of the duty entrusted to them and also complimented the lawyers on each side for their courteous demeanor in court and their method of trying the issues.

As the defendant was not under bonds, no further formality was required. He left the courtroom with his chief counsel, Rogers.

Eddie was congratulated by his counsel and by a few friends who were in the courtroom during all of yesterday's session. But most of the spectators were drawn to Department Eleven from idle curiosity. They tried to crowd in at the last minute, but were kept in line by Deputy Sheriff Johnson.

There is no other charge pending against the suspended City Prosecutor. In the Alma Jones case, Judge Wilbur held at the preliminary examination that the evidence did not warrant a trial. The District Attorney will not take any action based on affidavits in his possession.

BACK TO THE JOB?

Eddie declined to discuss his acquittal. He would not state what action if any he will take toward reinstatement as City Prosecutor and moral censor. His friends said that the Mayor will be asked to restore Eddie to the position he occupied October 2, when his private office was entered by Humane Officer McLaughlin and others. It is not believed the Mayor will accede to the request.

Deputy District Attorney Blair, who began his address to the jury late Friday afternoon, resumed his argument at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Though suffering from severe hoarseness, the prosecutor made a strong talk, outlining the evidence for the State and attempting to show the weak spots in the defense.

The charge of Judge Wood was regarded by the lawyers present as fair to each side. He included a noteworthy paragraph upon the duty of juries in general that the court attaches declared to be one of the best commentaries on jury service they had ever heard.

When the jury retired at 11 o'clock there were numerous predictions on the length of time required to reach a verdict. The judge remained in his chambers all the session, waiting. some of the lawyers for the defense also remained in the courtroom until the final result was reached.

The jurors were Charles E. Bristow, Sylvanus Chamberlain, William Hudson, Frank Coulon, W. H. Cole, James W. Heath, W. H. Carpenter, T. A. Shafer, C. H. Ainley, F. H. Baldwin.

NO MORE DELAY HERE.

Darrow Trial Positively Coming Up Week from Tomorrow, Says the District Attorney.

Representatives of the District Attorney's office declared yesterday that the Darrow trial will positively begin the 20th inst., in one of the extra session departments of the Superior Court. It is believed that Judge William A. Conley of Madera county will hear the case, but the name of the trial judge has not be definitely announced. Presiding Judge Willis has the assigning of cases. It is possible he will try the case himself.

Earl Rogers said yesterday that he had not determined the question of appearing for Darrow because the condition of his health makes it imperative that he take a long rest. His physicians have ordered him to relinquish practice for some time.

Capt. Fredericks will have charge of the prosecution, assisted by former Judge Wheaton R. Gray, Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford and Deputy District Attorney Keetch.

Though the first trial of the alleged jury briber consumed more than four months, with a competent judge on the bench, it is believed the second will not take more than half that time.

HIDDEN DICTOGRAPH STIRS DIRECTORATE

SENSATIONAL developments, bringing to light the secret use of a dictograph in the private office of Vice-President and General Manager Maynard Gunsul of the Funding Company of California, arose yesterday afternoon in a stormy session of the directorate in the suite of the $2,500,000 corporation in the Union Oil building. As a result of the disclosures, General Counsel Frank C. Hill, one of the original incorporators, was ousted from office. So tense was the feeling engendered during the meeting that personal encounters between stockholders and directors of opposing factions were narrowly averted.

News of the impending clash had been noised among the stockholders of the company and the offices and anterooms were crowded. Hill was charged before the board with having placed a dictograph beneath the desk of the general manager in such Summed Up.

CLEAR PRESENTATION BY BLAIR TO JURY.

IN CLOSING his address to the jury yesterday morning Deputy District Attorney Blair said:

"Review this testimony, gentlemen of the jury, and render a verdict of guilty in this case, if you find from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt that he is guilty, and that you must so find surely appears. For surely we have proven beyond a reasonable doubt every essential and material allegation against him.

"Ah, gentlemen of the jury, no man is above the law, and I will not consider the possibility of Eddie's acquittal. I will not believe that any legitimate influence that may have been invoked will enter the juryroom and induce any one of you twelve honorable gentlemen to so flutter with their conscience and disregard their oaths as to send this moral leper out unleashed of justice, and make of Los Angeles a by-word and a hissing, so that every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished and wag his head.

"It is not the personality alone of Guy Eddie that is on trial, not alone the acts of the hypocrite that are on trial.

"It is the decency, the fair name, the prosperity, the very virtue of our city that appeals to us for vindication! For these reasons we ask for a conviction."

CONCLUDING ARGUMENT.

Blair's argument, continued from Friday night, was in the main as follows:

There is another preposterous thing in this case, that the officers in seeking to detect crime, should leave their work undone; that they should bore holes in the doors for the purpose of observing, and yet not make them satisfactory for the same. That disposes of the question as to whether or not the holes they made in that door originally, were sufficient, all of which, as we shall see later on, were puttied up two or three times after they made these holes in the door.

Do you suppose, gentlemen of the Jury, that these men would have left these holes insufficient to have taken a sweeping view of all of that room, of all the desks, and the wall on either side and the desk to the north? Never. They would never have left their work undone.

There is another thing, if these girls had keys to this office and where there was a hubbub raised, why did they not unlock the door? Why were those seven Yale keys out and the doors still locked upon the inside? Why did this defendant give keys out unless it was preparing for just such an emergency as this, to try to make it appear that everybody had keys, and that this would not happen?

Oh, I say to you, gentlemen, as the chief prosecutor, nobody could enter that office without rapping at the door. Do you suppose this man, having all kinds of people and women visiting him, as Mrs. Phelps did, could walk into that office without some alarm at the door? Do you suppose anybody could get into the sanctum sanctorum? Not one minute.

WHY DIDN'T HE CENSOR?

Mr. Works, yesterday, talked about

Salient Points.

JUDGE'S INSTRUCTIONS PLAIN AND DIRECT.

JUDGE WOOD'S instructions to the jury were clear and direct. The salient points follow:

You are the sole judges of the effect or value of the evidence addressed to you.

Your power, however, of judging the effect of evidence is not arbitrary, but is to be exercised with legal discretion and in subordination to the rules of evidence.

You are not bound to decide in conformity with the declaration of any number of witnesses, which do not produce conviction in your minds against a less number or against a presumption of law or other evidence that satisfies your minds. In other words, it is not the greater number of witnesses that should control you where their testimony is not satisfactory to your minds, against a less number whose testimony does satisfy your minds and produces moral convictions that they are telling the truth. It is upon the quality of the testimony rather than the quantity or the number of witnesses that you should act.

Evidence of the oral admissions of a party ought to be viewed by the jury with caution.

If any witness examined before you has wilfully sworn falsely as to any material matter it is your duty to distrust his or her entire evidence, and you have the right to reject the whole of the testimony of such witness, if any, which is not shown by other evidence in the case to be true.

A witness is presumed to speak the truth. This presumption, however, may be repelled by the manner in which he or she testifies, by the character of his or her testimony, or by evidence affecting his or her character for truth, honesty or integrity, or his or her motives, or by contradictory evidence and the jury are the exclusive judges of his or her credibility. A witness may also be impeached by evidence that he or she has made at other times statements inconsistent with his or her present testimony.

In your deliberations to determine whether any witness for the prosecution is or is not an accomplice, you are not called upon to ascertain whether or not the conduct of the witness Alice Phelps has been criminal.

Our Statue of Liberty.

TO WELCOME AND WARN BIG LIGHT TO SHINE.

WITH the coming of the ides of March, Uncle Sam will adjust a new glass eye through which to twinkle a warm welcome and a powerful warning to the men who go down to the sea in ships. Early in the month of Presidents, the paternal guardian of rocky coasts will set a brand new lamp in a freshly-cut window, looking out over the front porch of the United States — the Pacific Ocean; a blazing beacon of promise, splendidly housed in a cage of steel and glass built upon the very tip end of that monument of masonry dedicated by the same paternal force to the port that is and is to be—the Los Angeles Harbor breakwater.

Yesterday when a chuggy little gasoline mystery, yclept the Dorothy, deposited it [illegible] that monumental pile of rocks, Robert R. Grunau, the tender of the beacon lights and the man who has nursed them into activity every night for eleven years, stopped long enough from his labor of installation to look at the invaders just a little askance. He eyed the camera man as though quite certain he was a spy fresh from the Mikado's court to record upon his plates the innermost secrets of the new lighthouse.

But "Dad" Grunau was speedily reassured when he found that the visting detachment spoke water-front English, and before the visit ended he talked of the vigil of the night and the day, and consented to be "took," trusty corn-cob in place, ready to perform his and its duties whether the sea be rough or smooth. Grunau is almost as much of a fixture in San Pedro as the beacon lights themselves and, although he is not as young as he once was, he expects to be "on the job" when the ships of the world gracefully round the breakwater and dock within the calm safety of the harbor that will be.

ONE OF THE BEST.

Charles Sperry, superintendent of construction and the man who makes the wheels go 'round, was found inside the structure soothing a twenty-two-horse power gas engine to sleep upon its concrete bed. Sperry said that he was busy, and he was, but he knocked off for a little while in honor of the occasion, and personally conducted his uninvited guests on a tour of the new structure, which is said to be one of the most complete and pera way as to keep himself conversant with all that transpired in the office. To this charge Hill interposed no denial but contended that he was justified in his action by events which aroused his suspicions. He then sought to state his position to the board of which he was a member, calling attention to alleged irregularities, but was cut off by the board voting to adjourn while he was still talking.

The summary action taken by the directorate yesterday was almost identical with that taken by the same body Wednesday of last week when H. C. Williams, at that time vice-president and general manager of the strong company, was ousted in a like manner.

MAY RETALIATE.

The developments of the past week, wherein two important officers of the corporation have lost their official heads, is the outgrowth of animosity that has been smoldering for three months, according to officials of the company. Disputes over the policy to be pursued in certain cases have been so numerous as to make it almost if not quite inevitable that a climax would be reached shortly. The earning capacity of the corporation and its enviable standing in the financial world is such as to make connection with it very desirable, and the deposed officers say they have no intention of submitting quietly to the action of the six directors who voted against them.

being a drama, the drama that k place. The picture on the stage. y didn't the defendant censor that y?

Mrs. Phelps has told us in the rec- . by her evidence on the stand. y she went to see Eddie. What the purpose of her going up re? Just as she has stated, for purpose of getting employment bettering her condition and mak- life easier by getting more pay, entering the employ of this defen- t. (Quoting testimony.)

Doesn't he then admit in his own timony that that is what he was ting with Mrs. Phelps about? The y thing we contend for, the reason her visiting him in his office, was get a job, and he says so himself. e thing upon his mind was this ng about getting evidence against houses of prostitution. And on of three places in this testimony does so state her reasons for go- to his office, and those are the rea- s.

Mr. Works also elaborated upon guns that were present. Nobody ified to guns, in the plural, ex- t Eddie. There was only one gun, that was in the hand of Lloyd. Nobody else presented any guns. It only Eddie's testimony.

Mr. Rogers yesterday said, if I un- rstand him rightly, in his argument, at if she had a guardian, or if one d a guardian they cannot be a pendent, whereas in truth and in t the court will give you an in- uction to show you just to the con- ary. Any person under 21 years of e, not being an inmate of a public stitution, may be a dependent, under rtain conditions, guardian or no ardian. And section 26 of the Ju- nile Court Act makes it a penalty r the guardian or any other person contribute to the dependency. Mr. gery spoke to you yesterday about e badger game in San Francisco. w, that was very picturesque but, ntlemen of the jury, did you notice t in what he said yesterday there s a motive for the badger game, -called. What does that mean? Ex- rtion under threat to expose. Ex- rtion under threat to expose the akness or frailty of another but the other there was gain, money, in that stance related by Mr. Rogers yes- rday. Do you find any motive in is case, monetary or otherwise? Is ere any money as a motive for the Boone arresting this defendant? If ere is, it hasn't been shown in the idence in this case, and there was ough of opportunity, if they had any idence, to have shown it, or brought out on cross-examination, if it was ue, all of which doesn't appear in e case.

Did counsel produce any evidence in is case on direct evidence or by ross-examination of the people's wit- sses or otherwise, showing any po- tical motive? If there was no mone- ry motive, did they show in any of eir evidence or on cross-examina- on of the People's witnesses any po- tical motive? There is absolutely no idence in this case of any motive whatsoever for the officers in this se to bring this defendant to the r of justice.

IN HIS PLACE.

Gentlemen of the jury, they talked bout putting yourselves in his place. ut yourselves in his place and they row dust in your eyes by such lan- uage, and I resent it—I resent it. For you were in that office of Guy Ed- e's with Mr. Gardner just at your ft hand, Mr. Nimmo in the next of- e, and with your help in the offices the west, and in the offices west of hat, and the two courts, one on either de of the hall, if you had been sur- ounded by your friends on that oc- asion, and they had broken in your oor, you would have given one yell, nd you would have had your assist- nts coming in to your assistance. hat is what you would have done. He didn't do it. Why? Because he was aught in the commission of a crime. hat is what you would have done, or would have done.

I don't want counsel to talk any more about putting yourselves in his place. If they say that to me, "put yourself in his place," well, I will say, if men broke into my room and my assistants were on either hand, I would just give one yell for them to come in and assist me." Just one yell would have brought them all.

Counsel yesterday spoke about your boy who might get into trouble. Well, gentlemen of the jury, it is true hat our boys—and I have a boy, and am watching his life very closely, trying to train it like I would a tree in my garden, I am trying to see that he goes the straight and narrow path, and that he doesn't open the gate and rush out into the stream and over the falls without warnings on my part. Yes, I have a boy growing up hat I am watching, and I am fearful and apprehensive, it is true. This Ju- venile Court Act takes in boys as well as girls; it takes in married men as well as married women, under 21 year of age; it embraces them all.

Well, now, boys are arrested every day, and are hailed before the Ju- venile Court for violations of law, and so if your boy should get into some trouble of that sort it is true he would have to stand the consequences, but at all say to you, gentlemen of the jury, that if a man such as the de- fendant in this case has shown him- self to be, solicits these women, and in this event to have sexual relations because of the whip hand he holds over them, or because of the induce- ments by giving them employment as the reason for his solicitations, and their yielding on their part to the solicitations, is a thing that must be condemned to protect your boy and mine.

COOL AS WEBSTER.

What has the demeanor of a de- fendant charged with crime got to do with you, gentlemen, finding your verdict? Nothing. The defendant took the stand. He was cool, he wa calm, but he was no more nor less cool and calm than was the man Web- ster, of whom I spoke at the begin- ning of my address, whose trial took place in Boston, in 1850.

While Dr. Nathan C. Keep, a dentist, was a witness, as the dentist in that Webster case, who made the teeth for Dr. Parkman, which were found in the furnace at Cambridge, or, I should say, the Boston Medical College in Boston.

While Dr. Nathan C. Keep was identifying these teeth of Dr. Park- man that were found in the furnace, identifying them before the jury, on account of the great work he had done in the peculiarly-formed lower jaw, Dr. Keep became so agitated, he, for a time, could not proceed and it is recorded in the annals and rec- ords of that trial, that during the time that Dr. Keep was so agitated the defendant exhibited no signs of emo- tion whatever. When he was con- demned by the jury and found guilty, Dr. Webster and his friends sought the clemency of the Chief Executive, and he urged and reiterated his in- nocence before the Governor, backed up by his clerical friends in the city of Boston, so that the executive pow- er for a time was nonplussed as to whether Webster was really innocent or guilty, but the Governor refused to commute, and refused to pardon, and the time for execution was ap- proached, and as it approached and Dr. Webster saw that the inevitable lay before him, confessed his crime before the world, and said to the Chief Executive that he had mis- stated previously on his application for pardon, and on his confession of his guilt met his fate. But up to the time of that confession, so stolid was his demeanor, so calm was his aspect, that the Governor and his col- leagues and his friends and others alike questioned as to his guilt, but when the confession came at last, there was no doubt, all of it was re- moved. But it shows you defendants under trial can so grip themselves as to present a demeanor, sometimes, so as to deceive the very elect.

Ah! Gentlemen, let not the poet's words: 'Plate sin with gold, and the strong lance of justice hurtless breaks; arm it in rags, a pigmy's straw doth pierce it,' avail in this case.

Now, I am going to leave this case with you. Do not let the position of this defendant interfere with your sense of justice. Do not let the fact that he has been City Prosecutor of the city of Los Angeles stand in the way of meting justice out to him. Do not let any friends or any influences from any side whatsoever sway your judgment.

BELL HOPS PLAN HOP.

Will Give Benefit Ball in March for Sick Companions—Former Worker, Now Rich, Helping.

"The bell-hops' ball," one of the social events of the winter season, will outclass the famous annual ball of "Bath House John" in Chicago, ac- cording to the young men who are en- gineering it. They expect to realize enough to take care of several Los Angeles bellboys who are unable to work.

One of the promoters of the dance, which is to be a French masquerade, at the Goldberg-Bosley Hall about March 15, is Nat Silverman, who a year ago fell heir to a fortune of more than $100,000. He returned to the Alexandria several days ago and with old friends of the bench dis- cussed plans for bringing relief to some of the more unfortunate boys.

A preliminary organization was ef- fected last night at a dinner given at Casa Verdugo by Silverman. Joe Klein was elected president; J. Du- gan, secretary; Nat Silverman, treas- urer. On the board of directors are Jack Border, Jim Harrison and S. Percy.

"We have the assurance of a num- ber of society people of Los Angeles, some of the actors and many out-of- town residents that they are willing to go the limit in this matter," said Klein.

"We expect to make this an annual event, the same as they have in New York and Chicago, where they are al- ways successful. The proceeds will be placed in one of the banks to be used for the support of some of the boys who get sick and have no one to depend on."

VOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY.

Arthur B. Tuttle, street superin- tended at Corona, filed a petition of bankruptcy in the United States Dis- trict Court yesterday. The liabilities are scheduled at $17,126.17, and the assets at $20,838.09. Joseph M. Fletcher, a merchant tailor doing business at No. 534 South Spring street, also filed a petition in bank- ruptcy. His liabilities are given at $11,042.07, and his assets at $21,000, of which $18,500 is reclaimed to be exempt.

TRAP SPRUNG IN TWO-YEAR WAIT.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL PROMOTERS UNDER INDICTMENT.

Officers Allege Accused Cleaned Up Third of Million in Locating Homesteaders in Chuckawalla Valley—Land Not What It's Cracked Up to Be, Say Inspectors.

The Federal grand jury landed a body blow on alleged fake real estate promoters yesterday, in two indict- ments returned to the United States District Court. F. List McMechin and A. B. Huth, who, according to state- ments of the Federal officers, have been within the last two years run- ning excursions to the famous Chuck- awalla Valley and locating prospective land buyers on land that when de- scribed by metes and bounds were found to be either in the blue sky or in a wash that could only be reached by means of a ladder, were indicted for fraud.

The specific charge is that they lo- cated Laura A. Yale in 1911 on land that did not at all correspond with the description given by the defend- ants. The local officers, headed by Gratz Helm, chief of the field division, have been working for two years to secure testimony against these men convincing enough upon which to rest an indictment. Helm says that it is his information that the defendants have cleared over $200,000 in locating people in the Chukawalla Valley, but until now none of the alleged victims were game enough to go after them.

Indictments were also returned against Bela C. Chatt and George Scherman, for conspiracy, in connec- tion with the homestead entry of Ru- fus H. Shattuck, in the Antelope Val- ley. The pair were arrested a year ago, and are now at liberty under bond following a preliminary exam- ination before United States Commis- sioner Van Dyke.

It is alleged that on November 25, 1911, they induced August C. Maurer, to file a false affidavit on an "appli- cation to contest" in the local land office, to oust Shattuck from his land on the ground that he had not done the necessary work under the home- stead laws. The indictment is brought under the law that prohibits one from depriving another of his rights under the Constitution. Shattuck had filed his homestead entry as provided by law and perfected his rights so far as he had gone by making necessary im- provements at the rate of one dollar an acre. It is alleged that Maurer was secured to make the contest that had nothing to stand upon.

Chatt and Scherman up to the time of their arrest a year ago were exten- sive operators in the Antelope Valley.

The industrial department of the city's educational system, already con- sidered one of the most complete in America, will be further extended along practical lines, say men who are guiding the destinies of local schools.

Los Angeles was a pioneer in in- corporating industrial and vocational features in the general educative plan, and has continued a leader in the movement.

"We may differ among ourselves on minor details now and then," said H. W. Frank, president of the Board of Education, yesterday, "but on the ad- visability of adopting the latest real- ly practical, and not purely theoreti- cal ideas in industrial education our members are unanimous."

One of the "minor details" is the vocational bureau conducted for the purpose of securing employment for high school students, both before and after graduation. There is a differ- ence of opinion on this:

"Industrial education is a good thing, but I hardly feel like indorsing this employment bureau," said J. M. Guinn, then president of the board, at a recent meeting. "When my son wanted a job he went out and hunt- ed for it; and met with success in his quest. He was the better for the ex- perience. Teach the boys to be inde- pendent. It will do them good to look out for themselves. There is danger in dependence."

LOOKING ELSEWHERE.

The local support given industrial education makes the steps taken in the work by other places of interest. Germany leads the world in industrial education. In one of its smaller prov- inces, Wurttemberg, which has a total population five times that of Los An- geles, there are 250 industrial schools besides a splendid system of elemen- tary and secondary schools.

This fact, and others in the same connection, is brought out in a report of the Wisconsin commission on plans for the extension of industrial and agricultural training, which is being given wide distribution by the Na- tional Bureau of Education at Wash- ington as one of the best outlines and analyses of the German plan so far written. Statistics show that the Germans are going into the commer- cial markets and undersselling Ameri- can concerns. German sales in the United States have increased nearly 100 per cent. since 1900, and a big increase is noted from the same source in other countries.

The report, however, does not rec- ommend that German methods be copied in the United States.

"We cannot apply German methods to our work," it reads. "What ap- pears to the German as being super- ficial in our education is sometimes the basis of that quickness of com- prehension, that intuitive insight and readiness, which cannot be replaced by the tremendous care and ponder- ousness of certain German methods. We must not forget that people differ in temperament. The psychology and general make-up of the people and the physical character- istics of the country must be taken into account. We must build on what we already have and add to it from the best of all other lands."

HEAVY INVESTMENT.

The investigators were astonished at Germany's heavy investment in in- dustrial education. Nearly every tiny village has at least one industrial school and often in small cities sev- eral are found. In Hanau, for ex- ample, a place of perhaps 30,000 pop- ulation, there are five industrial or commercial schools, including an in- dustrial art school, and also what is practically a mechanical engineering school. The equipment in some in- stances is complete and costly, but in many it is simple.

It was learned that almost without exception there is in Germany a cer- tain correlation between the indus- trial conditions in the cities or towns in which these schools exist and the industrial schools. In fact, it is said that the inevitable tendency of industrial schools was to be- come theoretical and to turn out theo- rists, rather than practical students and to turn out men of use in building up the industrial resources and com- mercial prosperity of the country.

THEORY THEORETICAL.

After a severe trial, reaching over a period of years, it was found in Germany that the inevitable tendency of industrial schools was to be- come theoretical and to turn out theo- rists, rather than practical students and to turn out men of use in building up the industrial resources and com- mercial prosperity of the country.

Public Service; City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Playground Commission announced yesterday that plans are being matured for extensive improvements at each playground, including beautifying of grounds, new buildings, and additions to clubhouses.

The City Attorney advised the City Auditor yesterday that the latter must decide whether Councilman Topham is indebted to the city for his failure to respond to the subpoena issued by the Civil Service Commission. He said in his opinion the question should be answered affirmatively.

The Board of Public Works yesterday awarded to the Pacific Electric Railway Company the contract for constructing the municipal railroad between Aliso and Ninth streets on San Pedro street. The Council has not appropriated the funds necessary.

At the City Hall.

WILL BEAUTIFY PLAYGROUNDS.

BETTERMENTS TO INCLUDE PARKINGS AND BUILDINGS.

Commission Has in Hand Plans for Extensive Improvements at Public Recreation Centers During the Present Fiscal Year—Exposition Park a Popular Place.

A campaign of extensive betterments is to be made at all the public playgrounds during the remainder of this fiscal year. This is to include parkings, with a generous use of lawn space, additions to several club buildings, and a new field building at Exposition Park.

Plans are now in course of operations by Hunt & Burns. The field building at Exposition Park Athletic Field will be 40x80 feet, bungalow type. It will contain offices, lockers, showers, dressing-rooms, storage-rooms and quarters for indoor athletic work during rainy seasons.

Seven acres of lawn has been planted at Exposition Park and it is making a transformation in the general appearance there. The field apparatus on the athletic grounds is being placed, and the athletic field is steadily growing in popularity, being in demand several times each week by athletic teams from various schools or societies.

Extensions are to be made to the clubhouses at the Violet-street playgrounds, to the field house at the Hazard-street grounds, and to the girls' clubhouse at Echo Park playgrounds.

Creation of parkings and ornamental gardens will begin at once at every playground in the city.

The Playground Commission experienced much difficulty in securing superintendents to take the places of Mrs. Maud Hammond and Charles B. Miller, who resigned to become athletic superintendents in the city schools. An examination for candidates for these positions will be held this month by the Civil Service Commission.

AUDITOR TO DECIDE.

MUST TOPHAM PAY CITY?

The City Attorney sent to City Auditor Myers yesterday his opinion on the principal questions of law involved in the controversy over the Civil Service Commission's position that Councilman Topham has become indebted to the city in the sum of $300 for failing to respond to three subpoenas served upon him to appear before its recent investigation of charges against its methods of examining candidates for municipal positions.

The questions directly involved were whether the investigation was a proper matter to be undertaken by the commission; whether the subpoena was regularly issue and served; whether Topham did become indebted to the city upon his failure to obey the subpoena, and whether the city may recover the money in any manner except by civil action.

After thoroughly reviewing the provisions of the city charter on these phases, City Attorney Shenk holds: "In my opinion these four questions should be answered in the affirmative."

In this opinion, however, the City Attorney states:

"Some one, however, must determine the fact of such indebtedness. In my judgment it is your function to determine in the first instance whether or not an officer of the city is indebted to the city . . . but you you are satisfied that the statements of fact recited in said resolution are true, I am of the opinion that it is your duty, pursuant to charter provisions, to withhold the amount of indebtedness so created from the amount of any demand on the city treasury in favor of Mr. Topham."

Topham declares that he will take the position that he should be given a trial to determine whether the allegations as to the alleged indebtedness are true, and that he may bring mandamus proceedings to compel the payment of his salary as Councilman unless this hearing is accorded.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

FOR "RELIEF" RAILWAY.

The Board of Public Works yesterday formally awarded to the Pacific Electric Railway Company the contract for constructing the city's "relief" line on San Pedro street, from Aliso to Ninth streets. The contract price is $246,575, but if the work can be done for less the president of the Pacific Electric has agreed that the city shall have the benefit, as the company does not desire to make a profit out of the transaction.

The city is to pay the contractor $16,000 upon the completion of the line, and the balance before December 31.

Although the City Council at Friday's session recommended that the Board of Public Works award the contract, members of the board hesitated yesterday morning when it was discovered that no appropriation has been made by the Council.

City Property Stolen.

The fences and outbuildings on lot 18 of Timms Point, recently acquired by the city through condemnation proceedings, have been stolen and carried away bodily. The Board of Public Works authorized the Inspector of Public Works to turn over to the City Prosecutor such evidence as he possesses in regard to the thefts and instructed the City Prosecutor to start prosecutions.

The board also issued notice to the Inspector of Public Works to notify owners of buildings on the land at Wilmington that is to be filled by dredgings from the harbor channel to remove their buildings immediately.

Asks for More Time.

The Pacific Electric has asked the Board of Public Works to grant it an extension of sixty days within which to complete its street work on Hill street, between First and Temple, laying its inability to do the work within the original time limit to the city's obstructions in constructing the new Hill-street tunnel.

GYPSY SLAVE OR ADOPTED CHILD?

SERVIAN DENIES PURCHASE OF LITTLE GIRL.

Shows Passport and Papers and Tells of Having Legally Taken Her as Foster Daughter from Montana Orphanage—Telegram Says No Court Record.

John Gychi, foster father of Alice Mitchell, who alleges she was sold as a small child to Gypsies by a Montana orphanage, went to the Juvenile Court yesterday with his counsel, Attorney Winn, to learn how the court intended to dispose of the girl.

Gychi says he is a Servian, and produced a passport from the Servian government. He asserts he adopted Alice under the name of Mary, when she was 3 years of age, taking her from St. Joseph's Orphanage at Helena. He showed copies of various documents.

Judge Wilbur received a telegram from Helena, yesterday, asking for information about the girl. The sender said the Helena papers had a sensational story, but that there is no mention of the girl in the court records. Alice will probably be taken before the Juvenile Court tomorrow charged with being a dependent child. Gychi says he will ask for her custody on the ground that she is his legally adopted daughter.

WANTS MONEY BACK.

DIVORCED HUSBAND'S SUIT.

An echo of the divorce suit of Mrs. Kate E. Newell, tried November, 15, inst, the court granting Mrs. Newell decree, is the suit filed yesterday by her husband, W. D. Newell, a plumber, who alleges she is indebted to him for $1802.57 for money paid out and expended for her at her request.

Newell asserts there was a settlement of property interests in writing, April 28, 1911, under the terms of which Mrs. Newell agreed to pay the bills that had been contracted by her. He lists in the complaint bills contracted with various firms and physicians, aggregating $1216.07. Action was commenced against Newell in the justice court on these accounts, and judgment was given against him entailing court costs which he includes in the judgment he asks.

NO MIND READER.

WITNESS STUMPS REPORTER.

A court reporter may be able to write as rapidly as a witness talks, but when the witness nods his head in reply to a question only a court reporter with eyes in the top of his head could tell whether the answer was "yes" or "no."

Edwin U. Williams, reporter in Department Ten, asked a woman several times yesterday what her answer was. Finally, his patience exhausted, he asked:

"What was the answer?"

"I nodded yes," replied the witness.

"I heard your head rattle," retorted Williams, "but I couldn't tell whether it was up and down or sideways."

OLD-TIME POLICY.

SON SUES AS HEIR.

A $1000 policy of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, taken January 30, 1868, by Julia A. Darling, an artist of Springfield, Ill., figures in a suit filed yesterday by her son, Charles B. M. Darling, to recover the face value and dividends. Darling asserts he is the only living heir of his mother.

At the offices of the company in the Title Insurance Building it was said yesterday the claim has been forwarded to the eastern headquarters and that it will be paid if Darling establishes his right to the policy.

IS HE BLACK-HANDER?

Federal Grand Jury Takes a Chance That He Is and Returns Indictment Against Italian.

The Federal grand jury returned an indictment yesterday against Jack Cusamano, an Italian beet-sugar worker, on the charge of illegal use of the mails.

The allegation of the indictment set out a black-hand outrage in which Tony Blandini of No. 2208 Damon street this city, is the victim. The letters that form the basis of the charge are adorned with a homely device representing a gross and bleeding heart, pierced by a dagger and held by a black hand.

The epistles upon which the indictment is based make an open demand of $200 in cash, Blandini being threatened with death if he did not comply. One of the letters bearing date of October 20, 1910, directed to Blandini, demands money but makes no mention of any specific amount on pain of the writer killing Blandini's sister-in-law, himself and his son if he did not comply. The letter is as follows:

"Dear Friend—I will drop you these few lines to let you know that we are well and hope to hear the same from you. Bring the money or we will kill your sister-in-law, the little boy and you. Your brother thinks that he is very smart, but he is no good for anything. Bring the money in a big house as we are afraid to go to any other city.

"JACK CUSAMANO."

When Cusamano was taken into custody he denied that he could even write and declared that while his wife could speak English she could not write the language. Cusamano claimed that all of his letters for years had been written by an Italian friend whose name he could not recall but who could be found about the poolrooms in the vicinity of the Plaza.

He admitted that he had not been at work since the close of the beet sugar season six weeks ago and claimed that his last employment was with a rancher in the vicinity of Fullerton. In default of $5000 bail he was committed to the County Jail.

The Italian friends of Blandini have been active in their efforts to turn up the writer of the letters for some time, and it was due to their interests in the case that the defendant was turned up yesterday. All of the letters in the possession of the government are presumably signed by Cusamano and they indicate an illiterate person, which the Italian seems to be.

The two families interested are old friends, and so far as Blandini knew up to the receipts of the threatening letters, the alleged writer was one of his best known acquaintances. After the receipt of the last letter Cusamano disappeared, and was not seen in or about Los Angeles for more than two years.

DEFENDS COMMISSION.

President of State Railroad Body Tells City Club of Its Aims and Accomplishments.

"Recent criticism of the State Railroad Commission seems to us to be a concerted endeavor to discredit the work of that body. It so happens that the present State Railroad Commission is composed of men who belong to that political stripe that is believed to be on the toboggan slide; but politics does not figure in the work of this board. We'll be satisfied if the limit of approval given us is that of our own consciences."

These were the closing sentiments expressed by John M. Eshleman, president of the State Railroad Commission, in an address before the City Club at the Angelus yesterday, on the subject, "The Purpose and Results of Utility Regulation in California."

Eshleman said the present commission has decided more cases than any other similar body in the same time and only once has the commission been taken into the courts, and then it was sustained.

"We have tried to make every order so just that nobody would want to contest it, and then so tight legally that nobody could contest it successfully," he said.

The machinery for handling cases was illustrated in detail and then followed illustrations of principles applied to the solving of problems presented to the board. The speaker declared the board has concluded that problems over rates, service and security of investment are based principally on the attempts to make earnings on property more than is actually represented in the investment, or on watered stocks.

Eshleman asserted the State Railroad Commission takes the position that if natural monopolies lower their rates and better their service when competition enters the field, they could more easily have done so when they had the entire field to themselves, and that either the original public utility has not been doing its duty or it is lowering its rates at a loss.

"A public utility corporation will have committed the unpardonable sin," said the speaker, "if it waits to do its duty to the public until the second concern wants to come in. In such cases the second one should be admitted for punitive and exemplary reasons."

Throw Away Your Eyeglasses

How to Save the Eyes is the title of a FREE BOOK

Simple Home Treatment Does It.

At last the good news can be published. It is predicted that within a few years eyeglasses and spectacles will be so scarce that they will be regarded as curiosities.

Throughout the civilized world there has for several years been a recognized movement by educated medical men, particularly eye experts, towards treating sore, weak or strained eyes rationally. The old way has been to fit a pair of glasses as soon as the eyes were found to be strained. These glasses are nothing better than crutches. They never overcome the trouble, but merely give a little relief while being worn and they make the eyes gradually weaker. Every wearer of eyeglasses knows that he might as well expect to cure rheumatism by leaning upon a walking stick!

The great masses of sufferers from eyestrain and other curable optic disorders have been misled by those who were making fortunes out of eyeglasses and spectacles.

Save Your Eyes, Get Rid of Glasses

Dr. John L. Corish, an able New York physician of long experience, has come forward with the edict that eyeglasses must go. Intelligent people everywhere are indorsing him. The Doctor says that the ancients never disfigured their facial beauty with goggles. They employed certain methods, which have recently been brought to the light of modern science. Dr. Corish has written a marvelous book, entitled "How to Save the Eyes," which tells how many may be benefited, in many cases, instantly. There is an easy home treatment, which is just as simple as it is effective, and it is fully explained in this wonderful book, which will be sent free to any one. A postal card will bring it to your very door. This book tells you why eyeglasses are needless, and how they may be put aside forever. When you have taken advantage of the information contained in this book you may be able to throw your eyeglasses away, and should possess healthy, beautiful, soulfully expressive magnetic eyes that indicate the true character and win confidence.

Bad Eyes Bring Bad Health.

Dr. Corish goes further. He asserts that eye-strain is the main cause of headaches, nervousness, irritability, neurasthenia, brain fag, sleeplessness, stomach disorders, despondency and many other disorders. Leading oculists of the world confirm this, and say that a vast amount of physical and mental misery is due to the influence of eye-strain upon the nerves and brain cells. When eye-strain is overcome, these ailments usually disappear as if by magic.

FREE TO YOU.

The Okola Method, which is fully explained in Dr. Corish's marvelous book, is the method which is directed at making your eyes normal and saving them from the disfigurement of these needless, unpleasant glass windows. If you wear glasses, or feel that you should be wearing them, or if you are troubled with headache in the forehead, or nervousness when your eyes are tired, write today to Okola Laboratory, Dept. 826G, Rochester, N. Y., and ask them to send you, postage prepaid, free of all charge, the book entitled "How to Save the Eyes," and you will never regret the step taken.

"Home Builders" Building Which Will Soon Be Under Course of Construction at 8th and Spring

Nearly Two Million Dollars in Five Years is the sort of growth you may get into your dollars with "Home Builders" stock

Listen to this: With the next cash dividend, January 31st, "Home Builders" will be five years old, and it will have paid to its stockholders $712.50 in cash dividends on each $1000 invested for that period.

In that time it has developed resources of almost Two Million Dollars—with surplus of about Six Hundred Thousand Dollars. Its earnings from interest upon its invested capital exceeds its dividend payments. Its financial statements made under oath by its proper officers show its true financial condition.

Buy Now and receive the regular Cash Dividend which will be declared Jan 31st

"Home Builders" has many projects for 1913. Its new building is an illustration of its resourcefulness. It is a progressive yet conservative enterprise. It guards jealously the interests of its stockholders, in fact they are supreme. There is no speculation in the purchase of its shares. Its splendid surplus will pay its present dividend rate for four years. It will increase its dividend rate again on February 1st. (It increased the rate twice this year.)

You will receive a 3 months earning on your stock within a month if you buy before January 31st, when the regular cash dividend will be declared—Listen to sense, not prejudice. Put your money into this proven and profitable as well as perfectly safe company.

HARD TO REACH.

The man who discovered the South Pole says the Antarctic continent is an Eldorado. We trust that the boys will wait until summer before making a rush.

ON THE INSIDE.

That fine feathers do not alter the disposition is nicely demonstrated by that glorified crow, the bird of paradise. These birds look mightily well, but when they make a noise the black crow comes to the front.

AN UNPLEASANT PROSPECT.

The Republicans in the Senate decline to sit with the Democrats in a conference to decide what appointments of President Taft should not be confirmed. This was too much like being invited to one's own funeral.

A PLOT SUPPLIED.

The Federal Grand Jury is making wholesale arrests at Spokane in the fight on a class of midwives and illegal practitioners. Brieux might get material in Washington for another play of the kind for which he and France delight.

THE SLOW THAW.

Every day emphasizes the fact that the damage by frost was not as great as was at first feared. The disposition to expect the worst has again received a merited rebuke. One vital factor in favor of the citrus-fruit growers was the slow thaw. A very warm day following the freeze would have resulted in wider disaster.

LOOK TO THE HILLS.

An interesting indication of this city's growth is to be found in the present large development of hill property. If something is not done about it the real estate men will take the top from every hill and mountain in this vicinity in order to plat them into town lots. Los Angeles is hitting the high places, all right.

A SENSE OF FITNESS.

In a restaurant yesterday we ran across a unique application of the theory that there is a time and place for all things. A lady called in question the integrity of an omelette with which she had been served, and the waitress, who was obviously French, said with an eloquent shrug of dainty shoulders: "But, Madame, it is not the moment for eggs."

AN INTERESTING STUDY.

An eastern publisher promises an interesting book next month. It is entitled "John Chinaman in America," and is from the pen of Louis J. Stellman of San Francisco, a young writer who has studied the Chinese of San Francisco and Los Angeles with interest and without prejudice either in their favor or against them for fifteen years. Stellman anticipated the recent Chinese revolution by three years.

FOR THE PREACHER.

We would like to recommend to clergymen the reading of a book, if we may do so without going on record as approving anything which the work contains. Many books are worth while in teaching what not to believe. They are valuable for the opposition they arouse. This book is by Stuck White. He names it the "Call of the Carpenter," and in it he has his say about the character and message of Christ. Perhaps it were better to speak of it as a series of essays on the man Jesus since it emphasizes the humanity of the Nazarene rather than his divinity, and undertakes to interpret his philosophy rather than his religion. It is a book to stimulate speculation.

PERPETUAL GROWTH.

Booth Tarkington says of one of his characters in a novel that she either wanted a man to be different every day or wanted a different man every day. While this does not speak well for the lady, it is quite possible that many persons permit themselves to become monotonous. There is no good reason why men and women should stay in a rut. They ought to be able to talk about new subjects, or at least different ones, as often as they meet. They should even be willing to do a little extra reading along exceptional lines in order to make themselves refreshing. Two growing minds would increase in fascination for each other if they followed such a course. The dead one speedily becomes a bore.

THE ITINERANT GUEST.

Fashionable folk often make a dozen calls in an afternoon either by leaving their cards or by running in for a howdy and good-by. Perhaps this is as much as they care to see of one another. It is good form and they are satisfied. All persons are in danger, however, of dividing themselves up to such an extent that they have nothing worth while to give to anyone. They busy themselves with conventionalities until they have little time left to devote to real friendships and to the making of good conversation. In the old South, or rather in the present South in the old times, people had a habit of visiting each other for two or three days consecutively. Partly this was because they lived some distance from one another, but mostly the reason was that they took time to live. It is no longer practical for busy persons to pay visits of this length, but there is probably no occasion to divide what might be a comfortable and profitable afternoon or evening into perfectly useless snatches of five and ten minutes.

LET UP ON THE TAXES!

The horticultural interests of California have received a severe, but not an irremediable, blow from the severe weather. Vines and trees which do not put forth their buds and blossoms before February escaped altogether. Trees on the south and west side of sheltered hill slopes were not injured as much as those open to blasts from the north and east. Timely smudging saved many orchards. In others, while the fruit on the trees may have been injured, yet the cold was not severe enough or of sufficient duration to "split" and thereby kill the trees. On the whole the damage will not amount to what was at first apprehended.

Various measures of relief have been suggested. One is an appeal to Congress not to place citrus fruit on the free list.

Another measure of relief suggested is a change in the law that limits 2 per cent. loans of State funds to 50 per cent. of the capital of borrowing banks. Such legislation would be just and desirable, profitable to the State, and a help to the orchardists. It would distribute State funds in the orchard districts.

But the best thing, the very best thing, that the Legislature can do, next to adjourning sine die, will be to keep their ravaging hands off of the pockets of the taxpayers, to restrain their cacoethes experimentandi (to coin a word) within reasonable limits. We have boards enough, and commissions enough, and inspectors enough to answer our needs for a decade. We have pensions enough and special taxes enough. The last session of the Legislature caused the people to groan under the burden of excessive and unnecessary taxation. It is the farmers and home owners who pay it all. The overtaxed owner of a skyscraper adds the tax to the rent; the manufacturer adds it to the value of his product; the storekeeper adds it to the price of his goods. But the owner of a bungalow or a farm cannot shove the burden upon the shoulders of anybody. He has no resource but to "grin and bear it," or bear it without a grin with possibly the expression of a profane desire that the legislators who laid the unnecessary burden upon his already overloaded shoulders may find hereafter a permanent abode in a climate where there are no cold snaps.

Gentlemen legislators, be good to the people! Harass them not with increased burdens of taxation. Defer your experimental legislation until 1915. Please to let us alone.

HIS TARRY TOPLIGHTS.

The members of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain threaten to strike because the Shipping Federation of employers has advanced their wages without first consulting them.

This move on the part of the Shipping Federation is alleged by the Sailors' Union, or rather by the walking delegates of the Sailors' Union, to be a blow at collective bargaining and a base and unmanly effort to deprive them of their jobs. The labor leaders do not wish seamen's wages to be increased unless such increase shall be apparently obtained through the efforts of the walking delegates.

The employers in raising seamen's wages have reserved to themselves the right to discriminate between sober sailors and drunken sailors, between sailors who climb the buttock shrouds and sailors who crawl through the lubber's hole; between sailors who obey orders if they break owners, and sailors who secretly if not openly damn the tarry toplights of the third mate, and instead of keeping a bright look out curl themselves up on the heel of the bowsprit on dark nights and smoke a surreptitious pipe.

It is felt by the officers of the Seamen's Union that this tendency of ship owners to revolt from or evade union dictation must be promptly checked, and it was determined that a national conference of the Sailors' Union should be called to prescribe rules for the government of ship owners by the union, with power to call a strike if such rules should be disobeyed. Well is it said in "Pinafore" that "a British tar is a soaring soul:"

"His ever-closed fist should be ready to resist
A dictatorial word.
His heart should swell and his chest protrude,
And this should be his customary attitude."

RUSSIAN JUDICIAL RECALL.

In Russia they have a system of recall of judicial decisions, which for promptness and effectiveness makes Roosevelt's system look like 30 cents. When the court makes a decision that is not satisfactory to the government of the Czar, the government hales the offending judge or judges before another court, convicts the offender of "lese majesto" and sends him to Siberia. If the second court fails to convict it joins the first court in the prisoner's dock. The motto of the government is: "If at first you don't succeed try, try again"—that is to say, try the defendant again. This plan of reversing decisions is made workable by a system of duplex jurisprudence. The government can appeal from a lower court to a higher court, and then from a higher court to a lower court, until it finds a complaisant judge.

The Russian system was illustrated recently by the wholesale arrest of the Supreme Court of Viborg in Finland. The offense of the court was its decision in releasing one Lagercrantz who was imprisoned by order of the Russian authorities. "This," says a correspondent of a Boston journal, "was regarded as a contravention of the equality law passed by the Russian Douma for Finland, and not recognized by the Finns because of its violation of the Finnish constitution."

The Supreme Court of Finland will be tried before a Russian local court in St. Petersburg. The kind of punishment that will be meted out to the Finnish judicial refractories in the not improbable event of their conviction is not stated. Possibly justice may be tempered with mercy and they may be sent to Siberia to work in the mines, without receiving a preliminary knouting.

What would be thought if the Russian system were introduced here and our Supreme Court justices, for a decision which met the disapproval of Holy Hiram, could be arrayed in striped garments and subjected to discipline inflicted by his starboard pedoneum?

The Attack.

CANNED ORATORY.

Edison has struck the business of spellbinding, either from the political or the lyceum rostrum, or from the pulpit, a solar plexus blow. He has succeeded after four years of unremitting effort in perfecting a talking and singing moving-picture machine.

"At his laboratory at West Orange, N. J., on January 3," says the New York Sun, "a procession of human beings and animals that sang and talked, and shouted and played upon musical instruments and barked and made various other noises, passed upon a screen."

When the exhibition began a large shadow man in evening dress strode down a flight of stairs, advanced to the front of the stage, thrust out one arm and made a speech in carefully-modulated tones with articulation of the clearest, each action coinciding exactly with each expression. Yet he was not a real man, only the simulacrum of one.

In the next political campaign things will be different. Holy Hiram, instead of being hurled in an auto from Siskiyou to San Diego in a whirlwind campaign, riding each day and roaming each night, will talk his speech into a machine, and send a hundred films out by parcels post, and a hundred audiences in as many California towns will on the same night watch the wafting of his pedoneum, and listen to the strident tones that will issue from his spectral lips.

Toopious will tune his tearful tenor voice and dilate to a supposititious audience which will not break for the door because the only audience will be the moving-picture man when he saws the air with his arms. His speech and his gesture, his voice and his charming personalities will be caught by the machine and the films containing it will be mailed by parcels post to every part of the State.

The chairman at the machine oratory meetings will introduce each film with a few feeble remarks. Instead of a band and a glee club there will be a victrola.

The spellbinder is passing, passing into a film. He will be canned and instead of making one speech for a hundred nights he will make a hundred speeches in one night.

GET-RICH-QUICK FRAUDS.

During the past two years the American public has been swindled to the extent of not less than $150,000,000 by sales of fraudulent stocks, and 1200 individuals have been indicted through the Federal government's efforts to stamp out this form of theft.

These figures are issued by the Postoffice Department, which directs the work of bringing to justice these "get-rich-quick" operators and are published as a warning to the American people. Their publication coincided with the arrest on December 21 of eight officials of the Sterling Debenture Corporation of New York on indictments alleging the sale of $10,000,000 worth of worthless securities.

The postoffice officials estimate that over 100,000 persons have been swindled by the Sterling Debenture Corporation, and it is probable that fully one million individuals represent the total number of Americans induced to invest in worthless stocks since 1910.

The stocks sold are largely of worthless mines, but a new departure is the extensive business of floating shares of newly-organized industrial concerns. The bait used in most cases is the alleged patent rights which the promoters state will revolutionize the industry concerned, though in reality they are worthless.

The readiness with which Americans invest their savings on the strength of optimistic prospectuses has induced many men of previously good reputations to embark in the business of peddling stocks of little value. A trial has recently been under way in New York of Julian Hawthorne, the son of the famous author, and Josiah Quincy, an ex-Mayor of Boston, accused by the government of selling worthless mining stocks.

The most amazing features of this business is the readiness with which Americans recognize types of stock swindles in fiction, coupled with their gullibility when they are individually approached by these men in real life. The highest-paid short-story writer in this country, George Randolph Chester, has made a fortune out of his "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" tales. Chester has made Wallingford a household word for the dishonest promoter, and constant warnings are issued by the government against stock swindles, but the game seems to be growing more extensive all the time, rather than decreasing.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

We all sit up when Lora starts to write a tale of broken hearts, of souls that yearn and pant; of lovely maiden in the soup because her lover flew the coop and ran off with her aunt. A thousand women write of dress and diet in the daily press, of household hints and sich; of how to bring our children up, of how to paint a china cup, of how to cure the itch; some tell us how to banish moles—but Lora writes of hearts and souls, and Lora looms up strong; she gathers up a human heart and takes the blamed thing all apart, and tells us what is wrong. And when the daily paper comes the house with wild excitement hums—each wants that paper first; tired father takes the sheet from ma, and sister slugs him on the jaw with length of weinerwurst. Then mother takes the rolling-pin and swats Matilda on the chin and soaks poor Uncle James; and when the rioting is o'er we all are crippled up and sore, with bruises on our frames. Oh, Lora writes of slings and darts which penetrate our weary hearts, and hearts are always trumps; she hands us chunks of misery and makes us sadder still when we are in the doleful dumps. No wonder that she's all the rage in this fake optimism age, when sunshine singers prance, when nearly every guy we meet is sure this chestnut to repeat: "Cheer up, and sing and dance!"

STREAKS OF WIT.

A Real Revenge.

[Boston Transcript:] He: What are you going to give Kitty and Jack for a wedding present?

She: Oh, I guess I'll send Kitty the bunch of letters Jack wrote me when we were engaged.

Penalizing the Boarder.

[London Sketch:] Lodger: I see you've charged me three and sixpence for coals, but I've not had a fire.

Landlady: Oh, then it'll only be eightpence.

Reduce Cost of Living.

[Town Topics:] Mrs. Youngbride (at the baker's:) The holes in the doughnuts are very large. You ought to make some reduction.

Baker: Can't do that, mum; but I'll allow you a cent each for the holes if you'll return 'em.

Wags Right Along.

[Tattler:] Vicar: The most wonderful organ I ever saw was the property of a private gentleman. It had nearly a hundred stops.

Sexton: Um! The most remarkable organ I ever heard is my old woman's tongue. It ain't got no stops at all.

Not Lost to Memory Dear.

[Detroit News:] "Our boy has left us," wept the mother, as their only son waved good-by from the car window.

"Yes," said the old man, whom the boy had just touched for a loan; "but he hasn't left us much."

A Leap Year Event.

[Chicago Record Herald:] "I can't understand how you have the presumption to think I would permit my daughter to become your wife."

"It does seem rather surprising, I suppose, but, cheer up. You're not half as badly upset as I was when she suggested it to me."

Golf Not for Women.

[Buffalo Express:] "Do you think golf a suitable game for women?"

"I should say not. Why, I saw a man playing once, and all he did was to walk around a field with a club in his hand and stop every few minutes to swear."

Evidently Won a Bet.

[Judge:] "Jack and I have parted forever."

"Good gracious! What does that mean?"

"Means I'll get a five-pound box of candy in about an hour."

THE IDEAL CLIMATE.

Equally Good for All Latitudes, Says Dr. Burdette

All day I wondered much as I did when I was a boy where the wind came from and where it was going, and when I got through wondering, which I haven't done yet, I didn't know much more about it than the boy did. So what's the use of wondering? The only satisfactory explanation I ever got about it was when I was a very little boy and read in a Certain Book—the only Certain Book I ever read in my life—where the Greatest Teacher on earth and in time had said that the "wind bloweth where it listeth and thou hearest the voice thereof, but knowest not whence it cometh nor whither it goeth." And I guess we've never learned many better than that.

The Observant Traveler.

Once upon a time I met the man with a combined note-and-joke book. The funny traveler, you know. A deadlier bore than a bear robbed of her whelps. The traveler who must be funny about what he sees, about everything he sees, or die. And often it is a pity that he does not choose the latter alternative. In one of the funny books of travel, "Seeing France with Uncle Jim," I think it is, something like that, Uncle Jim passed through Rouen, where Jeanne d'Arc was burned. Instead of uncovering his head he made a funny story of the Maid's career. The sort of a man who could be killingly funny over the fainting scene on the way up Calvary.

A Seeker After Truth.

But this man wasn't so bad as that. He was a sincere seeker. He was a man from the Far East—away out toward the sunrise as far as Oneida, N. Y. He called on me when he was gathering data for a history of California. He came during the three hot days we have in Pasadena every summer. We have them. We admit it. Three. Count them. Never more, never less. Three. The thermometer runs up into the vicinity, sometimes going as high as the neighborhood, never higher. That is the average.

Well, this historian complained of the heat, and said, apologizing for our climate, that he supposed this was an "exceptional season." He laughed long and loud at his little joke which I had not heard before, that morning. But I refused to encourage his levity. I said:

The Old Familiar.

"Well, yes; this is exceptional." He wearily replaced his note-and-joke book in his pocket. And I went on: "It is hot, but not so hot as usual." The note-and-joke book came out again. It is about this warm—you call it hot—all the year round. We have 365 days like this between Christmas and Christmas. But much of the time it is a great deal warmer. If you want to see really hot weather stay with us through December and January. The Tournament of Roses day is the great day for sunstrokes. The winter is hotter than the summer."

The greedy notebook devoured the entire bill of fare. It all came out in the historian's letter to his home paper, the Community Bumblejohn, with extravagant elaboration. And the writer and all his readers believed every word of it.

What is the use of telling people the truth about the climate? They believe only the little corner of it they see from a car window. People who spent Sunday in Los Angeles, and left for the East the next day, having traveled three thousand miles to see California in twenty-four hours, will go back home and lay their hands on their hearts and declare that it blows big guns and great gales, cold and raw and gray with dust from one end of California to the other, hard as it can blow, all the live-long year around, year after year, world without end, everlasting amen. And what's the use of contradicting them?

The Ideal Climate.

There is only one ideal climate on this planet. It isn't perfect, but it lies close to the borderlands of perfection. And it isn't mapped out by parallels of latitude and meridians of longitude.

It lies between the birthdays of eighteen and forty-five. That is climate for you. There are 365 full days to the year with an extra one every four years to make up for a possible day of sickness. And every day dawns in radiance and comes to its noontide in splendor and sweeps on softly to the evening time on wings as delicately gray as a dove's.

Mountains are made for climbing. Meadows were made level for dancing floors. The sea was made for bathing and for pleasure yachts. If it snowed, ah, the joy of sleighing. Cold? Not when you sat close together and one buffalo robe would cover half a dozen persons. And when the ice on the rivers was eight inches thick—why, winter was made for skating. Cold? Oh, yes, in the house, it was. But out here on Peoria Lake with a big bonfire only a mile and a half away? Rainy days were invented for house-parties. Mud was to wade through with shrieks of laughter. Fogs made the complexion clear. Dark nights necessitated holding hands. The best season in the year was spring, summer, autumn and winter and any one of them was better than all the others combined so long as it lasted. Out of doors was the place to live all the year round. One only got sick to help a young doctor friend along. Now and then some kind-hearted person died to give a needy undertaker a little business, because he was an old school-fellow and had a large family. What a dancing, singing, laughing, loving, playing world it was to live in!

When you talk about climate, remember that it isn't on the map. It's in the calendar.

When you get so that you think of fireplaces when you plan a house to live in, and order your overcoat so as to have it ready by December 1, you've moved permanently out of the happy land of everlasting—Climate. You've settled for the rest of your days in Weatherland, all the way from 45 outward toward the sunset.

Climate is the land in which you do things. Weatherland is the country where you dream about the things you did so gloriously, and say how much better we do them now, when we aren't doing anything.

Some men and women there are who never go out of Climate. Persons who acquire the minds of grown-folk, but keep forever the hearts of little children. Then they don't have to change when they enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

In Storm's Maw?

TWO DISAPPEAR MYSTERIOUSLY.

NOT HEARD FROM SINCE THEY LEFT FOR TAFT.

Woman Is Unable to Learn Identity of Man Who Accompanied Her Husband—Missing Chauffeur Was Injured in Auto Accident Last November.

Two Los Angeles young men are believed to have perished in the severe wind storm that swept over the desert and the Colorado River country a week ago yesterday. These fears were told the police yesterday by Mrs. Catherine Gibbs.

She asked the authorities to institute a search for her husband, Claude Baker Gibbs, 25 years old, and the man he said was going to accompany him on a journey to Taft. The identity of Gibbs's companion is not known. Gibbs spoke of him to his wife and mother-in-law as his "boss." The men, according to Mrs. Gibbs, left Los Angeles for Taft the morning of the 2nd inst., with a heavy-laden truck. Gibbs told his wife he would return by the 5th inst. Since then not a word has been heard from the men.

Mrs. Gibbs is convinced her husband and his companion did not reach Taft. She believes the two men became lost in the furious wind and sand storm and perished from lack of food, water and the rigors of the elements.

Gibbs, who then lived at No. 932 Maple avenue, and whose wife has since moved to No. 421 East Pico street, sustained a fracture of the skull November 24 last, when an auto in which he and Dallas Carter, who lives on West Adams street, turned over on Huntington drive as they were returning from Pasadena. Carter was instantly killed.

Since his recovery, Mrs. Gibbs said Saturday, her husband has been unable to secure steady employment. He had employed New Year's Day by the man he called "Boss" to drive him and a new truck to Taft.

Mrs. Gibbs said yesterday she has found all garages and storerooms where trucks are sold, but has been able to get any information relative to the identity of her husband's companion.

PUBLIC IS APPRECIATIVE.

Action of Pomona Trustees in Extending Time to Pay Taxes Gives Satisfaction to the Citizenship.

POMONA, Jan. 11.—The extension of the time for the last payment of taxes to February 28, which action was taken by the City Council, is accommodating many people here. During December there was paid in City Tax Collector Joseph Mullen $1,087.42 in taxes. The cost of running this municipality for December is about $12,500. Of this amount the labor and material used on the streets aggregated over $2500. During the month twenty-three automobilists were arrested and fined for exceeding the speed limit by Police Judge Gallup. Six persons were arrested for riding bicycles on sidewalks.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Among the Pomona exhibitors at the Southern California Poultry Breeders' Association in Los Angeles were Dr. D. B. Cox, who has entered his fine Rhode Island Reds; George Lane, whose specialty is White Leghorns, and Mrs. M. Swaysgood of Lane street, who has some large Buff Leghorns. M. Gunther. Some breeders of white poultry who intended to enter birds, did not do so because of the fact that the soot from the smudging during the recent cold spell smutted some poultry, turning shiny white feathers to a dull color, so that the owners feared the competition of fowls from other localities.

Newly-elected officers of the local Knights of Maccabees lodge were installed Tuesday evening at K. of P. Hall, as follows: Mrs. Fernand House, Past Commander; Mrs. O. E. Parker, Commander; Mrs. D. Andrews, Lieutenant Commander; Mrs. B. H. Shewmaker, Record Keeper; Mrs. M. A. Hanger, Finance Keeper; Mrs. S. Houghton, Chaplain; Mrs. Edna Snyder, Auditor; Mrs. A. H. Ahlstrom, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mrs. Bert Barnes, Sentinel; Mrs. Bert Barnes, Picket. Mrs. George B. Peterson, Picket. Mrs. Georgia acted as installing officer and her duties was served by a committee consisted of Mmes. Bert Barnes, Fred Hauser and Miss Anna Iser.

Mrs. Gibbs asked the authorities to institute a search for her husband, Claude Gibbs, 25 years old, and the man he said was going to accompany him on a journey to Taft. The identity of Gibbs's companion is not known. Gibbs spoke of him to his wife and mother-in-law as his "boss." The man, according to Mrs. Gibbs, left Los Angeles for Taft the morning of the 2nd inst., with a heavy motor truck. Gibbs told his wife he would return by the 5th inst. Since then not a word has been heard from either man.

Mrs. Gibbs is convinced her husband and his companion did not reach Taft. She believes the two men became lost in the furious wind and sand storm and perished from lack of food, water and the rigors of the storm.

Gibbs, who then lived at No. 923 Kohler avenue, and whose wife has since moved to No. 421 East Pico street, sustained a fracture of the skull December 24 last, when an auto in which he and Dallas Carter, who lived on West Adams street, turned over on Huntington drive as they were returning from Pasadena. Carter was instantly killed.

During his recovery, Mrs. Gibbs said recently, her husband has been unable to secure steady employment. He was employed New Year's Day by the man called "boss" to drive him and the truck to Taft.

Mrs. Gibbs said yesterday she has visited all garages and storerooms where trucks are sold, but has been unable to get any information relative to the identity of her husband's companion.

scheduled for a week from tomorrow, at which time directors will be chosen to fill the places vacated by the action of the board in ousting the two former members. The two opposing factions—for there is no question apparently as to the existence of two distinct factions, are bending every effort toward securing as nearly as possible a full attendance of stockholders, with the purpose of bringing matters to a test of strength.

The company was incorporated March 6, 1911, with a capitalization of $1,000,000 and in December of the same year the capitalization was increased to $2,500,000. The first trouble, for the corporation has been a money-maker almost from the start, arose over the contracts entered into in the first instance for the services of officers. Certain shares, in addition to cash salaries, were to go to the various officers and as the concern began to prosper and the capital stock became more valuable, dissension arose over the amount of salary paid in this way to the officers.

The first open clash came about three months ago when an effort was made to get rid of H. C. Williams as vice-president and general manager. Gradually the directors, the number having been increased from five to nine, began to array themselves on the respective sides of the controversy, each side seeking control.

Several weeks ago the feeling between the various officers of the corporation became acute and charges and counter-charges of more or less serious nature were made. Following the alleged disappearance of papers of a private nature from locked boxes in his office, Frank C. Hill, who had acted in the capacity of general counsel since the inception of the company, caused to be placed in Gunsul's private office a dictograph, and connected it with his own office in the next room. This contrivance remained for some weeks in position, and through this means Hill is understood to have become possessed of information valuable to his faction.

An effort at compromise was undertaken a few weeks ago, according to officers, wherein each officer agreed that in order to protect the stock of the company and keep it up to its value, they were to pool their personal shares and place them in escrow for a period of two years. This plan appears to have fallen through because of the unwillingness of one director and officer to put himself in a position where his capital stock would be of no actual value to him outside the power to vote and the dividends declared.

The corporation is one of the most widely-known in the city and engages chiefly in the purchase of industrial bonds and financing large enterprises. The men connected with it are of high standing in the financial world.

CONVULSIONS AND DEATH.

E. Miller, 22 years old, a medical student who lived at the Hotel Fox, died at the Receiving Hospital shortly before noon yesterday from apparent cocainism. He was in convulsions when received and succumbed to an exceptionally severe attack. The body was removed to the mortuary of Booth & Boylston. Miller is understood to have wealthy relatives in the East.

He Shows the Goods.

Kenneth MacRae of Rialto, appeared at The Times office yesterday morning carrying a hand-bag packed full of lemon branches, covered with blossoms, leaves and young lemons, none of which have ben touched by the frost. Mr. MacRae says he has 100 acres of lemons at Rialto, and asserts that at least 75 per cent. of the fruit has been untouched by the frost.

Eddie "Not Guilty."

THREE MONTHS AGO.

Eddie was arrested October 2 in his office at the Central Police Station. The warrant was signed by Judge Wilbur. After hearing the evidence in secret session, Judge Wilbur held the defendant to answer. Trial began December 6.

The State was represented by Deputy District Attorneys Blair and Keyes. The defendant retained Rogers, W. H. Dehm, H. J. Geisler, Frank Dominguez, Lewis R. Works, Albert Lee Stephens. The active work of the defense was conducted by Rogers, Dominguez and Works.

The cases of George Baker Anderson, deposed secretary of the Mayor, and Fred M. C. Choate, discharged deputy in the City Prosecutor's office, are both set for trial in the Superior Court. That of Anderson is set for the 21st inst. and Choate's on February 19.

Each is charged with conspiring to cause the false imprisonment of F. W. Lloyd, one of the witnesses against Eddie. The District Attorney yesterday intimated that he knew of no reason why the conclusion of Eddie's case should affect the indictments against Anderson and Choate. Their attorneys, however, are confident the cases will be dismissed when the day of trial arrives.

FORMER TREASURER DEAD.

Veteran Who Was Custodian of Sawtelle's Cash Passes Shortly After Entering Home—Other Deaths.

REDONDO BEACH, Jan. 11. — A Lieut. William H. Williams passed away at the Home hospital Thursday evening, shortly after his admission to that place from Sawtelle.

Lieut. Williams had been identified with the civic growth of Sawtelle for the past eight years, and until failing health compelled him to retire about two months ago was for several years Treasurer of that city.

The funeral is announced for Saturday afternoon, with burial at Rosedale Cemetery, to be attended by officials of Sawtelle and a large number of citizens.

Williams had a lengthy and creditable service in the Civil War. The records show that he entered the service July 25, 1861, as corporal of Co. G, Eighth Illinois Infantry, and was discharged December 11, 1863, as sergeant. Mustered in December 11, 1863, as sergeant-major of the Fifth United States Colored Heavy Artillery, and mustered out May 20, 1866, as first lieutenant and adjutant. Deceased was a native of Kentucky, aged 72, and is survived by a widow, Mrs. Sarah J. Williams, who resides at 101 North Second street, Sawtelle.

SIX OPERATORS ARE INDICTED.

End of Long Investigation by Government.

Used Mails to Defraud, It Is Charged.

Stockholders Are Assessed to Pay Officers?

After an investigation extending over several months the Federal grand jury returned indictments yesterday against six persons connected with the Seaboard Oil and Transit Company. The company has offices at 525-540 Title Insurance Building.

J. R. Riggins, president and general manager; Nichols F. Wilson, formerly of San Francisco, and his father, Horace Wilson, also of San Francisco, connected with the Lincoln Mortgage and Loan Company of that city; Allen G. Nichols, vice-president; William Moore, treasurer, and Frank B. McClure, attorney and member of the board of directors, are the men indicted.

All except Moore and Horace Wilson were arrested and furnished bond in $5000 each. Wilson is on a ranch in Santa Clara county and is expected to report tomorrow. Moore is out of the city. The men are charged with having used the mails to defraud.

The indictment alleges they gained control of a number of valueless oil companies, induced a number of the stockholders in them to exchange for holdings in the Seaboard company, and levied assessments of 2 cents a share for the development of the property of the company, mostly in Mexico. According to the men who marshaled the evidence, the assessments were absorbed by the officers and office expenses of the company.

The books indicate the salary of President Riggins was $5100 a year; Vice-President A. G. Nichols, $4800; Secretary C. A. Goodrich, $1800; Treasurer William Moore, $2400, and Attorney Frank B. McClure, $3600.

A LA WALLINGFORD.

Circulars of the company assert the title of the Mexican land is vested in Senor Felix Ramon Sandoval, who leases it to the Vera Cruz Oil Company on a basis of 10 per cent. royalty. Of the 100,000 shares, it is alleged the Seaboard owns 99,700 shares. Assistant United States District Atty. Robinson asserts the original lease from Senator Sandoval was secured by Allen G. Nichols for $250, who afterward turned it over to the Vera Cruz Oil Company, which turned it over to the United Oil Company, with a $3,000,000 capital, Nichols securing 99,700 shares for his work. The lease was turned over to the Seaboard company at an alleged valuation of $840,000.

Although the capitalization of the company is given as $2,500,000, it is alleged the assets do not amount to more than $5000 or $6000, consisting of a lot of old machinery.

The Wilsons, father and son, it is alleged, were the promoters of the Lincoln Mortgage and Loan Company of San Francisco, and the owners of a majority of stock in a number of properties considered worthless. They were sold to the Seaboard company for notes, afterward paid out of the assessments levied on the Seaboard stockholders. Riggins refused to talk yesterday.

Nichols F. Wilson, who asserts he is no longer connected with the Seaboard company, said the property that has been sold to the company is valuable. Wilson for a time was president of the National Monorail Company of this city.

In a statement printed under Riggins's name in a recent issue of a publication of the company's, he said:

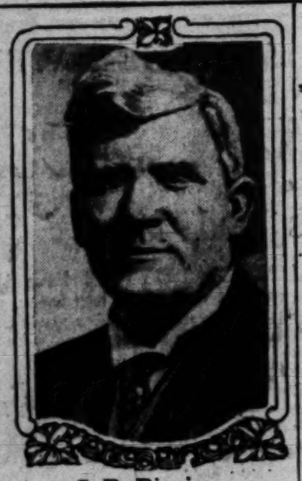
PRESIDENT'S PLEDGE.

"I feel that I am in a position to pledge my very best efforts to put this company on a profit-earning and profit-paying basis at the earliest possible moment."

Assistant United States Attorney Robinson, who has had charge of the investigation, is authority for the statement that none of the promises made by the officers could be carried out. He cited the instance of one of the defendants, Allen G. Nichols, who was able to capitalize a Mexican oil lease that originally cost him $250, into a $640,000 enterprise.

It is said there has been no development of any sort on the Mexican property, and that the prospect of finding oil is based entirely on the allegation that it has been located in land in that immediate vicinity.

In a number of the Seaboard's oil interests in various parts of the State, it is stated oil was found in several instances, but it cost more to get it out of the ground than it was worth. In other cases wells bored to a great depth yielded nothing but water.



J. R. Riggins,

President and general manager of the Seaboard Oil and Trust Company, indicted yesterday by the Federal grand jury for alleged use of the mails for fraudulent purposes.

PUPILS TO HEAR TREETOP SONGS.

CONCERT STARS OF NATURE TO GAIN NEW FRIENDS.

School Children to Be Taught to Love the Birds and Fight to Prevent Their Wanton Slaughter. New Way of Looking at Feathered Tribes of the Field.

The lilt of feathered songsters everywhere should carry a new note of gladness with the knowledge that 60,000 public school children of Los Angeles within the coming two weeks will be enrolled as champions against the wanton slaughter of these innocents. Wisdom has prompted the school authorities to devote a part of each day to the study of bird protection and the children are welcoming the opportunity to learn more of them.

The work of instruction will be under the direct supervision of Prof. Charles Lincoln Edwards of the Marine Biological Station, University of Southern California, whose interest in birds is second only to his interest in the children he teaches. He will be assisted in this work by Mrs. Myers, secretary of the Audubon Society, and Miss Libby, who lectures for the Fish and Game Commission.

As a step preliminary to inculcating in youthful minds a desire to preserve the birds of this and other countries, the children will be told how birds are destroyed. First, the adornment of hats with plumage of certain kinds of birds will be taken up. The children will be informed that from one Long Island village alone, over 70,000 tern and other birds were taken during a period of four months. An attempt will be made to interest them and through them their parents, in a proposed millinery clause in the game law of the State. This clause would make it a misdemeanor for any person to sell, possess or wear plumage of protected birds.

Thousands of birds are annually destroyed through the rigors of winter weather; through the misdirected activities of farmers who imagine they destroy his crops; through small boys and men with guns, and the thousand and one ways known to the students of nature.

An effort will be made to show how millions of dollars are saved to the farmers through the activities of the birds in destroying insects of one kind and another. They will be told that farmers, instead of destroying the birds, should plant fruit trees which should be immune to the ravages of small boys or others who might be tempted to steal the fruit from the birds. They will be told that fruit and nut trees should be planted in the school yards so as to attract the members of the feathered kingdom and keep them in touch with humanity.

Following the lectures and object lessons, illustrated with pictures depicting bird life in its various phases, it is thought that the children, of their own volition, will take an active interest in future movements looking toward bird protection.

While the chief topic of discussion for the coming two weeks is to be birds, in a general way, the children of the city are being instructed in nature study as a whole. In a way, this is a recreation study and its introduction into the public schools of the city has met instant success and co-operation on the part of the pupils. The fundamental principles of comparative anatomy appeal with peculiar force to the children.

The children delight in learning of the various animals and an excursion with Prof. Edwards or some one of the teachers assigned to this particular task is one of never-ending delight.

An amusing incident occurred during and following such an excursion a few days ago. A large class, numbering in its membership children of varied nationalities, went with Prof. Edwards to visit the alligator farm on the east side. The instructor took great interest in explaining to the children the habits and life of the alligator, using the baby alligators to emphasize his points. Remarkable as it may seem, the attendants at the alligator farm, after the visit of the school children, discovered that about a dozen of the baby "'gators" were missing.

The subject of the missing alligators was brought to the attention of the pupils by one of the teachers thee following day. To her query as to whether any of the pupils in her room knew anything about the mysterious disappearance of the baby "'gators," there was no response until her eye encountered the fixed gaze of a very intent and very black little youngster in the rear of the room.

"William, do you know anything about those missing alligators?" the teacher inquired.

"Who, me?" came the frightened answer. "No, Mis' Smith, 'deed, ah didn' steal no alligators. Niggahs doan lak 'alligators, nohow."

In the laugh that followed, the question as to the final disposition of the missing alligators was forgotten.

HOME POKER GAME RAIDED.

Patrolmen Stumble on Penny Ante and Arrest Four Men and Two Women—Bail Forfeited.

A friendly game of poker, discovered by chance Friday evening by Patrolmen Phillips and Perry at No. 812 West Fourth street, resulted in the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William Lily, Charles Martin and John Smith. They were taken to the Central Station, booked on a gambling charge and released on $10 bail each. They failed to appear in the Police Court yesterday and forfeited bail.

The impromptu raid was on the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who were entertaining friends. The patrolmen, passing by the house, say they heard the merry tinkle of poker chips.

A large window in the room in which the game was in progress faces the street, but the shade was drawn and Phillips and Perry could see nothing. They were holding a whispered consultation when one of the men raised the window to get a breath of air. The patrolmen say they glimpsed the interior of the room and saw two women and three men at a table, on which were six stacks of chips and a deck of cards. One of the men, the peepers assert, was buying additional chips.

In a moment the shade was drawn again, but a space was left at the bottom and the patrolmen say they watched the game for several minutes. Then they politely spoiled the fun.

NEW TERM TOMORROW.

The July term of the United States District Court adjourned sine die yesterday and the January term will open tomorrow morning. At that time grand and term trials jurors will be drawn for service during the next six months. The grand jury was discharged yesterday by Judge Wellborn, who in bidding its members good-by returned the thanks of the court for faithful attendance and excellent service.

Judge's Instructions.

nal, for I charge you as a matter of law that under the Juvenile Court act, a female with whom an act of sexual intercourse is alleged to have been accomplished with a defendant is not an accomplice of such defendant, unless such female be married to another and lives in a state if cohabitation and adultery with such defendant.

Under and by virtue of the Juvenile Court law of this State, it is made a misdemeanor for any person by any act to encourage or contribute to the dependency of a dependent person, regardless of who caused such dependency, or of how many other persons may have encouraged or contributed to such dependency, or to what depths of degradation the dependent person may have fallen. Even though it may appear from the evidence that there are other causes than those mentioned in the information, from which the dependent person is in danger of growing up to lead an immoral or dissolute life, it is immaterial if it shall also appear that from the cause or causes mentioned in the information there is such danger of growing up to lead an immoral or dissolute life.

A dependent person so far as it is material to this case is defined to be a person under the age of 21 years who from any cause is in danger of growing up to lead an idle, dissolute or immoral life.

On the other hand, if you are satisfied beyond and to the exclusion of a reasonable doubt:

First—That Alice Phelps, the person named in the information, was within this county on October 2, 1912, then and there under the age of 21 years, and neither the wife of defendant, nor the inmate of a State institution; and

Second—That she was then and there in danger of growing up to lead an immoral or dissolute life; and

Third—That she was in such danger from the cause or causes set out in the information; and

Fourth—That such act of intercourse, if any, on the part of the defendant, Guy Eddie, to any extent encouraged or contributed to her danger of growing up to lead an immoral or dissolute life, it is your duty to find in favor of the People of the State of California, and against the defendant, Guy Eddie.

I caution you to use the utmost care that you do not consider any statement of counsel not supported by the evidence. If you are in doubt as to the testimony of any witness it is your privilege to be conducted into court and have it read.

In all your deliberations you should keep in mind the oath you took when you were accepted as jurors: that you would well and truly try the issue between the people of the State of California and this defendant and a true verdict render according to the evidence, which means that you have sworn to be just to the defendant, Guy Eddie, and just to the plaintiff, the People of the State of California.

It is quite the fashion in these days to deride the American jury system; but no well-founded criticism ever has been directed against a verdict found by competent, conscientious men who have endeavored to live up to the juror's oath.

When twelve honest and intelligent men who have carefully listened to the evidence in a case retire to the juryroom to deliberate, with the determination in their minds to lay aside all prejudice and all sympathy, to ascertain the truth and declare it by their verdict, without regard to the consequences to themselves, or whether it will please or displease any portion of the public, their judgment is practically infallible. Gentlemen, I have confidence that you will so deliberate upon this case that you will fully measure up to this standard. I believe that your verdict, whatever it may be, will demonstrate your impartiality and intelligence and redound to the credit of this court of which for the time being you are a most important part.

Garnet-shes.

DOUBLY CLAIM ALASKAN MINE.

WOMEN FIND FAKER TRYING TO SELL THEIR PROPERTY.

That's Charge Made to Grand Jury Which Returns Indictment, and Warrant Is to Be Served Tomorrow—Real Owners Believed Far Away, but They're Yet Near.

Two secret indictments were returned yesterday by the Federal grand jury involving two Los Angeles men, showing about the nerviest bit of alleged swindling ever attempted in this part of the country. The arrests in the case are to be made tomorrow.

Last March there appeared in the papers an advertisement offering to sell a one-fourth interest in a garnet deposit in Alaska for $1000. Prospective purchasers were asked to call a certain number in one of the large Broadway buildings.

The advertisement caught the eye of Annie E. Durkee and Mary T. Elmer of Seattle who for some time previous to the past year lived in Pittsburgh. They owned a garnet deposit in Alaska near Fort Wrangell and had supposed it was the only one in the Territory of any value.

They were curious and called at the number given in the advertisement. They found one of the men, a prosperous-looking dentist, and he talked volubly about the desirability of the investment. The women asked where the deposit was located and they were told that it was in the vicinity of Fort Wrangell, at the mouth of the Stickeen River. They thought that just a coincidence, but remembered that their mine was at the same place.

One of the women asked what had become of the two women who were supposed to have owned the property. "Oh, they have left; they were simply working for us," said the promoter, with the oil of gladness lubricating his smooth tongue. "Ah," said the lady, who began to suspect.

"I was in that country some years ago, and visited the mine," said the woman, "and at that time there were a number of Indians employed at the mine, did the agent know what had become of them?"

"Oh, yes," he said, "They were working for us. They have gone away."

One thing led on to another and the callers became convinced that the advertisers were trying to gull investors to put money in a garnet deposit that was solely their property. But they did not mention the matter to the smooth agents.

They left, promising to call again, but instead of that they communicated the substance of their investigation to several friends. The latter were induced to write the agents asking for information in regard to the Alaska investment. The answers that followed these letters left nothing uncertain in the minds of the women. The advertisers had in some way found out that the women owned the mine and counting on their supposed absence in the East thought they could unload a quarter interest in the claim.

Priceless Ming Vase Among Other Pieces.

Widow About to Sell Them in New York.

A unique treasure is the inheritance of Mrs. Lea from her distinguished husband, the late Gen. Homer Lea, the man responsible in large measure for the new China. It consists of a collection of rare vases of "crackle" Ming ware, given Lea from time to time, in recognition of his services in preparing the great empire for its destiny. Mrs. Lea has not had the collection appraised, but it is considered almost priceless, and she is now preparing to offer it in New York, where multi-millionaires specialize in the odd and the beautiful, and where suitable museum may be provided.

Mrs. Lea says these negotiations have not proceeded far enough to warrant a statement as to the ultimate destination of her rare collection, but she anticipates little difficulty in placing it with a connoisseur of appreciation and dollars.

The richest piece is an imperial heirloom born during the revered Chang Hwa era of the Ming dynasty, nearly 500 years ago—revered, that is, by that small coterie of porcelain devotees who regard a beautiful piece of flawless antique pottery as the most priceless, most important thing in the world.

This particular vase is variously valued at anything from $5000 to $1,000,000, according to the ardent or merely respectful devotion of the appraiser. It stands two feet high, the largest known in the much-coveted "crackle" Ming, and proudly boasts the most correct and adorable curves, the softest, most velvety surface, the gentle, mellow gloss, the superb and chaste design, and the inimitable coloring that go to proclaim its unimpeachable pedigree to the expert eye.

The most valuable collection of this ware known to the world is in the possession of that arch-collector, J. Pierpont Morgan, but he is credited with nothing that begins to compare with the splendid specimen given to Gen. Homer Lea by a Chinese "Personage in high places" in token of a great gratitude and now tenderly cherished by his widow.

DECORATED WITH HORSE.

It is decorated with a rearing horse on one side, and a crane on the reverse, both significant, as is the way with Chinese art, with deep and historical meaning. There was a time when there were no horses in China, but Mou Wong, a great warrior king of the Chien dynasty, in 1000 B.C., possessed eight fine chargers which he kept on an island in an eastern sea. These were fed on dragon grass until they could travel at the terrific speed of 1000 li a day. This horse, then, is symbolical of rarity, perfection and longevity, designed in yellow and black, a subtle compliment to the imperial patrons of the house of Ming. The crane also signifies longevity in Chinese lore, his Chinese name is Ho. The story goes that the crane lived for 600 years without food or water. After 2000 years he turned black. He is invariably used to symbolize the aerial steed of the revered Wang Tan' Klae and as a companion of the court of Lin Hwa Ching.

Each new dynasty has seen a renaissance in the art of porcelain-making, but none has ever exceeded the Ming dynasty 400 years ago, and beauty. The Manchu dynasty, which has just been overthrown, succeeded the Ming dynasty 400 years ago, and Chien Ling, the third Emperor of the Manchu line, made great efforts to revive the art and restore its former perfection. Although very fine porcelain has come from China in recent decades, there has been nothing to equal the old achievement. The modern ware is always just a shade too glossy, just a shade less soft in texture, just a shade more garish—it shines, in fact, where it should but glow.

OF OTHER AGES.

Mrs. Lea also possesses a number of smaller pieces of crackle Ming ware, small jars with covers and pomade jars. Her very modern flat looks quaint and incongruous, lined as it is with oriental treasures of bygone ages. Handsome old Chinese embroideries and robes greet the eye, the moment one enters, ancient Buddha idols gaze at one with half-sleepy insolence from the top of a very modern writing desk, old Chinese pictures hang upon the latest thing in walls, and a huge old blue Chinese vase stands upon the floor on a very latter-day carpet.

The last-mentioned vase is quite a modern affair, compared to the Ming treasure, only about 150 years old. Is blue and gold of wonderfully rich hues, it bears the exclusive Imperial symbol of the dragon with five toes, which promptly stamps it as the property of His Imperial Majesty, Chien Ling, to the expert eye. Some lesser princeling is permitted the use of a four-toed dragon, but only the Imperial house may flaunt a five-toed monster.

A small basin in the same rich blue ware is really a more perfect example, however, according to the critical connoisseurs. The blue is just that soupcon richer, the gold just that breath deeper, the "touch" just that minute bit softer. Besides the dragon, it is adorned with that old symbol to be met with so often in Chinese art, signifying life.

Then there are several small jars and basins of the Kang Shi period, one in mauve and pink coloring and another in sublime blues, while a third of the Chien Ling in two or three shades of green was an extraordinary example of successful artistic daring. A Peking bottle-shaped piece with blues and greens on a rich terra cotta background particularly aroused my envy.

A large vase of the last century which Mrs. Lea regards with that aesthetic tolerance accorded the merely modern, is also of crackle ware and gives a fine opportunity for comparison with the special Ming treasure. Apart, the ignorant would observe little difference, but together, even the most ill-informed cannot fail to appreciate the more subtle loveliness, the immeasurably greater perfection of the older vase.

WONDERFUL WORKS.

Many and wonderful are the lovely embroideries which [illegible] sesses.

Although Chinese wear trousers, the ways wear skirts, one or two of the merits, heavily em fine a stitch that have been the work time. Really the well with our own there are straight front, with flat fan-sides—the same allowing much mo in.

Most of the beau cases, priceless ar to the author of norance" and "Th on," by grateful Chi the fact that his po ored place in Chin Peking is evidence place this former School boy holds as well as in the the world.

Mrs. Lea has not had the collection appraised, but it is considered almost priceless, and she is now preparing to offer it in New York, where multi-millionaires specialize in objets and the beautiful, and where private museum may be provided.

Mrs. Lea says these negotiations have not proceeded far enough to warrant a statement as to the ultimate destination of her rare collection, but she anticipates little difficulty in placing it with a connoisseur of appreciation and dollars.

The richest piece is an imperial picture born during the revered Hung Hwa era of the Ming dynasty, only 150 years ago—revered, that is by that small coterie of porcelain devotees who regard a beautiful piece of Sevres antique pottery as the most priceless, most important thing in the world.

The particular vase is variously valued at anything from $5000 to $1,000,000, according to the ardent or cool respectful devotion of the appraiser. It stands two feet high, the most known in the much-coveted "crackle" Ming, and proudly boasts its most correct and adorable curves, its softest, most velvety surface, the rich mellow gloss, the superb and rare colors, and the inimitable coloring that go to proclaim its unimpeachable pedigree to the expert eye.

Handsome old Chinese embroideries and robes greet the eye, the quaint old deities, ancient Buddhas that gaze at one with half-sleepy eyes from the top of a very modern desk, old Chinese pictures and even the latest thing in walls, a frieze of old blue Chinese vase designs, run the floor on a very latter-day carpet.

The last-mentioned vase is quite a modern affair, compared to the Ming treasure, only about 150 years old. But it bears the exclusive imperial mark of the dragon with five toes, which promptly stamps it as the property of His Imperial Majesty, Chien Lung, to the expert eye. Morgan, owner of the world's finest Chinese collection, is credited with nothing equal to the piece on the left, a "crackle" Ming ware vase. The other vase is much larger and a dream in blue and gold.

embroideries which Mrs. Lea possesses.

Although Chinese women generally wear trousers, the Manchu ladies always wear skirts, and Mrs. Lea has one or two of these gorgeous garments, heavily embroidered with so fine a stitch that each panel must have been the work of someone's lifetime. Really the styles would fit in well with our own present mode, for there are straight panels back and front, with flat fan-like pleats at the sides—the same effect as ours, but allowing much more room to walk in.

Most of the beautiful, and in many cases, priceless articles, were given to the author of "The Valor of Ignorance" and "The Day of the Saxon," by grateful Chinese grandees, and the fact that his portrait fills an honored place in China's hall of fame at Peking is evidence of the important place this former Los Angeles High School boy holds in Chinese history, as well as in the military history of the world.

POLITICAL TIPS.

It is evident that the Democratic majority propose to overthrow the Senate organization after the 4th of March. This has been hinted at before, but Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee puts the matter plainly. "The law of primogeniture has been outlived in the world at large," he says. "There is no more reason why it should survive in the United States Senate than in any other place. The House has found a way to break up the inheritance system in regard to committee chairmanships, and you can judge for yourself whether the Senate is likely to do the same thing." The plan most frequently mentioned, says the New York Times' Washington correspondent, is one calling for a session of the Democratic members in caucus. It is believed that such a caucus will yield a majority vote in favor of the radical wing of the party, and that a committee can be named, dominated by radically-inclined members, to submit to the caucus for its approval a list of all Senatorial chairmanships. In this way any particular Senator deposed will be unable, it is anticipated, to focus his wrath upon any one group in the Senate, as the caucus will finally pass upon all matters pertaining to the chairmanship.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon has recently visited President-elect Wilson to urge the appointment as Secretary of the Interior of either J. N. Teal, an attorney of Portland, or Judge W. R. King, formerly a member of the State Supreme Court. The unsuccessful result of his visit is indicated by his statement that "Mr. Wilson evidently has in mind some one from the Middle States who is not affected by the views held in the far West or the extreme East on conservation. He wants a man from neutral territory."

In the coming Democratic Congress there will be a contest between the Northern and Southern Democrats for supremacy. During the long period in which the Republicans controlled the House there were very few Northern Democrats in its membership. The House Democracy shrank until it contained very little outside the solid South. Naturally, therefore, the best committee places in the minority have come to be theirs. In the Sixty-third Congress, however, the Northern Democrats will outnumber the Southern ones, and they do not view with pleasure the prospect of having to content themselves with places in the rear. It is therefore a sectional fight only in form. In reality it is a fight against the seniority practice, the same as in the Senate. The proposal is to start the fight right at the outset by proposing in the caucus to be held at the opening of Congress that the power of making committee appointments be vested in a committee on committees, which shall be elected at the caucus. Then the Northern Democrats would proceed to elect a committee on committees in which their own men should be in the majority.

R. M. Johnston, who has been appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Senator Bailey of Texas, has little hope of having his Senatorial life continued by the Legislature electing him his own successor. Mr. Johnston has been a supporter of Senator Bailey throughout the bitter political fights in Texas which for several years have centered about Senator Bailey. Col. Johnston was for twelve years Democratic national committeeman for Texas, his service ending last summer, when the Texas primaries turned in a landslide vote for Woodrow Wilson as preferential Presidential nominee. He had supported Judson Harmon and did not stand for re-election as national committeeman. Congressman Morris Sheppard of Texarkana was named in July last in the Texas Democratic primaries as preferential choice for United States Senator to succeed Senator Bailey.

Gov. Sulzer of New York proposes to reduce the cost of running the State government, and as the size of his aspirations says he hopes to accomplish a saving of $6,000,000. As a preliminary he will appoint a committee to examine every State department and bureau and discover whatever leaks there may be. The idea seems to be hardly original with him, however, as he says he has consulted with Justice Charles E. Hughes (former Governor and a Republican) in regard to the commissions and their workings. "Many of the things I am doing," he added, "are at his suggestion."

Gov. Blease of South Carolina has recently revoked the commissions of a large number of notaries public in all parts of the State. In a published statement he says some were his political enemies. In other cases, he says, the commissions were revoked because he had heard that the men had made wagers on the result of the Democratic primary election last summer. He says further that no man need to apply to him for office unless he be "a Blease man." The Governor says he would have issued a general order revoking all the commissions at one time, but banks and other institutions asked him not to do so, as it would interfere with their business.

Congressman Tawney of Minnesota is responsible for the statement that Col. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, has an ambition to become President and expects to receive the Republican nomination in 1916.

It is the honorable ambition of any man to aspire to be President, but Col Goethals's fame is secure as the successful builder of the largest engineering project in the history of the world.

Judge G. H. Buckman of Winfield, Kan., Progressive Speaker of the 1911 House of Representatives, and a candidate for Supreme Court justice in the August (1912) primaries, has reaffirmed his faith and allegiance to the Republican party, and says he proposes to stand in politics just where he has always stood—a Republican. "The Republican party to me, at least, is just as good as it ever was. It stands for just as much as it ever did. There are some objectionable persons in the party. I am in favor of weeding them out. But the party is all right."

Gov.-elect Cox of Ohio says he is going to give the Legislature a lot to do while he is Governor, "and I am going to see that it is done, also." A Columbus dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times says that if Cox does keep after the Legislature, as he says he will, "there will be a lively time between the Governor and the Assemblymen, although both branches of the House are heavily Democratic. But Cox has his foes in his own party and these may tie up with the Republicans and make it pretty interesting for all concerned.

"The amendments to the Constitution which the people of the State accepted at the polls in September and the progressive platform promulgated by the Democrats in November open the way for much radical legislation, and if the Democrats keep their promise there will be busy, not to say exciting, times this winter. Practically ever since the election Cox has been at work planning a legislative programme for the Legislature, and, while the soft pedal is going to be put on some of the most radical measures which the Democrats espoused on the stump, there will be enough progressive legislation, if Cox has his way, to make other States in this part of the country pause and consider. But no one believes that the Democrats will go as far as they said they would go."

The record established by former Gov. Nash of Ohio of appointing twenty-seven judges during his four years in office has about been publicated by Gov. Harmon, who, when he fills the three vacancies now existing, will have named twenty-five. It used to be that practically every judge in the State, with the exception of a few Democratic counties, was a Republican. Now, however, there is a very wide sprinkling of Democrats on the Ohio bench. Gov. Harmon has named judges from Supreme judge down, filling vacancies caused by death and resignations, so that with Harmon's appointments and the landslide last November, the Democrats have captured many desirable places on the bench.

RAIN ENDS COLD SPELL.

San Jacinto Orange Growers Suffer Loss, but Subsequent Precipitation Gives Birth to Hope.

SAN JACINTO, Jan. 11.—The rain has effectually ended the cold snap. It is difficult to estimate the damage caused by the freeze. The temperature ranged from 7 degrees above zero to 2 degrees below. The orange sections of the valley at Valle Vista, Little Lake, Park Hill, the Nat Goodwin ranch and Soboba Lithia Hot Springs, all suffered to a great extent. While opinions differ among growers as to the extent of the loss, all admit that it is most serious. A prominent grower gives the loss at 95 per cent. of the crop and 5 per cent. of the trees in the younger groves. Other growers are more optimistic and place the fruit loss at 75 per cent. with practically no tree loss. The groves present a very sorry spectacle at present, but the owners are undaunted by the severe blow, and forces of men are already busy cutting away the frosted limbs and with grafting wax are repairing the "splits" caused by the cold. A conservative estimate places the loss in the orange-growing sections of the valley at $15,000.

Nor were the citrus fruit growers the only sufferers. Those who raised the humble Irish potato also came in for their share of grief. Where the potatoes were still undug, the loss was total, as the earth was frozen to a depth of five or six inches. Even potatoes in sacks that were stored in open barns and sheds were frozen. Fortunately most of the potato crop was dug and well-housed in warehouses. The Chinese vegetable gardens were practically put out of business for a season.

A zero temperature has never before been known in the San Jacinto Valley, and even during the great blizzard of 1878, described in Ramona, the mercury did not fall below 6 above zero, declare those who were then residents of the valley.

But the gloom that has overshadowed the valley for the past few days is being rapidly dissipated by the glorious rain. On the thousands of acres of fallow soil, extending from Box Springs to Mt. San Jacinto, the gentle rain means life and growth to a hay, wheat and barley crop that, under normal conditions should amount to $2,000,000. Coming two months earlier than it came last year, this first rain, if followed with light rains during the growing season, should mean a grain and hay crop far in excess of that produced last year, when the first rain did not fall until the first week of March. With a liberal rainfall during the present storm, followed by a few weeks of warm sunshine, in which to plow and seed, and San Jacinto ranchers and business men will forget the two trying nights of the first week in January.

Mrs. A. J. McArthur is having extensive repairs made to her house on Central avenue and Estudillo street. A new roof has been put on the building and work has been done on the interior.

Strong & Dickenson of Los Angeles are having a well sunk on their lands near the San Jacinto Lake. The well has been driven to a depth of more than 800 feet and it is the intention of the owners to push it down to 1000 feet. It is hoped to obtain an artesian flow of 300 inches. This will be the deepest well in the valley, and the first well in the lower part of the valley below the 300-foot level.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cheshire have returned to San Jacinto after an absence of several years and are occupying their acreage property on Central avenue. Mr. Cheshire will make improvements on the place and place it under a high state of cultivation.

R. F. Garner drove a herd of 200 beeves through San Jacinto this week, taking the cattle from his mountain ranch in Hemet Valley to his warm winter range in Whitewater, on the edge of the Colorado Desert.

PUTS AN END TO BACKACHE, QUICKLY CURES WEAK KIDNEYS

A Few Doses Give Relief, Helps Lifeless Organs Regain Health, Strength and Activity.

It is useless, dangerous, and unnecessary to be tortured with the digging, twisting pains of backache and rheumatism, or suffer with disagreeable kidney and bladder disorders any longer.

The new discovery, Croxone, provides a remedy which every sufferer can now depend upon to promptly and surely relieve all such misery and bring about a speedy cure.

Croxone cures these troubles because it quickly overcomes the very cause of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the membranes and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and makes the kidneys filter and sift from the blood all the waste and poisonous matter that clog the system and cause such troubles.

It does not matter whether you have but slight symptoms or the most chronic, aggravated case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism that it is possible to imagine, for the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it, and all the misery and suffering that go with such troubles end.

You can secure an original package of Croxone from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

Coming Down.

HILL RAZERS IN NORTHERN CITY.

San Francisco Has Barrier Like Bunker Hill.

Campaign to Cut It Down Is Well Under Way.

Banks Aiding in Formulating Financing Plan.

A hill-razing project of considerable magnitude and importance is being considered by business men, city officials and the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, with a good prospect that it will be undertaken. The proposition is to entirely remove Rincon Hill, which covers about fifteen blocks and constitutes a serious obstacle to traffic between the wholesale district and the new docks, and is preventing a normal growth and extension of the wholesale district.

The hill is neither as large nor as high as Bunker Hill, but the problem presents practically the same phases which enter into the Los Angeles situation and is being attacked in the same manner. The Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to furnish information relative to the number of property owners, the area and estimated value of each lot, the assessed valuation of real estate and improvements, the mortgages, if any, the number of cubic yards of dirt and rock to be removed and the estimated cost of removal.

Most of this work has been completed and the chamber is now working with a committee of the Associated Savings Banks on a suitable method for financing the project. It is believed that the grading and repaving of the streets will be undertaken by the city on a district assessment plan, the property owners affected bearing the cost. Some other method, it is stated, will be necessary to take care of the regrading of the remainder of the hill.

Both of these two parts of the problem in San Francisco ultimately present the same question of cost to the property owners. If the benefits to the property are not as great or greater than the entire cost of the work, the project must fail and be postponed until such time as the difference between the value of the commercial property and cheap residence property is equal to the cost. It is believed that the benefits will now much more than equal the cost.

Many of the leading San Francisco business men are strongly in favor of undertaking the regrade. The City Engineer and others say that the value of the property will quadruple in value immediately after the new grade has been established.

Few if any of the property owners appear to be against the plan for the wholesale cutting down of the hill and making all the property available for commercial purposes. All they want to know is that they will not be forced out by having greater assessments put on them than the property can stand. Most of them have been uncertain as to the status of their property for some time, as the question of razing the hill was raised several years ago.

The investigation has taken several weeks and has required the expenditure of a considerable sum of money. The entire campaign thus far has been carried on by the Chamber of Commerce. When more data has been secured the total cost estimated and a plan for financing the scheme formulated, the matter will be put up to the San Francisco Council for action.

In some respects the San Francisco project seems less attractive than the plan to cut down Bunker Hill, chiefly as the property values to be gained. The San Francisco regrade district is well located for certain kinds of industrial property but the values could never approach the estimates of property in the Bunker Hill district.

Looking Ahead.

OUTGROWING THE NEW BUILDING?

CAMPAIGN RENEWED FOR MORE FEDERAL ROOM.

Improvement Association Will Give Great Banquet—Urges Annexation of Contiguous Territory and Asks Investigation of City Expenditures.

The matter of securing more room north of the present Federal building for additional government buildings to accommodate the proposed customhouse, sub-treasury and assay office, was vigorously renewed at the last meeting of the N. W. Commercial and Improvement Association.

The report of the committee on the subject created enthusiasm in the meeting, not only by its insistence upon making a hard fight for adequate appropriations by the government, but by its demonstration that the tremendous increase in the postal business of the city, together with the postal-savings and parcel-post departments, will demand the use of the entire Federal Building within the next two or three years. The committee was directed to take up diligently the matter of the appropriations, with the purpose of securing all the ground north of the Federal Building as far as the Plaza Church, and between Main and New High streets.

It is proposed to hold a great banquet, as a climax to securing 1000 members for the association, the time of which has not been definitely fixed. The following committee of management was elected: Joseph Scanmer, chairman; J. Mills Davies, secretary; John Castera, treasurer; R. H. Kelly, John Kingsley, Miss M. F. Gibbs, Mrs. Lawrence Holmes.

The unanimous sentiment of the meeting was for annexation of contiguous territory before undertaking further municipal bond issues, and advised a thorough investigation of all expenditures by the Harbor Commission, Public Service Commission and other departments prior to the voting bond election.

It was unanimously voted that efforts looking to the proposed razing of Bunker Hill should be pressed with all haste possible.

The question of creating a great civic center between First and Temple streets was again discussed, upon a plan submitted by the Civic Center Committee. The plan is complex, far-reaching and involves a maze of changes that cause the head to swim, though undoubtedly providing for a handsome civic center, with Spring street running straight, north of First, to an angled junction with New High street at the Federal Building. The name of New High street, by the same plan, would be changed to Spring street.

NEGROES ROUSED BY SIMS'S PLAN.

Say Segregation of Colored Pupils Unnecessary.

Originator of Idea Swatted in the Face.

Co-education an Uplifting Force, Says One.

That the 20,000 negroes of Los Angeles are not all followers of George W. Sims, who advocates segregation of the race in separate schools, is indicated in the active measures taken by various organizations and race leaders in this city in opposition to his proposed charter amendment.

A meeting of negro citizens held yesterday at the colored Y.M.C.A. voiced the indignation felt at what they term the unauthorized representation of Sims. The Negro Business League has adopted the following resolution which was concurred in by the mass meeting:

Resolved: That the league does unreservedly condemn the proposition of George W. Sims, submitted to the Charter Committee of Fifteen, in which he asks that legislation be introduced to the end that the City Charter will direct that co-education of the races be abolished and that colored children be taught in separate schools; that we believe the segregation of schools to be unwise; expensive, and without advantage to either people.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

This resolution, a copy of which has been sent to Bradner W. Lee, chairman of the committee, is signed by negro clergymen, professional and business men.

Willis O. Tyler, an attorney and one of the spokesmen for his people, said last night that the movement is to be deplored because it brings up a question about which there has been no previous agitation.

"The white people," he said, "are not demanding segregation, and the negroes certainly do not desire it. We are citizens of Los Angeles, and as such think that our children are entitled to the same educational advantages as white children. We do not ask, nor have we ever assumed social equality. There are less than 1000 negro pupils of public school age in this city, and they are not concentrated in any one locality. It would be absurd to build separate school houses to accommodate the few colored children. There are more children of other nationalities attending school in this city than of our race. Why not have separate schools and teachers for them?

"It is through amalgamation, not segregation, that good Americans are made. We want the uplifting influence which comes with co-education. We cannot harm the whites and they can help us. Cities with many times the colored population as Los Angeles do not find it advisable to segregate, and we believe that the standard of education would be higher in the South for both races if it were not practiced there.

"We do not desire controversy, but we want the public to understand our attitude, and that the proposed amendment does not represent any considerable part of the colored population."

EXPRESSES DISGUST.

In the protesting committee was F. M. Roberts, editor of the New Age, which in its latest issue attacks the Sims plan under the headline: "Un-American Schools Not Wanted." The New Age says in part:

"Aroused almost to violence by the malign misrepresentation of race sentiment in this city by George W. Sims, who falsely advises the City Charter Committee of Fifteen that the citizens of Los Angeles desire separate schools, and asks that a provision to that effect be offered in the proposed city charter, race people are not so much excited by the audacity of Sims, than they are alarmed at any fear that his agitation will be seriously considered."

The protestants have asked the committee for a hearing, but in view of the fact that it is the purpose of the Charter Committee to take up only such matters are of vital immediate urgency to tide the city over the time required to formulate and submit an entirely new charter, it is thought by members of the committee that the Sims proposed amendment will prevail.

SOMEBODY HIT SIMS.

Sims, who is a student at the University of Southern California, said yesterday:

"About one-third of the colored people of this city are in favor of segregation, and are organized under the name of the Negro Protective League. I did not know anything about the meeting at the Y.M.C.A. until somebody telephoned me to come over there, that Mr. Davis wanted to see me. When I went in and asked for Mr. Davis, I was told by Jim Alexander that Mr. Davis had left word for him and he would talk to me. I went into the gymnasium to talk, and he said some things about my moral and moral condition, and I told him a few things in the same fashion. He became angry and struck me in the face, as you can see by the big lump on my cheek. I do not believe in fighting, as it will only injure the cause in which I am acting. It is my opinion that some of these negroes who are opposing segregation would very quickly become its advocates, if somebody would come with a good sum of money to pay them for doing it."

No effort was made to get in communication with Alexander after Sims told of being assaulted, but he could not be found.

BURIED; RESCUED; AT WORK.

Buried alive under a quantity of sand and earth, but rescued by fellow laborers before he could be suffocated to death, was the thrilling experience of Mike Miller, No. 704 Ceres street, yesterday in the basement of the Van Nuys garage, in course of construction at No. 1231 Olive street. Half an hour after Miller had previously returned to work, he was working about ten feet below the sidewalk when the face of an embankment gave way without warning, completely burying him. Miller's fellow workmen, however, dug him out quickly, uncovering him within a few minutes after the man had disappeared from the hole.

Why The Use of Puritas Distilled Water Is Essential

Drinking Pure Water Is No "Fad," But a Necessary Health Precaution.

In Southern California the drinking water is noticeably poor—tourists and strangers to this climate almost invariably comment upon its mineral properties, and the strong taste of alkali.

The unpleasant taste of the natural waters hereabouts, however, is a small item, in view of the fact that they are notably impure—being filled, especially at this time of year, when the first rains begin—with vegetable and animal matter of all sorts, washed down through the watercourses which have been dry all summer.

Physicians know that a very frequent cause of illness is the drinking of impure water — impurities and germs of every sort being quickly taken into the body, with oftentimes serious results.

The only really safe course to pursue, the year around—but surely NOW—is to have in your home or your office a demijohn of PURITAS—the pure, sparkling distilled water known to thousands of Los Angelenos—and uniformly used by the majority of them.

PURITAS is the old-fashioned soft water that you used to get "back East"—plus absolute purity, which the natural waters of course lack.

For PURITAS is drawn from deep, clean wells, then it is thoroughly distilled, and afterward aerated by means of an electrical current—to restore that life and sparkle which distillation removes. Then it is carefully bottled in big five-gallon glass demijohns, provided with tilters for easy using.

To be certain of avoiding the disease germs that exist in impure drinking water, secure PURITAS; we will deliver a demijohn anywhere within the old city boundary lines for a cost of but 40 cents—and for a trifle more, to any part of the city.

And if you live out of town, and can find no regular PURITAS dealer, a telephonic or written request will bring you a prompt supply direct from the main plant. Home 10053; Sunset Main 8191.

HOW TO SAVE ORANGE TREES.

CHARTER OAK MAN TELEPHONES SIMPLE REMEDY.

Those on Which Bark Has Been Burned by Frost or Otherwise May Be Saved by Wrapping With Strips of Muslin Before Bark Dries, He Says.

F. W. Funk of Charter Oak, who says he has saved many orange trees after the bark has been loosened by frost or otherwise, felt so deep an interest in the present emergency that he telephoned to The Times yesterday, asking that his simple suggestion be given at once to owners of orchards that may have been damaged by the bursting of the bark.

Take narrow strips of muslin, not less than one inch wide, and wrap the tree tightly so that the bark will be held firmly in place, and if this is done before the bark has dried on the inner surface, he says it will again knit to the tree. The sooner it is done the better, in order that the loosened bark may contain the greatest possible amount of vitality. The tree need not be wrapped closely, but just with sufficient turns around the trunk to hold the bark firmly in place.

Everybody who knows anything about trees knows that this is no new theory, but just on account of its simplicity there is danger of its being overlooked in an emergency where possibly thousands of trees should be so treated. Funk says that he has simply used the plain muslin without the application of any substance whatever to hold it or make it impervious to moisture.

HOCH PERRY WEIDNER!

Germans to Be Hosts to New Consul for Das Vaterland to Celebrate Appointment.

The 27th inst. is to be a red-letter day in the annals of the German colony of Los Angeles. On that day the leading Teutons of the city will celebrate the establishment of a German Consulate for Southern California with a banquet at Hamburger's Cafe, to which the leading business men of the city and members of the government and city administration are invited to respond to toasts given in honor of President Taft and Emperor William.

Not only will local notables appear as the festivities, but members of the German diplomatic service will be present. Consul Bopp of San Francisco, whose jurisdiction formerly extended over the entire State, will be present to officially install Consul Weidner, the newly appointed commercial representative of the German Empire, in his office. The Germans of the city are elated over the fact that the German government has recognized the commercial present and future of Los Angeles by the establishment of a Consulate here, this being the only State in the Union in which there are two such offices.

The date of the banquet is the birth anniversary of Emperor William, which is celebrated all over the world by Germans. It is the intention of the committee in charge to bring the leaders of the German colony, the business men of the city, the importer and exporter, in closer touch with the German element here, and especially with the new Consul, Perry Weidner, who for years has been a leader in German circles and is popular with his countrymen.

The banquet is given under the auspices of the German-American Alliance. The following is the committee on arrangement: Carl Entenmann, R. E. Kaestner, John P. Krempel, A. H. Koebig, Max E. Socha, Dr. Curt Dietsch, Dr. Joseph Krutz, Eddie Maier, Prof. Val Buehner, Roger M. Andrews and Richard Glauch.

The Germans have established, almost universally, local committees of business men, manufacturers and workmen, who control these schools wherever they are. The result is that the manufacturers and the working people take the utmost pride and interest in these schools and watch closely their development, a condition greatly to be desired as a matter of practicability.

A great element in the success of this work is the teachers. Every means has been employed to get the right kind. The Germans have paid teachers in this work higher wages than for similar grades in the other schools. Only teachers who are really artistic in their particular line are employed.

Police Believe Burglars Commit Arson to Cover Their Deed—Mysterious Blaze Destructive.

Arson was resorted to by burglars in an effort to hide their crime, if the theory of the police is correct relative to the destruction of W. D. Botchlett's meat market and grocery at Nos. 1000 and 1002 West First street early yesterday morning. The loss is about $4500, partially covered by insurance.

A mysterious feature of the fire is that the front door of the store was found open when Patrolman Lloyd arrived, after having rung in an alarm. Lloyd says that when he reached the building the flames were making great headway in the center of the large storeroom, toward the rear.

Botchlett said that when he closed his store Friday night he locked all the doors. He declared there was nothing in the building that could have caused a fire by spontaneous combustion.

The building, owned by R. D. Minig, No. 107 South Fremont avenue, was destroyed.

ERUPTION ON LEGS, BACK AND HEAD

Also on Fingers. Like Little Boils. Throbbing and Burning Pain. Had to Cut off Hair. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Entirely Cured In Six Weeks.

Bloomingdale, Mich.—"I had sores on my legs, back, on my head and on the tips of my fingers. They looked first like little boils and had pus in them. They started with a throbbing and burning pain. They opened and formed a scab and would spread to the size of a silver dollar. My mother had to cut off my hair because we could n't comb it, it pained me so badly and besides it was stuck together with pus. My underwear would stick to the sores on my body. My mother had to soak the clothes off of me. The clothing irritated my body. I had to go bare-footed for four weeks because I could not get on a shoe or a stocking. They would stick to the sores, and I could not get them off.

"The trouble started two weeks before my mother tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I was a little relieved in three days and was entirely cured in six weeks by Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Olive Dalton, Se, 23, 1912.

For trusting poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

ODD DEPARTURE IN IRRIGATION.

Line of Wells to Furnish the Water.

Construction to Open Vast Land Area.

Mormon Refugees to Farm Arizona Acres.

A pioneer project in constructive irrigation which is attracting the attention of the West because of its radical departure from anything of the kind before attempted, is that being carried on near Tucson, Ariz., where life-giving water is being brought to thirsty acres. Twenty wells stretching across a valley a mile from the city are being utilized in the reclamation of vast tracts, the plan being to tap the wells with a giant conduit and bring it by gradual stages to a point of distribution.

An army of men are now at work constructing this conduit and digging the wells, the various parts of the great work being carried on at one and the same time. Although many difficulties are being encountered in the way of keeping the construction work clear of water, it is planned to complete the system within sixty days. Already arrangements have been made with Mormon refugees from Mexico, so that hundreds of families will move onto the land and begin its cultivation with the completion of the irrigation project.

BIG TO TUCSON.

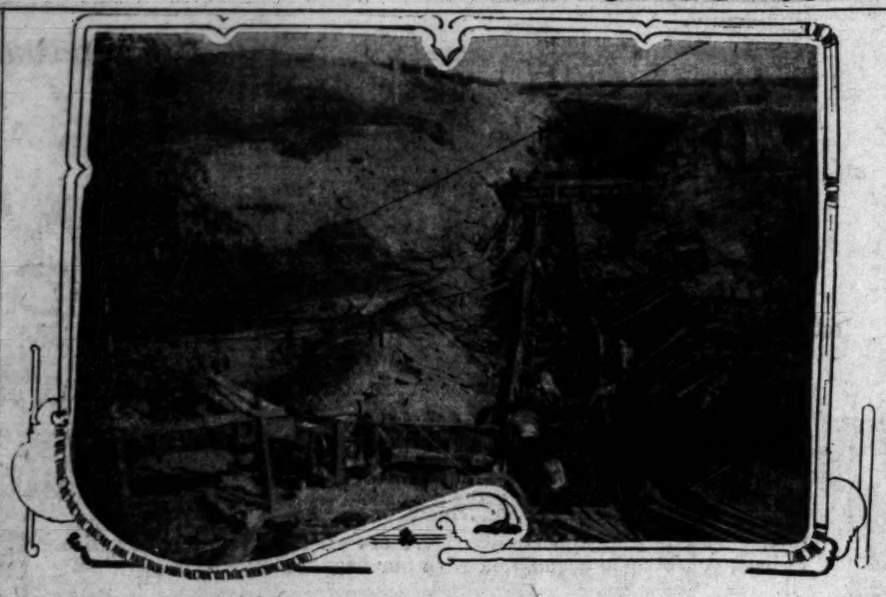
The plan, is successful, will make Tucson self-supporting, whereas all vegetable growth used in the city heretofore, or sold by the merchants there to adjacent mining districts, has of necessity been imported. The claim is made that the land thereabouts is fertile and that only the lack of water has prevented bountiful crops. The Mormons are admittedly the best farmers in the country and the people of Tucson are looking forward to the time when the surrounding country will furnish them with all they require in the way of vegetables.

The work of providing water for these semi-arid tracts is in the hands of the Arthur S. Bent Construction Company of this city and in conversation yesterday the hand of the firm expressed his confidence in his ability to carry the work to a successful conclusion. The plan begin pursued is to tap each of the twenty wells at a depth of twenty-seven feet below the ground, which means eleven feet below the water plane. Each well will be manned with a centrifugal pump, the motive power being electricity.

COSTS QUARTER-MILLION.

A monolithic reinforced concrete pipe will connect all the wells and a giant conduit will lead off down the west branch of the Santa Cruz River, gradually reaching the bank level. From this point the water will be carried in a reinforced concrete open canal about two miles to the land and from there distributed. The enterprise will cost approximately $250,000.

Water is reached at a depth of eleven feet and workmen are experiencing great difficulty in carrying on operations along the line of the proposed route. Sixteen pumps are in constant operation to keep the water clear for contruction purposes. It is estimated that the water from the twenty wells will be ample to supply thousands of acres with all the moisture required. Inasmuch as the project has never before been attempted, its completion is being awaited with more than usual interest by those to whom the difficulty of bringing water to inaccessible places appeals with special force.



Building a Deep Conduit Which Will Tap Twenty Wells,

And carry water to thousands of thirsty Arizona acres contiguous to Tucson. This is a pioneer project in constructive irrigation and the people back of it expect to revolutionize that part of the country. Whereas Tucson has had to import all vegetable supplies for its own consumption as well as for the adjacent mining territory, the water supply will make the land productive and the city self-supporting. Mormon refugees from Mexico will occupy the land within sixty days, within which time the system will be in operation.

TWO DAYS.

I saw the day break bellowing on the land
And from the dawn to candle light each hour
Pile up disaster.
I saw the red sun skulking down the west
Like one who looks not back upon his work.
I saw the ghastly twilight fall on homes
Where women hugged their babies close and moaned,
And staring men lifted their hands on high,
That toiled and failed.

I saw a morning break in fairest calm
And Beauty walk abroad across the land,
All glad with bounty and the songs of men.
I saw the great sun moving to his rest
With placid course as one who leaves behind
Benign remembrance and generous deeds.
I saw the evening fall in peaceful homes
Where rested men from toil, and children prayed,
And women softly sang.

Hear from the ruin's midst, voices in pain:
"There is no God!" they cry.
"So kind a day," the crooning mother breathes,
"God must be nigh!"

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—And the next day it snowed. It was some years since the last time but it was a case of better late than never. The oldest resident says it has snowed several times since the water used to come up to Montgomery street. The kids all took to it like ducklings to the water. They would not care if it came every day.

Forgive our chagrin at reading the building trades list of eighteen cities of remarkable progress in 1912. Los Angeles is fourth with two and a half millions and we are seventh with two millions spent. However, we beat Berkeley by almost two millions. Furthermore we are real peeved at Traffic Expert Arnold for saying that it will be thirty-two years before we have a million people. We hardly think that he is earning the big price for his services. One daily paper is so indignant that it editorially roasts him for "insulting our intelligence." The local postoffice reports an increase of a quarter million of business in 1912 over 1911. This at least is some joy.

On leaving his profitable sinecure in the works board the Hon. Michael Casey said that he longed for just one more scrap but no one had a shillelah handy to give the teamster a battle. Instead some clerks gave him a gold locket which was engraved to the effect that his honorable and distinguished service was without parallel in the history of the board. And "Mike" believes that they meant it.

Fifty-six years ago James P. Casey murdered Editor James King of Williams, for which he was tried, convicted and hanged by the Vigilance Committee. The journalist was killed for saying that Casey was an ex-convict and unfit to hold public office. As proof of this a document has just come to light in the shape of a pardon from Sing Sing penitentiary given James P. Casey by Horatio Seymour, Governor of New York. An incident of the last local campaign was the activity of three judicial candidates cleaning the graves in the Mission Dolores Cemetery, where Casey and Cora are laid.

It was a huge joke to raid the poolrooms. For years we all knew that they were in existence but the police seemed unaware of them. Occasionally the gamblers would be arrested and quickly discharged as the police judges required witnesses to the race and they could not be brought in time for the trial from Juarez, Mexico. The judges are sticklers for a strict interpretation of the law even if gamblers benefit by it.

Two naval ensigns from the Colorado flourished their revolvers on the Barbary Coast. The whisky there will make one flourish anything. When their cases were called in the Police Court it was found that they had sailed away on the ship forfeiting their bail. Police Judge Shortall is angry at being so flaunted so he has issued bench warrants for the arrest of the kids in San Diego and to save them from being court-martialed he may give them life imprisonment.

The State University has been termed the examining arm of our government inasmuch as it encourages research. Prof. J. T. Allen, to make this good, has a new way to study Greek by speaking it. It is easy to learn to speak Greek at any bootblack stand and as for a new way of studying it nothing can equal the "pony" which being interpreted means a translation of the text by some fellow who has taken the pains to look up the words in the lexicon.

The convening of the average Legislature is viewed with alarm by all solid citizens. The mass of legislation that results from an ordinary session is something to be dreaded. The lawyers have to begin memorizing, the merchants have to revise their rules and ordinary folk are never sure where they are at. We view with equanimity the session at Sacramento. For two months at least we are free from the presence of our delegation.

PLUTO.

RECOGNIZES DISGUISE.

But Waitress' Memory Doesn't Prevent Patrolmen from Securing Evidence They Seek.

Senorita Dorina's ability to remember faces, even though disguised by dust and lamp black, proved more material than Le Roy Pallarce's boast that he is too cunning to be caught selling liquors without a license in his little restaurant, at No. 412 Ducommun street. Patrolmen Phillips and Perry arrested Pallarce Friday night for having served them with beer.

He was arraigned yesterday in Police Judge Rose's court on a charge of having sold liquor without a license and was given until Monday to plead. He was released on bail.

The patrolmen visited Pallarce's restaurant disguised as workingmen. They assert Pallarce served them with beer. When they ordered a bottle of wine, Senorita Dorina, a waitress, recognized the patrolmen as the men who arrested her some time ago on a minor charge.

Wireless Helps Surveyors.

[Baltimore American:] Wireless telegraphy is being successfully made use of in surveying such countries as the Belgian Congo, Sudan and similar inaccessible places. It is well known that a very exact result can thus be obtained for the difference in longitude between any two points as shown by the difference in their respective times.

Previous experiments prove that this latter is readily shown by sending wireless signals between the two points. The method is likely to prove a valuable one in colonial regions where there are no telegraph lines, as portable wireless posts can be set up with little trouble. In Belgium it is thought that a map of the Congo which would take ten years to draw up can now be made in two years.

Is Drink Habit Ruining Your Life?

Have You a Husband, Father, Son or Brother Whose Life Is Being Wrecked by the Excessive Use of Alcoholic Liquors?

If you are drinking you are losing the love and respect of your family and the confidence of your friends and business associates, and you should take the Neal Drink Habit Treatment, at once.

If you are the wife, mother or sister of one who is being ruined by drink, it is your duty to help him take the Neal Treatment, which is a harmless vegetable remedy that will remove the craving and necessity for drink in three days, without the use of painful, dangerous hypodermic injections. It will restore him to a sober, useful life.

The man who drinks is not sick, but poisoned with alcohol, and needs medical treatment—the Neal treatment.

If you are drinking, or if you have relatives or friends who drink to excess, call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street, and investigate the Neal Treatment, or write or phone G. U. Neal, manager, for Dr. Neal's free book. Phones Broadway 4602, A4072.

-the Important Location of-

La Fayette Square

IN buying residence property in such a city as Los Angeles—whether for home or for investment—the most important of all things to consider is location.

The future of any property in Los Angeles can be safely predicted today by its location. Buy in the right place and at the right price and you can't miss the mark.

La Fayette Square enjoys the most remarkable location of any residence property on the Los Angeles market today. Look at the map—study it out for yourself.

The fact alone, that three great highways with their enormous volume of high-class travel surround La Fayette Square, will give to this property a permanent prominence truly wonderful, a prominence that no other residential park in Los Angeles has ever enjoyed; all of which simply means but one thing; that La Fayette Square values must positively and unfalteringly mount to the topmost limits.

We strongly recommend early reservations at opening prices, for sooner or later, YOU will be planning to live within the Gates of La Fayette Square, and the longer you wait—the more you will have to pay. Why should you not make this profit?

ANDY'S LITTLE EQUINE LAMBS.

Gentling Vicious Horses by Kindness His Scheme.

Cow Punchers Laugh at Idea of Petting Outlaws.

Range Brigands in Plenty Offered by Ranchers.

"I'm not a horse-eater and don't believe in chewing their ears; I get results by treating them gentle," is the new idea in bronco-busting advanced by Andy J. Cook of San Benito, Cal., when he entered for El Rodeo yesterday.

The conception of gentling an outlaw brank by kindness seemingly has never entered the heads of the oldtime cow-punchers, for the laugh that went up from headquarters when Andy's letter was read indicated disbelief in the treatment and considerable bitterness of recollection.

Experience has taught rough-riders that there is nothing so devilish on earth as an outlaw horse full of hell and bad temper and the gentling process usually is accomplished only in one way—by "breaking" either horse or rider, and the one that gets "broke" becomes thoroughly docile.

Ever comes this Cook person with "gentleness," and the wranglers laugh. It's so unusual. Imagine, for instance, in the midst of spiral bucks and twists to have the rider lean over the outlaw's wickedly arched neck and remark, "Whoa, old hoss; if you're real good we'll have a dish of oatmeal for supper. Gentle down now and let's take a nice walk."

Nothing doing in that line for Mr. Cut-thaer. When he hits leather with his dividers he also rakes the rowells into flanks and piles the quirt. It's a fight to the finish, not a love scene. And at the end, if Mr. Man wins, he beats his new faithful dumb friend over the bean with his sombrero, pounds heaving ribs with fist or quirt, and drives his mount half to death. At the end of endurance he calculates as having a friend for life, not won by the gentle touch but by the master hand.

Brother Andy's ministrations will be something new in the ways of the range and it fits in with the conception of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which is credited with already taking a lively interest in things to come February 12 and thereafter. Mr. Andy Cook may become the king-bee of El Rodeo if his formulat is a winner and may have the management all kinds of worry.

A telegram of acceptance of Andy's query was hastened on by fast mail last night and cow-punchers may be charged an admission fee if his sidelines is as good as he claims.

Charles McKinley of Denver, Colo., used his pen in hand to send Col. J. Baker, a night letter and make known the fact that he has sixty bucking horses and several bucking mules which he is willing to bring to Los Angeles.

"Dear sir," begins Charlie Mac, "I am sending you word that I have got sixty bucking horses for the rodeo, also some bucking buffalo. You can inquire of Charles Howard, Haywards, Colo., as to these animals' actions. Hoping to hear from you at once, I am yours truly."

Some of Charlie's buckers will be at the Rodeo. There will be plenty of others.

BANANA LANDING THE BANK ROLL?

POSTAL INSPECTORS AND GRAND JURY BELIEVE SO.

Gilded Slippery Get-Rich-Quick Scheme Laid by the Heels if Charges Made Against Promoter Boscoville Makes Mexican Lands Basis of Business Transactions.

Another alleged "get-rich-quick" scheme came to grief yesterday. One Clarence P. Bowers, up to the time of his arrest acting as a substitute letter-carrier in the local postal service, was arrested on an indictment returned by the Federal grand jury on the charge of using the mails to defraud. In default of $5000 bond he is held in the County Jail.

It is charged that Bowers, who in 1911-12-13 operated under the firm name of C. P. Bowers & Company, a corporation whose legal birth-place has not been learned, promoted a scheme to sell banana land near Boscoville, Mexico, at the rate of $200 per acre. Bowers claimed that he owned the land, whereas he only had an option which he was to act upon before the land for $10 an acre, and he made sales of land he had no title to dispose of, according to statements of the postoffice officials who have worked up the case against him.

Miss Miller, a letter carrier of this city, operated at Station C, says he was induced as a result of his connection with Bowers; C. B. Keene of Boscoville, says he dropped $2000, and Mrs. Ida Hoffman of the same place, has a quarter section in the Bowers alleged banana land.

Postal Inspector Webster says that the Bowers scheme was along the line of the usual fraud where gullible believe all they read in a promoter's prospectus, and take the word of the promoter instead of investigating before investing their money.

Bowers was arrested at his home on Thirty-first street about 1 o'clock Saturday morning and was much surprised. He thought there must be some mistake.

KNOWS MONEY AWAY?

Hearing is held at the Central Station charged with having attempted to pass a $50 Confederate bill on Hamilton, a jeweler at No. 1 West First street. When Bowers was searched $20 Confederate bills were found in his pockets. While under arrest to the detective bureau, he threw away a number of pieces of paper which are thought to be counterfeit other Confederacy bills. The detectives learned yesterday that on the 10th inst. Mann was released from the County Hospital, where he had been employed as an attendant for some time.

To Welcome and Warn.

fectly equipped stations under the jurisdiction of the lighthouse service.

The lighthouse, which has been over a year in the building, will cost close to $40,000 when completed, exclusive of the lighting equipment. The steel work, made by a Los Angeles concern, is positively massive—much heavier than ordinarily required to support a structure of this class. It is the policy of the government to not only build its houses upon rocks, but to build 'em so they fall not.

Besides the structural steel employed in the framework, its sides are of expanded steel; its base of solid masonry and its dome a house of glass too far in the air to be affected by mundane stone throwers. It is thirty-five feet across at the base of the house and twenty at the top.

The lighthouse occupies the most commanding position between the Golden Gate and Point Loma. It can be seen in its own right for a long distance, and when its 140,000 candlepower goes into action, a couple of months hence, lookouts on vessels forty miles at sea will sight its reassuring twinkle and know that all is well.

The light is to be fed by vaporized oil through which an ordinary garden variety of Rockefeller's "water white," or "coal oil" as they still call it in San Francisco, is reduced to a high pressure vapor which, when lighted and put through its technical gymnastics, throws through the mighty lenses, a glaring stream of light.

TON OF LENSES.

There is plenty of sand in these United States and there are plenty of artisans who could build the best lens in the world, only the sand isn't that kind of sand. The glassware which accompanies the big light comes from France, where the sand grows of exactly the right quality.

The lenses for the new breakwater light are on the ground, or, rather, they are on the rocks now, for the light equipment proper has not been set up. The lenses weigh about one ton, and it will require a very pretty bit of work to worry them piecemeal up the winding stairway to the top, eighty feet above breakwater, with no elevators running.

Once there and in place and the lighting apparatus adjusted, the machinery, somewhat like a gigantic clock, will be started, and the great lenses, with the glow of 140,000 candles shining through them, will begin a journey, round and round, round and round, that will be kept up from sunset to sunrise for so long that the memory of man will fail to recall the day that knew it not. How many ships will be spared, how many lives will be saved because of the new light no one will ever know.

A feature of the equipment is the fog siren. They say that this little instrument will make more noise than all the automobiles on Broadway during a busy Saturday. Everyone knows the possibilities of an auto horn, hand-worked, but it is not given to every one to have the imaginative faculty to conceive the kind of a noise that may be produced by a well-educated siren backed by all of the power and energy of twenty-two horses. The fog siren will sound its warning note when the weather is too heavy for even the 140,000 candle to be effective. It is called a first-class air siren, and is being installed in duplicate so that in the event of something going wrong with one engine, a shift may be immediately made to the other.

The fogger will run upon the following schedule: A blast of two seconds; silence for sixteen seconds, during which the siren will take a long breath for another two-second outburst; another sixteen-second intermission, and then the peaky thing will blow itself for four seconds. Exhausted, it will rest for twenty seconds and then start all over again. The light will show one white flash every fifteen seconds, the revolving lens being timed to the fraction of an atom of time.

LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING.

The lighthouse is to be furnished for light housekeeping, which isn't much of a joke, but accurate as to fact. It is built to accommodate the three keepers necessary to keep it in operation and is constructed on a plan that is not likely to become popular with housewives. Lighthouses have a tendency to the perpendicular rather than the bungalow type of architecture, and the breakwater plant is no exception. Anyway there isn't any room to spread out, so if one stubs his toe in circumnavigating the base of the house he will bump his head on the rocks and get his feet wet in the water.

There is one room to a floor, and the floors are connected by a spiral stairway that is a cross between a fireman's ladder and a leap for life. Directly beneath the great light is the watch-room where the keeper sits throughout the long hours when only owls and policemen are supposed to be awake. Upon him rests the tremendous responsibility of keeping the light going and its fifteen-second flash speeding over the water.

ROOMS IN LAYERS.

On the three layers below are as many bedrooms; one to a floor, each equipped with a closet, and with unlimited possibilities for fresh air and sunshine. The next landing installment reveals a perfectly appointed kitchenette, for even lighthouse-keepers eat now and then. There is also a bath and a tank for salt water. Down in the "basement" on the ground floor is a tank for fresh water which must be toted from the mainland, the harbor water not being notably excellent for drinking purposes. The operating machinery is also at the base of the lighthouse, about where the reception-room would be in a regular house.

Sperry, who is in charge of the construction work, has been in the government service for sixteen years and is rated as one of its best engineers. His headquarters ar in San Francisco but he spends much of his time installing new work and enlarging equipment. During the Spanish war he was stationed at Key West and took a full-sized share in quelling that disturbance. He is one of the organizers of the Mechanical Society of Engineers and has much creative and constructive work to his credit. He has been on the Pacific Coast for about six years. When the San Pedro job is finished he will go to Point Loma to install a similar fog-siren equipment which has been asked by the navy to supplement the lighthouse there.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT."

Congress is being reminded this session that a light at Point Vicente, fifteen miles farther north, is needed, but until that is forthcoming the Point Firmin light is not likely to be disturbed. This light is of 32,000 candlepower of the occulting fourth order, which probably means something to lighthouse experts. It is operated by the kerosene vapor system, and has never missed an alternating gleam of five and ten seconds duration since it was opened for business, December 15, 1874.

Point Firmin is especially interesting because of its romantic setting, the fact that it can be reached by street car, and the strong personality of its present keeper, J. H. Engels, whose chief characteristics are capability and devotion to the lighthouse service, which he has been in ever since he was old enough.

Engels is the third keeper of the Point Firmin lighthouse. He has been in charge since November 7, 1904. The first keeper was a woman, Miss Mary L. Smith, who was succeeded in 1882 by George L. Shaw, who held the post twenty-two years. At the present time, save for the temporary lights on the new breakwater plant, the Point Firmin light is the only one to guard the 160 miles of coast from Point Concepcion and Point Loma.

The keepers for the breakwater light have not yet been appointed. The service now falls within the civil service classification.

A Plain Straight Talk

While Gibraltar has suffered in common with other growers some loss on its citrus fruit, also some slight loss on its citrus nursery stock from the late cold snap, yet its immense stock of 11,000,000 olive trees, the largest in the world, has increased in value from this very reason, as olive trees will stand 10 degrees more cold than citrus trees. The increased demand for the olive so far overshadows the small loss to its citrus holdings that the company is today in a position to earn GREATER PROFITS for its stockholders than ever before in its history. The land owned by Gibraltar at Bloomington is the very best olive and citrus growing land in the United States and offers the best horticultural investment opportunity in California. Gibraltar's earning power is continually increasing and is backed by the increasing earning power of its assets. THIS IS WHY GIBRALTAR SHARES ADVANCED 50 PER CENT DURING 1912. THIS IS WHY GIBRALTAR SHARES WILL ADVANCE TO 15 CENTS TUESDAY NIGHT. By purchasing Gibraltar shares now you secure the advantage of the before-the-raise price, and will also be paid the FULL DIVIDEND for the quarter ending February 28. Every share of Gibraltar stock is intrinsically worth 20 cents right now, owing to the increased value of the company's olive nursery and land holdings, and will be selling at that price by June 1. The man who buys Gibraltar shares now is securing full earning power for his investment. Office open every evening.

Climax.

WHITE HEAT OF THE TYPHOON.

WHEREIN YELLOW MAN STRANGLES SCARLET WOMAN.

Sensation of the Decade Concentrated in Few Terse Lines of Walker Whiteside's Great Melodrama of Oriental Cunning and Passion.

Few, if any of the plays of recent years, unless it be that other Japanese play "The Darling of the Gods" can boast the tense, gripping lines, the melodramatic scenes and striking contracts with which "The Typhoon," abounds.

Walker Whiteside, who had just scored one of the greatest New York success of the decade with "The Melting Pot" recognized its worth after ing Pot," recognized its worth after several managers, and it is proving his greatest success. It opens an engagement at the Majestic tonight.

Perhaps the most powerful scene of all is that in which Tokeramo (Mr. Whiteside) learns that the white woman he adores has a lover. He starts to turn her out, but so subtle are her fascinations that she soon has him begging for kisses, only, in her turn, to spurn and revile him.

Blind with rage and jealousy, he strangles her.

This great climax occurs in act II. From his friends Tokeramo had just learned how Illona has deceived him when she enters. Tokeramo coldly points to the door and tells her how, from her white lover, the drunken artist, they have learned the truth.

Then follows the duel for supremacy, bitter on the one hand and subtle on the other.

Illona: I threw myself at this other to kill my love for you, to stifle it, and could not. Ask Lindner if he did not wish to marry me, just as I am, with my past, and everything. Then why did I still seek you, your company, your love, when a man offered me the highest honor in his power, to make me his wife! Did you ever consider that?

Tokeramo: Illona, do not let us part in bitterness!

Illona: Some day you will recall what you have done! Never again will you find one to love you as I have! Never, never! And no matter where you go, you can never forget me! Mark well what I say, you can never forget me! You do not realize, you do not know yet, how much I have grown into your life, how much I have become part of you! Do you think that our kisses, our memories, out nights together can be so easily forgotten? I will marry another man, a man who loves and honors me. But you, you will long for me eternally. How you will long for me! How you will reproach yourself, how it will torture you, when you recall that once a woman offered you her heart, her body, her soul, her all, and you cast her off, drove her out of your house like a dog, kicked her into the streets. Why! Do you yourself know? Because you thought she hindered you, because you had other aims, other ambitions!

Tokeramo: You cannot understand my aims, my ambitions!

Illona: Ambition! Madness, madness! You would ruin your young life, and mine, for a will-o'-the-wisp, for a nothing. Why should you sacrifice two lives, why should you sacrifice yourself? (Suddenly seizes him.) Learned man, man of wisdom, consider what you are about to do, you will see that it is not worth while, that it is folly, madness, a sin against yourself, a sin against me. You must not cast me out of your life! No, no. I will not be in your way, let me stay, let me stay with you, at your side, care for you, be your servant, your faithful, obedient servant. Let me share your sorrows, your joys! Your ambitions will be my ambitions, your aims my aims. I will be a help to you, I will aid you. When you are sad I will cheer you, when your heart is heavy I will caress you, love you! You cannot part from me, you cannot! Keep me with you, take me wherever you go. Do not leave me, do not forsake me!

Tokeramo: It cannot be! No more!

Illona: Oh, my love, why do you treat me so? Why are you so cruel to me? What have I done?

Tokeramo: You know you have deceived me with Lindner?

Illona: No, no, no! It is not true!

Tokeramo: You said so yourself!

Illona: I—I said it! No, it is not true. I was beside myself. It is false. Nothing is true. Only I love you, I love you, I love you—

Tokeramo: (Confused, doubting, hesitates.)

Illona: Tokeramo! On this moment hangs our fate! If now you do not believe me, if now you doubt me, now when I speak the truth, when from my heat I speak to you, if now you put no faith in me, have no trust in me, I am lost to you forever.

Tokeramo: I should like it, if only I could believe you. But I cannot, I cannot! It means ruin, Illona, Illona, oh, how I love you!

Illona: Oh, you torture yourself, how you suffer! Why? Why? You fight imaginary terrors, you battle with the things that are not. Compose yourself, be calm, rest! (Caresses him, smooths his hair, mothers him. Her every action, her every movement now denotes suppressed triumph. She has gained the mastery over him, and she knows it. She knows that from now on this man is her slave.) Rest your head here in my lap. Kiss me!

Tokeramo: How cruel I have been—in thought, in word, in deed; how wrong, yes, how wrong. Darling, forgive me, I would have called you back. My heart was heavy within me; I love you. I cannot live without you. Before all else in life you come, dearest Illona. My career, my future, all gone, everything; I am ruined, I have naught but you. You will stay with me, you will comfort me, you will love me. You love me, you love me.

Illona: See, now at last you understand; you suffer, you feel, and you wanted to leave me—you.

Tokeramo: You love me, you love me, Illona?

Illona: You would have thrown me out, kicked me out, you—

Tokeramo: Do not be unforgiving. I would have called you back.

Illona: If I had cared to come.

Tokeramo: Illona!

Illona: (A note of hatred beginning to creep into her voice.) Come, do not whine. Nothing is lost. Perhaps I will take pity upon you. Perhaps I will be kind. Perhaps I shall feel sorry for you, forgive you, remain, if you ask me nicely, if you beg me—

Tokeramo: Illona! Do not trifle now. You must not. Do you not understand you must not? How can you now! Tell me that you love me!

Illona: No!

Tokeramo: What!

Illona: No!

Tokeramo: Then this—what was this?

Illona: Comedy, farce, sham!

Tokeramo: (Bewildered, attempts to embrace her, as if the whole matter were a delusion, an evil dream which a caress would wipe away.) Illona, Illona!

Illona: Let me be!

Tokeramo: Illona!

Illona: Do not touch me!

Tokeramo: What do you mean?

Illona: Nothing—there!

Tokeramo: Illona!

Illona: Can't you see, blind rat, I despise you?

Tokeramo: What?

Illona: I hate you. I do not want you. You want an explanation, a reason? Because you are dirty, you are yellow, you are—

Tokeramo: You—

Illona: Quietly, only quietly. Don't shriek. Smile, be calm, be serene even in this, you—you—who wanted to kick me out—you—you yellow—

Tokeramo: Go—go!

Illona: Now, pow you show your free will. You see, of my own free will. It is I who discard you—you! It is you who are not wanted—you—because you are weak, you are rotten—like the rest. And you were my master, you my lord—you you coward, you craven, you who know that I had a lover, that Lindner was my lover, and yet would have kept me, you who pleaded for me to stay, to love you. But I do not want you. I hate you. I despise you. I never wanted you, never, never. Understand, never! I always hated you! Do you know why I endure you? Because of your money, because you were useful to me—to my lover. Your money I gave him. Your secrets I betrayed to him. He knew all your rotten little life, your rotten little mission. I told him everything. And now, now I am through with you. I need you no longer. I leave you, scum—

Tokeramo: Out of my sight!

Illona: Nnow, now you show your feelings, you cur, you yellow ape, you beast, yellow—

Tokeramo: (His head bent to one side, his knees trembling. Insane with anger, his whole body shakes his hands open and close convulsively.)

Illona: Quietly, quietly, little rat, scoundrel, vermin, yellow, yellow vermin!

Tokeramo: Silence!

Illona: Dirty—yellow—

Tokeramo: (With a cry no longer human, the cry of a wounded animal turning upon its pursuer.) Oh! (Something in his cry frightens her. She backs slowly away toward the curtained bedroom. Tokeramo following. He is now close upon her; all her sneer has vanished, only fear, a terrible fear, the fear of death upon her face and in her eyes.)

Illona: No—no, I—I—love—I lo—(He is upon her, his hands choke the word into silence, a rattling sound escapes from his throat, he shrieks in Walker Whiteside.

In one of the dramatic moments in "The Typhoon," when, as Tokeramo, he would sacrifice his mission to atone for an individual crime.

The Week.

WHITESIDE IN TENSE DRAMA.

MAJESTIC OFFERING PROMISES REAL SENSATIONS.

"Rose Maid" at the Mason First Musical Comedy Here in Many Weeks and Boasts Excellent Cast and Chorus—Stock and Vaudeville Attractions.

If for no other reason than because of its peculiar uniqueness, "The Typhoon" as presented by Walker Whiteside and his fine company, to be disclosed at the Majestic Theater tonight for the first time in Los Angeles, should be well worth seeing. No play has come to the Pacific Coast in recent years more warmly commended by critical writers in the cities it has visited, and from all accounts Mr. Whiteside, following the course he has pursued since his first theatrical endeavor, has surrounded himself with a company every member of which is qualified to interpret the role enacted.

It is especially worthy of mention that Mr. Whiteside brings to this city the identical production which made so much for the success of this strange and unusual play in New York and Chicago. It is doubtful if any play given to the stage during the past twenty years has evoked greater discussion than "The Typhoon." Its theme is entirely new to the stage, and the manner of its treatment is so different from anything presented within memory that it has brought about endless discussion. The brightest lights of the literary world have acclaimed it the best piece of dramatic literature revealed in half a century.

The peculiar incidents connected with the production of this play would fill a newspaper page. It was refused by half a dozen prominent American producers because of the boldness of treatment which the Hungarian dramatist has given it.

Walker Whiteside, who was in search of a worthy successor to Zangwill's play, in which he scored such a wonderful success—"The Melting Pot"—finally secured it and its production less than a year ago, and its sensational success is now a matter of theatrical history.

Mr. Whiteside has been constantly endeavoring to give to his public the best for many years, and in the character of Tokeramo, a young Japanese diplomat of noble blood, and entrusted with a secret mission to Berlin by the Mikado himself, is said to have given to the stage a portraiture so entirely new that there is no basis of comparison. It has marked him as the best actor of our time.

He has surrounded himself with an especially capable company. It includes Miss Florence Fisher, Miss Maude Shaw, Hubert Wilkie, Stephen Wright, Harold de Becker, Arda La Croix, W. R. Siegfried, Christopher Losch, Arthur Sprague, George Spelman and William Weston.

The production comes to the Majestic Theater intact, and is not a matter of mere canvas and paint, but is solidly built upon the stage, and every piece of furniture and every tapestry is exactly what it purports to be.

There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, that of Wednesday at popular prices.

Mason.

"The Rose Maid," tingling with vivacious melodies and unfolding a story more humorously real than is to be found in recent musical-comedy successes, according to advance reports, will be presented for the first time at the Mason Operahouse Monday evening.

It is described as an operetta with songs that aid rather than halt the plot. Bruno Granichstaedten, the newest of successful Viennese composers, wrote the score, which is filled with little surprises of melody and a certain restlessness of rhythm that sets the audience humming and sends it out with puckering lips. The book of the piece is highly modern in theme and follows closely the original German satire on American marriages to titled Europeans.

A penniless duke, quite at the mercy of his creditors after his disinheritance by a wealthy uncle, is deserted by all except the little rose girl. The arrival of a few millionairesses from America looking for titles causes his creditors to plan to marry him off and thus reimburse Ada Reeve.

IN WHICH ADA REEVE TALKS OF OPERA, SLANG AND PIRATES.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

ADA REEVE, that little pastel artist, with the pearl of a voice, will be at the Orpheum another week.

Ada Reeve, with her pastelle hats and gowns, her pastelle-shaded voice, her pastelle humor and pathos, her pastelle naughtiness. Oh, we've not had anything quite like her before—quite so alluringly, Englishly "different."

She had just finished singing those quaint little songs with the funny little gestures, about loving-me-a-little-Sue, and how

"All such things were all unknown
When Richard Third sat on the throne,"—

(in sharp contrast to the slap-stick Barnes person who went before, and whose idea of wit seemed to be bawling out the patrons of the house,) and, being a matinee, it was naturally time for tea.

So over at the Alexandria we met Mr. Cotton—who is really Mr. Ada Reeve—only, being an Englishman, of course he wouldn't acknowledge the title for the world.

"If this is an interview, I don't appear," said Mr. Cotton, twinkling genially. Nevertheless he kept on appearing, most charmingly and wittily and affably, throughout our tea-party, saying amusing things like:

"Really, madam, the father of your country was a most discriminating Englishman," and pretending to boss his wife. And they carried it right through—that amusing little farce, with the subtle touches of humor that come only through having got a point of view from contact with the big world.

"Why don't you drink your tea, my dear?"

"I'm waiting for you to tell me, of course!"

An interview with a lovely singer who is chaperoned by her husband—her own husband—does give such a respectable, not to say homelike color one's view of that singer.

It was such a cosy occasion indeed, it was terribly hard to bring ourselves to discuss anything except American husbands, how to make tea, why American interviewers think it's funny to say that English lords drop their H's, and why Henry James lives in England.

I think we had arrived at French pastry, and Miss Reeve was saying "she hated to hurt Mr. Alexandria's feelings, for this is an awfully nice hotel, but really we do know all about making tea in England!" before we got serious on the subject of Miss themselves for their loans. The Countess Bertrand, who has an old score to settle with this group, counterplots by disguising the little rose maid as one of the heiresses, and offers her as the richest of the title-hunters. The duke has unconsciously loved her when she was in his household, and in her disguise again falls in love with her pretty graces.

The characters of the money lenders who dare not lose sight of their risk, and follow him from point to point in the whimsical desire to recoup their apparent losses, offer much rich fun, the more particularly because they are figures new to the stage for many years. Ingeniously enough, not only the hero and heroine, but even these near-villains, are made happy before the curtain falls.

"The Rose Maid" brought to opera lovers such fascinating melodies as "The Rose Waltz," "Sweethearts, Wives and Good Fellows," "The Happy Family," "In Bohemia" and others, although it is the "Rose Waltz" that has taken its place in the minds of those who have heard the opera as the memorable song hit of the day.

Werba and Luescher announce that they are to send the great company of singers who were heard in New York, including Perle Barti, Jeannette Bageard, Juliette Lange, Ida Van Tine, Edward Gallagher, a former San Francisco player; Henry Coote, Harry Lester Mason, Leo Stark, H. Tyler Brookes, Wilmer Bentley, Harley Knowles and many others, besides the charming group of "Kute Kiddies" and the great chorus which was called in New York "the rosebud garden of glorious girls."

New Morosco.

Winchell Smith's famous comedy "The Fortune Hunter," which scored such an unqualified success on the occasion of the opening of the beautiful new Morosco Theater, between Seventh and Eighth on Broadway, last Monday night, will continue to be the attractive offering at this new playhouse for a second week, beginning tomorrow night.

"The Fortune Hunter" is recognized as the finest comedy the American stage has known in the last five years and the flawless presentation being given by the new Morosco Producing Company sets a new and higher standard of stock company production.

Its wholesome and amusing story is of young Nathaniel Duncan, who having failed at almost everything starts out to seek a fortune in a little town where he comes to the financial rescue of an old-fashioned druggist whose business has gone to pieces through neglect. Duncan, of course, comes out with flying colors and in the small town readily establishes the reputation of an astute business man that had been denied to him in the larger cities.

The Morosco Producing Company gives a splendid performance of "The Fortune Hunter." Orrin Johnson in particular being more than ordinarily good in the part of Nat Duncan, with Frances Ring as the druggist's daughter and Herbert Standing as the old druggist contributing notable characterizations to the presentation. Such capable players as Harrison Hunter, Howard Scott, James K. Applebee, Richard Barbee, Morgan Wallace, Beatrice Nichols, Grace Valentine and a score of other clever Moroscoites are seen to much individual advantage in "The Fortune Hunter."

The Morosco company has prepared Paul Armstrong's newest play, "The Love Story of the Ages," as the bill to follow "The Fortune Hunter."

Burbank.

Paul Armstrong's famously successful romance of the West, "Salomy Jane," founded on incidents of Bret Harte's fine novel, will be the unusually attractive offering of the Burbank Stock Company beginning with the matinee today.

It is the opinion of many critics and theater-goers as well that "Salomy Jane" is the best play that ever came from the pen of this successful playwright. Suffice to say that the piece is one of the most interesting, thoroughly enjoyable and popular plays the American stage has ever known.

In "Salomy Jane," Mr. Armstrong takes the character of the girl of the West, "Salomy Jane" Clay and closely follows the interesting and romantic incidents of her rugged career as described in Bret Harte's story, while he again shows his remarkable ability of keen characterization in the score of contrasting types of real, red-blooded westerners of the earlier days.

The piece is exceptionally well suited to the talents of the Burbank organization, for it gives every member of the company splendid chances for individual achievement in the great number of fine roles.

Izetta Jewel will, of course, have the chief role of "Salomy Jane" Clay, while Forrest Stanley, Grace Travers, Donald Bowles, Walter Edwardes, David M. Hartford, James Corrigan, Lillian Elliott and the others will be seen in the supporting roles.

Scenically "Salomy Jane" will reveal one of the most elaborate and picturesque series of stage settings ever painted by Scenic Artist Brunton.

Orpheum.

Ada Reeve's last week at the Orpheum begins Monday matinee—a fact that will cause keen regret to those so far unable to see her, and also much rejoicing, for it affords a last chance. Miss Reeve is distinctively one of the Orpheum's foremost headline presentations in years; she is so far ahead of herself a year ago when illness interfered with her best that she is a most welcome surprise; she has the indefinable sciat and charm that make her stand out alone in her class.

Miss Reeve is herself; there is no one with whom she can be aptly compared, so those who haven't seen her must simply take one's word that she is impossible of definement; they must see her, and join the ranks of her millions of admirers. She will have new songs the coming week, of course.

The new bill surrounding Miss Reeve is varied and full of clever numbers. Paul Dickey and his company will be seen in a sketch called "The Come Back." It is a little skit of college life wherein a freshman is to be made the "goat" in an escapade which his cleverness succeeds in changing to the discomfiture of the hazers. It is brim full of college spirit and life and will appeal most pronouncedly to those who have a bit of college atmosphere in their make-up.

Travato, the eccentric fiddler, is well known here; he was a sensation on his former visit. This Filipino holds his violin on his knees and plays it 'cello fashion, but he runs the gamut of music on it, from rag to the classics. He is an artist, and a singular freak at the same time.

Bert Clark is an English comedian of versatile skill and Mabel Hamilton, his partner, is one of London's favorite musical comedy stars. Their combination they are most delightful, with their clever dialogue, patter and songs and dances, including special sets for each. This is the featured act on the new bill.

Caesar Rivoli is the quickest of quick change artists, and his "Fun in a Cafe" scene is played at lightning speed, he taking seven characters in almost as many minutes. The act is Italian, but it has no kinks that are not fully comprehensible by the smart American, and Rivoli is so clever that he makes it plain at once.

Oscar & Susette are dancers, specializing in a specialty of the back to back waltz, which they created, and a number of other fancy steps. Their act is a beautiful sight being both expert Terpsichorean cleverness. Keno and Green are the only holdovers being Miss Reeve.

Empress.

One of the biggest and most expensive bills that has ever occupied the stage of the Empress Theater will come to this popular price vaudeville house tomorrow afternoon headed by John B. Hymer's latest and latest vaudeville production "Macey's Models."

NOVELTY FOR OPERA LOVERS.

"THAIS" AND "ANDREA CHENIER" TO BE WEEK'S FEATURE.

Most Interesting Programme Yet Announced by Lambardi Company. Galston in Recital at Blanchard Hall—Charming Soloist for People's Concert—News and Notes.

The third week of the Lambardi Opera Company at the Auditorium presents a bill unequalled in strength or excellence of musical numbers, or dramatic situations. Monday night, opening with "Thais," which is repeated Friday night, those who care to hear a truly lyric opera by the clever Massenet will find the theme of "Thais," which is a struggle between the lower nature and the higher, personifying the eternal conflict between the beast and the angel in the human race, a most attractive operatic bill.

The story of "Thais," a courtesan, and Athanael, a monk of the Cenobite order, has given Massenet an opportunity of composing not only sensuous but dramatic music that will live for many years to come. To the opera lover who has seen Mary Garden in this her greatest role, an avenue of vocal and dramatic pleasure has been opened up which can only be satisfied by the subtleties of the Massenet composition and the veiled text by Gallet.

The scene is in Thebes and the Theban Desert, Egypt; the period of time, the Greek occupation, and in addition to the above mentioned characters there are Greek dancers, monks, philosophers, nuns, soldiers and the pleasure-loving youth of that luxurious time.

"Thais," although sensational to a degree in many of its scenes, possesses no objectionable features, but is delicately arranged so that the most fastidious may hear and see the production without regrets. The Lambardis give the opera in its entirety.

Mme. Regina Vicarino, the leading coloratura soprano of the Lambardi company, will sing the title role. The cast in full is as follows: Athanael, a Cenobite monk, F. Nicoletti; Nicias, a young Sybarite, A. Graziani, Palemon, an old monk, G. Martino, Thais, a courtesan, R. Vicarino; Crobyle, a slave, F. Pineschi; Myrtale, a slave, C. Desmori; Albine, an abbess, F. Pineschi; a servant, B. Marco; monks, philosophers, nuns, populace, etc.

On Tuesday evening "Il Trovatore" will be sung, and for the Wednesday matinee "Fedora" and Wednesday evening "Rigoletto."

A second new offering for this week will be Giordano's celebrated story of the French revolution, "Andrea Chenier," an opera in four acts, the libretto by Luigi Illica.

This opera was first produced in Milan in 1896 and is one of the most dramatic of the stories founded around the French revolution, and is replete with love, passion, political intrigue, with scenes laid in the Chateau de Coigny, the Cafe Hottot, the military prison of the revolutionary tribunal, and the Prison of St. Lazarre.

Principal motives based from the love of Madelaine de Coigny and Andrea Chenier—the devotion and self-denial of the woman for the man who has befriended her. Why this opera is not given oftener and why it is not a great favorite in America as it is in England and France cannot be explained, but most likely due to the fact that so few companies are willing to go to the expense of staging the opera. It is replete with tuneful melodies; the orchestration is most intricate, the scenes intensely dramatic and the duets a feature of the composition.

"Andrea Chenier" will be given on Thursday night and at the Saturday matinee.

For Saturday night the double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" will be sung, introducing most of the principals of the Lambardi forces. Surely this last week's offering of the Lambardi management should be received in a joyful manner by those who have attended the fortunes of this organization since it became known to the Pacific Coast.

Gottfried Galston, Pianist.

Gottfried Galston, the latest aspirant for recognition as a piano virtuoso, comes to Blanchard Hall next Tuesday evening with a recital offering that shows a well-informed brain concerning piano literature. Mr. Galston hails from the festival town of Munich, which is his present home, but by descent he is a mixture of Magyar and Slavic, Hungarian and Bohemian—an excellent blend for pianistic purposes. He is the author of a valuable treatise, "Studienbuch," from which most pianists of the day can learn a great deal, and he has made a name for himself abroad.

As a programme builder Galston is exceedingly clever. He does not believe in a mixed programme, as it strikes him as being very much of a vaudeville trick—he prefers his programmes straight. He claims there is plenty of contrast, plenty of variety, in the different Beethoven sonatas and the Chopin etudes; the latter are replete with variety, one is passionate and stormy, another a landscape painting, another an exquisite lyric poem, and so on. Chopin is not always feminine, sometimes he can be superbly dramatic, and heroic if he so desires, so why not make a straight programme of one author or two and act accordingly?

The Galston programme for next Tuesday night, if glanced at, will show the superior mentality of the player: "Chaconne," arranged by F. Busoni (Bach;) Sonata, G Minor, Presto, Andante, Scherzo, Prestissimo (Schumann;) "Melody," arranged by Sgambati (Gluck;) "Gavotte," arranged by Brahms (Gluck;) Intermezzo, Op. 119, E Minor (Brahms;) Intermezzo, Op. 119, C Major (Brahms;) Intermezzo, Op. 29 (Brahms;) Valse, G Minor (Brahms;) Rhapsody, Op. 79, (Chopin;) Nocturne, F Sharp Major (Chopin;) Ballade, G Minor (Chopin;) Arabesques on the valse, "An der schonen blauen Donau" (Strauss-Schulz-Evler.)

People's Orchestra.

Music lovers as well as loyal Southern Californians will be delighted today with the appearance of Miss Margaret Jarman upon the concert stage at the Auditorium, where she will appear with the People's Orchestra in its tenth popular concert. Miss Jarman is perhaps one of the most notable of Los Angeles musicians in so much as that she has already achieved a widespread reputation for artistry in her native land without having had to resort to the usually fictitious fame following a European debut. Rider-Kelsey and Cunningham.

The music lovers of Los Angeles who do not attend concerts are prone to state after an artist has been heard in this city, who has reflected particular credit upon the musical world, that they knew nothing concerning the artist, that publicity has been meager, and if they had known of the ability of the artist they surely would have taken advantage and heard the recital.

The coming of Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey, America's foremost concert soprano, should not prove an occasion of this kind. All of the eastern musical critics have expressed their opinion of this most excellent artist now in the front rank of concert singers. In oratorio she is unequaled, as a church singer she is the highest-priced vocalist in America, and in duet work with Claude Cunningham, the baritone, she is known all over the country as one of two artists who have secured uniform perfection in the blending of two excellent solo voices.

Mr. Cunningham, undeniably one of the greatest American artists now before the public, will positively head the list of all American baritones when placed before the public next season. These eminent singers have united their forces in giving to the public a noteworthy series of joint recitals which are proving an important factor in the musical life of this country and are filling a unique place which has long been vacant.

Los Angeles is to have but one opportunity, on Monday evening, January 27, to hear these excellent recital artists. Both Mme. Rider-Kelsey and Mr. Cunningham are so well known individually that the combination of their names has a great power of attraction for all who are interested in the best of music, and should prove a potent factor in the roster of the Philharmonic artists.

Suffragette Soprano.

Miss Carolina White, who has been engaged by the Paris Grand Opera Company to alternate with Mary Garden, will be heard for the first time on Wednesday, January 22, in matinee recital at the new Morosco Theater. It will be her only appearance in this city, which will be under the direction of Frank G. Egan of the Egan School.

Miss White combines with her great talent as a dramatic soprano, youth and beauty; she is also an ardent supporter of the cause of woman's suffrage.

Von Stein Prizes.

To receive the annual reward of the diamond medal is the greatest honor that can come to a student of the Von Stein Academy of Music. It is the grand prize of the year and students vie for it with keenest rivalry, but entirely without spirit of bitterness for the award is made entirely upon merit and students all pay homage to the one of their number who achieves this distinction.

The second greatest honor is to win the gold medal and the third to get the silver medal.

Award of these medals will be made at a public entertainment to be given by the academy Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Gamut Club. The programme will begin at 8:15 and the public is invited.

Miss Rees Entertains.

Miss May Elizabeth Rees, who is in the city for a few days as the guest of Mrs. Oswald Oliver, and who is one of the most charming and accomplished of our younger violinists, gave a charming recital last night at the Palms, on West Adams street, for a select gathering of which Mrs. Constance Morris was hostess. Miss Rees was accompanied by her sister, Gertrude.

Nearly a hundred invited guests were in attendance, and spurred the young player to her best efforts with their unstinted applause. Her purity of tone evinced long and conscientious study, which, coupled with exceptional technique and clever interpretations, won emphatic approval.

Miss Rees expects to leave Los Angeles in a few days to fill engagements in Chicago.

MUSIC NOTES.

Of the many delightful artists that Southern California claims as her own there is no one who receives a greater or heartier welcome than Beatrice Hubbel Plummer on her returns from her various pilgrimages to the East. This cheerful little personage arrived here several weeks ago to resume her former place in the musical circles and social whirl. She has enjoyed during the last three months a most gratifying success throughout the East and Middle West in the presentation of her own compositions—particularly adapted to children's programmes. These little songs she has arranged into programmes in connection with stories of fairies and the usual folk lore for the wee folks and will be available for club engagements in California for the next six months.

Mischa Elman, the brilliant little Russian violin virtuoso, is enjoying his usual success throughout the East. Elman and Zimbalist enjoy the distinction of being the youngest violin virtuosos before the public, and Elman personally is revelling in the unusual freedom of traveling with his manager, accompanist, and piano tuner only this season, his father having remained in London with the other members of his family.

Josef Lhevinne, who we will have with us in April, recently enjoyed a tremendous success in two appearances in Paris, the first with the Lamoureux Orchestra, Lhevinne presenting the Liszt Concerto; the second in his recital appearance before a crowded audience, presenting a programme of Bach-Liszt, Mozart, Schumann, Chopin and Balakirew's "Islamey" Oriental Fantasy, the latter furnishing excellent opportunity for displaying his wonderful skill and facility of expression.

Ignaz Haroldi, the violinist, has returned to his Hollywood home and is rapidly resuming his position as leading violin teacher of Southern California. Mr. Haroldi has during the past eight months enjoyed no small number of recital engagements throughout the southwest, and after a recent vacation of two weeks in Santa Barbara has definitely settled down for the coming six months for studio work. This is an invaluable opportunity to the more advanced violin students, and that they are seizing the chance is best illustrated by the applications Mr. Haroldi has already received.

That Marcella Sembrich's mother is living and can tread a gay measure, with the gallant Paderewski, when these Polish exiles make merry at some neighborly birthday on their Swiss lake is perhaps unknown to most of the audiences that listen to the marvelous Sembrich voice on her present recital tour.

Clara Butt, the English contralto; her husband, Kennerly Rumford, the English baritone, and their three children, arrived in New York last Saturday in anticipation of their American tour of three months duration.

Another record-breaking host of music lovers greeted Eugene Ysaye, at the Metropolitan Opera concert last week. This was the great Belgian's second appearance at these Sunday concerts within a few weeks. He was royally received, and on several occasions the members of the orchestra stood up and applauded vigorously the artist whom every musician venerates.

The Pedestal

HOW often, in our home-furnishing, we find some unoccupied nook or corner, of limited space, where a pedestal seems indispensable for lamp, jardiniere or statue; some coign of vantage best filled by just such a bit of furniture.

"Like winged Mercury, new lighted on a heaven-kissing hill," many of our smaller household gods seem to light naturally on a pedestal.

The varieties of style, material, workmanship and finish recommend each to its special surroundings and location; so that one may readily choose an example most satisfactory and adaptable for the place desired.

We illustrate a fine example of the fluted Classic Column; its top entwined with the richly carved floral wreaths the ancients loved so well in their decorations; and made in antique, solid mahogany.

Other attractive designs in marble, onyx, gilt or enamel have an equal charm both as to intrinsic merit and price.

Special designs for unusual pieces may be readily obtained from our studios.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

ODD how much like a flock of sheep we women are. Remember I called attention a week or two ago to the special study the Pasadena Shakespeare Club is giving this season to the art of cookery? Well, the Shakespeare section of our own Ebell Club has evidently also arrived at the conclusion that the Bard of Avon was an epicure as well as a poet and next Tuesday they will go the Pasadena club one better by serving a Chinese chop suey luncheon.

Now history, so far as I know, is silent as to whether Shakespeare ever visited the Orient or not and I have grave doubts myself as to whether his shade can properly appreciate the delicacy of these viands of the Far East. Neither can I quite see the connection at this present writing between Shakespeare and chop suey, but it's quite safe to conjecture that he would be at home at a banquet in any language or nationality.

Aunt Delia's Picture.

Several Boston women hit on a clever scheme in the shape of a New Year's gift to the President. They engaged a young Boston artist, Miss Emily B. Wait, to paint a portrait of Aunt Delia Torrey of Millbury, Mass., and sent it to President Taft. This gift of a portrait of his favorite aunt is prized more highly by the President than all his other gifts.

Merry Monday Musicale.

Miss Winifred Ballard was hostess for the Monday Musicale Club last week at her home, No. 637 South Burlington street. A feature of the programme was the "Kinder Symphony" with piano duet, string quartette, drum, etc., composed by Bertrand Romberg of the eighteenth century, played by ten members of the club. The solos by the cuckoo, nightingale and quail; the heroic efforts of the valiant drummer, and the versatile work of the "end man," Miss Elsa Schroeder with triangle, trumpet and bells, caused much merriment.

Miss Frances Lewis, a guest of the club, who has a fine mezzo soprano voice, sang to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Laura Packard and Amy Woodford Finding sang the "Serenade" from the Song Cycle. Mrs. Henry Henderson gave a dramatic sketch—"Becky Long—Waif from the Foundling Home," an original composition which she gave in character costume, Mrs. L. F. Doolittle supplying the incidental piano music. Miss Mollie Adelia Brown sang the old English ballad, "Sweet Mistress Mary," Mrs. Hennion Robinson accompanying on the piano.

Travel Club Visits Boston.

Mrs. Bentham of Hollywood entertained members of the Los Angeles Travel Club at their last meeting with an account of her trip to Boston and her visits to noted places there—the historic homes of Emerson, Longfellow, Alcott and others; the Public Library, Trinity Church, Beacon Hill State House and other interesting sections of this most interesting city. Mrs. Hoffner rendered some original musical selections; Mrs. R. S. Gower gave a reading concerning women's colleges and Mrs. A. S. Cox conducted the current events. The club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Mattoon, No. 1154 West Thirtieth street.

For Women and Children.

Dr. Louise Harvey Clark of Riverside, chairman of the Committee of Legislation of the Southern District of the Federation of Women's Clubs, addressed the San Gorgonio Club at Beaumont at its meeting last Wednesday afternoon. The care and education of children was her topic and during the business session which followed the regular programme, Dr. Clark brought before the club and explained some of the important bills to be acted upon by the Legislature pertaining to and of special interest to women.

Warm Women of Church.

The woman who rose early enough to do the family washing and then came in from San Pedro to attend the Woman's Presbyterian Missionary meeting at 10:30 o'clock on the coldest day known in Los Angeles for a score of years is typical of the audience that gathers from month to month in the parlors of Immanuel Church. Those who braved the cold this month were rewarded by an unusual feast of good things.

The chief address of the morning was given by Mrs. White of Pennsylvania, one of the officers of the International Council for Patriotic Service. Mrs. White was for a number of years a missionary among the Mormons in Utah, and her work at present in connection with the Council is to bring before the women of the United States the danger of the spread of Mormonism in our land. "There are more than 60,000 of these people in California," she said "but you women with the franchise in your hand can do what we in some parts of the East cannot do—you can vote Mormonism out of your State."

The Mormons say that they believe the Bible and accept Christ, but the kind of Bible instruction which their children receive is shown by an answer given Mrs. White by the son of a Mormon elder. "Where was Christ born?" she asked him. He promptly replied: "In Jackson county, Missouri."

The speaker unhesitatingly pronounced Mormonism "the most dangerous trust in the United States," and "the strongest organization in the world, outside of the German army." It is in the towns and villages, she said, that you see Mormonism in all its hideousness; in Salt Lake City it is on dress parade. In view of the fact that the next National Teachers' Association will meet in Salt Lake and that the Mormons of that city are already preparing to dazzle the eyes of their guests, Mrs. White urged that literature setting forth the facts regarding this "octopus" be sent broadcast to the teachers of the country before they attend this meeting.

The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Mary Fulton of Canton, China. She has recently spoken several times in Los Angeles and vicinity. Today, in answer to a special request, she told "something of the Fultons of China." There are three generations of Fultons working in Canton today. The mother, who is 86 years of age, and who has not had a furlough in the homeland for eighteen years; her children, Dr. Mary Fulton, and her brother (whose wife is a daughter of Dr. S. E. Wishard of Los Angeles,) and a daughter of the latter, Miss Grace Fulton.

Dr. Fulton has multiplied her influence through the fifty women physicians and the sixteen nurses whom she has trained. She is at the head of the Hackett Hospital for Women, the money for which was given by Mr. Hackett of Los Angeles. His daughter, Dr. Martha Hackett, will go with her as assistant, on her return.

The Man in the Kitchen.

"I'd as soon have an elephant in the parlor as a man in the kitchen," declared a certain famous lecturer years ago before a Chautauqua audience. While the elephant has not yet penetrated to the parlor in polite society, it is as sure that the man has entered the kitchen as that women have entered politics.

Now here comes a man with a cook book which bears upon its preface page this succinct message: "The conservation of heat, flavor and labor make for efficiency in cooking." This man brings to his cooking the same sort of business brain that he does to his counting-house, and urges the most modern and scientific methods in the preparation of food. His cook book is not filled with directions for making novel and troublesome dishes. He assumes in the outset that the reader knows how to cook, and his aim is to show how certain typical dishes may be cooked in the shortest time, and in the most easy and inexpensive manner.

He claims that waste—waste of fuel, time and labor—is one of the great causes of the high cost of living. He advocates cooking by steam as the most economical and satisfactory method—not by the old-fashioned method on the colander plan—but by the modern steam cooker with its food and water pans which utilize all the by-products and relieve the housewife of constant care and watchfulness, for dishes never scorch or burn by the steam method. There's no "stir slowly for one hour," "beat fifteen minutes" or "boil exactly three hours" in this exact cooking. He holds that a dish which calls such an expenditure of human is too costly in human effort is opposed to the laws of perfect efficiency.

Gift to Ruskin Art Club.

The Ruskin Art Club, in its study of France, is very grateful Mrs. M. F. Regan for a beautiful unusual gift in the shape of five large and valuable old volumes contain a collection of engravings copper by Ducheene Aine, and works of art snatched from the sure stores of Europe by the Napoleon and hoarded away in Paris. The members of the rejoice in the fact that the de specially requests that the used freely that they may be stant inspiration to them in work.

Mrs. Harriet Williams Ryan also presented to the club a her book, "The Birds' which is charmingly illustrated bird photographs taken by herself her Garvanza garden.

Miss Wadleigh was in charge of morning meeting of the club Wednesday and was assisted by Judd, who gave an interesting on "The Romanesque in France." Mrs. Bosworth reviewed the subject of the earliest schools sculpture in France and Miss told about the first grande.

At the next club luncheon, Mrs. W. Hendricks, who has recently turned from a journey around world, will talk about the wonders of Ceylon. Mrs. Hendricks some time on this fascinating south of India, and therefore has opportunity to study its cities and citizens.

Los Angeles Women Sponsors

Two well-known Los Angeles women, Miss Helen Louise Hunt and Miss Lucy E. Marks, will give programmes this month before the Alhambra Wednesday Afternoon Club. Miss Kimball will recite stories of character sketches on the 16th, and the following week Miss Hunt, who is an active member of the Ebell Club and is also chairman of art in the Los Angeles District Federation, will address the club on "The Use of Art in Our Daily Lives." Miss Hunt is a most original and interesting speaker, and her wise and witty observations are always listened to with delight. Miss Kimball is a very clever impersonator and is appearing before many clubs with great success. On Thursday she is scheduled for a recital before the California District Federation at Corona.

In D.A.R. Circles.

The second reciprocity luncheon of the Southern California Society Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held on Wednesday, January 29, at 12 o'clock, in the banquet room of Hotel Angelus. Reservations should be made through Mrs. Wilbur Howe Kennedy of 1036 South Bonnie Brae street not later than January 1.

The guest of honor at the January meeting of Eschscholtzia Chapter on Tuesday afternoon was Mrs. Daniel Lothrop of Boston, founder of the children's branch of the D.A.R. and author of so many charming books. The address of the afternoon was by Rev. E. S. Hodgin on "The Fulfillment of Citizenship," which was listened to with great interest. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Peat supplied the music which was a distinct addition to the programme.

Looking Backward.

If members of the Highland Park Ebell mentally absorbed all the programme presented there last Tuesday they are simply saturated with the historical happenings of the world during the past twelvemonth. Mrs. C. W. Fox reviewed events in the United States, covering things political and industrial; strikes, floods, fires and disasters; Panama Canal and parcels post; railway arbitration, Children's Bureau bill and necrology.

Dr. Kate Moody reviewed events in foreign lands—Balkan war and its openings in the Far East, in Italy and England, making special mention of the honors paid by England to the dead ambassador, Hon. Whitelaw Reid.

Matinee Musical Club.

Mrs. Robert Fenton Fowler and Mrs. Anthony Carlson will preside at the programme for the Matinee Musical Club next Thursday afternoon and Mrs. S. A. Selover, B. A. Rhoades, Mrs. E. Davis and O. B. Fuller will act as hostesses.

Cosmos Club Entertainment.

Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper, accompanied by William Gustin, pianist, entertained the Cosmos Club on Wednesday with a song recital which was followed by the usual social hour over the teacups.

A Child's Poem.

About the strongest argument I have read for a mother's patience is contained in a little book recently published by Kate Langley Bosher. It is the story of Mary Carr, a little girl who is an inmate of the Pittsburg Female Orphan Asylum, and who tells the story with all the artlessness and truth of a child. Through the years from three to nine she says, "I lived just mechanical, on the inside. I got up to a bell, cleaned to a bell, and eat good eat to a bell; rose to a bell, went school to a bell, came set to a bell, worked to a bell, served to a bell, played to a bell, said my prayers to a bell, got in bed to a bell, and the day and every day did the same over to the same old bell," and child draws the following moral all this living by a bell. "If I marry my children's father there to be no bells in the house or in. Only buttons, with no particular time to be pressed."

Endorsed by Board of Trade.

The Wednesday Afternoon Club of Alhambra unanimously endorsed, at its meeting last week the candidacy of one of its members, Mrs. F. Brownson, for secretary of the Alhambra Board of Trade. After a short business session a reception was held for the eighteen new members of the club who were to be welcomed to the organization by the president, Mrs. Clarence Van Dusen, and a special reception committee composed of Mmes. Ralph B. Clark, E. L. McCormack, A. F. Hall, Frank Y. McCune, Charles E. Gaston, F. Measman, George Rice, Jr., Benton, Paul D. Newlin, O. P. Hall, J. H. Bennett and Miss Halsted. Refreshments were served by a committee under the direction of Mrs. A. Sykes.

The new members for whom the reception was held were Mmes. Brownson, W. T. Gardner, C. Green, Horace E. Mesinger, Bucknell, C. A. Thurston, Robert Watkins, Frederick E. Hosner, C. F. Richardson, William Mayo, Jess N. Russell, H. A. Fosdick, Thanson, E. H. Thomas, R. G. Elizabeth Powell and Miss Gertrude Milligan. Flora Cheney, Myers and F. M. Foster.

Ada Reeve Talks

Reeve's career—which has been very broad career—all the way from singing in church to singing in vaudeville—all the way from concert to musical comedy—and a very brilliant and successful career at that.

TO FORSAKE VAUDEVILLE.

"Aren't you going to appear in musical comedy again?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, I mean to come to New York next winter, in one or two new London successes—which have never appeared here. My choice will be one or more of the following: 'Dollies,' 'Our Moll,' 'The Merry Girls,' or 'Ma Cousine.' Some of them are very English and some of them are Frenchy."

Miss Reeve thinks our American musical comedy "shockingly" slow. She didn't say so, but I read in the tail of her eye, that thought that particular plank of ours needs elevating.

Not that Miss Reeve is at all the sort of person who strives to impress you with her ideas—"a person with a manner as if she were being interviewed with a few remarks." She is a very piquant ingenue sort of person who gives you a feeling that a good deal is happening, somehow, and she has yellow hair, a pink, and white complexion, and big, soft, near-sighted eyes give her face the babyish expression that will never wear off, no matter how many babies of her own she has.

And there are two of them, for whom the older—"Goody," (isn't that too English for anything?)—just won the honor prize for music at school, though she's only twelve. She doesn't want them ever to go on the stage, and they're at home now, with their innocent little pigtails hanging down their innocent little piano-practicing, studying in the library, or playing tennis, or practicing for their music, in the quaint old English house which has been in Mr. Cotton's family for three hundred years.

CLIMATE, OF COURSE.

She says she'd like to live in California—preferably Carmel—if she could only bring herself to give up her dear old musty home in England for a new, shiny one out here! "It is so lovely," she sighed, "to have climate always, instead of wealth."

And that brought the artist back to her career—back to the fact that she's to appear in Canada next week, where they bill her simply, "Ada Reeve—That's All!"—and then on to South Africa!

Which again, brought us in a round about way back to American plays. And then we discussed—a weird enough subject, heaven knows—the coming American grand opera.

"You'll never have a national grand opera till you have a national character," Miss Reeve assured me, quite seriously, "you are all quite too hopeful and optimistic and—well, self-satisfied."

I confess I was having a hurried-up-the-Red-White-and-Blue-these-are-the-only-colors-true sort of feeling right at that moment, and it was very hard to convince me, right then, that we couldn't produce a grand opera if we wanted to—only we like George M. Cohan much better!

So I changed the subject, and we discussed American comic opera queens in England, and English comic opera queens in America, and we decided that American girls take well in England because they are so piquant and have so much go, and that English girls take well on the American stage because they are so demure and charming and quaint and quiet.

And Mr. Cotton, who has a sense of humor, smiled.

ALSO COMPLEXION.

Viewing Miss Reeve's rose-leaf complexion, of course I asked her how she did it—oh, I don't mean artificially, because it wasn't that kind.

I didn't find out, because Miss Reeve didn't know herself—it just grew that way—but she does think that American actresses make up too much. She herself uses only a little French cosmetic—she says the American ones are too heavy.

One who has traveled as much as Miss Reeve must necessarily have had a lot of adventures, and she mentioned one when, in search of quiet and rest, she went to the uttermost part of the capital of Morocco's Sultan. She had read that the Sultan was going to make his city so quiet and orderly that any European could walk about with as much safety as he could in his own private garden. So thither the fair Ada hied, only to find herself dropped on by a newspaper reporter. She tells how they went out into the country for a picnic, where she and her companion were speedily pounced upon and hurried off to mountain fastnesses.

After two days' imprisonment, the chief examined them. Ada was fired with a desire to give her traveling name, but by a happy inspiration boldly declared she was "Ada Reeve, the English actress." The chief sprang to his feet, "and before I hardly knew," she says, "he was shaking my hand and saying: 'This is indeed a pleasure. I'm very glad to meet you. I met long since, that I went to England, and while there I saw the great artists of your country, and among them'—bowing low, 'yourself as Winsome Brookes.' The pleasure I had in your performance is still fresh in my mind, and I shall now take it upon myself to show you all that is interesting here, and then escort you back whence you came.' Wasn't he a jolly old soul? Sounds exactly like a comic opera plot, doesn't it?"

I asked Miss Reeve what she thought of American humor, and she said she thought it was very brilliant and bright and quick, for the most part, but that audiences were often childish—didn't I think it was childish to laugh so much when they saw someone getting hit with a stick?—and that New York was most childish of all! "Philadelphia and Boston are really far more discriminating than New York, I think."

LIKES OUR SLANG.

Now, Broadway, will you be good? Well, but didn't Miss Reeve think our slang was nice?

Yes, very nice and very expressive. And then we exchanged slang. In exchange for one of our coined expressions, I got a perfectly lovely one "balmy," when you mean a person is well, has foolish pictures in his mild, but it's a good, workable word and a word you can use, unchaperoned, in any drawing-room!

I'm glad to say Miss Reeve doesn't believe in an artist going to work with his dinner pail! She believes in inspiration, and doesn't think any made-to-order acting, learned at rehearsals, ever takes its place.

That's why we give good performances sometimes, and sometimes very bad ones; and really the performers who are subject to these changes are the best one we have."

It was time to go, then, and Miss Reeve adjusted her pretty white wly for one hour," "baste even een minutes" or "boil gently for ee hours" in this man's cook-book holds that a dish which calls for h an expenditure of human energy too costly in human efficiency and pposed to the laws of personal efency.

Gift to Ruskin Art Club.

The Ruskin Art Club, in resuming study of France, is very grateful to
s. M. F. Regan for a beautiful and usual gift in the shape of four very ge and valuable old volumes which tain a collection of engravings on per by Duchesne Aine, and other rks of art snatched from the two

SUNDAY MORNING.

Ada Reeve Talks.

Reeve's career—which has been a ry long career—all the way from ging in church to singing in vaude-e—all the way from concert to mu-al comedy—and a very brilliant and erful career at that.

TO FORSAKE VAUDEVILLE.

"Aren't you going to appear in mu-al comedy again?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, I mean to come to New k next winter, in one or two of London successes—which have er appeared here. My choice will one or more of the following: 'But-fly,' 'Our Moll,' 'The Morals of ie,' or 'Ma Cousine.' Some of m are very English and some of m are Frenchy."

Ada Reeve thinks our American sical comedy "shockingly" run wn. She didn't say so, but I could ch, in the tail of her eye, that she ught that particular plank of our ge needs elevating.

As that Miss Reeve is at all the e of person who strives to impress r with her ideas—"a person with a ner as if she were being intro-ced with a few remarks." She is very piquant ingenue sort of person o give you a feeling that a great ng is happening, somehow, and she s given her face the babyish expres-n that will never wear off, no mat-how many babies of her own she y.

ad there are two of them, of m the older—"Goody," (isn't that too English for anything?)—has on the honor prize for music at yal, though she's only twelve. She n't want them ever to go on the ge, and they're at home now, with r innocent little pigtails hanging m their innocent little pianofore-s, studying in the lib'ry, or play-tennis, or practicing for their mul in the quaint old English home ch has been in Mr. Cotton's fam-for three hundred years.

CLIMATE, OF COURSE.

e says she'd like to live in Cali—preferably Carmel—if she can bring herself to give up her d musty home in England for r, shiny one out here! "But it lovely," she sighed, "to have e always, instead of weather!"
d that brought the artist back r career—back to the fact that is to appear in Canada next—n they bill her simply, "Ada —That's All!"—and then on to h Africa!

Which again, brought us in a cir-back to American plays. And we ssed—a weird enough subject, n knows—the coming American al opera.

"You'll never have a national grand ra till you have a national dis-
." Miss Reeve assured me, quite ously, "you are all quite too hapand optimistic and—well, selfained."

Unless I was having a hurrahn-Red-White-and-Blue-these-areously-colors-true sort of feeling r at that moment, and it was very t to convince me, right then, that couldn't produce a grand opera e wanted to—only we like George
Cohan much better!

So I changed the subject, and we ussed American comic opera s in England, and English comic ra queens in America, and we deed that American girls take well
England because they are so nant and have so much go, and t English girls take well on the erican stage because they are so ure and charming and quaint and

And Mr. Cotton, who has a sense humor, smiled.

ALSO COMPLEXION.

Praising Miss Reeve's rose-leaf plexion, of course I asked her at she did it—oh, I don't mean cially,—because it wasn't that I didn't find out, because Miss e didn't know herself—like

, it just grew that way—but does think that American aces make up too much. She her-uses only a little French cosmetic she says the American ones are heavy.

One who has traveled as much as Reeve must necessarily have had lot of adventures, and she men-ned one when, in search of quiet and e, she went to the uttermost parts the capital of Morocco's Sultan. had read that the Sultan was go-to make his city so quiet and or-ly that any European could walk out with as much safety as he ld in his own private garden.
Whether the fair Ada tried, only e herself dropped on by a news-per reporter. She tells how they t out into the country for a picnic, e she and her companion were denly pounced upon and hurried o mountain fastnesses.

After two days' imprisonment, the y examined them. Ada was first ired to give her traveling name, ch by a happy inspiration boldly deed she was "Ada Reeve, the Engh actress." The chief shrank to r feet, "and before I hardly knew," Reeve, "he was shaking my hand ong and saying: 'This is indeed a please. I'm very glad to meet you. It s not long since, that I went to Eng-d, and while there I saw the great ors of your country, and among m the following low, 'yourself as Wine the Spanker.' The pleasure I had in performance is still fresh in mind, and I shall now take it kind to show you all that is ractive here, and then escort you m whence you came.' Wasn't he old soul? Sounds exactly like comers plot, doesn't it?"

So I asked Miss Reeve what she ught of American humor, and she ught it was very brilliant ere bright and quick, for the most t but that audiences were often ld—didn't I think it was child-to laugh so much when they saw ebody getting hit with a stick?—
t New York was most childish ut poetry, far more discriminating n New York, I think."

LIKES OUR SLANG.

Now, Broadway, will you be good?
Well, but didn't Miss Reeve think r slang was nice?

Yes, very nice and very expressive.
And then we exchanged slang. In ason for one of our coined exssions, I got a perfectly lovely one
"chalmy" when you mean a person ch has foolish pictures in his ad, but it's a good, workable word word you can use, unchaperoned, ration, and doesn't think any ish-order acting, learned at rear, ever takes its place.

That's why we give good performs sometimes, and sometimes very d ones; and really the performers e to, subject to these changes are the best one we have."

We have time to go, then, and Miss Reeve adjusted her pretty white ermines, with the help of Mr. Coton—I told him it was very Amercan of him—and I said bromidically that all pleasant things must have an end, and Miss Reeve waved a white glove, and Mr. Cotton shook hands, and said—

"Now, please say we don't think Punch is the funniest paper ever written—and do leave us our H's intact!"

OVER THE SEA.

The Gaekwar of Baroda, when attired in his state robes, is said to carry on his person jewelry worth more than $3,500,000.

Sir Gilbert Parker has lived in almost every part of the British Empire and the scenes of his later stories and novels are laid in India,
South Africa, Egypt, Australia and Great Britain itself. It is for this reason that he chose the title Imperial Edition for the definitive edition of his books.

Adrian Pollock, the new chamberlain of London, has been for some time remembrancer of the city, receiving $10,000 a year. In that position he transacted the legal business of London, giving advice when necessary on points of law. He comes of a distinguished family which has given a number of prominent judges to the country. Among his new duties he will be required to act as the recognized public orator of the city.

Signor Bertolini, signally honored as the first Italian colonial Minister to be appointed, was formerly Minister for Public Works. The creation of the post has been necessitated by the recent war between Italy and Turkey, and as soon as seems practical Signor Bertolini will take over the administration of Tripoli and Cyrenaica from the Ministers of War and Marine.

Sir John Simon, England's Solicitor-General, in his recent address to the railway commissioners on the telephone arbitration proceedings, spoke for ten days, and made the longest speech on record in a court of law.
During this period he also addressed political meetings and spoke on several occasions in the House of Commons.

William Cornwallis West is going to sell at auction a big strip of his Ruthin Castle estate in Denbighshire, North Wales. Mrs. George Cornwallis West—formerly Lady Randolph Churchill, Winston's mother, and originally Miss Jerome of New York—is the colonel's daughter-in-law.

Gen. Menocal, who will take office next May as President of Cuba, earned his title in the field, proving himself a daring and resourceful leader in the struggle against Spain.
He is to the point, an administrator rather than an orator, and his spare, wiry frame seems to know no fatigue.
He is managing director for the Cuban-American Sugar Company, which operates an immense plant.

Charles Williams, a lighterman of Limehouse, London, England, is said to be the champion lifesaver of that country. Since 1896, when he rescued a boy from the Regent's Canal, London, he has saved 101 lives, all from drowning. Besides holding certificates and decorations of the Royal Humane Society, he has the distinction of having his name mentioned in connection with lifesaving in every police court in London.

Ernest Bach of Newark, now in his hundredth year, reads the newspaper without glasses and smokes a cigar every day.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Slim Woman Is Winning

The day of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dressmakers.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. Eao would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime, and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person losing fat the rate of 12 to 14 ounces a day. Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tablet in stock, but should yours be sold out, you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, the Marmola Company, Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich.

To Ward Off Winter Com lexion Ills

(From the Queen.)

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alternating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. I advise you to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a harmless face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

BITS OF VERSE.

The Bachelor's Paradise.

Free as the birds, and a lucky old boy!
Handsome, and rich, and a fountain of joy,
Sugar, and lots of spice!
Who could resist if the gods should decree
Something as jolly for you and for me—
A bachelor's paradise!

Nothing to fret or to worry about;
Cash coming in and not much going out;
Always enough and to spare!
No one at home to know how it is spent,
No—little rowdy to beg for a cent,
And nobody bothers to care!

Nothing to do at the close of the day,
Nobody asks him to hurry away,
Home to the same old shack!
No little sleepy-heads watching the gate,
Nobody wonders what keeps him so late,
Or cares if he never comes back!

Matrons and maids are awaiting his smile,
Sparkle, and music, and dance to beguile,
Everything natty and trim!
No little tousle-heads cuddle down tight,
No little woman to whisper "good-night"—
Nothing like that for him!

Nothing to trouble him all the night long,
Monarch of all! And his life like a song
Easy, and comfy, and nice!
No little bear-hug, and no morning kiss,
No little nuisance, and no little bliss,
Not in his paradise!

The Cathedral of the Pines.

Within the dim cathedral of the pines
The snowy birchen tapers stand alight,
Far-aisled, with lifted flames of leaf-spired gold,
While gray and old
The verger autumn wind slips through the night.

Soft-robed in frost-starred vesture mid the dusk,
With moon-pale arms, dim Autumn's acolyte
Swings smoke-sweet censers through each grass-brown glade,
And from the shade
The hills bend near, close-veiled in moon mist white.

While clear and sweet, from oak-empaneled choir,
By gray and wind-bared branches screened from sight,
The sudden song of shadow-cleaving bird,
Far distant heard,
Breathes benediction through the fading light.
—[Charleston News and Courier.

A Cycle.

Old men weave memories, sitting in the sun,
Of a world grown vain, whose one-time vaunted scars
The soft moss covers, and whose rare bazaars—
That sold them Truth—new, wayward Chafferers shun
For strange and impious markets. One by one,
Dimmed by an alien flame, the unwinking stars
That cheered their vigils fade; till Death unbars
To their bruised eyes his kind pavilion.

O glory of the young day's harbinger!
Yet, lest our kindling pride too badly burn,
And lusty boast our sicklier deeds outrun,
Mark we the portent, and forebode the year
When dazed and blind we likewise, in our turn
Old men, weave memories, sitting in the sun.

FRONTIER THEATRICALS

BY TOM FITCH.

Many years ago ("when I was young and charming") fate and a roving disposition cast my lot in a prosperous mining town some a hundred miles from a railroad. It was a little world of its own, wealth extracted from adjacent mines of auriferous quartz attracting lawyers and scientists of a high order of ability. Paris costumes for the ladies came by express and there was a brilliant social circle.

We were dependent upon ourselves for amusement. It was found that there was a lot of dramatic talent lying around loose and we organized a thespian society.

Money was abundant from the rich mines. Ten thousand dollars was contributed for the erection of a fine theater. Among the residents of the town was a bank cashier who had in his early life been a scene painter at Wallack's. A few houses were demanded of their best furniture, carpets, and curtains for stage equipment, and the Opera House, which seated 400 persons, became the scene of high-class dramatic entertainments. There was a saloon on every post in the vicinity. Its bar furnished the orchestra, and Co. C supplied a corps of fifty "supers" (soldiers for Greek soldiers, Roman soldiers and New York "mobs"). A uniformed infantry was a capital light comedy part. His wife, who had been a famous Washington beauty, was a treasure because of ability, and there was no difficulty in organizing a dramatic company which during the winter gave fortnightly performances that could hardly have been excelled in any city of professionals.

As the players were financially well compensated and the stage manager had therefore no despotic power, the presentation of the plays was sometimes accompanied by some unique features. Hamlet dressed for the ghost scene in a fur-lined overcoat, a woolen muffler and fur-topped boots. The text of Shakespeare makes the Prince of Denmark say, "But oh! how shrewdwdly, it is very cold." Then Hamlet be apt to parade outdoors in a Denmark winter, attired in red tights and a bob-tailed black "swallow curtout?" said the colonel who criticised Hamlet—"Not on your life, type."

When Hamlet handed Guildenstern a flute saying "Can you play upon this pipe?" Gildy instead of replying "No my lord," said "You bet your sweet life." Thereupon he played the "Carnival of Venice" with variations, and for an encore played "Johnny Comes Marching Home" while Polonius and Rosencrans danced a double jig.

Ophelia arrayed herself for the mad scene in an evening dress.

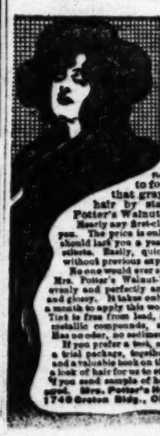
At the conclusion there were four corpses on the stage — Hamlet, Laertes, the King and the Queen—and as the curtain descended, the orchestra appropriately played the funeral march from Saul.

When "East Lynne" was presented a folding bed chair was used as a couch on which little dying Willie cashed in his checks. The stage carpenter had neglected to fasten the contraption that kept the couch in place, and when Lady Isabel Vane with a screech of grief flung herself across the couch, it closed in the middle, as old-fashioned folding-beds used to do, and the pedaceous extremities of the lady kicked vigorously toward the ceiling.

The company offered "Richelieu" with Co. A from the fort, in the knees when the curse of Rome was delivered. The stage business in "Richelieu," which succeeded the cursing scene, was sharply criticised by an old theatergoer. "Good as Barrett," said he to the gentleman who played Richelieu, "always sat down the stage when they duly Bassadas. You stood up-stage, like a stoughton bottle, and fired your lines at long-range. Didn't you know the stage business?" "I'll tell you that was, Jimmy," said Richelieu. "When I dressed I took off my coat and put on the cardinal's robe, which reached to my feet. When I pronounced the curse of Rome the hand of my pantaloons broke and they fell to the floor. If I stalked down front I fell either to trail my breeches after me, or else disentangle my feet from them and defy Barabas and his crew. Would that have been a dignified part for a lord cardinal to do?"

Jimmy admitted that under the circumstances the deviation from orthodox stage business was justifiable.

"Damon and Pythias" was the first play presented by the Thespian Society. Damon was a stalwart young lawyer. The part of Lucullus was ably acted by a slight young printer. When Damon said to Lucullus "I'll send thee with one swing to Tartarus," he seized Lucullus by a waistband that was buckled on for the occasion, and raised him from the stage. The buckle on the band gave way and Lucullus went over the footlights into the orchestra, where he kicked a violinist out of his seat, bursted in the head of the big bass drum. When he was extricated he went to his lodgings for repairs—and for his gun. He believed that Damon had inflicted this indignity upon him in revenge for a defeat that Damon had sustained the day before in a police court. He challenged Damon to fight him and fight it out. Damon was better built that way. He fled to an adjoining county. The members of the Thespian Society took sides and declined to co-operate for another performance. The society disbanded, its properties were sold at auction and the costumes chased by an enterprising shopkeeper, who bestowed them upon a visiting band of Indians. The aborigines paraded around the plaza arrayed in them. The chief, Snoozing Hyena, had on the scarlet robe of Richelieu, and it was about all that he did have on. Sagebrush Sally had a pair of embroidered slippers worn as neckties. Jimmy Behind the Stove was arrayed as a Roman vestal virgin. Skinny as Sam wore Damon's tunic and Damon's dog, scenting the aroma of his departed master, followed Pythias up and down, and howling to beat the band.



You Can Have Your Wish—

For Either a Beautiful Brown or Raven Black Hair

You don't have to wait an hour. Just make up your mind now that you are going to forever rid yourself of that gray, streaked, or faded hair by staining it with Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain.

Nearly any first-class druggist will supply you. The price is only $1.00 for a bottle that should last you a year. Don't accept a substitute. Easily, quickly and safely applied without previous experience.

No one would ever suspect your having used it. Nothing so perfectly and leaves the hair soft and glossy. It takes only a few moments once a month to apply this wonderful stain. Walnut-Tint is free from lead, sulphur, silver and all metallic compounds, and will not rub off. Has no odor, no sediment, no grease.

If you prefer a test, either send 25 cents for a trial package, together with full directions and a valuable book on the care of hair—or send a lock of hair for us to stain as a sample, free. If you send sample of hair, indicate shade desired. Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 1748 Groton Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

An Inveterate Smoker.

[New York Sun:] The commercial traveler leaned back in the corner of the Pullman smoking compartment.

"You've all heard me say," he said, "that I'm an inveterate smoker; smoke all the time except when I'm asleep. Well, I ran across a man last summer that's got them all beaten. He smoked even when he was asleep.

"He was an Italian workman that he was riding on the trolley line from Saratoga to Glens Falls. He had a pipe in his mouth and his eyes were shut. At regular intervals a puff of smoke would come from between his lips.

"I began to watch him, wondering if he really was smoking in his sleep. A few minutes and my answer came in the shape of a good, hearty snore.

"After that it was puff, puff, puff, snore: puff, snore: puff, snore. Then he woke up, went out, filled his pipe, lighted it, and came back to puff, snore: puff, snore: puff, snore. The conductor woke him up at Glens Falls."

Spring Fashions

Both in design and materials the Spring models are altogether new and decidedly interesting! Fashion creators in America and France seem to have united to give us styles that are practical, graceful in every line and becoming in the extreme. Materials include a wealth of new weaves that will be hailed with delight for they mean a departure from the fabrics worn for the last five or six seasons.

Suits

Smart tailored effects with coats in 26 or 28-inch length, having semi or fitted backs and rounded or cutaway fronts, also more elaborate models, copied from advance Parisian creations that will find undoubted favor with the modish woman—s its manifestly designed by those who know what is what in matters sartorial. Two-tone silk prunellas of charming softness, new Scotch weaves, cassimeres, worsted checks, pin stripes, henriettas, two cord Bedford fabrics; vigoureux and gros grain weaves, in a galaxy of new shades, make up the list of materials. $30 to $150.

Coats

Our early display represents the most charming creations in full and ¾ length wraps—models that are new in even the minutest detail. Mostly in the long, narrow lines, the 1913 coats are decidedly dressy and made of fabrics that will create a rousing demand, for they too, are entirely new and exemplify the market's choicest products. Wraps for street, auto and evening wear, in black and white wool stripes, plaids, checks, ratines, serges and cloth d'eponge in strikingly new colorings—chiefly in light shades, and adapted mostly from Paris models. $25 to $100.

Correct Corsets for Spring

—show no marked innovations except that in some of the new models the bust is a trifle higher. The straight lines and extreme long skirts prevail. Two especially favored models are:

Royal Regent

An especially good model for the average figure, has medium low bust and extra long skirt. Boned with double wire that is guaranteed not to rust. Eight supporters. Perfect fitting and decidedly comfortable. $3.00.

Madame Erainé

A smart and graceful model particularly well adapted to the full figure is of imported coutil boned with very best walohn. Extremely low bust; extra long with soft, extension skirt. Sizes 20 to 30, $5.00.

(Second Floor)

New Novelty Footwear

Prominent in the advance showing of exclusive novelty footwear in our Women's Shoe Section are the dainty pumps of black suede or black velvet lined with lavender kid. Suitable for street or evening wear and are the best dancing pumps ever made. $4.00.

Slippers

Silver and gold satin slippers for evening wear, are two of the newest and daintiest offerings in women's fashionable footwear. Also in pink or black satin, $4.00.

Pumps

A new patent pump of original design, has red kid lining and is exceptionally smart in every way. Decidedly popular and adapted for either street or evening wear, $3.50.

PRINCESS LOVES AMERICAN MEN.

Coloredo-Mansfield says They Won Her Heart.

Paris Detectives on Trail of Noted Swindler.

Rochette Mulcted French Public of Millions.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The Princess Coloredo-Mansfield, who has returned from the United States, says she never enjoyed herself so much as while she was making new friends in America.

"I am in love with the American man," says the lovely Princess. "He is just magnificent. All the men have left this side of the world and gone to live in America. I lost my heart ten times over and came back in sheer self-defense. The American women, too, are adorable."

Six of the cleverest of the detectives of the Paris Surete have sailed for the United States on the trail of Rochette, the price of swindlers. Paris has little faith that their shrewdness or persistence will be rewarded by the return of the wanted wanderer.

Rochette was arrested on March 23, 1908 on the charge of having embezzled something like $30,000,000 through company promoting. On July 28, 1910, he was convicted in Paris and sentenced to three years imprisonment. On his appeal the sentence was quashed, owing to flaw of procedure and a new trial was ordered at Rouen. On July 26, 1912, he was convicted again and this time to two—not three—years of imprisonment. He lodged a final appeal before the Supreme Court of Cassation. He had previously been let out on bail, after forty-seven days preventive imprisonment giving his own surety in $40,000.

LOSES FINAL APPEAL.

Recently the Court of Cassation threw out his final appeal. Rochette vanished giving up his $40,000 surety. It is a small price to pay for $30,000,000. He is believed to have crossed over to Folkestone and made his way to America. He can, of course, be extradited if discovered. But if not brought up for trial within five years all the proceedings against him will, under French law, lapse, and he will be able to return to France a free man, having swindled the French public chiefly small capitalists, out of $30,000,000 and having paid for his fortune only by forty-seven days in jail and his surety of $40,000.

It seems a cheap way of making a fortune. Rochette's career is probably the most amazing in the history of swindling. About fifteen years ago he was an errand boy in a tiny restaurant at Melun, the railway station for the artists village of Barbizon. I lunched many times in that little restaurant and have no doubt that Rochette must have run errands for me. Ten years later Rochette was a Parisian multi-millionaire. He was running, not errands, but half a dozen financial companies for the working of electric light patents, Spanish mines and Paris banks, but designed chiefly and successfully designed to fill Rochette's pockets.

ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT.

On a complaint lodged by a fleeced shareholder he was arrested. He had not been arrested many months before his case was transformed into a political one, and certain politicians were accused by others of having trumped up the charges against him. A Parliamentary Commission resulted, over which M. Jaures presided with his usual eloquence, and before which men like M. Clemenceau and M. Lepine were compelled to give evidence. The commission having died a natural death, Rochette was tried and retried; and, as said above, twice convicted.

AGED WIFE TURNS UP.

Now this could happen nowhere outside Paris.

Four years ago Madam X lost her husband in a motor car accident. The loss was estimated by M. le Juge at the comfortable figure of 15,000 francs. The weeping widow was soon the merry widow and a little later became the blushing bride of Monsieur Y, a serious and solid landowner of 50 summers and winters. Until a few days ago all went as sweetly as the dulcet tones of the wedding bells. Then, a white-haired old lady in elastic-sided boots and a very rusty bonnet knocked at the door.

"What name shall I say?" queried the polite maid.

"Madame Y," was the stern response.

"But, pardon me, madame, monsieur's mother has been dead for twenty years—oh, ever so long."

"I am not his mother, but his wife," said the old lady as she pushed her way into the hall.

Now this is all very ordinary. The amusing thing occurred when the case went into court. The old lady's story was true. Twenty-seven years before Monsieur Y, then a young man, had married in his native Yonne a lady old enough to be his mother, whom he deserted a few years later. Now Monsieur Y has a happy faculty of forgetfulness. The unimportant incident of this former marriage had entirely slipped his memory when he paid successful court to the "Beau yeux" of Madame X and of Madame X's dot. At least this was the landowner's line of defense before the examining magistrate. "A mere lapse of memory M. le Juge," he said, "is surely not an offense in the eyes of the law, and I appeal to you," continued the unregenerate culprit, "as a man of sympathy and sense, to permit me, seeing that a choice is inevitable, to keep the new one." The curious case is down to come before the Assizes of Seine-et-Marne.

WANTS UNION OF WIDOWS TO NULLIFY MEN'S WILLS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE, BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, JAN. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] According to the witty Lady Diana Manners, who is one of the closest friends of the American Lady Granard, "It is high time that the wives of wealthy Englishmen formed a union for protection against testamentary shackles imposed by absurd husbands." The latest freak "don't" is contained in the will of Charles Leonard Sankey, a rich pottery manufacturer of Rosegarth, Bulwell-lane, Old Basford, Nottinghamshire. He directed that should his wife become a professed follower of "what is commonly called spiritualism (that is, communication with the unseen world, or with those who have departed this life, principally through the intervention of persons called mediums") her interest under his will is to cease.

To secure the observance of this provision his wife is to furnish a statutory declaration each year that she has not had any dealings with spiritualism during the year or knowingly mentioned such to his daughter or allowed any literature on the subject to remain in the house where his daughter resides.

CHURCH BAZAAR CALLED LOTTERY.

London Clergyman Fined Under Gaming Act.

Lord Gascoigne-Cecil Says Boys Badly Taught.

Skirt Saves Life of Girl Who Tries Suicide.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Dudley Police Court was filled with clergymen and leading churchmen of the district, last week, all of whom were interested in a case in which the vicar, churchwardens and secretaries of a big church bazaar were charged with contravening the Gaming Act and the Lottery Act. It was alleged that tables on the roulette and spinning jenny principle were used, and prizes competed for, these including a leg of mutton, pork pie and books. The competitors placed coins on numbers and any person who had "backed" the number at which the revolving pointer stopped secured the prize. A policeman won a book entitled "Mending Men," written by a well-known Midland temperance reformer. For the defense it was contended that the hall where the bazaar was held was not habitually used for gaming and therefore the Gaming Act of 1854 had not been broken. The magistrates considered it had not been proved that five of the gentlemen charged had to do with the management of what took place, and the summons against them were dismissed. The vicar and the secretaries, however, were ordered to pay costs, the bench warning the public that any future cases would not be dealt with so leniently. So the cloth gives not the privilege to wager.

ARRAIGNS BRITISH YOUTH.

"Is England past her zenith?" Lord William Gascoigne-Cecil asks his fellow-countrymen. His Lordship then proceeds bitterly to arraign the British system of "unmanly development of youth" in an interview which has attracted widespread attention and interest. He says:

"From youth upward laziness is acquiesced in if not taught. The boy at school is taught to think so much of games that the object of life seems to him not work, but play. The young man at the university regards life as a plaything; he goes to the university 'to have a good time.' The man prospering in business, or who has succeeded to a good business, sells out and hands over his work to a company, so that he can go to the south of England and play in the hunting field, or waste his life in worse ways in London. The working classes and other sections of our countrymen think more and more about excursions, holidays, football matches, etc., till at last one begins to think the poor old tramp has really not such a very bad idea of work compared with the average of his fellow-countrymen.

"If the world is a slack world it still contains persons of enormous energy and vigor, men who in the higher ranks of life sit with three telephones and two stenographers about them, managing and organizing quite an incredible amount of business; while in the humble ranks of life there are men who come back from their work to go straight into their gardens and who really between work and garden and house are putting in sixteen hours to the day, or more."

SKIRT SAVES LIFE.

Converted into an impromptu life buoy by the air imprisoned within it a skirt was the means of saving the life of Rose Reek, a young and pretty serving maid, who is alleged to have tried to drown herself in the Trent at Nottingham. The girl, who is a barmaid at a popular inn, being crossed in love, got into the river near the Suspension Bridge, and a few minutes later was seen floating down the stream, her head and body being held well above the water by the "ballooning out" of her dress. Men followed her along the embankment and there a boat was obtained by Liscumb Morland, a well-known local boxer, and the girl was rescued, frightened, but none the worse for her adventure. After being given dry clothing at the police station she was taken immediately before the magistrates. She said she had had some trouble, but did not disclose its nature and was remanded.

LOST WEIGHT AND CHARM.

German Sues Wife for Divorce Because She Reduced Fifteen Pounds and Gets It.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] They have discovered a new ground for divorce in Germany, and a most remarkable one at that. One of the magistrates of Breslau applied for a divorce because his wife, in order to conform to the dictates of fashion, had reduced her weight by fifteen pounds in the course of the year. The husband protested and threatened in vain; she took no notice. So, declaring that the reduction of flesh which his wife had succeeded in obtaining had also reduced her charm; the husband demanded the help of the law. In giving the verdict, the court declared that if the diminution of the weight of the wife had been due to natural causes the application for a divorce must have met with a refusal, but since the wife had lost weight by the help of drugs, to which she had recourse, the husband was entitled to divorce.

TWO MILITANTS SENT TO PRISON.

DESTROYED MAIL WITH ACIDS AND STICKY FLUIDS.

One Is a Cripple Unable to Get About Except on a Tricycle and Yet She Waged a Systematic Campaign of Destruction and Has Been in Jail Before.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Long sentences were passed on two of the militant suffragettes, many of whom in recent months have engaged in a campaign of destruction of the mails.

May Billinghurst and Louisa Gay, two of the first to be arrested, are condemned to eight months' imprisonment each. May Billinghurst, who is a cripple, and is unable to get about except on a tricycle, has been imprisoned on several occasions in connection with the suffragette campaign.

The evidence given today showed that letter boxes throughout the center and the West End of London had been damaged, together with their contents by means of acids, sticky fluids of various kinds, varnish and ink. In some cases, inflammable materials, such as rags soaked in lamp oil, had been inserted through the slits in the boxes for the admission of the mail. Many valuable documents had been destroyed in this way. These included money orders, contracts, checks and bank notes.

It was a matter of difficulty to capture the perpetrators of the outrages in the act, as in most instances the destructive fluids were passed into the boxes in uncorked bottles contained in ordinary envelopes.

UNIONISTS DROP TARIFF CRY.

Memorial Urges Abandonment of Proposal to Impose Taxes on Food Imported Into British Isles.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Tariff reform, so far as it involves the taxing of food, is on the eve of final disappearance as a plank in the Unionist policy. A representative meeting of Unionists was held in the House of Commons Wednesday, with the object of healing, if possible, the dissensions in the Unionist party created by the recent proposal to impose taxes on food imported into the British Isles, and restoring the unity of the party.

A memorial was drafted and addressed to Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, advocating the policy of abandoning the food taxes at the next general election, and urging that if the Unionists were returned to power, they call a conference of the colonies to decide how the imperial preference should be established.

The memorial also sets forth that if the plan adopted by the colonies should involve the taxing of food, no action should be taken until the country again had been consulted by referendum or by a general election.

Subject to these conditions, the memorial expresses unwavering loyalty to Bonar Law's leadership.

According to some of the Unionist party papers, Austen Chamberlain and other advocates of the food tax have agreed to the memorial, which is expected to receive almost universal support, and it appears to be the belief that Bonar Law will consent to retain the leadership of the party on the conditions thus imposed upon him, for the sake of restoring unity.

If this policy is adopted, however, it means that tariff reform no longer is a matter of practical politics, because it could not be introduced in Parliament until after two general elections.

The Morning Post, which represents the extreme tariff reformers, expresses the opinion that Bonar Law and Lord Lansdowne would resign, rather than accept the memorial.

NASH DIES OF HEART FAILURE.

American Consul-General at Budapest Takes Sleeping Potion and Never Wakes Again.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A verdict of "death from heart failure" was returned at the Coroner's inquest Thursday on the body of Paul Nash, United States Consul-General at Budapest. A doctor who had attended Mr. Nash was called as a witness and testified that his patient had taken a sleeping draught to combat the insomnia from which he had been suffering and this possibly accelerated death, but Mr. Nash's heart was in bad condition. The late Consul-General's body is to be cremated here and the ashes sent to Cambridge, Mass.

Koh-i-nor.

CRAZE FOR GEMS RULES SOCIETY.

Crown Jewels Set Pace for Drawing-Rooms.

Many Royal Diamonds Have Romantic History.

Lady Decies Can't Get Into Almanach de Gotha.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The craze for expensive jeweled coiffures is the most significant feature of the drawing-rooms of the moment. Society is following the lead of the royalties of the old world who are adding more and more gems to their regalia of state. Richest of all in precious stones is the crown of England.

Apart from a portion of the huge Cullinan diamond the King's crown contains the Koh-i-nor (probably the most beautiful diamond known;) the celebrated ruby that was filched by Pedro the Cruel from the King of Granada (whom he killed after having invited him to his palace to dine;) a sapphire that belonged to Edward the Confessor, and many other historical gems. Queen Victoria found the crown then in use much too heavy, and had it replaced by a lighter one; but whereas the original crown was worth only 150,000, the value of the new one was double that amount.

Next in value is the crown of Russia, which resembles somewhat a mitre in shape. The cross which surmounts it is composed of five superb diamonds resting on one of the finest rubies in existence, and the velvet lining of the crown is completely hidden by an incrustation of precious stones. The Russian imperial regalia also comprises the crowns of Finland, Poland and Siberia, as well as the crown worn by Catherine the Great, which contains no fewer than 2500 diamonds.

There are comparatively few jewels in the Austrian crown, but all are of great size and value. The crown of Hungary which, of course, belongs to the ruler of the Dual Monarchy, has had a very romantic history. After the defeat of Kossuth, in 1848, it completely disappeared and it was believed that Kossuth had taken it with him on his flight, and had sold the stones separately in Turkey. Others thought that it was hidden somewhere, either in London or in Constantinople. All efforts to recover it were in vain until 1853, when a Hungarian offered to give information as to its whereabouts on condition that he should not be punished, and that no questions should be asked. His offer was accepted and the crown was found buried under a tree, where Kossuth had hidden it.

The crown of Portugal, now no longer in use, is valued at two millions sterling. It has passed through many vicissitudes and on one occasion Dom Carlos was reduced to pawning it in order to replenish his empty purse.

The King of Spain and the King of the Belgians never wear their crowns. Some monarchs, however, are much fonder of displaying their state jewelry, and the late King Oscar of Sweden wore his crown on every possible occasion.

Perhaps the most remarkable of the crowns of Europe is the ancient iron crown of Lombardy, which is kept in the Cathedral of Monza, near Milan. The setting is entirely of iron, and tradition has it that the nails with which Christ was crucified were worked into its structure. It is watched over night and day by monks.

A profound mystery surrounds the disappearance, after the French Revolution, of the diamonds belonging to the royal crown of France. The strangest part of it is that these diamonds now form part of the regalia of the royal house of Brunswick. Nobody knows how they got there, but it has been suggested that the retirement of the Duke of Brunswick from the Battle of Valmy, in 1792, without striking a blow, was bought by the Commune with the royal jewels.

George Gordon Moore, the American financier, is winning golden opinions in London as a host. Rumor is also busily coupling his name with the pretty daughter of one of London's loveliest women. He belongs to the little coterie of which the elders are Lady Elcho, Mrs. Asquith, and the Duchess of Rutland, while the younger members are Lord Elcho's married sons and daughters-in-law and his married daughter, Lady Anglesey, and Mrs. Alan Parsons, better known, perhaps, as Miss Viola Tree.

An absurd story was in circulation recently, coupled with the name of one of the most popular American matrons of the British aristocracy, young Lady Decies. The suggestion is that the former Miss Gould, through a social friend, made a proposition to the celebrated Almanach de Gotha to include her name and that of her husband in the 150th issue, just to press. The idea is preposterous. The most exclusive Almanach admits into its genealogical sections no British family below ducal rank, and even these did not find a place in its jealously-guarded pages until 1876.

TO FLY ACROSS ALPS.

Peruvian Aviator to Follow Route Over Simplon Pass of George Chavez, Who Perished in Italy.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) Jan. 11.—Jean Bielovucci, the Peruvian aviator, arrived at Brig, from which place he will attempt a flight in a monoplane across the Alps into Italy. Bielovucci intends to follow the same course over the Simplon Pass as was attempted by George Chavez, his late friend and compatriot, who died on September 27, 1910, after accomplishing the flight over the mountains from Brig to Domodossola, Italy, where he was seriously injured in landing.

Bielovucci, who is not yet 24 years old, holds a French pilot's license. He made a sensational flight in Paris in August, 1910, when he circled the Eiffel Tower. In September of the same year he flew from Paris to Bordeaux. He traveled today over the course in an automobile and now awaits only favorable weather.

FLESH OF DOGS ON THE MENU

Prussians Cultivate a Ros… Appetite for It.

Hueppe Calls the American… "Opium Eaters."

German Lawmakers Would… Ride on Passes.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—The use of the flesh of dogs as a food for man is becoming common even in the capital.

From necessity the German work… ingman has long made horse meat a substantial portion of his daily fare, but while Saxony consumes thousands of dogs annually the practice of eating this meat has not until recently invaded Prussia.

Now the overseers of the Berlin cattle yards have given their approval of a proposal to erect a municipal slaughter-house for dogs at the yards, and it is expected that the police president will soon issue the required permit.

"OPIUM EATERS."

The use of opium in the United States has reached immense proportions as a result chiefly of "the unwise form of the prohibition movement in some States," according to Prof. Hueppe, one of Germany's leading authorities and writers on alcoholism and other diseases resulting from the abuse of stimulants.

Prof. Hueppe, who was reported some time ago as saying, in an address on "Sport and Stimulants" before a scientific association of Berlin, that the use of stimulants in America was taken chiefly the form of indulgence in opium, now explains that his statement was not so broad as that.

The professor repeats, however, that the use of opium has spread over a large part of the United States. The reason for this, he thinks, is to be found in prohibition laws. The use of all stimulants, he says, arises from local conditions. If one suppresses their sale or use without regard to local needs and to the historical development of a people, other stimulants must take the place of those interdicted. After these new stimulants are more dangerous than those suppressed.

Other writers have questioned the professor's conclusions on the ground that prohibition of the sale of alcoholic stimulants is the exception rather than the rule in the United States.

THE REGATTA.

There is a likelihood that next summer's international regatta will furnish no sonderclass opponents for the Americana.

At present not one sonderclass yacht is being built by any of Germany's greatest yacht constructors, and none will be unless conditions alter. The German yachtsmen have long protested that the existing price limit for sonderclass racers—$1250—was too low to enable them to compete with the higher-priced American yachts, and the builders also demanded that the limit be raised. A few weeks ago the price limit was increased with the consent of the Emperor to $1400, but the builders are still dissatisfied with this figure. They demand a limit of $1625.

Whether the Emperor, to whose initiative and encouragement sonderclass racing in Germany owes its development, will consent to the new price limit is doubtful. If he does not there will probably be no German competitors with the American yachts.

APPLIED SCIENCE.

Germany's practically-applied science is about to rescue another waste product and make it useful.

Prof. Reinke of the Brunswick Technical High School has discovered a method of converting into cellulose the waste of the asparagus plant. A good quality of paper is made from cellulose, and it has many other valuable industrial uses.

"DEADHEADS."

Many members of the Reichstag are tired of paying railroad fares. To be sure, they have passes good between their homes and Berlin while the Reichstag is in session, but the National Liberals at least are not satisfied with that. They will propose when Parliament reconvenes after the holidays that passes good on all railroads and at all times be issued to the legislators.

There was a time when this was the rule. Such passes were issued to members of the first Reichstag, who then received no pay for attending sessions. In 1874 the railroad officials did a little quiet investigating and learned that one legislator had traveled more than 11,000 miles in eight months, another more than 6000 and a third more than 4200 miles. The Federal Council thereupon put a stop to the custom by making the passes valid only between the legislator's home and Berlin.

The National Liberals now desire the old custom renewed in full force, making the passes good throughout the year, instead of only during sessions and eight days before or after, as at present. Since the abolition of the unlimited passes in 1874 a law has been passed granting to each member of the Reichstag $750 salary. Five dollars is deducted, however, for every sitting which he fails to attend or for a roll call in which he is not recorded.

YEAR'S GRACE FOR JEWS.

Kiev Fears to Let Them Go Lest the Business of the City Be Entirely Dislocated.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

KIEV (Russia) Jan. 11.—A year's grace has been granted by the authorities here to 200 Russian business men of the Jewish faith who were affected by a recently issued government circular forbidding Hebrews of certain categories to trade in Kiev, after January 14.

A number of manufacturers in Moscow and Lodz made representations to the Minister of Finance, declaring that the closing of the enterprises conducted by these business men would cause heavy losses. The Minister decided to apply to the Senate for a decision on the general right of merchants of the Jewish faith to trade and live in all parts of Kiev and in the meantime has suspended the execution of the circular.

The Minister of Education has authorized the opening here of four Hebrew schools after long opposition.

AMERICAN MEAT AGAIN THE ISSUE.

Norwegians Want to Stop Importations of It.

Kingly Decorations Are Also Getting in Disfavor.

A Cabinet Official Refuses to Accept One.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CHRISTIANIA (Norway) Jan. 11.—There has been a revival of agitation against the importation of American meat, largely based on an article appearing in a local paper from its Chicago correspondent, which conveyed the impression that Norway was used as a dumping ground for the meat of horses and diseased animals, which could not be sold elsewhere.

The American Minister, who on previous occasions, has obtained fair treatment for American meat by satisfying the Norwegian authorities that it was of good quality and was carefully inspected, has made a public statement in which he points out that the American authorities do not inspect, stamp or certify horse meat, and that the article complained of is salted beef, accompanied by an official stamp and certificate, against which there has never been any complaint.

The chief inspector of meats for Norway supported the minister's contension.

HATES DECORATION.

A movement has been started in Norway in favor of the abolition of decorations.

M. Thorne, a Cabinet Minister, and former speaker of the Storthing, has set an example by declining the Grand Cross of Saint Olaf, the highest distinction in Norway, which the King recently conferred upon him, in recognition of his services especially at the time Norway declared her independence, and the dissolution of the Swedish-Norwegian union took place.

In returning the decoration, M. Thorne thanked His Majesty for the honor, but said that he thought that he was doing his duty as a Norwegian citizen in refusing it. Coming from a strong Conservative this action shows how widespread is the objection to decorations in the country.

In the Storthing there are eighty-two members who control a majority against decorations. They have already submitted an amendment to the constitution in this respect, which is certain to be passed.

CHINESE SHOPS PILLAGED.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The disbanded Chinese soldiers looted the treaty port of Chi-Fu, on the north coast of the Shantung Peninsula, according to the Peking correspondent of the Daily Mail. They pillaged and burned shops and houses. Chinese bluejackets were landed and assisted the loyal troops in restoring order. Europeans were not molested.

House of Commons Committee Urges Further Inquiry Into Marconi Wireless Company.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The select committee of the House of Commons which is investigating the Marconi Company's contract with the government will, according to the Daily News, issue an interim report postponing the ratification of the agreement and urging further inquiry by the government into the merits of the rival systems of wireless telegraphy.

In his testimony before the committee, R. H. Eggar, counsel for the Danish owners of the Poulsen patents, reiterated his charge that throughout 1911 the postoffice persistently had refused to give any information to his company about the proposed erection of an imperial wireless chain.

He reaffirmed his belief that in offering to purchase the Poulsen patents, the postoffice was acting as agents of the Marconi company.

Explosion in the Stokehold of the French Battleship Massena—Steam Collector Pipes Burst With Terrible Results.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

TOULON (France) Jan. 11.—Eight men were killed last Monday by an explosion in the stokehold of the French battleship Massena. The Massena, accompanied by two cruisers, was proceeding for Bizerta. She was passing the Hyeres Islands when the steam collector pipe of one of the boilers burst.

The warship was stopped and the engine-room staff rushed to the stokehold as soon as the steam cleared, where they found a petty officer, six stokers and an artificer lying dead.

SATISFYING ROUMANIA.

Bulgaria Is Reported to Have Agreed to Cede to Her a Strip of Territory to Keep Her Quiet.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he has learned on unimpeachable authority that Bulgaria and Roumania have reached an agreement under which Bulgaria cedes to Roumania a strip of territory extending on its southern boundary from Oltenitza to about Cape Gulgrad, on the Black Sea. This territory includes the town of Silistria, on the right bank of the Danube, which was an important fortress under the Turks and has figured prominently in Russo-Turkish wars.

Bulgaria, he says, in addition will pay an indemnity to cover certain expenses incurred by Roumania.

PUTS A CLOCK IN THE STEEPLE.

Devotion of a Widow Is Finally Rewarded.

She Dries Her Eyes and Returns to the Field.

Austrian Prince Capitalizes the Christmas Tree.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) aJn. 11.—A clock costing $4100—a value out of all proportion with its surroundings—has been placed in the steeple of the village church at Bremgarten, in the canton of Argovie.

The Mayor, the elders, and every other man, woman and child in the place lent the dignity of their presence to the installation.

The timepiece was designed as a memorial for a Bremgartener whom nearly everyone had forgotten, but its striking will be an hourly reminder of the wifely devotion of Widow Honegger, who toiled for more than half a century to make possible the testimonial.

The widow is 76 years of age. Her husband died when she was 24 and a village beauty, leaving her penniless. In all the years since she has worked as a household servant or in the fields, hoarding her earnings. Her labor-bent figure, excessive self-denial and "miserly" habits made her an object of ridicule among the thoughtless, but locked in her breast was the secret ambition only revealed to her astonished neighbors when the money for its fulfillment was in hand.

The other day Widow Honegger, now about the most popular citizen of Bremgarten, witnessed the clock started on its tick-tock journey. Then she dried her eyes and returned to the fields.

CHRISTMAS TREE PROFITS.

The Prince of Liechtenstein, the head of the independent state of Liechtenstein, wedged in between Switzerland and Austria, is developing a large revenue from the sale of Christmas trees.

He sold $5000 worth abroad for Christmas, chiefly in Vienna, Berlin, Munich and in Swiss cities, and sent some large consignments to England. The Prince has made a special study of forestry and takes a personal interest in this part of the sovereign domains. The fir trees are planted each season in great numbers about two yards apart in open spaces and along the roads. Entire fields of poor land are sometimes planted with trees about 1000 to the acre. They take from 8 to 12 years to reach sizes suitable for Christmas use. They sell at from 10 to 15 cents apiece.

The expense of cultivation is almost nothing. The plants are strong and require no attention. The Prince began this undertaking in 1900. It is said that the profits from land of little use for other purposes, taking ten years as the period necessary to grow a tree, are from $10 to $15 an acre per year, averaging through the entire period.

THE CRISIS IN LISBON.

Premier Resigns Despite the Prayers of President Arriaga and Executive Threatens to Follow Suit.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LISBON (Via the Frontier) Jan. 11.—In spite of the insistence of President Arriaga, who wished Dr. Duarte Leite to remain in power until the approaching Parliamentary elections could give an indication of the way the country generally would like to see the ministerial crisis resolved, the Premier handed his resignation and that of his colleagues to the President on January. 3. The President then summoned the various political leaders and appealed to their patriotism.

Finally Antonio Jose Almeida, the leader of the Conservatives, agreed to form a ministry with the support of the unionists and independents, thus, creating a conservative "bloc." It is pointed out, however, that this "bloc" would give the cabinet a majority of only seven.

It is reported that President Arriaga has declared he would resign if the political leaders failed to form an administration in which case Brazillo Telles would be elected to the Presidency.

The hotel employees have been instructed categorically to deny the presence there of Crown Prince Alexis.

CHINESE MERCHANTS COMPLAIN.

Want the United States to Remove The Ban Against Oriental Labor in the Philippine Islands.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING (China) Jan. 11.—Delegates representing the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Manila, who are here attending the commercial and industrial conference, have drawn up a memorial imploring the central government to open furthern negotiations with the United States to remove the stringent rules now enforced against the immigration of Chinese laborers to the Philippines.

Seventy per cent. of the business of the Philippines, the memorial continues, is in the hands of the Chinese and for this reason Chinese labor is required.

Salt to Keep the Dust Down.

[Harper's Weekly:] In France it has been the custom, at the beginning of the summer, to tar the roads in and about the towns, in order to abate the dust nuisance. It has been found, however, that tar, although excellent in the case of macadamized roads, is of little or no value where tramways exist and paved street crossings intersect the roads in various directions. The tarring cannot be carried out on stones.

Basing their action on the well-known hygrometrical properties of common salt, the authorities have made a test of its value in laying the dust. Twenty yards of roadway have been sprinkled liberally with salt and then watered freely. If the results are satisfactory salt will be used throughout the town of Havre, it being impossible to tar the majority of the streets, since they are paved with rought stone blocks.

Wooden Food.

SACCHULOSE THE NEW SUGAR.

MADE FROM ANY KIND OF WOOD SAWDUST.

Has Been Proved a Valuable Food Article for Animals—From it Can Also be Made Proof Spirit and Other Things of Use in the Industries.

[New York Times:] British chemists are complaining bitterly of the effect upon their research work which the lack of substantial support is having as compared with the enterprise in this direction shown in Germany, where it is announced that $5,000,000 is being placed at the disposition of chemists for experiments in connection with synthetic rubber, which will doubtless ultimately prove of vast benefit to the German nation.

The British chemists, however, find some consolation in the fact that experiments in England have resulted in a discovery which, it is said, may revolutionize the sugar refining industry.

By a new chemical process the manufacture of sugar from wood and sawdust has become an accomplished fact. Large quantities of the commodity have actually been produced, and it is said that arrangements are in hand for the establishment of factories throughout England for the exploitation of the process.

"Sacchulose" is the term applied to the new product. The results obtained are what are called "classed process," in which sawdust is subjected in closed retorts to digestion with a weak sulphurous acid solution, and under the pressure of about ninety to 100 pounds to the square inch effective transmutation takes place. Of the resulting product 25 per cent. is sugar. The constituent sugar so formed is dextro in part and fermentable to an extent of 80 per cent. The rest is not fermentable.

Numerous experiments and demonstrations were recently made by the well-known scientist here, A. Zimmermann. He explained the new discovery and the results to The New York Times correspondent. After dealing with the theoretical reasons why wood treated in the manner described should be a digestible and useful food, and of especial value to a country entirely dependent on the importation of the foreign-grown product, Mr. Zimmerman outlined the experiments carried out on live stock as proof of the actual value of "sacchulose" to the farmer and stock breeder. Here are some experiments:

Four draft horses were selected doing ordinary work with others, and, in the hot time of the year, when horses are generally expected to lose weight, the usual food ration was altered by deducting four pounds of oats a day from the food selected for the four and replacing them by four pounds of a "sacchulose" molasses compound. The animals working in the same teams with the selected four, to which had not been given this food, showed no increase in weight, but those experimented upon showed a net gain in body weight and worked better in every way. Increases in weight of seventy pounds, thirty pounds, thirty-five pounds, and sixty-five pounds were shown respectively.

A colt that was in such a weak condition that it could hardly stand was next experimented with. Four important veterinary surgeons, obtained after a careful examination, had given independent verdicts that the colt should be destroyed. Then the new food was given to the animal, first one and one-half pounds daily, divided into three meals. This was increased to three and one-half and four pounds daily, the quantity of oats being slowly decreased in the same proportion. Two pounds of chaff also was given daily and hay unlimited.

The weight of the animal taken at the beginning of the six months' feeding, was 623 pounds; the final weight, after that period, was 882 pounds, a total increase of more than 250. The colt is now in excellent condition and fit for any work.

The secretary of an important Durham colliery reports that he finds the substitution of two pounds of "sacchulose," mixed with molasses for an equal weight in oats, keeps the pit ponies and horses in a good, hard condition, similar to that when fed entirely on oats and chaff.

In the production of milk and butter a keen exhibitor of dairy produce, after several years' failure to gain any first-class recognition at county shows, achieved successes during a period in which he experimented with "sacchulose" mixed with oil protein.

The manager of one of the largest firms of butchers has made the interesting discovery that the new food produced the best bacon and hams. A veterinary surgeon, after conducting experiments on his own horses, came to the conclusion that "sacchulose" mixed with molasses was the best sugar food he ever tried, and its flesh-forming propensites were most pronounced.

"There are many possibilities," remarked Mr. Zimmermann, "apart from 'sacchulose' as a feeding stuff, for the utilization of this converted wood substance and its value in these directions has yet to be considered. Its sugar content marks it out as a resource for some industries, and naturally the first of these is the manufacture of spirit. A factory capable of treating 200 tons of sawdust weekly could turn out between 300,000 to 400,000 gallons of proof spirit a year. This would also give by-products of fifty tons acetic acid, ten tons furfural, and 2000 gallons of methyl alcohol for recovery. The spirits produced are of high quality and free from fusel oil. It is thought that this, in these days, is of mixed advantage, since it appears that fusel oil obtained as a by-product is becoming more valuable than the spirits produced.

"Time was, and not more than twelve years ago, when fusel oil was worth only £10 to £20 a ton, while today it fetches £150 a ton, and the price is rising rapidly day by day.

"Many other alternative openings have not yet been considered. The sugar world today is producing vast amounts of glucose, and this amount, though enormous, does not adequately supply the demand made for it; so that the sale of wood sugar is not to be ignored.

"When the question of such a body as caramel is to be considered, it is, of course, not contended that such saccharine matter can compete with white glucose for sugar boiling, but for sugars, relatively unfermentable, to be used as printing in the brewing industry this may form the base.

"Of late years, too, molasses has been used for road sprinkling, and it is seriously suggested that Cuban molasses should be shipped to New York for American consumption for this purpose. If this be successful, why should not a similar product, home produced, be used for home consumption?

"Experiments are to be carried on further, and their successful completion will cause the demand of very large quantities of such products.

"This converted wood may again be said to be the cheapest base from which to start for the purpose of making synthetic rubber, whose source is starch or sugar. Converted wood will doubtless be of great assistance in the development of this process. The base of its derivatives may be used in the linoleum industry, for this specially treated and prepared base has many advantages for resilient treadings.

"Again, in the manufacture of mining explosives, while the organic matter is mixed with powerful oxidizing agents, this substance can be used with great advantage, since it can be so minutely divided, and has such rapidity of combustion.

"Not the least surprising of its characteristics are its non-conducting properties produced by appropriate treatment; so that for refrigerator packing, incubators, ice chambers, etc., it will be found of great use.

"Much more could be claimed for it. Many outlets are under investigation and undergoing patient development. These varied processes are after all the result of, and go hand in hand with, the production of sugar from wood."

Mr. Zimmerman's experiments have raised considerable interest and comment in this country. Another scientist, Walter F. Reid, F. C. S., who is also interested in the new discovery, says that there is an enormous amount of wood still left in the world, especially in Europe, and it is a rather curious development, he says, that the United States, which had such enormous reserves of forests, is now giving to outside countries for wood. On the other hand, the total area of forest lands, including Siberia, is greater than the whole of the United States and Canada combined.

It has been pointed out that there are a great many sawmills in London doing a large amount of work, and that the sawdust produced is far superior to that collected from the fresh wood in the countries in which the wood is grown. The wood used in London is mostly water-borne, from which the rosin has been washed out, and thus gives a far better product.

Enormous Wealth of the Borgias.

[London Chronicle:] A large proportion of the wealth of the Borgias appears to have come down to their descendant, the Duke of Ossuna, who figures in Disraeli's letters. In 1807 the Duke was appointed Spanish Ambassador at St. Petersburg.

He accepted the post on condition that the government would distribute his salary among the poor of Madrid, as he could not condescend to draw money from the state. The Duke was then described as "the wealthiest man in Europe."

His property extended from Cadiz to Turin. He could travel by coach from Madrid through France and Germany to Warsaw, and sleep every night in one of his own castles."

Railroad's Unique Payroll.

[Leslie's Weekly:] With 2000 active employees who have been in service forty years or longer, and with 1572 men who served forty years or more and are now receiving pensions, the Pennsylvania Railroad has a payroll which is probably unique among those of the corporations of this country. No less remarkable is the fact that the Pennsylvania records show that today there are upon its payroll 429 men who have been in its service more than fifty years. One employee has been receiving pay from the Pennsylvania for sixty-six years.

No More Gray Hair

Try This Simple Home Made Preparation on the Whitened Locks.

"Silver Threads" may be capable of inspiring the song writers, but they are anything but inspiring to men and women who find them coming in their own locks, thus announcing the approach of age. These "footprints of Time," however, may be readily covered up by using a simple, inexpensive formula which can be prepared privately in your own home. You can get from any druggist at little cost an ounce of bay rum, a quarter ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound; then dissolve the Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water, add the other two ingredients and you will have a preparation that cannot be excelled for darkening gray hair, removing dandruff, correcting humors of the scalp and invigorating the hair follicles. It does not make the hair sticky, does not rub off or color the scalp. It is equally as good to darken the beard as the hair. There is no other ingredient that can take the place of Barbo Compound in this recipe, so if your druggist is out of it ask him to order it from his wholesaler for you.—[Advertisement.

Prescription that Soon Knock Rheumatism

The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. The poisons that settle in muscles, joints and back, causing severe pains, must be dissolved and expelled from the system or there can be no relief. This prescription from a noted doctor is said to be working wonders all over the country. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured by it here last winter. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed-time." Results come the first day. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take some patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.—[Advertisement.

Breaks a Cold in a Day

And Cures Any Cough That is Curable. Noted Doctor's Formula.

"From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed-time. Smaller doses to children according to age." This is the best formula known to science. There are many cheaper preparations of large quantity, but it don't pay to experiment with a bad cold. Be sure to get only the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it in stock he will get it quickly from his wholesale house. This has been published here every winter for six years and thousands of families know its value. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.—[Advertisement.

The Diamond Situation

WHERE there is one perfect diamond sold nowadays — there are a thousand imperfect stones sold.

Perfect diamonds are scarce—very scarce—and yet the demand for perfect gems is much greater now than it was when they were more plentiful.

This condition accentuates the investment value of a perfect diamond—and it also emphasizes the extreme importance of choosing gems from a house on which you can absolutely rely.

To be on the safe side—Feagans and Co. permit none but the finest specimens of perfect gem stones to enter their stock.

A HIGH TYPE SOUTHRON.

Mrs. Edward Douglas White, Wife of the Chief Justice, May Be Described as a Distinguished Woman in an Exalted Post and Thoroughly Able to Uphold All Traditions Attaching to it.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—No authority on matters of social precedent in this broad land has ever been brave enough to define exactly what position the head of the second division of the tripartite government holds in regard to the others. The troubles between the Speaker and the Vice-President have received national fame. Chief Justice Fuller always declined to consider himself a rank below the second man of the nation, and he pointedly refused all invitations which placed him in a subordinate rank to the Speaker. He also raised the point as to whether the Chief Justice of the United States, presiding over the most august tribunal of the world, should step below any Ambassador or plenipotentiary of a foreign nation. All these dignified protests aroused a high degree of curiosity in the minds of Washington hostesses as to the attitude to be taken by Justice Fuller's successor. But the keenest cannot observe that he has raised any issue at all. In fact, those who knew Chief Justice White and his gracious wife cannot associate them with any sort of controversy on social matters. Both stand for the conservative type, and fulfill all duties of their high office and neither cares to figure in the amenities only so far as they are conformable to their dignified station.

The sedate and spacious home in Rhode Island avenue is far from being dull, though it rarely figures as the scene of a "function." Last winter Mrs. White was in mourning for her husband's sister, Miss Susan White of New Orleans, who was a member of the household, and her home was open only for her intimates. But this winter the quiet routine of hospitality has been renewed and there are few evenings when a small dinner for friends is not in progress, or when the Chief Justice and Mrs. White are not making part of another friendly dinner party. Of all the divisions of the civil government domiciled in Washington, the Supreme Court circle is most homogeneous. This is so, it is asserted, because it is the only one holding a life tenure. All the others come for a limited term of years, and they do not become part of the capital life nor take in their colleagues as their most desired of friends and associates. Through their long residence in Washington, Justice and Mrs. White are deans of their circle even without their higher rank. Then home had long been a rallying point for the social life of the judicial set. Now it is constantly the scene of hospitality and of pleasant informal gatherings of the justices and their wives.

But it is to the student of the evolution of Washington as a world capital that the personality of Mrs. White stands out commandingly. For some time past there has been a feeling that social conditions as they are, do not exactly represent the best type of Americans. It has been no uncommon thing for young girls to issue invitations without the consent of their parents and to people whom their parents do not know. The loftiest type of officials and especially the exalted among the members of the diplomatic corps get the most offhand invitations to dinners and receptions from those whom they do not know and whom they never wish to know. Answering such invitations is a serious task for a refined gentlewoman and the whole problem has engaged serious attention for some time past. There are many dignified women in official life who cannot subscribe to methods which cast such discredit on the women nationally considered. Therefore, there is a concerted movement among some of the older, graver and better born of the official women of Washington to try to introduce manners that should prevail in gentle society everywhere.

For instance, in London any official hostess would be astonished indeed to have her drawing-room invaded by an unknown person who would the next week send a card for dinner. In Paris, it would 'cause apoplexy, yet this is the fate of the Washington hostess, no matter how reserved, how unresponsive she may be. Last winter, it became quite a common thing to hear even the younger and most insignificant diplomats complain that they had fifteen dinner cards for one evening and, almost as many cards for tea, from people at whose homes they had never even been presented. The Ambassadors and their wives had a stereotyped card regretting that their many obligations prevented acceptance. Instances were multiplied until the condition became unbearable.

Perhaps there is in Washington no higher type of the proper official hostess than Mrs. White. Her position as wife of the Chief Justice has not in any sense changed her established order. She is, to begin with, an accomplished home-keeper, one who attends scrupulously to every retail of her home, and is in the language of one of her intimates, "one of the very few who take full responsibility for the moral and material welfare of every one in her home, servants included. Her servants, in these shifting days, remain with her for their working lifetime, and many she brought from her old home in Louisiana when she came here more than twenty years ago. She takes the old-fashioned idea of hospitality and every detail of luncheon or dinner is prepared with great care by these trustworthy servitors, but ordered with even greater care by herself. She has the gentlewoman's idea that her home is for her family and for her friends, and never by any chance has a mere lion or lion baiter broken through her doors. She is among those who firmly resisted the dazzling prophets offered in the fetes of the scores of millionaires who have come to Washington, built palaces, and sought entrance into the exclusive old set. From the beginning she has not permitted her calling list to be extended except along legitimate lines, those whom she knew, those presented by friends whom she valued, and the official world of which she was a part.

In her home, Mrs. White is a calm, gracious hostess, greeting all alike, the little protege who may be wearing last year's hat and gown or the gayly-attired matron of fashion. Her friends say that she is the most consistent woman of their acquaintance, always grave and dignified, courteous and just in her dealings with others.

So those ladies who hope to concert against the lapsing manners of Washington in the social way will have the tacit support of the wife of the Chief Justice, for she has always done what they are attempting to get others, very highly placed, to do. It is a situation which is causing great interest though little hope is expressed of the accomplishment of its aims, this winter at least. But it marks another evolution in Washington society and such women as Mrs. White, Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, and scores of others, both in official life, and in resident circles, will stand out especially when this chapter is written. It is a crusade for noblesse oblige as relates to officials, and a significant intimation to others, no matter how opulent or important in their own communities, that they must conform to established usages in obtaining social recognition here.

Mrs. White was before her marriage to the Chief Justice, Mrs. Lynden Kent of this city. The marriage occurred here while the present head of the judicial tribunal was serving as Senator from Louisiana. She was born in Louisiana, and her maiden name was Leila Montgomery. There being a long friendship between the family and the Whites. Her brother, William E. Montgomery, and his family, are now her near neighbors on Rhode Island avenue. Her namesake niece, Miss Leila Montgomery, was presented to society last winter, and she is a prominent figure in the White home. The Chief Justice and his wife are devoted to children, and both their nieces and nephews often say they frequently entertain the little children of the other justices, belonging to the same faith and hence near makes a special friendship between Mrs. White and Mrs. McKenna and the dainty little daughters of those former belles of Washington, Maria and Isabella McKenna, visit them often whenever in Washington. One of the prettiest sights to be imagined was that of the Chief Justice accompanying Justices Lurton and Lamar who had their small grandchildren with them, to see a recent performance of "Peter Pan." The Chief Justice enjoyed it more than the youngsters, and so pleased was he that a night or two after he prevailed on Mrs. White and some borrowed little folks to see the performance with him again. He acknowledges that he still reads fairy tales and one of his favorite occupations is to take some visitor over to his old Alma Mater, Georgetown University, and point out the scenes of his most exciting boyish pranks.

In addition to the fine home in Rhode Island avenue, one of the best equipped and most tastefully arranged in the city, the Chief Justice has a beautiful country estate in Canada. For many years his sister, Miss Susan White, was a member of his household, and her failing health led to selecting the bracing air about Murray Bay. She died in the summer of 1911, at this Canadian residence.

Mrs. White has no fads except that of attending strictly to every obligation which life has given her. Social duties require an extraordinary amount of time, yet she attends to every household detail, giving her entire establishment a thorough inspection every day and personally verifying all bills. She is among the few who answer notes herself, on neat, dainty, but inconspicuous stationery, and in her own flowing hand. She is a lady bountiful to many a poor household, and her charities are dispensed in person and not by a servitor.

But it is in the great social work which centers in the parish of St. Matthew's, the foremost Catholic church of the city, that Mrs. White is best known, and in particular in the charities which cluster around a large church organization. She is also one of the grande dames of modern times, who presided over great fairs and conducted wonderful entertainments, yet found time to devote her life to the services of the poor. She has long been an ardent worker in the unique society which makes vestments for poor churches. Many of these garments are fashioned from discarded ball gowns, velvet cloaks and opera wraps, and Mrs. White has not only given all of her own, but she has been a zealous apostle for others who contemplated a less worthy use for their outworn garments. The basement quarters of this society is in a pretty convent which was given by Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan and is conducted by the Sisters of Perpetual Adoration. These ladies are an Italian order, skillful in the fine needlework necessary for their task. The large sunny room on the sunny side of the convent always presents a busy scene, and at least one morning a week those who drop in may see the wife of the Chief Justice diligently engaged at her task. So many other distinguished women go there also, that the roll call were made, it would sound like an important social function. Young and old, the members of day after day and sew from 9 in the morning until 5 in the evening, when a beautiful service is held in the chapel before the rooms are closed for the day. With such industry it is no surprising that hundreds of poor churches in the Far West and in distant lands are furnished with materials to supply their altars and priests. At the bazaar held every year to eke out the voluntary contributions, Mrs. White always holds a responsible position, and fills her duties to the letter.

Mrs. White has also an active interest in the industrial school on the western hills of Washington. Her philosophy is to do as much good to as many people as possible. She argues that since every one must have clothing why not purchase it where one's patronage will accomplish most good present and future. In getting garments from an industrial home many girls are trained for life in a position. In a word, the wife of the Chief Justice is in every sense a distinguished woman in a lofty position.

Prothonotary George W. Wright of Huntingdon, Pa., has a class of forty in a Sunday-school at Maplesia. The ages of the pupils range from 14 to 67 years. Some on the rolls have attended for twenty-eight years. When Mr. Wright moved to Huntingdon on his election as prothonotary the class secured his promise that he would each week return to Maplesia to teach, which he has done.

Isaac S. Heller of New York left his tooth brush in the Pullman car when he went to Hot Springs, Ark., and was so greatly exercised about the loss that he interviewed the conductor when the car returned. The conductor questioned the porter, who remembered having thrown a tooth brush out of the car window from the yards. Conductor, porter and Heller made their way to the spot and there found the brush, which Heller took back to the hotel with him.

"In my next incarnation I shall hope to have earned the right to be an American woman," said Baroness Bertha von Suttner of Germany, on the close of an eight-months' visit to the United States. "This is a land of unlimited possibilities and the last conquered impossibilities. This is the only nation which, as a nation, stands for peace. The European nations hate each other always checkmating for war."

Warden W. L. Bullard of Pawtucket, R. I., presented to each of the boys and girls in the primary grades of the local school a toothbrush, a tube of tooth paste and a can of tooth powder.

Employees of large establishments in Chicago reaped a bigger harvest during the Yuletide season than has previously been the case within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. More than $3,000,000 was distributed in various forms to workers in banks, big stores, manufacturing plants and other industries. The spirit of generosity was strengthened by a year of trade well above the normal. In addition to several manufacturing plants which make an annual practice of giving their employees a percentage of their earnings at Christmas time, many of the downtown banks presented their employees with gold pieces of from $5 to $20 denomination. Many of the big stores followed out their usual plan of profit sharing.

The gift is said to be the most valuable chalice in the archdiocese of Baltimore. On account of its history and association its value to St. Mary's is above price, but it has been valued by a local jeweler at $10,000. While the chalice is given to the seminary itself it is understood to be equally a gift of honor to Father Dyer as the American head of the Sulpician order. Roche of Baltimore leaped from a speeding police ambulance in which an injured man was being rushed to the hospital and without recovering his balance hurled himself in front of a team of running mules in time to stop them from crashing into the funeral procession of James L. Kernan.

Roche was sitting at the rear end of the machine. Shouting to the chauffeur to continue to the hospital, he jumped from the rear step. The motion of the car nearly jerked him off his feet and before he could recover himself the mules were almost upon him. Roche made a flying leap for the head of one mule and succeeded in grasping both bridle reins. With the terrified animal tossed his head and swung Roche off his feet. At this time the officer descended to the ground and lunged backward in an effort to swerve the animals from their course. The weight on the driver's head told, and he swerved to the pavement.

The mules still running, however, Officer Roche barely missed being thrown against a telegraph pole. With a final heave the patrolman forced both animals on the pavement and brought them to a standstill just as the "lone carriage" raced across the street and beyond the danger zone.

An old woman tottered into Municipal Judge Sabath's court in Chicago, and, with a trembling hand to the judge she begged that he listen to her for a moment. The activities of the court were stopped and the judge left the bench in order to support her while she talked.

"I have been given five days to move my little house at No. 2024 Larrabee avenue," she said. "I have neither food nor fire. Judge, is there nobody who can do anything for me?"

The judge didn't even ask her name. He handed $12 to the woman and promised that fuel and food for three weeks would be forthcoming from some pocketbook. Later he learned that the woman's name was Mary Kane.

Bobby's Circumlocution.

[Boston Transcript:] Mrs. Kawler: Who is the smartest boy in your class, Bobby?

Bobby: Well, Johnny Smith says he is.

Mrs. Kawler: But who do you think is?

Bobby: I'd rather not say. I'm not conceited as Johnny Smith.

Cheer Up.

Dear days are coming, you can feel them everywhere;
Prosperity is humming, you can hear it in the air;
The world is growing better, the future looks all fair;
If you want to share it, you will have to do your share.

A Plain Statement of Just Why We Offer and Why it's Best to Buy White Goods Now

Some years ago it was noticed that there was a big demand for white fabrics, laces, embroideries, etc., in January. The thoughtful housewife — the woman who appreciates hand-made lingerie and the woman who through choice of necessity did much of her own sewing—found that it gave her plenty of time to have her wardrobe of underclothing replenished before Spring. And so we find everyone, from manufacturer to salesmen, cooperating to supply the best in quality and price to be found in the entire market. How well we've succeeded can best be judged by the items quoted here.

New Carload Guaranteed Non-Tarnish Brass Beds

—has just come to Bullock's and is heading a remarkably interesting Furniture Event.

—A little over a year ago—one couldn't buy a guaranteed brass bed—that is, one that would be guaranteed absolutely not to tarnish—now the famous Damard Lacquer Brass Beds have been tested and have proven an assured success.

—Bullock's has been handling them—and sending them into scores of homes to bring satisfaction to scores of buyers—

—Now another carload has come—instead of a few styles—there are over a dozen exceedingly attractive styles.

—Each one notable because of the strength and grace and beauty of the design—Each one made more notable because of the price at which it is marked—Each one made still more notable because it is a famous

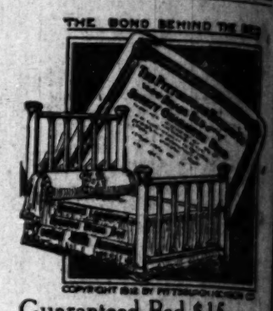
Damard Lacquered Non-Tarnish Brass Bed

—Rich in the luster of its permanent finish that will not rust, tarnish or rub off—and that is warranted for 5 years—under the bond, a fac simile of which is reproduced in this advertisement.

—This is the carload of brass beds that heads a wonderfully important announcement to everyone who needs beds, furniture or rugs.

—See them at Bullock's. Share the opportunity offered through these values.

—Read the Bond which is given with every Damard Lacquered Brass Bed—and which makes the values in this advertisement so much more important than they would be without it.



Guaranteed Bed $15

(Damard Non-Tarnish Lacquer)

—This is a heavy four poster of handsome colonial design. The posts are especially substantial and the fillers are extra heavy, as the picture shows. You will be astonished when you see just what an unusual bed this is for $15.

Guaranteed Bed $17.50

(Damard Non-Tarnish Lacquer)

Finished with this remarkable Damard guaranteed lacquer. The style is massive, including 2 inch posts, heavy fillers and handsome trimmings. This design is bound to prove a very attractive—especially when priced $17.50.

Guaranteed Bed $29.75

(Damard Non-Tarnish Lacquer)

Seldom have we had beds of better appearance. Four post colonial brass beds, with 2 inch posts, and 1½ inch extra heavy fillers. Be sure to see this design—$29.75.

Guaranteed Bed $25

(Damard Non-Tarnish Lacquer)

—Think what it means when you know that this bed costs even more than regular brass bed, that it will out live in luster and beauty many years.

—This model, 61 inches high—a feature, $25.

Look at this Damard Non-Tarnish Lacquered

Guaranteed Brass Bed $9.75

—We haven't seen a more remarkable value—Look at the picture, you will find the construction to be of the sturdiest type—the fillers are of good size and there are ten of them—the posts are two inches in diameter, capped with heavy knobs. The bed is beautifully finished—stands 58 inches high—and is guaranteed not to tarnish. Customers will instantly see the exceptionalness of the value—non-tarnish brass beds for $9.75.

Mattresses Attractively Priced

—Cotton Down Mattresses, Cotton Felt Mattresses and the Famous No-Tuft Mattresses—are outlined in this advertisement—Even if not in immediate need of a mattress for your home it will pay you to take advantage of the unusual values we tell of.

Mattresses $10

—Like the picture—genuine cotton felt filled mattresses, they are, with fine Imperial edge—fancy art tick covering—and withal finished in the best possible manner—a Bullock value in an excellent mattress, double bed size—$10 each.

35-lb. Down Mattresses $5.75

—Cotton down mattresses that will give excellent and lasting service. They are all covered with good art ticking and finished with heavy roll edge. "We have sold hundreds of them," says the department manager. "Everyone is surprised that we can sell them for $5.75.

No-Tuft Mattresses $22.50

—Substantial 50 pound No-Tuft mattresses—the most comfortable. Every one is filled with snow white felt of the best grade, and each is covered with superior imported German tick. These are bound to prove satisfactory. $22.50 each.

Solid Oak Bed Davenports $30—Only a few of these solid oak Bed Davenports—all upholstered in Chase leather and fitted with helical springs that make them especially comfortable——Important indeed this news, Rugs, Damard Guaranteed Non-Tarnish Brass Beds, Dining Tables, Davenports, Mattresses, Dining Chairs, and very special Rocking Chairs, enter into one big January Sale Event that brings good fortune to house furnishers. We couldn't tell of a better opportunity to purchase furniture for the home. Plan to take full advantage of these offerings, Fourth Floor, and Seventh Floor, Rug and Furniture Sections.

Dining Tables Are Featured Monday

—in the offerings that come from the Furniture Section—

—a half dozen different models, all splendid at their several prices—each a real attraction in itself.

Tables at $20

—48-inch dining tables like the picture—made of solid quarter oak, either in the rich fumed finish or highly polished golden oak—$20.

Exceptional—Dining Tables $12.50

—The price is exceptional—the value is exceptional—through and through it is a surprise—each has 42-inch top—every table is made of superior solid oak, extends to 6 feet, is of very solid construction and comes in fumed or golden oak finish—Think the best table you've seen for $12.50. Then see this one and buy.

Tables at $30

—These have 48-inch tops and come in a beautiful fumed finish—the design is particularly artistic and massive—a table that will always give the dining room a finished effect, $30.

Tables at $15

45-inch round top dining tables that extend to 6 ft. and solid oak, either fumed or golden finish—

Tables at $48.50—Extra grade 54-inch dining tables that extend to 8 feet.

Sample Sale

Rockers at $5.95

—Solid oak chairs—roomy, comfortable, splendidly upholstered in leather—come in a light fumed finish and have spring seats—a very remarkable purchase, samples to sell at a ridiculously low price—$5.95.

Dining Chair Attractions

—To accompany the above dining table offerings—

—Plan to outfit your entire home in this big January event—you can realize big savings—

Chairs at $2.25 are Uncommon

—Solid oak chairs—that you will easily see are unusual—each has the much wanted saddle seat and comes in the fumed finish—sturdy chairs that will be sure to give long and satisfactory service—$2.25 each.

Chairs at $3.75 (See Picture)

—Handsome oak chairs like the picture, and these are well upholstered in No. 1 leather. Note the wide frame back, the strong legs. Exceedingly good for $3.75.

Chairs at $6.00

—Here is one of the best chairs we have ever had. Built of solid quartered oak; have full shaped backs, slip seats and they are upholstered in No. 1 leather.

Rockers at $3.95

—Imagine the buying stir they will create—solid "oak rockers," mind you—good strongly constructed rockers, with solid saddle seats—heavy cross stretchers and they are all of excellent designs. While these last—$3.95 each.

Buy Rugs at Bullock's Now —and buy them profitably—Share the remarkable values that are being featured in January's Big Rug Event—

There are hundreds of rugs here to choose from—magnificent 9x12-ft. rugs, as well as small throw rugs, all splendidly designed—many of them radically priced.

—Make it your opportunity to save on the rugs you need for your home—

—Few of the world's great stores carry as many good rugs in as varied and attractive line of patterns as Bullock's.

—And to our knowledge none of the world's great retail sales of rugs have surpassed these values.

Velvet Rugs Will Be $9.95

—9x11-ft.—Velvet Rugs—that because there are only a few of them and they are so uncommonly low priced, we will limit the amount sold to each customer and sell none to dealers—note that size again—and these rugs all artistically designed in harmonious colors. Not simply two or three patterns, but a big range to select from—wonderful for $9.95.

—Besides, there will be other magnificent rugs—notable for their remarkable tones and artistic pattern schemes—handsome Bigelow and Whittall productions that exemplify the luxury—quality—stability and beauty of American Rug making—We call especial attention to these masterpieces—at $52.50, $57.50 and $63.50—Buy Rugs profitably at Bullock's, Los Angeles Rug Store.

Velvet Rugs $14.75

—and they are in the big 9x12-ft. size that would ordinarily sell for a big fraction more—possibly half as much again—new patterns, heavy, durable rugs—of fine texture—mostly in Oriental and conventional designs.

Axminsters at $20.00

—This item alone should bring dozens of customers hurrying. Superior high pile Axminster rugs in fine Oriental and Persian patterns of newest design—Many individual effects in wanted shade combinations—8.3x10.6 size is to be $18.

a horrible voice.) You— (They are now directly in front of the bedroom; one awful pressure on that slim white throat, as he hurls her upon the bed. The red portieres close over them. A faint, choked scream, then the death rattle. Silence, an awful silence. Then the man appears. He hesitates before stepping out. He grips the curtains, then takes a step forward. Pauses, breathes laboredly, almost panting, comes forward again, pauses, is trying to gain self-control. Comes to the very front of the stage. Slowly the panting ceases, he becomes a little calmer. Turns and walks quickly to the bedroom again, listens intently, gives one glance toward the bed, then draws the curtains together and returns to the center of the stage. Deliberates, then steps resolutely to the telephone.)

Effective Home Remedy For Lung Trouble

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited, but few can safely return. Eckman's Alterative is effective for home treatment. For example:

231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.

"Gentlemen: In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alterative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now five years since my recovery has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alterative too highly. I have recommended it with excellent results."

(Signed) W. M. TATEM.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.—[Advertisement.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Miss Vera Holme, said to be the only liveried girl chauffeur in London, has driven a car in that city for several years. She is able to make all the necessary repairs when a breakdown occurs, having taken a mechanical course in a London school prior to engaging in the business.

Miss Mary Hildreth of Butternut Farm, N. H., and Plymouth, Mass., believes that there is no real reason why any woman should be lonely. Miss Hildreth has adopted fourteen babies, ten of whom are now alive and give every indication of becoming useful men and women.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, whose husband, the Ambassador to England, has just died, will go to California as soon as possible and will sever all connection with London. Much of the beautiful furniture at Dorchester House is her own property, and this is to be sent to America during the next few weeks.

Miss Bessie Townsend, 24 years old, has been appointed City Comptroller of Atlantic City, N. J., at a salary of $1500 a year. She succeeded David R. Barret, who was dismissed. As Comptroller, Miss Townsend will have the care of more than $3,000,000, the sale of all bonds, and her signature will be necessary to every cent paid out by the city. She is said to be the only woman Comptroller in the country.

Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, one of the two heirs of the Elias Jackson ("Lucky") Baldwin estate in California, who has already received approximately $1,500,000 from the estate, and who is soon to receive half of the remaining $24,000,000 or so, has already spent $1,000,000 in the purchase of a $200,000 steam yacht, diamonds aggregating in value $250,000, a wardrobe whose cost is estimated at $100,000, two residences worth $30,000, a private Pullman car, $40,000; silverware and other precious metals, $20,000; automobiles, $30,000, and many other articles.

Among Helen Gould's wedding presents will be one from the sailors of the Atlantic fleet of the United States navy, no man being allowed to contribute more than 25 cents. Miss Gould's popularity in the navy is great because of the fine clubhouse for the enlisted men which she built close to the—Brooklyn navy yard.

Miss Carrie Benton of Cincinnati is the first woman in this country to be placed in full charge of a railway dining car. She is stewardess of a car on one of the branch lines of the Baltimore and Ohio. She announces meals and makes certain that the diners are comfortably seated and properly waited on.

Whiteside's Tense Drama

recently produced in New York, where it won the unanimous praise of critics and vaudeville lovers and was then secured exclusively for the Sullivan and Considine circuit. It is a novelty in more ways than one, is full of bright, catchy music, good fast fun and uncommonly attractive dances. It will be presented here by the same cast that appeared in New York, a company of fourteen, mostly girls, headed by Juan Villasano.

The second feature of the new bill will be the world-renowned Picchiana Troupe of whirlwind European comedy acrobats. Vaudeville goers the world over are familiar with the remarkable work of this clever organization and their act is distinctly unlike the ordinary acrobatic turn and one that is a genuine joy to witness.

Third in importance on the programme is the monologist and singer, Mijt Arnsman, with a fund of clever new stories and new parodies that should make him one of the distinct favorites of the new bill.

Bonnie Gaylord and Bertie Herron, two talented young comediennes, will furnish much of the fun on the new bill with their lively act called "On and Off."

The musical portion of the new bill will be supplied by the Three Lorettas, two young men and a young woman, who have conceived a musical act much out of the ordinary and of real artistic value.

Another popular member of the of the new bill be little Gertrude Gebest, mimic and monologist, who has always been a great favorite with western vaudeville audiences.

—o—

Pantages.

A new idea in vaudeville is the "1912 Cabaret Review" which will appear with the new show at Pantages next Monday matinee. The producer, Miss Minnie Palmer, has attempted to condense into one vaudeville act all the best ideas of the cabaret shows of the past season in New York and Chicago. How well this has been accomplished may be judged from the statement that the act played for ten weeks continuously in the Chicago houses allied with the Pantages circuit.

There are ten people appearing in the act, each a specialist. The cast includes Elsie and Edith Madison, the little girls with the big voices, May Rose, the petite comedienne; Harry Waiman, violinist, and Stanton and May, "The London 'stew' and his wife." "The 1912 Cabaret Review" might be described as a vaudeville show within a show. It is likely to repeat the success of "The Two Thieves," featured with the present week's show.

Texas Tommy made his first bow to a Los Angeles audience at Pantages. The team of Webber and Wilson who introduced the dance here went direct from the Pantages circuit to Hammerstein's Victoria Theater in New York and introduced the dance to the metropolis. The Texas Tommy is coming back with all the eastern improvements and refinements and the new version will be exploited at Pantages by Blanche de Rex and Guy B. Magley.

Arthur Don and Harry O'Neal are promised in a new act which would be headlined in a show boasting less pretentious features. Holman Brothers, comedy bar experts; Alma Fern, the piano girl; the Animated Weekly news pictures, and Miss Pony Moore, with D. J. Davey, in dancing specialties, are also listed.

Jane Madison brings her company of four in her own original sketch, "Her First Divorce Suit," in which Miss Madison plays the comedy role of a New York divorce lawyer.

—o—

Mission Play.

The Mission Play, by John Steven McGroarty, enters upon its fourth week with Tuesday's matinee in its own unique theater, the Mission Playhouse, at San Gabriel. It will also be the 164th presentation of this pageant-drama of Franciscan romance and glory.

Notwithstanding the cold weather of the past week, the audience at both the matinees and the evening performances have been very good. The playhouse being well heated the patrons have experienced no discomfort.

The management introduced several novel ideas during the past week. Incense is burned before each performance and its delicate fragrance permeates the playhouse, giving the atmosphere of the cloister. The two acolytes who lead the procession to mass in the second act, carrying slowly swung censers fill these receptacles with incense before the play opens and as the audience is being seated the air becomes charged with the aroma, which is as delicate and elusive as old lavender.

Another new feature is the distribution of souvenir post cards with a request from the pulpit-stairway by a cowled friar that the patrons write messages between acts to out-of-town friends and then deposit them with the ushers for mailing at the expense of the Mission Play Association. The responses immediately established the popularity of this innovation and the management will continue it indefinitely.

The cast remains the same, with Benjamin Horning in the role of Father Junipero Serra and Miss Lucretia del Valle as Senora Josefa Yorba. Two performances daily excepting Monday, which is rest day for the Mission players.

—o—

Republic.

If one is to accept advance announcements at their face value, the bill which Bert Levy will present patrons of the Republic Theater (formerly the Belasco) beginning Monday, will afford one of the best variety entertainments that has been seen in this city in many weeks.

Frede West and company will undoubtedly capture headline honors, for the act, which is really a wonderful electric spectacle, is one of the most unique on the stage, and Miss West herself, according to Prof. Sargent, physical director of Harvard University, has one of the most perfect figures of any of the thousands of women this famous scientist has "charted."

And she wears nothing over it, or at least very little—just about as much as they wear in France when they go bathing. But there is no water in the act; just fascinating waves and clouds and waterfalls, whose subtle effects are gained through the ingenius use of harnessed lightning.

The laughing hit of the bill promises to be Copeland and Payton, a droll couple who offer a skit called "A Scene in a Dining Car," while George Schoefield has a novelty act that is heralded as a real mirth maker.

Another capital laugh number will be Williamson and Watson, who will present "In Nonsenseland," which has no sense at all, but a decidedly Dutch flavor.

And of course there will be a girl act. This time it is the Myrle sisters. They are pretty beauties, who hate to keep their feet on the floor and who sing—well as they can dance, and if these five corking acts were not full measure for 10 and 15 cents, Blondie Robinson, the animated comique, is also announced, and chances are he will run away with the show. There will be pictures, too, as entertaining as they are now.

Gamut Club.

The French peasants, natives of the Alps, in costumes and dances, who will appear for the first time before an American audience at Gamut Club Theater, No. 1044 South Hope street, Monday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, will be the most novel and interesting entertainment ever given on the Pacific Coast.

The salutation of the French and American flags by the Los Angeles Cadets will be one of the principal features of this festival. The "Star Spangled Banner" and "La Marseillaise" will be played, during the salutation. The two pages who will hold the flags during this patriotic scene will appear in colonial style of dress of Washington and Lafayette. It must be remembered that the flags had their origin during the reign of these two illustrious men.

The portrayal of Millet's "Angelus," with the recitation (sacred) given to the accompaniment of a bell tolling, is a scene which has never been produced on any stage. It was during one of the immortal Millet's travels through the picturesque Alps that he came upon the scene of the Angelus and was so inspired that he at once made a painting, which has not only adorned the home of royalty, but the homes of all classes of people.

The programme: Overture, "La Belle France" (Laureadeau;) salutation militaire, du pavillion Francais et American, "The Star Spangled Banner," "La Marseillaise" (Los Angeles Cadets;) "Dance de Pavsans," "Le Polka Piquet" (Weckerlin;) "La Patoise" (Chaminade;) "Les Dauphinnois" (L'Angelus de Millet;) recitation, sacred, Mlle. Josephine Vollaire (M. Maurice Bernard;) "Chanson L'Angelus de la Mer" (Gustave Goublier;) "Dance de Pavsans," "Valse des Rose" (Chaminade;) "Le Rigaudon" (Weckerlin;) "Les Dauphanois."

Century.

A. and M. Loewen, the managers of the Century Theater, will next week furnish to the musical comedy lovers of this city, one of the cleverest and neatest musical comedies ever to be seen upon a local popular priced musical comedy stage.

It will bring to the centre of the spotlight Jules Mendel in one of the funniest parts this clever character comedian has had in years. Mr. Mendel will play the part of a German Alderman who is a candidate for the office of Mayor, and in this week's bill, "Running for Office," will be seen at his best.

The greater part of the show will tell about local incidents in the city government, etc.

Al Franks will enact the role of Mendel's campaign manager, and Earl Hall will be seen in a part that will be greatly to his advantage. He is of a traveling salesman trying to sell mining stock, or in other words "sell bricks."

A new member will be added to next week's production in the person of Earl Hall. Mr. Hall is a favorite in our midst, but comes well recommended to the Coast as a clever singer, dancer and comedian, possessing an excellent singing voice, being a clever actor, in the portrayal of character roles he no doubt will soon become a favorite and in line with the other members of the Century company to be labeled "Century Products."

Miss Fern Melrose, prima donna since her connection with the Century company, has proven herself a capable performer, will again appear in next week's production in the leading feminine role.

Misses Vera Ransdell and Jules Mendel will also be seen to advantage in roles to suit their ability. The Century prize chorus will be seen to the front in a large number of songs and dances. The contests will be held as usual each evening and are as popular as ever.

Tally's.

"The Little Minister," a [illegible] photoplay adapted from the novel of the same name by J. M. Barrie, will be featured at Tally's New Broadway Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week. A review of the picture discloses the fact that it is an unusually interesting subject, the scenic portion being especially beautiful and the acting above that usually exhibited in the average motion-picture play.

The two principal roles, those of Lady Babbie and the Little Minister are most admirably presented by Miss Kimball Young, possibly the [illegible] graph Company's most [illegible] actress, being especially delightful in her characterization of the heroine of the part made famous by Maude Adams. Her acting is even more appreciated when one realizes that she must depend entirely upon the visual appeal to express the sentiments and attributes of her role.

A large and capable company depict the many character parts and the ability of the motion picture director to use natural settings instead of ordinary stage scenery adds immeasurably to the attractiveness of the production over the play as it is usually seen in the theater.

Mozart.

"Parsifal," which is known throughout the world as an operatic masterpiece, having been immortalized by the music of Richard Wagner, is the star attraction in the realm of pictures at the Mozart Theater, beginning Monday afternoon. This remarkable three-reel production is one of the most spectacular, exciting, interesting and instructive films ever exhibited. The opening scene shows the passing of the procession of the Knights of Monsalvata, who go to venerate the St. Graal, the cup in which is kept the holy blood of Christ. Another illustration shows the home of the magicians and their scheme of causing Amfortas, Guardian of the Holy Graal, to sin, thereby losing his right of being guardian of the Holy Graal. Amfortas is punished and confesses to the bishop.

Praying for a successor, a visit by Parsifal appears. Scenes that follow show the conspiracy of the magicians to ruin Parsifal as they had Amfortas. Their attempts are vain, Parsifal escapes their repeated efforts to gain their point. Parsifal finally arrives at Monsalvata and from the [illegible] learns the mystery of the Holy Graal and takes his place as guardian. He performs the miracle conferring the heavenly blessing.

This Ambrosio film is the great triumph of the world's greatest producer. The programme will include other features of interest and the music, excerpts from the famous opera "Parsifal," will be especially enjoyable.

—o—

Clune's.

"The Wives of Jamestown," a special two-reel Kalem feature is the picture production of a historical romance of the colonist days in Jamestown, Virginia, when wives were imported from England to be sold to the colonists, will be the headliner of the new programme at Clune's Broadway Theater, between Fifth and Sixth streets, on Broadway, the first half of the week. Five reels of first-class pictures and new songs and [illegible] constitute the programme.

"The Wives of Jamestown" tells the love affair of Bryan O'Rourke, a humble Irish lad, and Lady Geraldine of the English royalty. The latter, after her from drowning, falls in love with her, is encouraged, and then is forced to flee to the colonies of America to escape persecution from her father. Her lover, Lord O'Rourke, follows her to Jamestown, Va., O'Sullivan changes his name to John Piers and [illegible] later has an opportunity of rescuing Lady Geraldine who, with many other women taken prisoners by the Cromwellians, is sent to Jamestown as a wife for one of the colonists.

When about to end her life rather than submit to the indignities, Lady Geraldine hears her lover softly playing the flute as her lover had played it years ago. Rushing into the room she recognizes her lover, O'Sullivan and love wins in the end.

William J. Flynn, who has been appointed chief of the United States Secret Service, succeeding John Wilkie, resigned, has for years been in charge of the New York branch of the Secret Service. He was [illegible] prominently before the public in connection with his investigation of the sugar-weighing frauds in New York. During the early days of Mayor Gaynor's administration he was the police commissioner of the city.

Quick, Easy and Positive Cure for All Foot Troubles

The following is absolutely the quickest cure known to science for all ailments: "Dissolve two tablets of Calocide compound in a basin of water. Soak the feet in this solution 15 minutes gently rubbing the corns. The effect is really wonderful. Relief is instantly; the most painful corns can be peeled right off. Bunions yield to the medicine readily and very rapidly. Repeated use will cure the worst feet. Don't suffer another day. Calocide compound is the only known cause of the trouble. —A Store for Lovers of Fine Furniture—

IN CONNECTION with our January Clearance we desire to call the attention of the public to the large number of high class furniture pieces and fine art home-furnishing wares to be found in our Art Galleries on the mezzanine floors of our south and center buildings, which are now included in the reductions, at prices lessened from 15 to 50 % below former figures.

—these articles include furniture and decorative articles of the highest artistic excellence—mostly furniture reproductions of recognized distinction, of a class not often obtainable at any reduction from their standard valuations. In the collection, will be found underpriced for this occasion, most beautiful chairs, bookcases, tables, desks; upholstered pieces in leather and tapestries; fancy furniture pieces for the living-room, boudoir, hall, library, and chamber; such furniture as will appeal to the most discriminating purchasers, and such values as must make buying irresistible, even to those who would ordinarily consider furniture of this exceptionally fine character an "impossible luxury." Those who are desirous of truly beautifying their homes—and at a lessened cost that means a saving of at least fifteen per cent. and up to fifty per cent. from usual prices —are invited to give this opportunity their undivided consideration. It is an opportunity we may not be able to repeat in a long time.

Bullock's Basement Store

—It's to be a great day in the Basement Store on Monday. Lower prices will reign supreme over a vast amount of merchandise noted for its quality and value. It will pay you to shop in Bullock's Basement Store on Monday.

Waists 29c

—No, that is not a misprint—29c is the price.

—Nearly three hundred lace trimmed and plainly tailored waists that are considerably soiled from use on display.

—One laundering will set them right and save you a generous amount.

—Both high and low neck models. Short sleeves and long sleeves.

Dress Woolens

—If we were to quote the actual reductions—which the policy of the store forbids—you would be astonished.

At 25c yard—Odds and ends, including plain and fancy serges, stripes and checks.

At 55c yard—50-inch mohair suitings in lustrous black and various fashionable shades.

At 59c yard—Heavy all-wool storm serges in black and navy blue; also a limited lot of cream serge.

At 85c yard—Venetian suitings of excellent quality and weight for separate skirts. Rose, myrtle, catawba, sage and olive.

At 98c yard—Mannish suitings of heavy weight woolens in neat stripes and Scotch effects. 58 inches wide—and only 98c a yard!

Wool Serge Dresses $5.00

—Stylishly cut, splendidly tailored garments of black, brown and navy blue serges, either artistically braided or trimmed in contrasting colors.

—High and low neck models, with long sleeves.

—Perfect-fitting dresses that will give long and satisfactory service—dresses which we are proud to offer at $5.

Long Coats $5.00

—Stylish in cut. Stylish in material, too—rough, sturdy zibelines.

—Plainly tailored, trimmed with fancy buttons.

—You will wonder how such coats can be sold at anywhere near that price.

HOUSE DRESSES $1.00
Not the regular dollar dresses—far better, even, than Bullock's Basement Store can sell regularly at $1.
—Some of the widely-advertised Utility Dresses among them. Various materials, in many different cuts and many styles of trimming. Come expecting better dresses than you ever saw before at a dollar, and you won't be disappointed.

Women's Shoes at $2.49

—Close to 500 pairs, at little above half actual value. Late Winter and advance Spring styles.

—The reason?

The factory was anxious to make quick riddance of cancelled orders, and of the shoes classed imperfect by their inspectors.

But the imperfections are so trifling you can hardly locate them. Included are laced and buttoned boots of patent colt, dull calf, vici kid, tan, Russia calf, suede, velvet and satin.

—A tremendous variety—and all sizes and widths. No question about finding your size and your favorite style. No question about saving at least a dollar on every pair you buy from this lot.

Neglect the Care of Your Scalp and Your Hair Will Become a Disgrace

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body.

In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to die and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in Newbro's Herpicide.

The dandruff cannot remain on a head to which Herpicide is regularly applied. The scalp is clean. The hair ceases to fall. The terrible itching stops almost instantly.

That is what Newbro's Herpicide does.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in stamps for booklet and sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. S., Detroit, Mich.

Miss Anita Brodrick,
One of the vivacious young society girls noted for her clever parties

BY A PRINCESS OF THE REALM.

LIFE IN THE SENSUOUS "LAND OF THE AFTERNOON."

OF COURSE it wasn't becoming unless you went out for a brisk walk in it and very few of us could boast suitable clothing, beyond the indispensable but wholly decorative set of furs, but all the same we are all agreed that the frost was good for us. Our many eastern visitors took it graciously as a compliment to their home climate, and as for ourselves, we have to admit that we are shamefully spoiled as a rule and a taste of less comfortable conditions was necessary to temper our climatic arrogance.

After all, variety is the spice of life. It was quite interesting to see how some of our climatically pampered beauties stood the test—and just after I had been bragging that blue noses and cold feet were unknown terrors in sunny California! That our pretty society maidens rose joyously to the occasion and actually expressed a hope that they might be privileged to sample ice-skating just for once, speaks well for their dispositions, and for a day and a half we actually had the unusual experience of hopefully discussing the possibilities of "winter sports" in California around Southern California tea tables! One gay bachelor, who hails from Canada, made reckless promises to teach battalions of fair maidens how to skate and sleigh and ski, a fascinating spot near Altadena being hopefully selected for the latter delight! It would have served him right if that Sacramento snowstorm had come south.

A certain northern cleric has been making himself heard to the effect that vice is fashionable nowadays and that people who won't smoke and drink and gamble and dance questionable dances are regarded as old-fashioned prudes in society. As is usual, the reverend gentleman insists upon regarding a small handful of "swift" individuals as "society." That a small set here and there does rather overstep the limits of good taste at times and spends money with vulgar recklessness is true of every city in the world; but these do not and never will constitute society in its accepted sense.

As a matter of fact, the very best people enjoy that particular prestige in each community just because they are maintaining the best traditions of modern civilization as conscientiously as they know how. The leaders of society here in Southern California are women of good sense and high ideals.

But I take exception to the cleric's insinuation that "drinking, gambling and questionable dancing" are necessarily vicious. On the contrary, the most charming houses to visit are those in which the hostesses cater for everyone's pleasure, and yet maintain a high standard of good taste. It is far and away more moral and in very much better taste to drink moderately, smoke moderately, eat moderately, play cards for small stakes, and dance light-heartedly, than to taboo such things altogether upon the assumption that they must lead to excesses. Decent people can and do drink without getting intoxicated, can and do play cards without jeopardizing their souls, can and do dance modern dances wholly inoffensively.

And society women can do all these things and yet keep themselves thoroughly au fait with current literary and artistic achievements and the reading of the modern society dame is of the most advanced type. A book has to enjoy a high standard of literary interest and attainment to sell largely in Los Angeles, I can tell you. The French novel receives precious little attention from our cultured society women. If they want to study the "sex problem" nowadays, they do so from the serious and scientific standpoint, or by civic investigating committees, but rarely indeed through the channel of maudlin, sensual sentimentality. In fact, many a woebegone society husband has been heard to complain that milady is "too darned cultured" for his taste, and pays altogether more attention to the great problems of the age than to himself.

If vice is fashionable, therefore, it is only fashionable in the sense that society is studying it judicially with a view to drastic reforms, and even our San Francisco cleric should not cavil at that.

—o—

That the Bachelor's ball on February 3 is to be a fancy dress affair is happy news indeed and the next two weeks will be tense with excitement. There is nothing quite as jolly as dressing up and one never seems to get too old to enter into the fun. The British peeresses have just been enjoying the Arabian Nights ball at the famous Covent Garden Operahouse in London—one of those gorgeous society affairs held in the name of sweet charity. On this occasion it was for the Red Cross Society, the funds going for that purpose in the Balkans. It coincided with the arrival of the Balkan peace delegates in London, and was an exceptionally brilliant affair. Oriental costume was, of course, essential and the English society dame just reveled in masquerading as a langourous eastern beauty.

The Countess of Rosslyn made a great hit as an Egyptian veiled beauty, and Lady Garvagh's snake-charmer's impersonation was so fearfully realistic that she caused consternation in the dressing-room upon her arrival. Rich, voluptuous oriental costumes will be in much favor at the Bachelor's ball, too. One local beauty, who is to appear as Carmen, should cause no end of a sensation if her dressmaker comes up to expectations, and I am told there will be a Cleopatra who has selected that costume chiefly because it lends one such a glorious opportunity to show off one's jewels—and hers are so many and so valuable that it is rare for her to have so kindly an occasion.

A word to the wise, dear sisters. Be sure to select your fancy dress to suit your particular style and charms—and oh, be careful not to masquerade in a character that requires a tragedy mien. Lady Jane Grays, Queen Marys, Lady Macbeths, Ophelias and Joans of Arc should be carefully avoided if you really want to enjoy yourself. Dress has a most pronounced effect on one's mood and it is quite impossible to be light-hearted with that necessary soupcon of frivolity, if you are depicting martyred antique royalty, tortured heroines of the past, of superlatively dignified personages in voluminous, weighty draperies. Don't risk it!

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

SOCIETY has been dividing its attention during the past seven days to debutantes' parties and smart functions for brides-to-be, with a sprinkling of less formal affairs as an appropriate background.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Christian C. Miller of No. 2081 West Adams announced at a smart luncheon the wedding date of her niece, Miss Mildred Whitnah, who is betrothed to Dwight Dane Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Montgomery, and a brother of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Montgomery of Berkeley Square.

The guests were seated at a table adorned with a large basket filled with pink and white Killarney roses, which nodded about a tall handle tied with a bow of white tulle. The place and bon-bons were heart-shaped and small dresden baskets filled with dresden blossoms fastened with a gold arrow bearing the date February 12 on the tip, were given as favors. At the bride-elect's cover was placed a dresden slipper filled with maidenhair.

Miss Whitnah has asked Miss Dorothy Whitnah, a young sister, to act as maid-of-honor and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Ellen Skinner and Margaret Gould. Richard Montgomery will attend his brother as best man and Villas Hubbard of Pasadena and Willard Fishburn of San Diego will serve as groomsmen.

Debutantes Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, who presented their young daughter, Miss Aileen, this season, will preside on the 25th inst. as host and hostess one of the notable dinners of the season, given at the Los Angeles Country Club. Miss Sarah Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Clark of No. 41 Westmoreland place, will make her first bow a fortnight later at a reception, and Miss Lillian Le Poids, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lillian Martin Van Dyke of West Adams street, who was introduced at a reception given at the California club, will be present as special guests. The list will include the season's debutantes and members of the younger set.

Miss McCarthy.

Miss Aileen McCarthy will be the guest of attraction January 19, at a dance given by Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner at their home on West Adams street. This dance falls on a Sunday and Capt. and Mrs. Miner have invited both men and women to the affair.

Home Here.

Mrs. Walter Wallace, who before her wedding was Miss Earlda Baker, one of the most popular of the young matrons, is domiciled at No. 1209 North Granada avenue, Alhambra, where she is at home to friends for the winter. In the spring with Dr. Wallace she will leave for Delano, where they will remain half of the year.

Valentine Ball.

The annual Valentine ball of the Santa Mary Chapter, Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, will be given Tuesday evening, February 4, at Coulter-Dooley's. The proceeds go for philanthropic work, as usual. The arrangements are in charge of the executive officers, including Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Mrs. Sub-Regent Allen, Miss Babb, Miss Dorothy Bonebrake, Mrs. C. J. Fox, Jr., Miss Helen Palmer, Mrs. R. A. Plant, Miss Mabel Tarr, Mrs. Lionel Van Fleet, Miss May Walters and Mrs. Prescott Wilson.

Miss Barbara Gossip.

The coming of the George K. Birges from Buffalo to pass the winter in Monrovia, Mr. Birges having leased the handsome Gillespie residence, has been very welcomed by local society and many affairs have been given in their honor. Wednesday Mrs. Birge was the guest of honor at a luncheon given at Le Chalet by Mrs. Charles Hopkins, who invited a few friends to meet the new arrival. Those who had the pleasure of so doing were Mrs. Edwin H. Sawyer, Mrs. Robert Norton, Mrs. Charles Frederick Severance, Mrs. James H. Bull, Mrs. Arthur P. Calef, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Edmund Smith, Mrs. F. W. Leadbetter, Mrs. Milo M. Potter, Mrs. John Edwards Beale, Mrs. H. E. Bothin, Mrs. Frederick Perkins, Mrs. Paul Harvey, Mrs. Robert Moore.

A farewell dinner was given Monday evening at the Potter Hotel in honor of Miss Nina Jones, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo M. Potter, in honor of Earl Graham, who left the following day for Oklahoma, where he will assume charge of his father's extensive oil interests. A large number were present to wish him a pleasant trip and speedy return to Santa Barbara. Here were Miss May Scotland, Miss Mabel Bull, Miss Kinney, Reginald Baxter, Harold Chase and John Jones. The appointments were perfect and the party was one of the most enjoyable of the week. Miss Jones is proving to be a most charming hostess.

Interesting Here.

An interesting wedding announcement was that at Silverton, Or., of Ethel Louise Smith, daughter of Mrs. F. L. Smith, to Dick Hersman, formerly of this city. Mr. Hersman is connected with the Herald-Republican of Salt Lake City, having left Santa Barbara two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith on Tuesday evening gave a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Chamberlain, who is spending a visit from San Jose. An informal dinner was one of the pleasant features of the affair. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Downing, Mr. and Mrs. William Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, Leland Darrell, Miller Smith, Miss Mildred Chamberlain, Miss Florence Hacking and Miss Ruth Downing.

Miss Walker.

An elaborate affair of yesterday was the luncheon of 150 covers given at the Maryland by Mrs. R. B. Young in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Young Hoffman, for Miss Ethelyn Walker, who with her parents will soon leave for a trip around the world. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Louise Byron, Mrs. Ethel MacAllister of New York and Misses Ludia Kellum, Anna Bixby, Mary McGarry, Anna McFarland, Florence Thresher, Helen Hall, Mary Reisman, Ethel Rebstock and Thea Orena.

Hutton Wedding.

Miss Elizabeth Hutton, daughter of Mrs. Belle A. W. Hutton, was married Wednesday evening at the Hutton residence, No. 1764 Ocean avenue, Santa Monica, to Louis Adams, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Adams of Los Angeles. The affair was one of exquisite beauty, nearly 100 guests, many of them from this city, were present at the home on the bluff, overlooking the sea and mountains, which was beautifully decorated, spared from the frost in the Hutton conservatory, besides a profusion of forget-me-nots and pink roses, the favorite flowers of the bride. Miss Mignonette, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and nieces of the bride, Kate Irene Winnett and Glen Helen Winnett, were flower girls. Fritz Jacobson of Los Angeles attended the groom. Rev. Will A. Knighten of Los Angeles, who officiated at the marriage of the father and mother of the bride, performed the ceremony. After a few weeks of touring, the couple will live in Los Angeles.

Hartsook Photo.

Miss Lillian Le Poids,
Attractive member of the younger set, who will preside this month at a dancing party.

Miss Stephens Introduced.

Miss Barbara Stephens, daughter of Representative and Mrs. William D. Stephens of Los Angeles, made her bow to Washington society Tuesday evening at one of the most notable receptions in Congressional circles in the present season. The hostesses were Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. John Works, wife of Senator Works of California.

The debut of Miss Stephens was made at the Congressional Club, the reception being from 5 to 7 o'clock. The presence of many California women was a feature of the affair, the wives of the members of the California delegation being in the receiving line.

Palms, ferns and baskets of pink rosebuds formed the decorations of the clubhouse and a string orchestra played throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Works received the guests in a gown of gray charmeuse made with tunic of gray charmeuse richly embroidered in crystals. Mrs. Stephens wore turquoise blue satin charmeuse and her daughter wore a French gown of white lace draped in coral chiffon and finished with a sash of American beauty-colored satin. She carried a shower bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Assisting in receiving the guests and dispensing the hospitalities of the afternoon were a large number of Californians from Congressional service and residential circles and a number of debutantes of this and last season. Among those assisting were Mrs. George P. McLean of Connecticut, Mrs. William S. Kenyon of Iowa, Mrs. Miles Poindexter of Washington, Mrs. George T. Oliver of Pennsylvania, Mrs. J. C. Needham, Mrs. J. R. Noland, Mrs. Kahn, Mrs. F. A. Hayes, Mrs. William Kent and Mrs. J. E. Baker, all of California; Mrs. Joseph McKenna, Mrs. J. B. Henderson, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, Mrs. A. F. Fechteler, Mrs. A. A. Fries, Mrs. E. R. Grumley, Mrs. I. L. Lenroot, Miss Lenroot, Mrs. Henry P. Oxnard, Mrs. Samuel Adams, Mrs. Leonard Wood and Mrs. Leonard Jordan.

Fraternity Party.

Complimentary to his son, Hal Calvin Harding, who is a popular member of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity of Stanford, Charles W. Harding entertained at the Alhambra Hotel with a delightful dancing party during the holiday vacation. The affair, which was one of the delights of the college vacation, was enjoyed by members of the fraternity and their friends. At midnight dainty refreshments were served in the dining-room, where Christmas colors prevailed.

Miss Teetzel to Wed.

Miss Ruth Teetzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Teetzel of No. 2159 Hobart boulevard, will become the bride Wednesday of Harold John Mabley of Detroit, Mich., the service to be read at the family home. Miss Grace Mabley, who came from Detroit for the wedding, will assist as maid of honor, and the Misses Lorita Rouse, Elizabeth Root, May Hamilton, Gladys Lindsay and Margaret McGee will serve as maids. Mr. Rosenberg of Detroit will stand with Mr. Mabley as best man.

Mrs. Heyler Hostess.

Seventy guests were bidden to the informal tea party given last week at the Darby Hotel by Mrs. Charles J. Heyler, who complimented Mrs. J. H. Martindale, who recently concluded a delightful motor trip through the North, and Mrs. Van Ness, who will leave shortly for the East. Poinsettias and red carnations beautified the rooms where the guests were pleasantly entertained.

After February 1 Mrs. Heyler will be at home to friends at the Brysan, where they will go this week.

From Italy.

Mrs. Ruth Butts Carson of Florence, Italy, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ellen J. Butts of Berendo street. Mrs. Carson has just returned from abroad, where she has been traveling and studying for the last five years.

An Easterner.

Miss Marian Poor of New York City is visiting Mrs. E. K. Sibley of No. 611 Ardmore avenue.

Luncheon for Twenty.

Mrs. E. W. Britt of No. 2141 West Adams street informally entertained Friday with a luncheon of twenty covers complimenting Miss Edith Mitchell of Philadelphia, who has returned to this city to make her future home.

Daughter's Engagement.

Mrs. Carrie M. Irish of No. 510 North Avenue 64 announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Laurine, to Charles Morris Fuller. The wedding will take place in the early summer at the Church of the Angels.

Honeymoon Ended.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand A. Normandin have returned from their honeymoon trip and are domiciled with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Castellano of No. 1408 Manhattan place, where Mrs. Normandin and her mother will receive their friends after the 16th inst.

Another Betrothal.

The betrothal of Miss Rose Sugarman and Abe Raffe is formally announced today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sugarman.

Entertaining Niece.

Mrs. J. S. Oliver of the Wilhelm apartments is entertaining as her guest for the winter her niece, Mrs. T. A. Simpson of New York. Mrs. Oliver will receive with her guest Wednesday afternoons during January.

To Receive.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Woodhead, with their daughters, have moved to the Bryson apartments, where they will receive the first Friday of each month.

Sacramento Guest.

Mrs. H. G. Smith of Sacramento, a prominent society and club woman, is the house guest of Mrs. W. Thatcher Marvin of Oak Hill, South Pasadena.

Sorority Girls.

Members of the Theta Sigma Nu were guests yesterday afternoon of Miss Gladys A. Allen of No. 1709 West Twenty-fourth street, who complimented Mrs. Charles D. Wood, a recent bride, and Miss Ferida McLeod, a bride-to-be. Invitations were responded to by Mrs. T. B. McCabe, Mrs. W. W. McLeod, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. H. H. Chamberlain, Mrs. C. S. Allen, and the Misses Dwight Stephens, Lucretia Del Valle, Alice Clark, Vanita Welfer, Lucille Williams, Gertrude McClellan, Grace Rogers, Mary McGuire, Myrtle Bailey, Blanche Rogers, Gladys Wilhelm, Ismar Black, Katherine Sturtevant, Nellie Rogers, Dorothy Johnson and Mary Allen.

Hawks-Strassel Wedding.

Father Fayhe officiated at the wedding last week of Miss Edith Hawks of this city and Raymond Strassel of Gold Road, Ariz., which took place at the parish house of the Holy Cross Church. The bride, who wore a jaunty traveling suit, was attended by little Dorothy Pirie, a niece, and Carlisle Bailey, a nephew, who assisted as flower girl and ring-bearer. At the conclusion of the service breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. B. Pirie, No. 353 West Forty-seventh place. Among out-of-town guests were the groom's mother and sister, Mrs. S. M. Strassel and Miss Adelaide Strassel of Louisville, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Strassel will reside in Arizona.

Charity Whist Party.

Members of the Willing Workers of Congregation Sinai will hold their monthly charity whist party Monday afternoon at their assembly hall at Twelfth and Valencia streets. The proceeds will go toward the endowment of a room in the Kasper Cohn Hospital.

House Guest.

Mrs. P. A. Newton of Chicago is the house guest of Mrs. Robert Smith, at the Cedric Apartments, No. 1306 Westlake avenue. Mrs. Newton will later take apartments and pass the winter in Southern California.

Santa Barbara Wedding.

A wedding of interest to her many friends in this city was that of Miss Helen Eschenburg, daughter of Mrs. Arnold Eschenburg to Hamilton Merrill, both of Santa Barbara, at the Unity Church, the pastor, Rev. William, officiating.

The bride, attired in a white charmeuse with a spangled lace tunic, wearing a bridal veil caught into cap effect with orange blossoms and carrying an arm bouquet of enchantress carnations, was attended by Mrs. Earl Hitchock of this city, the bride's room-mate at Berkeley, who was gowned in yellow crepe de chene and satin charmeuse, trimmed in pearl and carrying white sweet peas. The bride's sister, Miss Betty Eschenburg, and Miss Lillian Rice of San Diego assisted as bridesmaids, the former wearing a yellow chiffon over pink messaline, and the latter yellow messaline trimmed with shadow lace, and both carrying arm-bouquets of the white sweet peas. Robert Adams of Oakland, a student at Stanford, stood with the groom and Earl Hitchcock of this city, and Dr. Al Stoddard were the ushers.

Bamboo and yellow acacia adorned the church, and at the home where a reception followed to 400 guests immediately afterwards, asparagus fern and the yellow banksia roses were utilized. Mrs. Wilkinson of Santa Barbara, Miss Vera Thomas of Santa Cruz and Miss Gertrdue Adams of Oakland received the guests. Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill will be at home to their friends at No. 1620 Delavina street, Santa Barbara, after January 15.

Dinner Party.

One of the handsome parties of the current week was the dinner presided over by Mrs. William H. Harrison at her home, No. 227 Kingsley drive, Tuesday evening. The tiniest of yellow rosebuds, peeping out of masses of delicate greenery in a gold basket, with large yellow satin bows adorned the table, and cards on which were Japanese figures, in harmonizing colors, marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Tod J. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. James Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Byers Manchester, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Woodruff.

Evening Affair.

As an innovation, Mrs. H. H. Clark, No. 35 Victoria drive, entertained the members of the La Alagria Club and their husbands with an evening party. American beauty roses nodded from long stems in crystaled vases, and the decorative scheme also included many oak leaves, showing the autumn tints. In the dining-room where refreshments were served, at two large tables following the games of five hundred, pink roses were utilized. Special guests present were Mr. and Mrs. George Rector, and Frederick Webb, and members and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Saurret, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Bresee, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Neubauer, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Yonkin, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Henderson, Mrs. Perisse Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Camp.

Church Wedding.

On the last day of the year Miss Rose Ellen Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, became the bride of James P. Eagan of Tracy, Cal. Father P. Gerald Gray per-

WHAT IS A COUGH?

S. B. HARTMAN, M.D.
Columbus, Ohio

This is the season when coughs are prevalent. People, as a rule, do not understand the significance of a cough. A cough is simply an effort of Nature to rid the lungs or bronchial tubes of some offending or foreign material. A few drops of water in the larynx will cause any one to cough the same as a catarrhal effusion or an accumulation of mucus. Cough is a wholesome effort to protect the lungs from intrusion, from harmful materials. A cough should not be regarded as a foe, but as a friend.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of Cough.

Pe-ru-na is a cough medicine in the strict sense of the word. It assists Nature in getting rid of the accumulated mucus in the bronchial tubes. It assists, first, by strengthening the nerves that control the act of coughing. And, second, by its expectorant effect the mucus discharges are slightly thinned, making them easier to expectorate. In other words, Pe-ru-na acts with Nature.

Any one taking Pe-ru-na will very quickly find himself better able to cough. The cough seems to be more satisfactory. It is a deeper cough in which the mucus is raised and easily expectorated. Pe-ru-na relieves cough by removing the cause of the cough. It works in exactly the same way as every other medicine ought to work, in harmony with Nature.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Celia: You can't expect to appear fascinating with pimples all over your face. During the summer anyone's blood is likely to become thick and sluggish from accumulated poisons which frequently find an outlet in the face. This condition can be overcome by taking a good system-tonic and blood-purifier. An excellent and inexpensive, old-fashioned tonic of tried merit is made with kardene. Dissolve one ounce of kardene in a half-pint alcohol (not whisky), then add one-half cupful sugar and enough hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and you will soon feel like a new person, and your complexion will clear and take on a healthy tone.

W. J. B.: Those annoying hairs on your chin will quickly vanish after an application of a delatone paste, made by mixing together a little water and powdered delatone. This paste is to be applied and left on the skin two or three minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. The delatone treatment is quite harmless and always leaves the skin clear and smooth.

Maiden: You will no longer have thin eyebrows and stubby lashes if you get a small original package of pyroxin and with forefinger and thumb apply some at lash-roots, then with finger-end rub a little on the brows. This makes the lashes grow long, silky and curly, and makes the eyebrows come in thick and glossy. Be careful not to get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Gussie: I, too, was flat-chested until I used the famous vaucalre treatment, but now have a well-developed figure. You can prepare this treatment in the privacy of your home, and I am sure the result will be entirely pleasing. Dissolve 1¼ cupfuls sugar in 1 pint water and add 1 ounce gallol. Then take 2 teaspoonfuls at meal time. Excepting in stubborn cases, development starts quite soon.

E. B. S.: Although gray hair is sometimes caused by worry, it is generally due to a diseased scalp as indicated by such symptoms as dandruff, itching of the scalp and brittle, falling hair of which you speak. To restore your scalp to a healthy condition, first keep it clean by shampooing every ten days or two weeks with canthrox, then massage the scalp, using a good quinine hair-tonic. You can prepare the tonic yourself by adding one ounce of quinosin to a half-pint of alcohol (not whisky) and a half-pint of cold water. This is much better than most ready-prepared hair-tonics, as it contains nothing to make the hair coarse, sticky or "stringy." It will remove the dandruff and stop your hair from coming out. You will find it an ideal dressing for the hair and very refreshing to an itching scalp.

S. R. O.: If your superfluous flesh proves annoying and distressing, try the following fat reducer, which has given excellent results: Dissolve four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints hot water; when cool, strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. This remedy is harmless. By avoiding very rich foods and taking plenty of exercise, you will find this remedy will cut down your weight very rapidly.

Mrs. Ruth: There can be no possible excuse for a woman of your age neglecting her complexion. It is a duty you owe yourself to look as youthful and charming as possible. I would not encourage you to use face powder; it rubs off too easily, shows too readily and does no permanent good. The use of a good lotion made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in half a pint of hot water or witch hazel and adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine will take away that coarse, sallow, oily look to your skin and make it soft, pink and youthful. This lotion is an excellent beautifier and whitener and will last longer than powder. It is splendid for cold sores, freckles, pimples and preventing chapping in the winds.

Lovera: (a) Don't worry. What if your hair is a little thin, looks "stringy" and is hard to do up and make look nice. There is a remedy for all this. Shampoo your hair once in two weeks with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, rinsing afterwards in clear water. The rich, cleansing lather will please you. This will rid your scalp of dirt and dandruff and make your hair soft and glossy. Your hair will dry quickly and be so fluffy and nice you will forget your hair-troubles. But don't wash your hair with soap. The "free" alkali in soap ruins the hair gloss, makes it streaky and dead looking. (b) To make an excellent skin-whitener and complexion-beautifier, see answer to "Mrs. Ruth."

Harriet: For your tired, dull, inflamed eyes you need a good eye-tonic. Dissolve an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. Two or three drops of this in each eye daily will strengthen your eyes and make them bright and sparkling. This tonic will not smart and has proven a great aid for those who wear glasses. A friend of mine who has remarkably clear, beautiful eyes tells me that she uses this simple tonic regularly to keep them bright and full of expression. I find it excellent for weak, inflamed, tired eyes and granulated eyelids.

SOCIETY.

formed the ceremony at the Sacred Heart Church. The bride-elect, who chose for her gown white charmeuse trimmed with chiffon and pearls, was attended by Miss Agnes Filson, who wore salmon pink satin with gold lace trimmings. A reception at the home of the bride's parents at No. 506 East Avenue Thirty-nine concluded the evening. After January 15 Mr. and Mrs. Eagan will be at home to their friends at Tracy. Mrs. Eagan was graduated from the Sacred Heart Convent and the State Normal School, and has a large circle of friends, both here and in the north, who wish her every happiness.

Dinner at Alexandria.

A coterie of friends enjoyed a dinner party at the Alexandria Wednesday evening followed by a theater party at the Orpheum. Included were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Mossey and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitmore.

Birthday Anniversary.

Lewis Girard was the victim of a surprise dinner party Friday evening, the occasion being his birthday anniversary, given by Mrs. Girard at their home on Griffen avenue. A gold basket filled with a shower bouquet of red and white carnations combined with maidenhair was used as a centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Will Pfaff, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Burdick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kemp, Miss Georgia Girard and Harry Kemp.

Returned Home.

Mrs. N. C. Otto, who has been the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. V. Jacobs of Chicago for the past five months, has returned to her home, No. 1033 North Berendo.

Silk Stocking Club.

Complimenting the members of the Silk Stocking Club, Mrs. Mark Brown entertained with a luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. John Walker. Red carnations brightened the table, and New Year's greetings adorned the cards marking places. Following the luncheon tables were arranged for bridge and prizes were captured by Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Harmon. Special guest present was Mrs. William McCandless and members Mrs. W. G. Jobson, Mrs. R. R. Bancroft, Mrs. A. C. Howell, Mrs. H. A. Lane, Mrs. M. B. Harmon, Mrs. L. A. Craig, Mrs. Lou Sapp, Mrs. John Walker, Mrs. Annie B. Taylor, Mrs. W. B. Stephens and Mrs. Paterson.

Fancy Dress Ball.

Mrs. Walter Fricker entertained with a fancy dress ball in the lobby of Hotel Stratford, West Sixth and Burlington streets, Tuesday evening. Huckleberry branches and bamboo were used most effectively in decorating, and punch was served during the evening. Many handsome and variable costumes were worn, from a French Count down to clowns. Delightful music was furnished by an orchestra for the dancing, and the guests, of whom there were sixty, unmasked at 11 o'clock.

To New York City.

Mrs. Elmer Grey of Oak Knoll has gone to New York City, where she expects to visit two months and enjoy the opera season.

Large Reception.

One of the largest affairs of the current week, notable for its beauty of appointment, was the reception given Thursday evening by the Alpha Rho of U.S.C., at their Sorority House, No. 3575 South Figueroa street. In the receiving line were Mrs. Martha L. Zander, Mrs. Dora Heffner, Mrs. George Baird, Miss Inez Johnston, Miss Gladys Bridges, Miss Eva Smith, Miss Nora Parker and Miss Gertrude Millard, and assisting were the active members, Miss Geraldine La Fetra, Miss Irene le Roy, Miss Mildred Cowdery, Miss Margaret Locke, Miss Eunice Oertel, Miss Marion Allen, Miss Mabel Henry and Miss Katherine O'Bear.

Decorations for the affair were especially artistic, the sorority colors of green and gold being carried out by the use of the fluffy yellow chrysanthemum and asparagus plumosus fern. A hand-embroidered cloth enhanced the beauty of the table in the dining-room, and a bowl of the chrysanthemums graced the center with yellow-shaded candelabra. The refreshments were carried out in the prevailing color scheme as far as possible. The reception hours were from 8 to 10, when 200 guests were entertained. An orchestra rendered delightful music during the evening.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

SELDOM has there been during the winter season a week so uneventful socially as last in Pasadena. The small dinner dance given Friday evening at the Pasadena Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gray was the most elaborate affair and one of special interest was the luncheon given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Albert Gibbs Vedder at her home in Palmetto drive announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Irene Vedder to Gamble Reighard, son of Mrs. E. G. Reighard, who makes her home at Hotel Vista del Arroyo. The luncheon was followed by bridge and later tea was served, a number of guests being invited in for that hospitality. At luncheon covers were laid for Mmes. Roydon Duburg, George Arthur Vedder, Henry K. Norton, Glenford Dairymple, Benjamin K. Douglas, Samuel B. Martin, Misses Alice Phillips, Katherine Wadsworth, Margaret Merrill, Edna MacDonald and Grace Greenwood. The table was charmingly decorated with Cecil Brunner roses and violets. C. Stubbs of Cleveland, who is spending the winter at Hotel Green. The prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Gilcrist and Miss Cora Auten. Others present were Mmes. John Vischer Eliot, Henry Maurls Robinson, White Munn and Miss Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway I. Stuart entertained Wednesday afternoon at their home on San Rafael Heights with an old-fashioned afternoon tea which was arranged in honor of Mrs. A. F. Ball, mother of Mrs. Stuart, who is a pioneer resident of Pasadena, and the guests were for the most part old friends who formerly lived in Iowa, which was the home of the guest of honor previous to her coming to Pasadena. Both men and women were present and the house was beautifully decorated with roses in pink and pale yellow. Assisting were the daughters of Mrs. Ball, Mmes. Fred R. Harris and William Wilson Leithead and her granddaughter, Miss Madeline Harris. There were about forty present and the occasion was delightful.

Col. and Mrs. W. M. Griffith of Marston street entertained the members of the New York avenue card club Monday evening and the prizes were won by Miss Mabel Pierson and Mr. Berg, the consolation prize falling to Mr. Bustin. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lacey, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. John Rustin, Commander and Mrs. Ford Brown, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. South Pasadena.

THE silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Minier last Sunday was the occasion of a delightful gathering at their home, No. 1014 Glendon way, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock. The invitations gave no hint of the important event, but merely invited their friends and relatives to an "at home." The house was appropriately decorated. Quantities of white stock, Chinese lilies and asparagus fern were utilized in the dining and living rooms, and festoons of the fern formed a canopy over the table in the dining-room, upon which rested a huge wedding cake. The flaming poinsettia adorned the studio where punch and cakes were served. The host and hostess were assisted in receiving by Mrs. George Binder, Mrs. Alice Keith, Mrs. George Osgood of this city, and Mrs. R. D. Wrana and Mrs William Smalley of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Minier were married in San Diego twenty-five years ago where they resided nine years, removing to Pasadena, and then to this city, where they have lived fourteen years. Mrs. Minier is a well-known artist, and many noted artists were among their guests. A pleasant feature of the afternoon's entertainment was mandolin and guitar duets presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atherton of Pasadena. Among the guests included were Mrs. Sado Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Armstrong, V. B. Ong, Clarence Ong, Charles K. Ong, Mrs. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. William Smalley, George W. Earl, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wrana and Mrs. William Smalley of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Will Huntington of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Munsen, Mr. and Mrs. Will Mason, Miss Helen Mason, Miss Mitchell, Mrs. Pistoria of Chicago, Ill., Jean Mannheim, Misses Jean and Eunice Mannheim, Mrs. Cora Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frost, Mrs. Arthur Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atherton of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. George Binder, Mr. and Mrs. George Osgood, Mrs. Alice Keith, Walter Keith, and Rev. and Mrs. Booker Smith of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brown, No. 1022 Brent avenue, have gone to New York City, where they will sail February 6 for Carlsbad after which they will take a five months' automobile trip through Germany, France, Switzerland and other places on the continent. England will also be toured before returning home.

Wendell Kuencer was the genial host to members of a Five Hundred Club to which he belongs, at his home, No. 1125 Fair Oaks avenue, Thursday evening, and assisting him during the evening was his mother, Mrs. Otto Kuencer and Mrs. Laura Wellfare of Alhambra. Cecile Bruner roses adorned the dining-room, while the Maman Cochet combined with asparagus fern ornamented the large living-room, where the tables were arranged for cards. Highest scores were won by Miss Mae Hoffman and Roy Hoffman. Special guests for the evening were Miss Loris Bulla, Miss Vivian Bulla and Miss Constance Stearn of Alhambra; Miss Lois Cook, Miss Bess Filbert, Miss Lou Simpson, Miss Mae Hoffman and Miss Pillsbury of Los Angeles; Gaylord Snyder of Stanford, William Allen of Pasadena, Frank Honsburger of Los Angeles, and members, Miss Laura Hoffman, Miss Eola Crippen, Miss Dolphine Fort, and Messrs. Phil Bettinger, Hugh Crippen, Roy Hoffman, Carleton Gilbert, Mr. Block and Walter and Kenneth Kuencer.

Honoring her brother, Charles Sutton, who left Friday to continue his studies at Berkeley, Mrs. William Boothby Stringfellow entertained with a dinner party at her home in Sierra Vista Thursday evening. The fragrance of violets was wafted over the table, as these flowers were used as a centerpiece for the table, and were later presented as corsage bouquets to the ladies. Covers were laid for Miss Lois Cook and Marguerite Cardell of Los Angeles, Charles Sutton and Arnold Salisbury of this city and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stringfellow.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Anna Gerlach of this city and James Burleson of Los Angeles. January 16 has been set as the date for the wedding ceremony.

Complimentary to Miss Dorothy Linnard of Pasadena, who after passing the holidays at home, will return to Bishops's School at La Jolla next week, Miss Pauline Bennett of Oak Lawn entertained with a box party at the Orpheum yesterday, followed by a tea at the Alexandria. Guests included Mrs. Edmund Bennett, Miss Janet Beckwith, Miss Rosalind Merritt, Miss Georgiana Drummond, Miss Elizabeth Hogan, Miss Marion Filluis, Miss Beatrice Bush, Miss Dorothy Foster, Miss Edith Slavin, Miss Helen Mears, Miss Margaret Freeman and Miss Florence Trask.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keller of Walla Walla, Wash., are the guests of Mrs. Keller's aunt, Mrs. Karl Mohler.

One of the happy affairs of the current week, was at the home of Mrs. Harrison Gifford on Laurel street Friday evening, when she entertained the members of the Seven O'clock Auction Bridge Club. Pink Maman Cochet roses in a cut glass vase with pink shaded candelabra, and large pink maline bows, embellished the table. Place and score cards combined were ping and gold, monogramed. Present were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rhone of Alhambra, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Balfour, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Plub, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cave and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Shank, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Morrill and C. H. Morrill, No. 720 Meridian avenue, who have been visiting in Readville, Me., for the past three months, have returned home.

Mrs. Homer Day of Chicago, Ill., was the complimented guest at a tea given by Mrs. Franklyn S. Jenkins at her home on Fairview avenue, Thursday afternoon. Richmond roses and smilax adorned the living-room and pink carnations and Killarney roses were used attractively in the dining-room. Assisting the hostess for the afternoon were Mrs. Sophie Wyille, Mrs. Edward Grable, Mrs. George J. Binder and Miss Mildred Sherry.

Inglewood.

A Very interesting meeting of the Woman's Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Milton R. Kerr of Commercial street. Following the report of the "Flower Committee," the club voted to adopt the Shasta daisy as the club flower. Among the reasons given by the committee as to why the club should adopt this flower, were the following: It is a Burbank creation, suggests California, is hardy, easy to cultivate, makes beautiful parkways, and its colors harmonize nicely with other flora. The work of the "Flower Committee" was extended and the committee will confer with the Park Commission as to the best means of securing the adoption of the Shasta daisy as a civic flower, the sense of the club being to secure the cultivation of this flower to some extent in the public parks as well as in the private grounds of all the homes in Inglewood. A vote as to whether or not the club should join the State Federation of Clubs resulted in favor of the federation.

The most notable social event of the past week in Inglewood was that of Wednesday, when Mrs. William H. Kelso, Mrs. S. M. Leist, Mrs. L. E. Johanknecht and Miss Adelaide Johanknecht were the hostesses in the parlors of the First Presbyterian Church, to the members of the Aid Society and other friends of the church. A delicious luncheon served by these ladies at 12:30 and a splendid literary programme, were interesting features of the day's events. A "newspaper," prepared by Mrs. W. G. Brown, editor-in-chief, and her staff of writers, Mrs. Harry B. Kirk, Mrs. Willis A. Grove, Mrs. C. K. Buckle and Mrs. Inez Allen, was read during the luncheon hour by Mrs. Brown and was greeted with peals of laughter from the guests, who thoroughly enjoyed the interesting and laughable bits of information concerning the "Aid" pastor, and other church notables.

Prof. Frank Peer Real of the Imperial University at Tientsin, China, who has been the guest of his parents here for a few days, left Saturday for Washington.

One of the very delightful social affairs of the past week in Inglewood was that of Saturday evening, when Mrs. James P. Hansen of Market street, entertained at an elaborate course dinner a company of relatives and friends, complimentary to her husband's birthday. The living and dining-rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers, asparagus fern and ropes of red crepe paper. In the center of the long dining table, was a mound of violets, and pretty hand-painted place cards marked the places of the guests, for whom covers were laid for fifteen.

Bay City.

GEORGE E. PILLSBURY, chief engineer of the Pacific Electric was a Saturday to Monday visitor at the home of P. A. Stanton. A. Burnside Sturges, a prominent Los Angeles architect, accompanied by his son, also passed part of the week end as guests of Mr. Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Devenney of Fourteenth street, had as guests over New Year's Day their daughter and, son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harbin of Fairview.

Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Nance, accompanied by their family occupied their Ocean-avenue bungalow over Sunday.

J. F. Shields and family of Santa Ana formed a party that motored over and enjoyed a day's outing here on Thursday.

Dr. M. H. Breen of Porterville, Cal., G. C. Fasker of Portland, Or., and Mrs. J. Lambert, of Long Beach, were mid-week visitors in Bay City.

Alhambra.

ON Wednesday evening the Alhambra Whist Club was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Parker of South Chapel street. Those who enjoyed the games were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Teagarden, Mr. and Mrs. L. Cogswell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pike, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Crow, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hitch, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Easley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Prince, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Cartwright, and Dr. and Mrs. Parker.

Miss Imogene Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanley Wood of South First street, has returned from a three months' visit to her friends in Boston, Chicago, Washington, St. Paul, New York City and Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Franc O. Wood gave a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jewett of Colorado Springs last Sunday, at which covers were laid for eight guests. The rooms were handsomely decorated in glorisina and pepper berries, and a most delicious menu was served.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Marian Curtis Lucas to Charles Rabe Garvin of Ohio was the occasion of an informal afternoon party at the home of Miss Lucas on Commonwealth avenue last Wednesday afternoon. Miss Lucas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Lucas, and is a teacher in the Alhambra High School. The announcement cards were in the shape of hearts, red and white, to correspond with the color scheme of the refreshments, and were tucked into the napkins at the time of serving. The lady members of the faculty of the High School, who were present to offer congratulations, were Mrs. Severance, Mrs. Richardson, the Misses Berryman, Olive Berryman, Jones, Stokes, Blount, McDill, Haig, Mitchell, Bainbridge, Swift, Shropshire, Weeks, Strange, Murdock, Harding, Taylor, and Mrs. Carruthers.

Miss Edith Alderman of North Olive avenue returned home Monday morning from her old home in Riverside, where she has been the guest of school friends during the vacation. Miss Alderman's popularity in that city is attested by the fact that many parties were given in her honor, five such social events occurring upon successive evenings, a different hostess honoring her each night.

The directors of the Wednesday Afternoon Club met last Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Ora Stokes on North Garfield avenue. Business was quickly dispensed with and the remainder of the afternoon was delightfully spent over the teacups. Those present were Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, Mrs. Harry E. Rose, Mrs. Charles Lee Lewis, Mrs. J. N. Gillies, Mrs. Foed Sears, Mrs. Frank Stokes, Mrs. Oscar Stokes and Miss Ora Stokes.

The friends of Mrs. Karl S. Hovey, nee Gladys Julia Sikes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almon C. Sikes, of South Third street, gave her a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waddles, covers being laid for fourteen. Miss Sikes was a junior in the Alhambra High School, while Mr. Hovey graduated a year ago. The marriage two weeks ago came as a great surprise to their many friends. The color scheme for the dinner table was pink, carnations and fern balls making the rooms most attractive. After the dinner all enjoyed cards. Young Mr. Hovey has taken up business at Fresno, and his bride will leave soon to join him there.

Miss Hazel Stokes, a bride-elect, was the honoree at a most delightful affair on Tuesday evening, when a miscellaneous shower was given for her, by Mrs. Ralph Walter Hornby and Miss Gladys Knesel, at the home of Mrs. Hornby, on South Almansor street. Many guessing and progressive games were enjoyed, and a most dainty and delicious two-course supper served later in the evening. Dainty place cards marked the place for each guest and dainty red boxes filled with bon-bons, were the favors. The rooms were tastefully decorated in red, a beautiful gold basket of carnations gracing the living-room. Miss Stokes was the recipient of many handsome gifts of linen, cut-glass, china and fancy articles. Among the invtied guests were Miss Hazel Stokes, Miss Hattie Cook, Miss Theresa Brunner, Miss Katherine Molitor, Miss Marguerite Graffen, Miss Ruth Martens, Miss Julia Martens, Miss Ruth Knesel, Miss Ruth Waring, Miss Lulu Harker, Miss Florence Lindeman, Miss Katherine Hornby, Miss Emma Bohlken, Miss Agnes McMillan and Mrs. Harry Harker.

A dainty informal wedding took place recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Stauffer of San Gabriel, when their niece, Miss Orpha G. Morris, was united in marriage to Herbert R. Hancock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. S. Crock-

The Mysteries of Hypnotism and Personal Magnetism Revealed

The New York Institute of Science, of Rochester, N. Y., has just published a remarkable book on hypnotism, personal magnetism and magnetic healing. It is by far the most wonderful and comprehensive treatise of the kind ever printed. The directors have decided, for a limited time, to give a free copy to each person sincerely interested in these wonderful sciences. It is the result of the combined effort of twenty of the most famous hypnotic specialists in the world. You can now learn the secrets of hypnotism and personal magnetism at your own home, free.

Hypnotism strengthens your memory and develops a will of iron. It overcomes bashfulness, revives hope, stimulates ambition and determination to succeed, and gives you that self-confidence which enables you to convince people of your real worth. It gives you the key to the inner secrets of mind control. It enables you to absolutely control the thoughts and actions of whomsoever you will. When you understand this grand and mysterious science you can plant suggestion in human minds which will be carried out in a day or even a year hence. You can cure bad habits and disease in yourself or others. You can cure yourself of insomnia, nervousness and business or domestic worry. You can instantaneously hypnotize people with a mere glance of the eye, with their knowledge, and powerfully influence them to do as you desire. You can develop to a marvelous degree, any musical or dramatic talent you may have; you can increase your telepathic or clairvoyant power; you can give thrilling and funny hypnotic entertainments; you can win the love and everlasting friendship of those you desire; you can protect yourself against the influences of others; you can become a financial success and be recognized as a power in your community.

The New York Institute guarantees to teach you the secret of attaining these things. It is the largest and most successful school of hypnotism in the world. It is chartered by the State laws, and carries out every promise faithfully. If you want a copy of its free book, just send your name and address on a postal card—no money—to the New York Institute of Science, Dept. 526-A, Rochester, N. Y., and you will receive it by return mail, postpaid.—[Advertisement.

'Twixt Hill and Broadway

For women's, misses' and juniors' outerwear.

Round the corner from high rents.

On Monday--- Begins a SALE

200 Custom Tailored SUITS

At $10.00 --- $15.00 --- $20.00

Not Only the Greatest But the Most Extraordinary Offering of Man-Made Custom Suits that we have ever known any store either in this city or elsewhere to have had an opportunity to place before its patrons at any price. This great sale is the result of our Mr. Middleton's presence in the eastern markets. The maker who consigns this wonderful assortment of Suits, cut up $7000 worth of material in excess of his orders, hence his dilemma. We were fortunate to get as many as two hundred. At the prices marked they should not last over Monday.

75 of them Marked $20.00

Seventy-five suits that if you had them made to your order by the best tailor in Los Angeles, not one of which would cost you less than $50.00, and some up to $75.00. Unfortunately we have not more of them—Half of them are ink blue, men's worsteds, the other half are in fine diagonals, cheviots, English worsteds and a few black broadcloths. The size assortment runs from 14 to 42. The majority being small women's at this price $20

Alterations will be free.

100 of them Marked $15.00

This big assortment comes in half ink blue serges, the other half in tan, brown and gray spring worsteds—all are Skinner satin lined, with haircloth bust-forms and would cost not less than $40.00, made to your order—half of them are small women's sizes. A charge for alterations will be made on this lot.

25 of them Marked $10.00

Every one of them $25.00 values; in navy serge and gray worsted. The making is just as good as the other lots, but the linings are cheaper satin, that's why we have marked them $10.00. No alterations will be made at this price.

See Windows---and be here early Monday for choice ett of the First Christian Church, the couple standing under an arbor of beautiful lilies and ferns. Miss Alice Harlow acted as bridesmaid, while Clyde Crosby served the groom as best man. Miss Patrick of Los Angeles played the Lohengrin "Wedding March." The bride was given away by her uncle, on whose arm she entered the living-room. The bride and bridesmaid wore white lingerie dresses, and the bride carried an armful of white carnations and ferns. Audrey Shutts was the ringbearer and he carried it concealed in the heart of a large pink rose. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served by the Misses Greta Johnson and Opal Raybourn. The bride and groom will be at home at No. 307 North Marguerita avenue.

JUDGE AND MRS. M. K. HARRIS entertained at a delightful dinner party Tuesday evening at their home on O street, complimenting Misses Louise and Fleda Mordecai, of Madera. The festal board was gay with an artistic arrangement of bright poinsettias and greenery, the places were laid for nearly a score of guests. Following the dinner hour, the evening was spent informally, with delightful musical numbers given by several talented members of the group. Among those who enjoyed the hospitality for which this household is noted, were Misses Fleda Mordecai, Louise Mordecai, Margurieta Harris, Mary Harris, Julia Harris, Martha Harris, Myrtle Harrell, Adeline Thornton, Messrs. Brooks Mordecai, George W. Jones, Arch Jack, Garth Campbell, Beaumont, Albert O. Warner and Phillip Thornton.

Mrs. Robert Barton was the guest of Mrs. Charles Porter of Madera Wednesday, as a sort of a farewell visit, Mr. and Mrs. Porter leaving the last of the week for Canada, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. George W. Cartwright and her attractive daughter, Miss Hazel Cartwright, left on Thursday for Sacramento, where they will join Senator Cartwright. Miss Cartwright is one of the most popular girls of the younger set, and it is with greatest regret that their departure is heralded. At the conclusion of the session of the Legislature, the Cartwright family plan to establish their residence in San Francisco.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Maupin entertained at a very informal little affair Tuesday evening, complimentary to a group of friends who embark shortly on a trip to Honolulu. Among those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bernain, Mrs. C. B. Shaver, Miss Ethel Shaver and Mrs. J. D. Davidson of Nashville, Tenn.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. SCHUREMAN entertained the members of the "D Five Hundred" Club at dinner at the Elks' Home on Monday evening, following which the party adjourned to the Schureman home on San Francisco avenue, and passed the evening at cards. The guests were Messrs and Mmes. R. B. Midgley, C. E. Norton, Frank Smith, C. E. Hughes and C. G. George.

Miss Florence McGougin of Vancouver, who has been the guest of the Misses Yeend on East Holt avenue, has left for her home.

Mrs. Charles S. Jacobs of Denver will visit her sister, Mrs. Fred Jacobs of No. 576 West Laurel street.

Mrs. Esther C. Kelly is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Emma Heath.

Mrs. George Merwin has been entertaining her relative, Mrs. Irene Harris of Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Sherman Paddock of East Franklin avenue, entertained the members of the Ohio Club at her home on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hufford entertained the members of the Union Whist Club Thursday evening.

Mrs. Charles J. Fox, was the guest at a luncheon given by Mrs. W. B. Stewart in Los Angeles on Wednesday.

Mrs. W. B. Carper entertained the members of the Wednesday Afternoon Card Club at her home, No. 490 Columbia avenue, at a five hundred party.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Richmond gave a dinner party to a number of friends at their home on East Kingsley avenue on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. V. B. Lusk entertained the members of the Clover Leaf Embroidery on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. R. Price was hostess to the members of the Blue Bell Embroidery Club Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsberry W. Reynolds who have been visiting in Chicago for several weeks, arrived here on Tuesday evening.

Miss Janie Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Robertson, has returned to Mills College, after passing her vacation with her parents here.

C. B. Richmond and daughter, Miss A. Faye Richmond, left Wednesday for Salvador, Central America, to visit their son and brother, Charles Richmond.

Miss Florence Osler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Osler, left for Mills College, to complete her school year, on Tuesday.

UNDER the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of this city an entertainment was given in I.O.O.F. Hall on Broadway Friday evening. The affair was a "get together" party which proved to be one of the most enjoyable occasions given in this city for some time. The early part of the evening was given over to a programme, which consisted of the following numbers: Vocal solo, Frank Geiger of Los Angeles; "Our Chamber of Commerce—What it Has Done," President E. U. Emery; "Its Aims and Purposes," Mayor Thomas W. Watson; vocal solo, Miss Frankie Barkley; reading, Miss Helen Tyler of Los Angeles; vocal solo, Mrs. J. H. Orth; reading, Miss Marian Henry; vocal solo, Frank Geiger. Following the programme there was a recess of about half an hour, at the conclusion of which dainty refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Miss Violet June Taintes and Lee Elmer Haywood, both of this place, were married recently at the home of Mrs. W. R. Prelon at 1435 West Second street, by Rev. E. H. Willisford, pastor of the Congregational Church of this place. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding supper was served by Mrs. Phelon. Mr. and Mrs. Haywood will make their home at No. 512 Jackson street, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. McIntyre entertained this week with a merry house party at their home on Cedar street, between Third and Fourth streets. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cash Olds of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moode of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Griffith of Los Angeles and Miss Ella Wyatt of Los Angeles.

A crowd of young folks from this city enjoyed a dancing party given at Goldberg's dancing parlors in Los Angeles Friday evening. Those attending the affair were Misses Alpha

3rd Annual January Silk Sale

37,889 Yds. Plain and Fancy Silks

Reaches a Value-Giving Height Hard to Realize—New Interest Mon.

—Very few can realize what a great event is this annual Silk Sale until they are introduced to the splendid silks that are being offered.
—It's not a case of a woman coming to buy a few yards of silk, it's a case of where families are supplied with silks for months to come.
—Why it's nothing uncommon for a woman to buy six and seven dress patterns of silks at this sale, neither is it surprising, when the economies are so apparent. Why, there is any amount of this silk selling for less than half its value, and every yard of it included in the sale is a bargain at the price.

The Sale Started Saturday with Great Activity

—And now for Monday at the time of going to press it is not possible for us to give exact details of the items that are available, for a quantity that may seem remarkable, dwindles quickly under such tremendous buying.
—We know, however, that it will be almost impossible for us to dispose of even half the quantity in the first day's selling. You see we began with some 37,000 yards and for Monday and the rest of the week there will be values extraordinary for any woman who needs silks.

—The items that are attracting most attention are—

—$2.00 40-in. Silk Poplin	$1.00
—$1.75 40-in. Wool Back Satin	$1.09
—$1.50 40-in. Crepe de Chine	$1.00

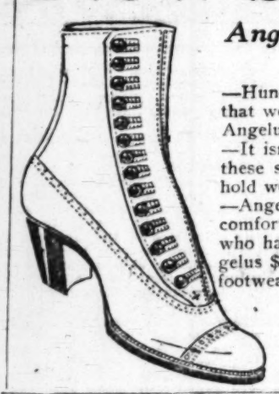
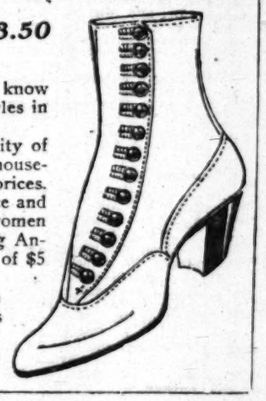
Angelus $3 and Angelus Special $3.50

Shoes for Women





—Hundreds of Los Angeles women will be glad to know that we are ready to present new, early spring styles in Angelus and Angelus special shoes at $3 and $3.50.
—It isn't necessary for us to dwell upon the quality of these shoes, the name "Angelus" has become a household word in Los Angeles for quality, at medium prices.
—Angelus Shoes give the highest amount of service and comfort for the price you pay. We know of many women who have cut down their shoe expense by wearing Angelus $3 and Angelus Special $3.50 shoes in place of $5 footwear.
—Of course this doesn't mean that these are $5 shoes for $3, or $3.50, but it does mean that you save more in the long run by wearing Angelus Shoes than you would by paying $5 for your footwear.

Hemet.

A VERY pleasant dance was given Wednesday night at the hall of the motion-picture theater as a benefit for the band. This organization is a rather recent one, and deserves the encouragement of occasions of this nature. The band itself furnished excellent music for the programme of twenty dances. Although the weather was unpleasant, about twenty couples were present. Mr. Miller, the popular caterer, furnished a delicious intermission luncheon.

The Royal Neighbors were hostesses at a pleasant dance and luncheon that followed their annual installation last Saturday night. After the election and installation of the group of officers, the members of the order and a number of invited guests spent a delightful two hours in dancing, which was followed by a midnight luncheon of unusual excellence.

A number of the friends of the Rev. and Mrs. James Muir gave them a surprise Saturday evening, when they arrived unheralded to spend the evening. The occasion was the anniversary of the couple's wedding and also of Mr. Muir's birthday. The pleasure of the affair was increased by the presentation of a number of beautiful gifts.

The hall of the Knights of Pythias was the scene Tuesday night of a pretty dance and luncheon given by their lodge to its members and friends of the order and their wives. The luncheon and dance followed the annual installation of officers of the organization and pleasant musical programme that had been prepared.

The first meeting of the Episcopal Guild for 1913 was held Friday, at the home of Mrs. Jennie B. Pugh on Harvard street, when Mrs. Wheelock of Riverside made an informal talk on Auxiliary Work.

Duarte.

A MARRIAGE of more than usual interest was solemnized Wednesday, when Miss Lou Badgley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Badgley, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Lee A. Strong of San Francisco. The formal announcement of the engagement was made at a violet luncheon given early in December and since that date many charming pre-nuptial luncheons, dinners and card parties have been given. The bride is a charming young lady and her wedding was quietly solemnized by Rev. Will Knighten. The handsome blue traveling gown worn by the bride was decidedly becoming and she wore a lovely hat to match. A small company of relatives witnessed the impressive ceremony and after the nuptial vows were spoken the wedding party enjoyed a wedding breakfast. After a few days spent in Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Strong left for their new home in San Francisco.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. E. R. Rivers entertained with a pleasant Kensington party at her beautiful foothill home in Duarte. The large living-rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns and congenial little groups were formed where busy fingers were employed with needle work. The serving of an elaborate 4 o'clock tea was the concluding feature of the event. Among those who were present were Mrs. S. L. Boyd, Mrs. Montague Graham, Mrs. A. P. Seymour, Mrs. J. A. Munro, Mrs. Thomas Nevill, Mrs. Frederick N. Hawes, Mrs. Clyde Daniels, Mrs. Miller and Miss Munro.

Mrs. Alexander B. Downie assisted by her daughter, Miss Vera Downe, gave a charming dancing party on Friday evening complimentary to the members of the gay younger set whose numbers have been increased by the presence of the college students. The function was character-

Rialto.

MORE than usual interest was shown in the regular afternoon meeting of the Rialto Woman's Club held at the L.M.L.A. Hall Wednesday, as it was the annual "mothers' day." Interesting and instructive talks were given by Mrs. Stella Atwood of Riverside, Mrs. R. F. Garner of San Bernardino and Father Fitzgerald of Redlands. Mrs. Nannie Davies sang very sweetly "The Home of the Palm Tree." Miss Winifred Sloan of San Bernardino rendered beautiful piano selections. The hall was transformed into a cosy parlor. Rugs and jardinieres filled with pretty greenery were used on and about the platform, while in the rear of the room was found a long table with pretty centerpiece of red geraniums and fern in low vase on mirror. After the splendid programme the ladies adjourned to the refreshment table, where tea and wafers were served. The red and green color motif was used in all the appointments and decorations. Mmes. John Bradford, E. M. Lash and Miss Lon Ella Baines were the gracious hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hosfelt entertained a company of Ohio relatives and friends at a prettily-appointed dinner Sunday at their cosy bungalow home. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Monrovia.

ONE of the most brilliant and beautiful weddings of recent years took place Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the new Methodist Church, the ceremony being the union of Miss Eloise Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Armstrong, and Hugh Gibson Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Marshall. Ever since the announcement of the young couple's engagement, the younger set of Monrovia, of which Mrs. Marshall is one of the most popular members, has been host and hostess at innumerable affairs. Luncheons, dinners, theater parties, receptions and showers filled all of the available time of the bride-elect and culminated Tuesday night with a charming dinner given by her to the members of the bridal party. The handsome interior of the Methodist Church was decorated in white and green, the altar being a solid mass of delicate ferns, relieved with scattered bunches of jonquils. Green floral arches formed the front of the setting and gave a graceful effect to the picture. The pews were decorated with asparagus plumosus, tied with tulle bows of white. During the arrival of the 150 guests, Miss Grace Kellar sang "O, Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Luella Kellar at the organ. Promptly at 8:30 the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march pealed out and the groom appeared at the choir door, attended by his best man, Wiley Mather. At the same instant the bridal party came slowly down the aisle of the church; first the ushers, Sherman Black, Clyde Burr, Charles Smith and Ned Beecher, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Davis, Edna Chess and Anna Crewa. They wore yellow crepe-de-chine and carried muffs of maidenhair fern. The bridesmaids were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Margaret Orr, of Los Angeles, and by the matron of honor, Mrs. Kathleen Spence Lyang, also of Los Angeles, and a cousin of the bride's. The maid and matron of honor were also gowned in yellow crepe-de-chine and carried maidenhair fern muffs. The bride now appeared, escorted by her father, and made a most charming picture. Her gown was white satin, with a bridal veil, and she carried an immense shower bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies-of-the-valley. The officiating minister, the Rev. F. D. Mather, of Pasadena, joined the bridal party at the altar, and performed the service. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party and guests repaired to the 'Leven Oaks Hotel, where a reception was held. After a short honeymoon at Coronado Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will be at home to their friends in Los Angeles, where Mr. Marshall is in business.

COMPLIMENTARY to the seventieth birthday anniversary of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Carr, a prettily appointed afternoon party was given Wednesday by Mrs. J. T. Lloyd at her home on I street, and the group of ladies invited in to aid in celebrating the occasion were all intimate friends of the guest of honor. Chatting and talking over "old times" with musical numbers given during intermissions sped the hours in a happy way and then as shadows lengthened a light collation was served in the dining-room at a table gaily adorned in flowers and fruits of the season. Many lovely presents were bestowed upon Mrs. Carr and those present to wish her many another as pleasant an anniversary were Mesdames H. A. Thompson, Pau, Sanford, Trenary, Craybill, Jackson, Reeves, Unger, Brazil and C. H. Townsend.

Mrs. William Anderson and little daughters, Mary and Christie, have arrived in Colton from Salmon City, Idaho, to spend the winter at Hotel Anderson. Mr. Anderson, owner of the hotel, will join his family here in a few days.

A children's party was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. R. E. Pritchett to compliment the small daughter of the household, Avery Klusman, who was celebrating her eleventh birthday anniversary. The house decorations consisted of gay red and green streamers and many small red bells and over the festive birthday table in the dining-room, where refreshments were served after games and a romp, a canopy of smaller garlands fluttered from the chandelier down to the favors at each plate, candy cups filled with candied fruit. As a centerpiece was the glittering candle-circled birthday cake. The little folks to enjoy the happy event were Maude Browning, Helen Lightfoot, Vaughan, Katherine Lightfoot, Kerr, Audrey Ashton, Johnson, Walter Yager of Redlands, Bessie Tredinnick, Sharp, Marjorie Malone, Avery Klusman.

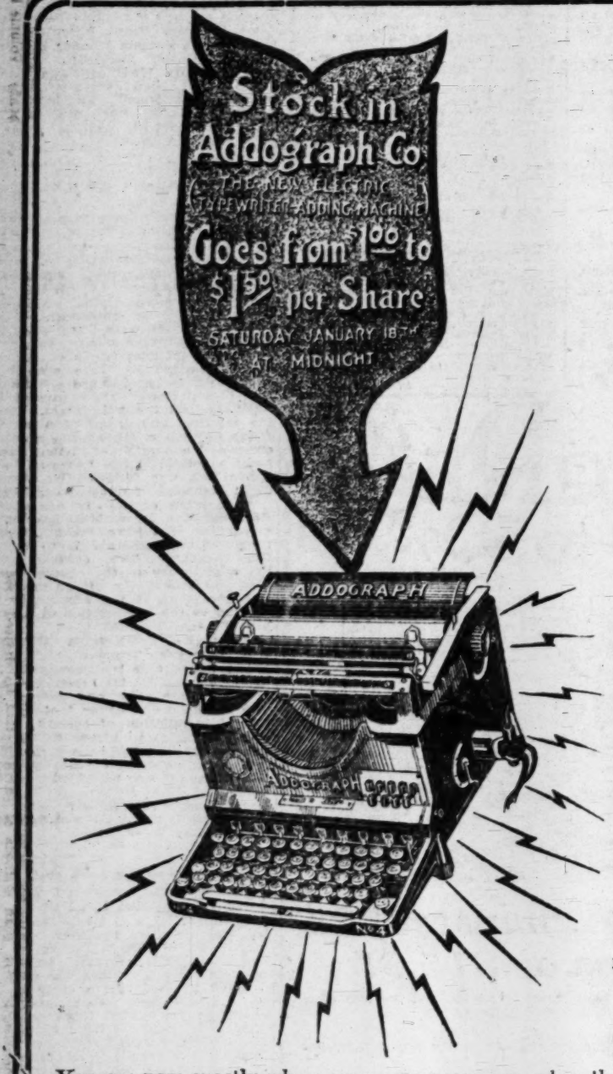
ADDOGRAPH

An Electrically Operated Typewriter-Adding Machine in Combination

Will Revolutionize Present Machines and Show Enormous Dividend Earnings



Writes, Adds, Subtracts, Tabulates, and Is Electrically Operated by the Lightest Touch on Keys—No More Tired Fingers.

This Is the Complete Typewriter

Inventors have been working on improvements for years, but it has remained for one man, M. C. Crawley, an engineer of national fame, to finally perfect the typewriter and combine with it an in-built practical adding machine. TWO MACHINES IN ONE CASE—electrically driven. The Addograph is about the same size as the present typewriter and operated the same way except that in the Addograph THE TROUBLESOME ESCAPEMENT IS OMITTED. The carriage is manipulated entirely by the electric power, through simple and positive mechanism, every stroke the same power.

Although it has adding, subtracting and tabulating features, it has less parts than the average typewriter. Simpler, stronger, better all through. The new perfect machines are now ready for manufacture.

Make 50% Profit in 6 Days
Stock Goes to $1.50 Saturday Next

You are now exactly where men were years ago when the first typewriter, or the first cash register, or the Linotype machine, or Burrough's adding machine was ready for manufacture, and these companies asked for help. Vast fortunes have been made in these machines.

From Moody's Manual, recognized authority on investment earnings, we submit the following:

How $100 Grew When Invested In the Beginning

Burrough's adding machine for each $100 invested—$41,349.99. Mergenthaler linotype—$100—has grown to $25,000. National Cash Register—$100 to $42,700.60. Underwood typewriter—$100 to $38,300.33.

THE ADDOGRAPH should equal the earning power of adding machine and typewriter combined—or $100 invested today in the Addograph should earn $80,000.00 when the machines are in world use, as they will be, for they do all the machines separately will do—do it better, faster, less wear, and at a cost much less than for both machines separately.

All we ask is the privilege of SHOWING OUR MACHINE IN OPERATION.

IN THE REALM OF ART AND ARTISTS

The Pioneers.

IN THE REALM OF ART AND ARTISTS

The Pioneers.

The fine decorative triptych which Maynard Dixon has just presented to the new Southwest Museum. It will be hung in Frontier Hall, and will be the nucleus of a public gallery of art wholly western in subject.

BY ANTHONY ANDERSON.

"All Arts Are One."

"All arts are one, howe'er distributed they stand; Verse, tone, shape, color, form, are fingers on one hand."

Maynard Dixon.

Ground for the new Southwest Museum has been broken, and its building will soon be begun. Already it possesses many old and priceless treasures. The new are to come. One very beautiful and important one, indeed, has come. Last Wednesday afternoon the Southwest Museum became the recipient of a notable mural decoration in triptych form from the brush of Maynard Dixon, the gift of the artist.

The painting, which is called "The Pioneers," is of large size, twelve feet by six feet. Its color scheme is rich, yet subdued and atmospheric. In the far distance a range of blue mountains extends over all three panels. In the middle distance lies a sunny valley, in the foreground a high mesa, on which are depicted two men on horseback — pioneers of the Southwest. They are alert, eager, hopeful—fine types of manhood, apparently father and son, though neither is old. In the smaller panel to the right we see a herd of buffalo, in that to the left a prairie schooner struggling up the slope of the mesa.

This noble decoration is to be placed in the room of the Southwest Museum which is to be known as Frontier Hall. The artist gave it to the museum freely and gladly, with the hope that other painters would follow, that art distinctly western in subject and treatment—art by painters of the West—may have a permanent representation in a permanent gallery. Hector Alliot, curator of the Southwest Museum, said to me: "The directors fully realize that by his generous gift Maynard Dixon becomes the pioneer artist whose example will make Frontier Hall the pantheon of western art."

However, Dixon's primary object in coming to Los Angeles from San Francisco was not to give away pictures. It was to paint new ones, a series of brilliant decorations for the handsome home which Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry is now erecting near Santa Anita. The original water color sketches for these decorations, poetic subjects from Indian life, with the finished triptych, "The Pioneers," will be shown tomorrow and for the following two weeks at the Steckel gallery, No. 336½ South Broadway.

Maynard Dixon is a native son. He was born in Fresno in 1875. His father moved from Virginia to Fresno in 1868, before the era of the railroad. The young artist was raised among the plains of the San Joaquin when the country was yet primitive, and his earliest artistic influences were the grand aspects of nature. His first sketch was made when he was only 7 years old. In 1891 he left school, at Coronado, to attempt serious study from nature. Later he went to San Francisco, and from there he made frequent excursions into the mountain and ranching districts of California, always in search of the wild, the elemental and the primitive things. He met Charles F. Lummis in 1896, who fired him with the ambition (never since then given up) to travel and paint in the southern desert.

To make money that he might more quickly realize his ambitions toward becoming a painter of western life and landscape, young Dixon worked for some years on San Francisco newspapers. Sufficient funds saved, he went to the Colorado Desert and Arizona in 1900. He made many subsequent trips to remote places, including parts of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Old Mexico, Nevada, Oregon, Idaho and Montana—the entire West and Southwest. On these extended journeys he visited the Indian tribes of the Blackfeet, Flatheads, Kootenays, Shoshones, Bannocks, Washoes, Piutes, Monos, Mojaves, Pimas, Maricopas, Papagos, Apaches, Navajos, Hopis, Pueblos, as well as remnants of the various Mission tribes in California. He made one horseback trip of a thousand miles from San Francisco to Boise, through the cattle country of Nevada, Oregon and Idaho.

He worked as an illustrator of western stories and articles, for various magazines East and West, for over ten years. He has made decorations for the library of D. J. Patterson of San Francisco and for the new Southern Pacific depot in Tucson. He has contributed to the exhibitions of the National Academy, and has been made a member of the Architectural League of New York. He spent five years in the metropolis, illustrating for the Century, Scribner's, McClure's, etc. His paintings of western life are found in private collections in New York, Chicago, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Minneapolis and Honolulu. All of which proves that Maynard Dixon has been a very busy man as painter and illustrator, and as traveler and investigator.

"You may tell the readers of The Times," said he, with a broad smile, "that I never was 'adopted' nor 'initiated' into any Indian tribe, but that I have camped and ridden with them many days and miles. I never 'tried prospecting,' but I have bunked with old prospectors on the desert and in the mountains. I never 'drove a ten-mule team,' but I have trailed with freighters on the desert. I never 'carried the chain' nor 'rolled the log,' but I have lived in surveying and logging camps. I never played faro nor 'bucked the tiger,' though I have lingered many hours in gambling dens for pictorial purposes. I never tried to be anything outside my trade, and never earned a cent except with brush or pencil.

"My object has always been to get close to the real nature of my subject as possible —people, animals and country. The melodramatic Wild West idea is not for me the big possibility. The nobler and more lasting qualities are in the quiet and most broadly human aspects of western life. I aim to interpret, for the most part, the poetry and pathos of the life of western people, seen amid the grandeur, sternness and loneliness of their country.

"Beginning with the proposition that a work of art should appear to be a creation rather than a construction or compilation," the earnest painter continued, "the work of western, and more particularly California, artists seems more truly the result of creative impulse than the eastern, for the reason that it is necessarily less the product of competition—say emulation —and more of environment; therefore, more native.

"Pizzoni wrote me not long ago that he realized he might do better work in New York, but that in California 'the country is big and inspiring,' and he felt that in the long run it would do more for his work than the money and applause of New York. It is true that many of our men have taken their turn in Paris or Rome or Munich, and some still bear the marks of their training. But in each case the work that has become known as theirs, and that has made them known, has been of native growth — has seemed to spring from environment more than training. A few of us, like Putnam, Russell and myself, have had practically no training; others have apparently outgrown or entirely made over—readjusted—what they acquired abroad. This, of course, does not apply so well to portrait painters, whose work is more on traditional lines the world over.

"But the big thing is this—that there is something of the West that sings in us—both of the life and of the country—that demands to be expressed. It seems to produce both the talent and, in a degree, the means of its own expression. Joaquin Miller's poetry is truly native—so is Sterling's and Sharlot Hall's. And in music you can see the same force at work. Art of purely native growth, lacking foreign education, may not always be 'good art,' but it seldom fails to be convincing.

"Getting back to my own work and what I tried to say about it—the fact that there is something in my native land and its life that seems to breathe a free soul—that impels me to try to express it and what it means—is the same thing, I believe, that has made art great in other countries. It is certain that that feeling has made art national. And while the West is "still American let us make the most of it! Millet touched it when he said he heard 'the cry of the ground.' That sense of sun and space and silence—of serenity—of strength and freedom—if I can interpret that with what I can master of technical requirements, I will have reached the best of my endeavor."

Art in Japan.

Two letters from Japan under date of December 16 will be of more than ordinary interest to readers of this page. The first is signed Anna L. Hill; the second is from Mrs. H. T. Jenkins, whose name and admirable work in art are well known in Southern California.

"I have a brief item for your art column," writes Miss Hill. "I had the pleasure recently of seeing the life-size portrait of the daughter of Japan's most famous artist, Tahanuchi Seiho. Mrs. H. T. Jenkins of the art department of Pomona College at Claremont, Cal., who is now on leave of absence and is studying Japanese art in Kyoto, painted the picture.

"The portrait is a remarkably good likeness of the young lady, who is dressed in a ceremonial robe with a magnificent obi, or sash. The portrait was painted in the home of the famous artist, so it has all the correct Japanese accessories.

"The celebrated artist was so pleased with his daughter's portrait and the European methods of painting that he desired that Mrs. Jenkins should instruct him in her art."

Mrs. Jenkins writes from Doshisha College, Kyoto:

"A few lines on some exhibitions of Japan.

"The mumban show (in English the educational exhibition) is the annual art exhibition which is under the direction and control of the Board of Education at Tokio. This in art circles is the event of the year. The exhibition is divided into two sections, the pure Japanese, consisting of the old and modern schools of Japanese art, and the European school of painting and sculpture.

"The former school is all water colors done on silk screens and gold screens, where spirit and imagination hold sway. The latter covers the usual phases of European art, from the low-keyed to the rampant impresionist, dealing in truth and beauty, considerable of it quite realistic. It is astonishing to see what strides the Japanese have made in a few years in European art. The entire exhibition was brought down from Tokio and shown at the Fine Arts School of Kyoto, where many sales were made.

"A one-man exhibition, that of Owmeji of Kyoto, was held in the upper rooms of the Kyoto library. This was a most interesting exhibition of oils and water colors very uniquely arranged—what one might term 'from the cradle to the grave.' The first room was given over to the drawing of children and illustrations for children's books, and so the work went on from room to room, increasing in age and importance until the last room, which was an inside room, receiving light only from the larger room, of which it was an annex. Here were anatomical studies, death masks, graveyards, etc.—and to add to the realistic and artistic effect a few candles threw their pale light aslant some of the pictures, and the burning of incense gave the finishing touch.

"The foreign colony is very small. Miss Nicholson of San Jose is studying Japanese art; Miss Chambers of Vancouver is painting Japanese children; I myself am studying with Seiho, who is considered the greatest painter of Japan, and who is now engaged on decorating the great Hongwanji Temple ceiling."

ART NOTES.

Hanson Puthuff, the landscape painter, has moved to picturesque Eagle Rock Valley, where he has built a handsome new studio.

Albert Clinton Conner has just built with his own hands a studio to his liking at Manhattan Beach, where he has been living for some years.

Joseph Greenbaum is now visiting old friends in San Francisco. He will be back some time during the week.

William Wendt has been spending the cold weather in sketching in the neighborhood of San Juan Capistrano.

Paintings from the brilliant brush of Henry L. Breuer are now on exhibition at the Valley Hunt Club in Pasadena.

Portraits by Estner Hunt, who has been studying in the East for some years, will be shown at Kanst's a week from tomorrow.

NEW BOOKS REVIEWED.

THE LATE PUBLICATIONS.

MANY of the fall books, delayed for numerous reasons—sick authors, lazy proofreaders, slow pressmen, scoundrelly packers—have recently reached us. Too late for the holiday book number, they are here brought to the attention of readers.

During the late fall many books do not reach the Pacific Coast before after Christmas or at the beginning of the new year. Though announced by the publishers, they are delayed in transit—freight often taking three weeks or longer to travel from New York and Boston to Los Angeles. Book lovers in the West wonder consequently why they are unable to secure books they have seen advertised in the eastern papers and magazines. The answer is a simple one, i.e., the difference in time in transportation. The best and sometimes the most important of the new books are thus delayed.

An unusually large number of such books have failed to reach the western stalls this last season. In the following list will be found those books with a brief description of each.

It has not been my sole object to list just such books as were late, but also to include those publications which have not been called to the attention of The Times' readers. No newspaper is able to include in its literary department a complete resume of the new books, and especially during the holiday season when thousands of books are issued. But here are indicated such of the more important fall books as have been received too late for review or for some other equally valid reason have not been previously noted.

FICTION.

"The Reef." By Edith Wharton. Describes social life in the fashionable world of France, and shows how a marriage is wrecked upon the reef of temperamental conflicts.

"The Valiants of Virginia." By Hallie Erminie Rives. Describes the career of John Valiant, once accustomed to the glare and luxury of New York nights, and later taking charge of a deserted manor in Virginia.

"Back Home." By Irvin S. Cobb. Being the narrative of Judge Priest, benignant despot of a southern community, and his people.

"The Best of a Bad Job." By Norman Duncan. A Newfoundland skipper loses his child and his eyesight, and continues heroically to make "the best of a bad job."

LITERARY GOSSIP.

A sad day seems to be dawning for the American drama and stage. The quality of the plays winning public approval has been steadily improving. The play-reading habit, formerly almost wholly missing, has brought with it a desire for acquaintance with the best dramatic production of other countries. Much has been done in a few years to meet this desire, but the greater part of the necessary work remains still undone. The Modern Drama aims at accomplishing it in a systematic way and under circumstances promising equal satisfaction to the scholar and the layman. Much that is desirable, or even great, may, for various reasons, not be left out of the series, but nothing will be included that is not worthy of intelligent attention. While chiefly made up of translations, the series will find a place for English and American plays of a high order. It will deal primarily with the contemporary drama, but may also, for the sake of the historical background, include certain plays from earlier periods. The editor of the series, who is well known both through his studies in modern literature and through his English version of August Stringberg's plays, will contribute translations from the Scandinavian languages and German. From those choices will be enacted—familiarity with the language of the original, and ability to grasp the English language, and ability to grasp not only the letter, but the spirit of the work to be translated. Translations from the Russian will be made by Thomas Seltzer; from the French by Freeman Tilden; from the Italian by Allan and Edith Updegraf. Two or more volumes will be published during the coming spring. Each volume will contain three plays by the same author, together with introduction and bibliography. Further announcements concerning the series will be made as the plans for it mature.

According to Frank Cousins, a collection of whose famous photographs have been published by Doubleday, Page & Co. in "Fifty Famous Folk" under the title of "Fifty Famous Doorways" as the first of a series to be known as "Colonial Architecture," all the doorways, which appear in his volume can be found within a square mile of Salem's historic City Hall. "And," adds Mr. Cousins with pride (for to him Salem's colonial architecture is a study of love as well as a profession,) "there could not be found in all the United States any other square mile containing fifty doorways, or any other units of colonial architecture, as good.

"Moreover, in the shadow of those fifty doorways, right in the little square mile of historic ground, more men of State and national repute were born than in the entire length of Broadway and Fifth avenue, New York, together. Just to name a few, there was Timothy Pickering, friend of Washington, and from time to time holder of each of the various offices in Washington's Cabinet; United States Senator George Cabot; Bowditch, the mathematician; Prescott, the historian; Nathaniel Hawthorne; W. W. Story, the sculptor, and a host of others. Of course, there was our beloved Samuel McIntire, who started as a carpenter and wood carver, and developed into one of the foremost designers of Salem houses during the Colonial period of whom we have any records. Really, it is to McIntire that we owe most of the fine old Salem houses."

Since the New York Times Book Review interviewed Prof. A. F. Wilson, instructor in magazine writing and editing at New York University, on the respective merits of the old and new in literature, there has been a great buzzing among critics and others who feel competent to judge of the matter. In a careful digest of the interview, and the subsequent controversy, the current issue of the Bookman takes the position that perhaps Prof. Wilson is not so violently opposed in his favoring modern literature as might be thought. It points out that as a matter of fact, the department of which Prof. Wilson is head really was suggester by another professor more than a year ago.

One of Prof. Wilson's statements which attracted a great deal of attention was that, "A Municipal Report" by O. Henry, which appears in the volume "Strictly Business," is the finest short story ever produced in America. Prof. Wilson maintained his contention in several strong letters to the press.

In opening his latest volume, "The Book of Woodcraft and Indian Lore," Ernest Thompson Seton gives a startling example of the need to teach some of the boys of this modern age how to play outdoors:

"This is a time when the whole nation is turning toward the Outdoor Life, seeking in it the physical regeneration so needful in this age of vicarious athletics and spectator sports. Even our diseases are in great part due to the fact that we live half our lives in our houses. We can get back to the physician's office in the great incentive to outdoor life. Nature Study is the latest of sport.

"I should like to lead this vast army into the way of living outdoors for a month each year, reviving in this way a custom that as far back as the Druids was deemed essential to the manhood of the race.

"Not long ago a benevolent millionaire was impressed with this idea. He owned a steamer and took some hundreds of boys up to the Catskills for the summer. They were duly landed in the woods. They were told to go in now and have a glorious time. They were told to go in now and have a glorious time. They were told to go in now and have a glorious time

SPECIAL NOTICES—

MY NEW ELECTRICAL LABORATORY for the cosmetic treatment of the skin and hair is now completely installed and at the service of the public. It is undoubtedly the most complete laboratory of its kind on the Pacific Coast and is equipped with the latest and most scientific apparatus, regardless of expense. I restore gray and faded hair to natural color and original vigor by electricity alone. This is done without discomfort or shock of any kind. I also stop falling of the hair, remove dandruff and remedy the excessive oily condition, so detrimental to the beauty of the hair. Superfluous hair removed painlessly, without scarring, never to return. I also remove birthmarks, moles, warts, scars, pimples, blackheads, enlarged pores, etc., by the latest electrical procedure. Sanford Bennet, the great physical culturist, proclaims my new electrical face mask the greatest aid to beauty in the world. It will rejuvenate the skin wonderfully in a remarkably short time. Consultation and demonstration free. G. C. LAMMERS, Ph. D., German Dermatologist, 202 South Spring street, suite 201-202. Phone F5658.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
STUDIO PARLORS, 539½ S. BROADWAY.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 23 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets on all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schuman-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, M. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED work must not be classed with other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE gives expert PALM readings with each astrological reading.

DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE solicited. Daily and evenings; Sunday, 10 to 5.

TO LET—IN CLASSIFYING THIS HOME, IT is only just to list it as above. A broker terms it a cottage flat, but its unique conveniences and elaborate construction place it in a class far beyond the usual down-to-date detached house. It comprises the upper floor of a large colonial type building, nearly new, equipped with one of the most complete hot water heating plants in the city, each room receiving an abundance of this most desirable heat, through a separate radiator; large sunny rooms and a wide central corridor, elaborate furniture and decorations, fixtures, rugs and hangings, bathroom, balcony and screen porch, laundry tubs, back stairway, and complete built-in effects, fireplaces, lawn and trees cared for; telephone, water and heat included. Special rates to small family of adults if taken for the season. Pico Heights car. Key at 1209 WESTLAKE AVE.

FACT AND COMMENT.

One effect of the frost nip of the early week, the Fact and Comment man is assured by reliable authorities on horticulture, will be that increased attention will be paid from now on in Southern California to deciduous fruit growing and to diversified and intensive agriculture. The citrus men are still in the ring with both feet and with high courage and determination, but the Southland itself is going to cease to be one-crop section. The "citrus belt" in the future will be the peach belt, the apricot belt, the olive belt, the grape belt and the alfalfa belt as well. The every farmer is going to have his finger and all that science, applied to the soil, can teach is to be brought to the aid of a farming and horticultural empire which should in plain reason boasts a versatility and prodigality of production unapproached by any other similar area in the world. Southern California has carried all its eggs in one basket long enough.

The culture of those varieties of fruit trees which shed their leaves in the winter has almost passed the experimental stage in this section. The deciduous fruit men have learned much in the past decade and have stored their knowledge away for present and future reference. They have mastered the arts of planting, their crops to a degree which denotes the practical basis upon which their industry has been placed.

Some of the finest of the walnut, peach, apricot and fig groves that have been developed in the vicinity of Los Angeles have been and are now being destroyed to make way for urban expansion. The market for any product grows with the population demanding it, yet one deciduous and nut grove after another has been sacrificed by the residence subdividionists of this and other Southland cities. Instead of consuming the products of the soil, the swelling population has actually been killing the arboreal geese that have been laying the golden eggs. It is declared by students of the situation to be a fact that the extension of the deciduous orchard areas in the last five years has almost been offset from year to year by the activities of the home builders. The producer has, therefore, been supplying a host of consumers which has been growing out of all proportion to his activities.

Southern California with its unlimited variety of hill and valley land, offers a truly marvelous range of opportunities for success in the raising of deciduous fruits. In mountain valleys untouched as yet by the plow the apple and cherry will prosper and yield in rich abundance even as they are now thriving in other sections identically situated as to climate, topography and soil. Peaches as luscious and apricots as palatable as any ever tasted by men grow in this section on lands a little less exposed to low temperature. Tens of thousands of acres of lands just as adaptable to these fruits lie undeveloped throughout Southern California.

Worth Thinking About.

"I am prompted to write," says a correspondent, "to ask your assistance, through the Fact and Comment columns, to combat an evil which threatens the welfare of our beautiful city. The Southern Pacific coast is rightfully compared with the Riviera of Southern France. The greatest asset of the Riviera is its climate. The Frenchman, smart, business man that he is, has recognized this fact as a great money maker and has done everything to preserve, improve and foster the attractions of his climate. Nice, Cannes and Mentone, the principal towns of the Riviera, are beautiful garden spots which draw every winter thousands from all parts of the world.

"The principal business street of Nice, the Avenue de la Gare, has a row of old sycamore trees overshadowing its entire length. Around the base of these trees are grass plots and flowers. The wide sidewalks in front of the stores have been made attractive by bay trees and flower boxes. The hotels and apartment houses are all set back from the street so as to permit of the laying out of little front gardens with flowers, palms, orange trees and roses. Here is everything that the visitor does not have at home, everything that the traveler to the Riviera visits that spot in Europe for. Multitudes of wealthy people from all parts of the world succumb annually to this charm.

"Los Angeles is superior to the Riviera inasmuch as it has a beautiful climate all the year around. What are we doing to preserve and enhance the products and attractions of this climate? The pleasant homes with their beautiful gardens, their palm trees, roses and tree-shaded parkings are ruthlessly destroyed and in their places are erected cheap, ugly apartment houses, as close to the sidewalks as the sidewalks will permit. Streets which are now wide and pleasant will soon become like the narrow canyons of the Eastern cities. The unscrupulous greed of the uneducated, which has destroyed the palisades of the Hudson and the beauties of Niagara is threatening to destroy the beauty and fame of Los Angeles."

BUYS VERMONT CORNERS.

Syndicate Acquires Valuable Sites Between Eighth and Tenth—Will Improve Two of the Lots.

A local syndicate, represented by W. B. Merwin & Co., has purchased the following unimproved corners on Vermont avenue between Eighth and Tenth streets: Southwest corner Eighth and Vermont, 130 feet on Vermont by 50 feet, $8500; northeast corner Eighth and Vermont, 140 feet on Vermont by 100 feet, $10,000; southeast corner Leeward avenue and Vermont avenue, 172 feet on Vermont by 75 feet, $7500; northeast corner Vermont avenue and Tenth street, 70x100 feet, $9000. It is understood that two of these properties, located at transfer points, will be improved with two-story buildings, containing stores below and rooms above.

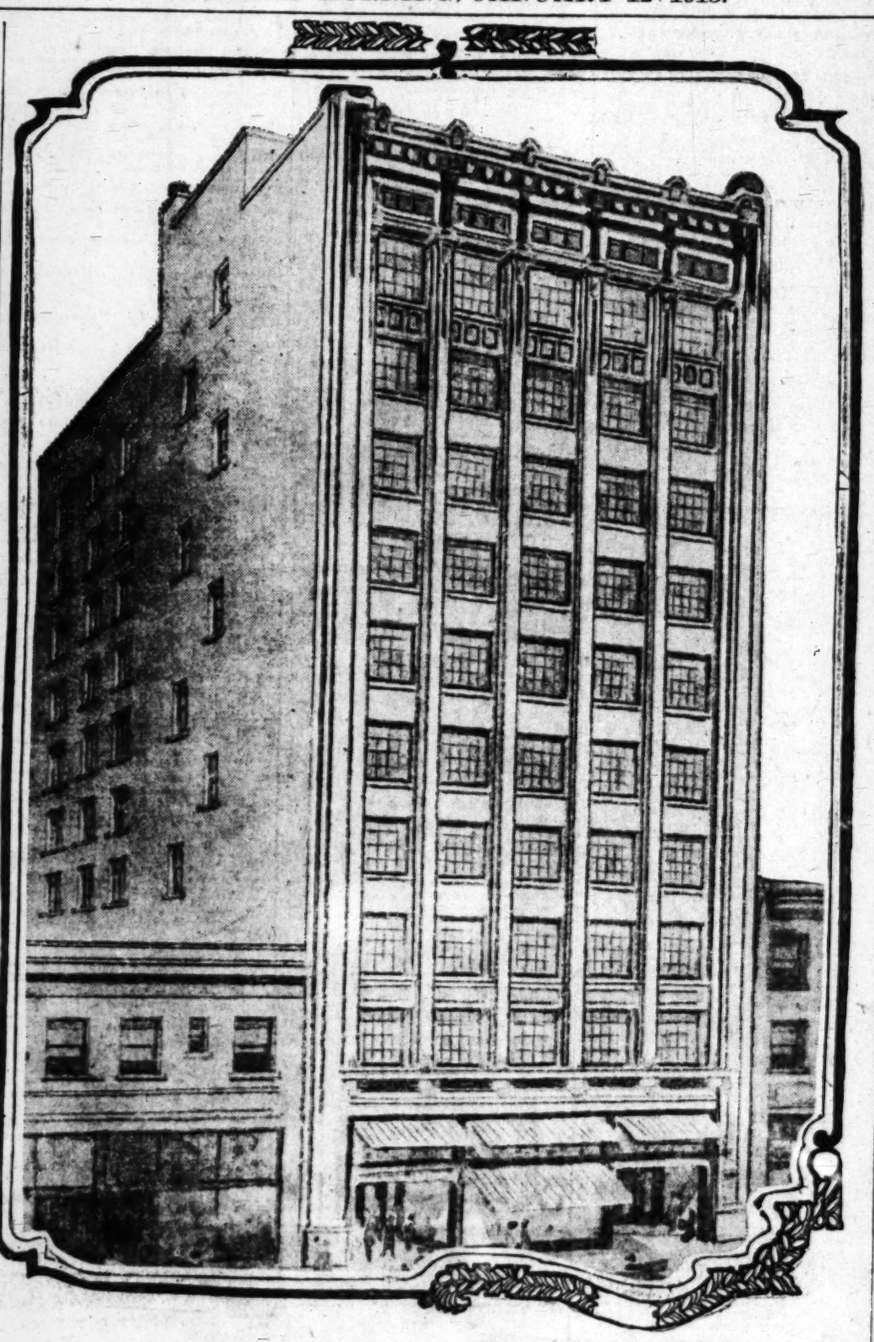
Through the agency of W. B. Merwin & Co., Mrs. E. M. Bunner has leased from a local syndicate an eighty-one-room apartment-house now nearing completion at the northwest corner of Fifth and Boylston streets. The lease is for a period of ten years and involves a total rental consideration of $75,000. It is of brick construction and three stories in height. The entrance is in marble. The structure is 60x135 feet in size. It will be opened for occupancy on February 1.

YEAR OPENS BUSILY.

From January 1 to January 10, inclusively, the Chief Inspector of Buildings, issued 483 permits for new buildings to be erected in this city. The total cost of these improvements will be $781,550. The figures for the corresponding period of last year were 337 permits and $801,515 valuation. To date, for the month, 225 permits have been granted for new homes, the aggregate cost of which will be $436,300. No previous year has opened so busily in construction circles.

IMPORTANT LEASES.

Dan Miller reports the following important leases: To Sun Drug Company, for term of fifty years, 40x60 feet, being storeroom in Lankershim Hotel building at Seventh and Broadway, total rental consideration, $450,000; to Sun Drug Company, for ten years from March 1, 1913, 40x60 feet in San Fernando building, corner Fourth and Main, total rental, $167,000; to Colgate Drug Company, for ten years, 25x60 feet in Wilcox building, southeast corner Second and Spring, total rental, $90,000.



Fireproof Loft Building for Hill Near Second.

Carter to M. Campbell, eight-room bungalow, No. 833 St. Andrews place, $7500, and Howard J. Potter to E. A. Dickson, 60x880 feet, east side Cimarron, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, $1700.

GROVE BRINGS FORTUNE.

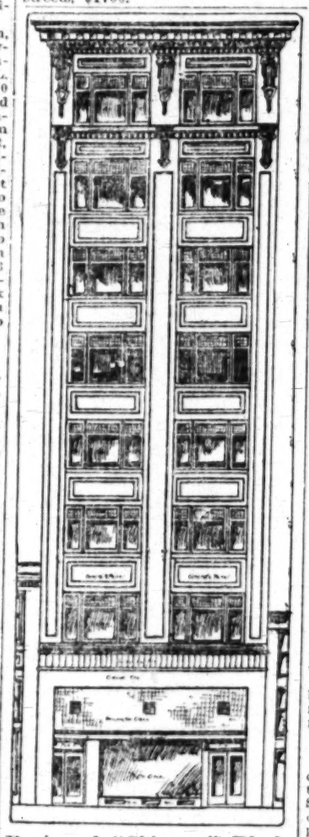
Lindsay Property Brings Five Thousand Dollars More than Was Offered a Few Weeks Ago.

LINDSAY, Jan. 11.—Orange growers of this district have added materially to the price at which groves are to be offered for sale, the sale being reported today of the F. L. Wingard orchard east of this city, to John M. Wright of New York. Wright paid $40,000. A few days before the recent unusually cold weather Wright offered $35,000 for the place. The offer was being seriously considered. It being established that the orchards of this district did not suffer from the cold, Wingard priced his property at $40,000. Wright accepted the figure and the deal was closed.

The property sold includes eight acres of five-year-old Valencias, nine acres of five-year-old navels; six acres of four-year-old navels; eleven acres of four-year-old olives; three acres of young olive stock, and three acres of bare land. The place is well improved.

UNUSUAL FLOW.

Claussen Brothers, Los Angeles agents for the Redlands and Yucaipa Land Company, report that drillers engaged in sinking wells in the company's South Bend district, have encountered an unusually large flow in one bore. The well, it is stated, will be the biggest in the Yucaipa section. The drill is now down 200 feet.



Projected "Chimney" Block.

Narrow loft building for site on Spring south of Eighth.

PLANS "CHIMNEY" BLOCK.

Owner of Narrow Lot on Spring Below Eighth to Erect Eight-Story Building on Site.

The growing realization of the great value of inside holdings in the downtown district is strikingly illustrated in the plan of Alexander Meyer to erect an eight-story reinforced concrete loft building with the narrow frontage of thirty-five feet on a lot extending from Spring to Main, south of Eighth, and immediately adjoining the site of the fourteen-story building that is to be started by the Home Builders in April. The proposed "Chimney" block was recently leased to a local business man for fifteen years, at a total rental consideration of $250,000, Metcalf and Ryan acting as agent in the transaction. The deal was reported exclusively in The Times.

Plans for the building, which will have a depth of about seventy feet, are now being prepared by the Barber-Bradley Construction Company, which also has a contract to build it. Actual construction, it is expected, will be begun early next fall. The building will be absolutely fireproof in type and will be modernly equipped throughout. The site is at present occupied by an old two-story brick building which will soon be razed to make way for the larger improvement.

BUYS SHORT LINE TRACT.

William M. Humphreys has purchased from Dr. Charles W. Bryson a tract of forty-five acres on the Venice Short Line, adjoining the city limits of Venice. The place is well improved, being set to alfalfa and fruit trees. The price paid is given at approximately $2000 per acre. Margaret D. Fraser represented both buyer and seller in the transaction.

North End Improvement.

BIG BLOCK FOR HILL STREET.

Structure to Be Ten Stories in Height.

Will Occupy Site Between Second and Third.

To Be Devoted to Store and Loft Purposes.

One of the significant signs of the metropolitan advance of Los Angeles is revealed in the constantly-increasing demand for modern, fireproof loft buildings in the downtown business area. The concentration of commercial and manufacturing interests in the past year has been most noticeable, owing to the advent into the local field of hundreds of new concerns from all portions of the country. With all these businesses requiring quarters at the center of business activities, there has arisen such a demand for lofts that "inside" sites, hitherto neglected by the builders, are slowly but surely coming into their own as investment and income possibilities. It is a condition which will result before many years in the general improvement of all available business sites and in a truly imposing downtown skyline.

The latest important loft building project is represented in the plan of the Hill Street Lot Company to erect a ten-story reinforced concrete structure of this character on the west side of Hill street about half way between Second and Third streets. The company back of the enterprise is a close corporation and is composed of the following directors: D. T. Davenport, C. H. Minton, A. W. Ellington, Frank Heron and Eugene Overton. The company was incorporated two years ago, although those composing it have owned the Hill-street lot since 1907.

The site of the proposed building is 58x185 feet in size and extends from Hill street to Clay street. It is situated sixty feet to the north of the Y.W.C.A. building.

Plans for the contemplated improvement are being drawn by John C. Austin and W. C. Pennell, associated architects. The same firm prepared plans for the thirteen-story loft structure which is now being erected by the Standard Fireproof Building Company on the north side of Seventh street, just east of Grand avenue, and for the ten-story Knickerbocker Club building, seven floors of which are to be utilized for loft purposes, and construction on which will soon be begun.

The Hill-street structure will be ten stories high above a full basement and will be absolutely fireproof. The front will be handsomely ornamented with colored tile insets and the flanking piers will be crowned with miniature copper domes. The cornice will be of dark copper. The windows will be of the Fenestra sash type.

Two high-speed passenger elevators, a freight elevator and a sidewalk lift will be installed in the building, which will be modernly equipped throughout. The lofts will be so arranged that they may at the option of tenants be subdivided into spaces of any desired size. The first story will contain two storerooms and the lobby, the latter being finished in marble and tile. Freight will be handled from the Clay-street front.

The improvement will represent an investment of approximately $150,000. Leases covering various floors of the building are now being negotiated.

Business Leases.

E. W. Cason & Co., brokers, report the following business leases: H. D. Eberle, space in the Gates Hotel, Sixth and Figueroa, $7000; E. Flanagan, No. 412 West Eighth street, store room, three years; B. B. Macfarland, No. 324 West Seventh street; two years; City Dye Works, No. 700 South Broadway, one year; C. Fegelman, No. 306 West Seventh street, one year; Charles Horwitz, No. 308 West Seventh street, one year; Keily Roth, No. 310 West Seventh street, one year; John Volpi, No. 312 West Seventh street, one year; Rosenberg & Calkins, No. 314 West Seventh street, one year; Takahashi Bros., No. 703 South Broadway, one year; R. A. Smith, No. 703½ South Broadway, one year; W. Swetland, No. 705 South Broadway, one year; A. L. Daves, No. 707-9 South Broadway, one year; A. A. Williams, No. 711 South Broadway, one year; A. M. Petrie, No. 713 South Broadway, one year; Ben Simons, No. 715 South Broadway, one year; H. C. Veir, No. 717 South Broadway, one year; R. A. Smith, eighty-room lodging-house at Seventh and Broadway.

What it Means to Own a Home at West Adams Park

By Robert Marsh

You have an indestructible vista of 150 miles of rugged mountain range.

You will be located in the very trend of the most intensive growth from Los Angeles to Venice.

Just a few steps from where $15,000,000.00 will be expended in residential development work.

Close to a neighborhood of homes costing up to $50,000.

Substantially improved property (all public utilities) for LESS money than you would actually have to pay for adjoining unimproved acreage.

Lots for as little as $850—is it any wonder that nearly $400,000 worth of lots have been sold within the past five months.

With adjoining acreage prices way in advance of the prices of our improved lots, isn't it reasonable to suppose that the latter will easily sell for double and perhaps treble what we are asking for them today—in not more than 2 to 5 years from now?

West Adams Park is quickly accessible to the city and to the best beaches. Santa Monica air line and a fine automobile boulevard are quick direct routes to the ocean.

Get in touch with the best residential bargains that Los Angeles affords today.

A GREAT BARGAIN.
MAGNIFICENT WILSHIRE DISTRICT
12-ROOM HOME.
$27,500— $27,500— $27,500—

Without doubt for the price, there is not another residence in Los Angeles to equal this one, unless a man is very particular about construction. House is white plaster and genuine tile roof, located on a delightful corner (note size) 156x156. Grounds will be laid out in beautiful landscape effect. The downstairs is magnificently finished in hardwoods, Peruvian and tobacco mahogany and quarter-sawed oak, paneled high. Maid's quarters with bath on first floor. The upstairs is very dainty, complete and airy, there being six rooms besides charming dressing-rooms, two complete tiled baths, with built-in shower, massive tubs and lavatories. Two-story garage, accommodating two cars, matches house, and has complete quarters for man. The pergola, cement porches, French doors, etc., give a most complete finish to an elegant home, which would ordinarily be priced at $35,000, but for good reasons the low price of $27,500 is made.

ELEGANT 11-ROOM HOUSE.
WILSHIRE DISTRICT.
$20,000— $20,000— $20,000—

This beautiful home is less than a year old, not far out and only one block from Wilshire boulevard. A fine large corner lot 110 feet frontage, lots of room and privacy, no crowding. Both exterior and interior of house is very charming, finest of mahogany and oak decorations and fixtures very beautiful. Breakfast-room is most delightful. Maid's room and bathroom downstairs, upstairs there are four charming sleeping rooms or sleeping porches and charming sleeping rooms, handsomely decorated, two fine sun rooms or sleeping porches, two elegant tiled bathrooms, bevel plate glass mirror in every bedroom. Lots of porch room beyond house. Furnace, water heater, garage. Owner leaving city and we have just been instructed to sell soon as possible.

BIG WILSHIRE SACRIFICE.
$2000 UNDER VALUE.
$10,000— $10,000— $10,000—

A beautiful 9-room house on a high sightly 82x185-ft. corner, only one block from Wilshire boulevard. The finish is oak, the floors also are oak throughout. Handsome fixtures and decorations. House was built by present owner for his home. Lot is worth $5000, the improvements would run about $7000. Furnace and water heater installed. Lawn and shrubbery front and rear. Garage and drive. This is one of those rare bargains that we come across but once in a long while. Good reasons for selling. Don't delay.

HANDSOME 8-ROOM
GRAMERCY PLACE.
$7500— $7500—

A beauty, 8-room house, just finished, near car line, east front lot, 50x150. There are hardwood floors throughout, charming breakfast-room; handsomely decorated and finished throughout the upstairs, three bedrooms and inclosed sleeping porch are very delightful; in fact the entire house has that elegance and home feeling that is so desirable and yet so seldom found, especially at such a low price. Furnace heat, water heater, garage and cement drive, and remember, brand new, never lived in and well built by day's work. Attractive terms if desired.

WILTON PLACE, 9 ROOMS
AT A BARGAIN.
$5500— $5500— $5500—

A two-story 9-room house built by the owner for his home. The location and surroundings are first-class, being high with a fine view. As you step into the house there is that homelike feeling so desirable. Finish throughout is white enamel, a special feature is the large closets or dressing-rooms. Furnace heat to all the rooms. The owner is leaving the city, hence the low price of $5500. We estimate the value of this property to be $6500.

A BUNGALOW BEAUTIFUL AND A BARGAIN.

Worth more, attractive street, southwest, modern in every detail; 4 rooms, hardwood floors, built-in features, stone front and side porch, owner a non-resident.

QUALITY IN THIS.

Handsome 7-room bungalow in West Adams section; elegant finish throughout, oak floors, built-in features, cellar, furnace, good lot, a desirable buy.

JUST REDUCED IN PRICE

$6200.

A great opportunity in this; owner must sell; 7-room house, just built, beautiful residence section, perfectly constructed, unusual finish, hardwood floors, cellar, furnace, instantaneous heater, selected hardware, cast front, garage.

THE BIGGEST OPPORTUNITY IN WILSHIRE.

This is the only house in the Wilshire district that can be bought on a payment as low as $300, and the balance payable monthly like rent. And in addition there is no better built house nor fuller value for the price in Los Angeles. It is a real sacrifice and yet it has so many good features that any one alone should sell it irrespective of price. The house occupies one of the very highest points in the Wilshire district with a magnificent view of the mountains; fine corner with three street frontages; 2-story chalet type house, 8 rooms, large sleeping porch, charming bath, surrounded by beautiful homes, lot (hard to duplicate) is worth $3800, house could not be reproduced for $4500; built for owner's home by days' labor; on account of having to leave city owner is forced to sell at loss of at least $1500, and on the easy terms noted above, to bring about a quick sale; mortgage of $4000 may remain; to one looking for a good home up to $10,000 can afford to neglect seeing this.

JUST REDUCED $3000.

Owner leaving city, must sacrifice his handsome home of 9 rooms in fine location, in choice street and select neighborhood, at less than cost; house was not built to sell; everything of the best; new this year; a remarkable opportunity, as this is of a character seldom to be found for sale; furnace, large yard. Let us show this to you.

A HOME THAT PAYS ITS WAY.

You'd never know, to see this beautiful corner bungalow, that it has two apartments. One apartment rents for $25 per month. The other could rent for $50. You can rent one apartment and live in the other. Apartments entire independent of each other. The building is practically new and in absolutely perfect condition, remarkably well built, cleverly planned and finished to the utmost degree; 11 rooms; 2 fine baths; front and side porches, 2 screen porches, hardwood floors, beamed ceilings, sliding doors, closets in plenty, 2 fireplaces, built-in features, including buffet and disappearing beds, garage for 2 machines; lot 60x150 to wide alley; in a fine location, southwest—two choice streets.

AN IDEAL SUBURBAN HOME.

As beautiful and as attractive a suburban home as has ever been offered at the price in Southern California; large house with every convenience, charmingly set in grounds, 5¾ acres in extent; magnificent view, unsurpassed in its range, variety and beauty; trees, fruits and flowers in greatest profusion. See this. It is one of the show places of the southwest.

FOR SALE—

FIVE-ROOM BUNGALOW.

If you want a beautiful 5-room bungalow in the best location in the southwest, see me. It has oak floors and all kinds of built-in features, pretty inglenook, attractive mantel, good lighting fixtures, lawn, fences, etc., and all for the price of $3750.

Terms, $150 cash; balance in small monthly payments.

SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW.

Here's another one, and it's an awfully good buy. The price is only $2950.

$200 cash will handle it. Balance can be arranged in easy monthly payments.

When you consider this house has oak floors, panel walls, built-in buffet, seats, hookcases, etc., fine plumbing, imported wall paper, lawn, fences, sidewalks, and then you will know it's a good bargain. It's one of the best buys that I know of in the Southwest.

I have another 6-room bungalow on a corner lot. Remember, it's a big 50-foot corner. Remember, it's a big 6-room house, and then remember, too, it has oak floors and many built-in features; fine surroundings, on an 80-foot street. The price is only $3650.

Most any terms can be arranged.

Another thing that I want you to remember is: That my office has a reputation for good homes at snap prices. I only handle bargains and while my listing may not be large, yet, what houses I have for sale are the very best, on attractive terms and at snap figures.

FOR SALE— Houses.

HOW CAN THEY DO IT?

The above is often heard when we build homes and apartments so much cheaper than other building companies, and at the same time furnish money at 6 and 7 per cent. in payment of buildings erected by us. Well, it is just this way, we buy at wholesale and pay our bills with a discount. We do our own buying and our own building. Every rent payer can own a home on our easy payment plan. We build at first cost and share the profit with our customers.

BUILDING PLANS MADE TO ORDER.

When doing business with us you do not have to build from stock plans. We make plans and specifications free to our customers. What kind of a home do you want? Your credit is good with us. Money to build anywhere on your lot. You cannot afford to let your lot its idle. Let the other fellow pay for your home.

We build bungalows, cottages and apartments. Every man can do business on our easy payment plan.

HOLLYWOOD TERRACE
HOLLYWOOD TERRACE

PRICES ADVANCE
JANUARY 15.

Due to the numerous sales of Home Sites and the early completion of the extensive improvements now under way, we announce an advance in the prices of all lots in Beautiful

HOLLYWOOD TERRACE
"THE MAGNIFICENT SUBDIVISION OF ARISTOCRATIC WEST HOLLYWOOD."

This advance takes effect on January 15—Until then present low prices will prevail, but available lots at $800 to $1250

are being snapped up fast.

GO OUT TODAY.

Go out today—or tomorrow—or Tuesday and select a lot with the PROFIT TAG tacked on. No more beautiful spot in Los Angeles for a home—and certainly no greater opportunity for profitable investment than here. This is the LAST—THE VERY LAST—of the LOW PRICED, HIGH CLASS property left in Hollywood. Values are certain to multiply in HOLLYWOOD TERRACE. No guesswork—no speculation—a CERTAINTY.

AGENTS ON THE TRACT TODAY.

Take any Hollywood car (Laurel Canyon or Gardner Junction.) Get off at Sunset Blvd. and Gardner st. 5-CENT CAR FARE. Our tract office is right there. Or call at our offices any week day for tract maps, prices, terms and all information.

BUSINESS AND RESIDENCE LOTS.

OWENSMOUTH.

When before has such wonderful progress followed the opening of a new town?

Business blocks have sprung up as if by magic; shrewd investors are buying the splendid business and residential lots. You cannot afford to stand idly by and dream. When a town grows like this profits are quick.

You can secure 1, 2 and 5½-acre tracts, right in the town, at acreage prices.

DO NOT ALLOW THIS TO BE ANOTHER LOST OPPORTUNITY OF THE PAST. OWENSMOUTH IS REAL—THE SHIPPING METROPOLIS OF THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY.

Prices are bound to jump. Owensmouth is the terminus of the great half-million-dollar boulevard and terminus of the new electric road.

Do not delay. Act now. Choice locations $200 and $500 and up—acreage on easy terms. Call, phone or write. Free auto trips daily.

BUSINESS PROPERTY.
AM 60-FT. COR. LOT ON NORMANDIE AVE.
PRICE $1200.

What do you think of that? It's not exactly ripe for stores at the present time, but in 2 years from now it will be one of the best locations in the Southwest for a good grocery, drug store or something of that kind. When property reaches this stage, it's worth at least 3% per front foot, and I predict in 2 years this property will be worth between $6000 and $8000. You can buy it today for $1200.

Terms: $350 cash, balance 6, 12, 18, 24 and 30 months. It's a bargain and a good buy.

OWNER NEEDS MONEY.
IT'S THE BEST BUY ON VERMONT AVE.

Business property.
It has a future increase.
I have for sale, 50 feet on Vermont avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of 57th and Hoover. This property is worth $2500, but I can sell it for and arrange terms of $300 cash, balance to suit.

Look up and down Vermont avenue and you will find it's way under anything else that is offered.

Take other business streets like Pico and Washington and see the increase, and figure out what this particular lot will be worth in 5 years. I positively claim that it is the best bargain that has been offered. It's a real good buy and something, in my opinion, that will be worth $100 per front foot within 4 years' time. It can be bought now for $45 per front foot.

It's one of those snaps that sell quickly. For further information, see

BEST LOT BUY IN
ONEONTA PARK DISTRICT.

Here's a rare opportunity for some one looking for a snap. Don't take my word for it that this lot is $250 under value; investigate yourself. If you want a beautiful building site, or a sure profit investment, look this up. It's a case of needing the money. 80x150, east front, level as a table; fine homes all around it; splendid locality, street work all done, gas, electricity, fine view mountains and valley, block and a half from 2 car lines and 20 minutes out; high ground (nearly 700 feet) which means health and comfort. Locality building up wonderfully. You can't buy the adjoining lots for less than $1500. For few days only I offer this at $1150; $150 down, balance monthly. I defy you to beat it anywhere in the entire Oneonta Park district. Better hurry.

OWENSMOUTH.

When below has such wonderful progress followed the opening of a new town?

Business blocks have sprung up as if by magic; thrifty families are buying the splendid business and residential lots. You cannot afford to stand idly by and dream. When a town grows like this profits are quick.

Two cars reserve 1, 2 and 5½-acre tracts, right in the town, at acreage prices.

DO NOT ALLOW THIS TO BE ANOTHER LOST OPPORTUNITY OF THE PAST. OWENSMOUTH IS REAL—THE RISING METROPOLIS OF THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY.

Prices are bound to jump. Owensmouth is the keystone of the great half-million-dollar land and farmlands of the new electric road.

Do not delay. Act now. Choice locations and fine soil for 20—acreage on easy terms. Call, phone or write. Free auto trips daily.

BUSINESS PROPERTY.

AN 80-FT. COR. LOT ON NORMANDIE AVE. PRICE $1200.

What do you think of that? It's not exactly ripe for stores at the present time, but within 2 years from now it will be one of the best locations in the Southwest for a good grocery, drug store or something of that kind. When property reaches this stage, it's worth at least $15 per front foot, and I predict in 2 years this property will be worth between $1600 and $1800. You can buy it today for $1200.

OWNER NEEDS MONEY.
IT'S THE BEST BUY ON VERMONT AVE.

Business property.
It has a future increase.
I have for sale, 50 feet on Vermont avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of 57th and Hoover. This property is worth $2500, but I can sell it for $1750.
and arrange terms of $300 cash, balance to suit.
Look up and down Vermont avenue and you will find it's way under anything else that is offered.
Take other business streets like Pico and Washington and see the increase, and figure out what this particular lot will be worth in 5 years. I positively claim that it is the best bargain that has been offered. It's a real good buy and something, in my opinion, that will be worth $100 per front foot within 4 years' time. It can be bought now for $45 per front foot.
It's one of those snaps that sell quickly. For further information, see

BUY A CHARMING HOMESITE AND YOU CAN ALWAYS LIVE RIGHT.

Aside from the fact that Arlington Square adjoins the famous Baldwin estate and must naturally grow in value faster than some other portions of the southwest, it is the most ideally perfect subdivision at the price or near it.

At 39th street. Fronting Arlington and on Santa Barbara ave. Highly improved. Level. High. Sightly. Parkings studded with acacias and palms. Parkings studded with four car lines.

Lots right now $725 and up.
$25 down, $10 a month.
Prices will be advanced next month.
The right time to buy is when you can get a price like this on lots like these.
Do you wish to see them? Come in. We'll take you out. Or take "Georgia" car on Third or Hill, or "Hawthorne" car on Spring st. and ask for Mr. Clay at the Arlington Square office.

BEST LOT BUY IN
ONEONTA PARK DISTRICT.

Here's a rare opportunity for some one looking for a snap. Don't take my word for it that this lot is $250 under value; investigate yourself. If you want a beautiful building site, or a sure profit investment, look this up. It's a case of needing the money. 50x180, east front, level as a table; fine homes all around it; splendid locality, street work all done, gas, electricity, fine view mountains and valley, block and a half from 3 car lines and 20 minutes out; high ground (nearly 700 feet) which means health and comfort. Locality building up wonderfully. You can't buy the adjoining lots for less than $1000. For few days only I offer this at $1250; $250 down, balance monthly. I defy you to beat it anywhere in the entire Oneonta Park district. Better hurry.

nswer: Worth looking into.

great many real estate investors can see handwriting on the wall, but it is tten in a strange language, and they
't read it. Didn't this same thing hap-on Broadway ten years ago? Is it a matter of fact happening on S. l st. today? Is there any other retail ot in the city of Los Angeles which is position to compete with Broadway ext that at? There is not, and never will be. re is a stage in the development of y street when it reaches the apex of growth. Such is not the case with Hill
. When Hill st. reaches the apex of its elopment it will be a retail street, rival-any of the great shopping streets in any the great cities in America or Europe.
l st. real estate is in strong hands. The ilosophic element of Los Angeles is well

FOR SALE—N. E. CORNER PICO AND Hill, 71 feet on Hill street, by 137 on Pico. Price $140,000; $70,000 mortgage, 5 per cent or before three years, at 6 per cent.; equity $30,000.
The northeast corner 11th and Hill was just sold at over $2000 per front foot. It is our judgment as agents who make a specialty of Hill street, that if 11th and Hill is worth $2000 per front foot, Pico and Hill should be worth $1000, as there are six people to Pico and Hill to every one who passes 11th and Hill, and will rent for double at the present time, and always will.
One of our clients (one of the oldest and best known automobile accessory manufacturing concerns in the United States) left a building to rent on 9th near Hill and moved down to Pico and paid more rent. Pico and Hill is the center of population of Los Angeles today. Pico is the best cross-town business street, and Hill street is fast becoming the best retail street in the city. Both streets are electric lighted.
The N. W. corner of 9th and Hill (only five blocks away,) was just leased for 10 years on the basis of $1000 value per front foot. Pico and Hill will be a better corner in three years, and you can buy it today at a little over $2500 per front foot, on easy terms.
Investigation and thought should convince any one that a large corner on the two best business streets in Los Angeles today, will double in value in three years. Above price for five days only.

FOR SALE—
"The LITTLE FARM MEN'S"
SUBURBAN FARM AND ACREAGE SNAPS

WALNUT GROVE.
No danger from frost, very little care, but great big returns. That's what we have to offer in this choice 10½-acre full-bearing ten-year-old walnut grove; ten-year-old apricots planted between the trees; grove in excellent condition, and a snap. The raw land worth nearly what this is selling for. Plenty of water. Small California house. Owner leaving country. You should see this if you are looking for a choice bargain. 10½ acres, $10,000.

3 ACRES WALNUTS.
Here is another, right in Santa Ana, only three blocks from car line; 3 acres of full-bearing walnuts, all fine trees; you can subdivide this and make a handsome profit now; if you want to live on it, it is a perfect home place. Modern 5-room house, with garage, large barn and chicken corral. Priced for immediate sale at only $6000. Terms.

INDEPENDENCE AND HAPPINESS.
To the man who wants a small ranch all ready to move onto, and fully equipped with everything to make home a joy and work a pleasure, we submit the following. The most complete little place on the market today. Five acres with modern 7-room house and large barn. It is set with 476 young fruit trees, all beginning to bear, 119 walnuts, balance apples, pears, peaches, figs, etc. It also includes all necessary farm implements, horse, wagon, buggy, heifer and chickens. Plenty of water. Move right in, it is all ready for you to make the money.

5 acres—$15500—Terms.

BROILERS, 25c LB.; EGGS, 40c.
If the above does not spell independence for the man who owns a ten-acre chicken ranch, fully equipped, what does? We have it absolutely complete and very cheap; ten acres of good, heavy loam soil, with two wells; water piped to 4-room California house and chicken yards; incubator, incubator house and all necessary implements, about twenty chicken-houses and all fenced for 2000 chickens; nice family orchard. This would be a snap at $400 per acre. The price is only $4000.
10 ACRES, $5000. TERMS.

BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY PLACE.
21 1-4 acres, situated only 4 miles from Los Angeles; it is improved with perfect 8-room modern house, large fine barn, and big pumping plant; these improvements alone are worth $13,000. The place covers 21 1-4 acres of as fine soil as lays out of doors. Small family orchard; all fenced. Just what you are looking for. See it.
PRICE $34,000.

SALE OR TRADE.
6½ acres, fine soil, has been cultivated with sugar beets and alfalfa; 6-room house; flowing artesian well; this property can't be duplicated for $4000. Will trade for bungalow in southwest.
$5000. TERMS.

Any number of other good buys at any price or size you want. See the "Little Farm Men" before you buy. They can save you money.

FOR SALE — READ THIS OVER, THEN say for yourself what you think of it. I am going to sell this week and will give you the best buy for cash you have had offered in Southern California. This house is one block from 8th car line, on finest auto road anywhere. House and garage cost me $4700 less than one year ago. Built on twelve 50x150-foot lots, overlooking mountain, sea and valley. Improvements on, 10 in all, cost $2400; 12 lots at $400 each, $7200. Total, $14,400. Can borrow $7000 at 7 per cent. on this place. The income from the fruit and berries on this place alone should bring from $400 to $1500 next year. This place clear of incumbrance.
Then 640 acres of land I selected for planting nuts. No improvements; at $20 an acre, $12,800; mortgage $2800 at 6 per cent. Equity $9000.
Can show you how to improve this land to make it bring you $100,000. Price, both pieces, $24,100. You assume $2000 at 6 per cent., pay me $13,000 cash, and the above places are yours. If you want a real income home place or a real bargain, call from 10 to 12 only. W. E. CARTER, 410 Consolidated Realty Bldg. Phone Broadway 3474 and F4634.

PLANT OLIVES

PLANT OLIVES

PLANT OLIVES

Follow the lead of California's shrewdest fruit men—the men who know and have helped to make the State's horticultural history, who know the tremendous and growing demand for olives that California cannot supply, the men who have backed their judgment with their money.

PLANT, PLANT OLIVES NOW.

They're the safest, the surest investment in California today—they're in a class of their own. Water and care work wonders with them. They know no terror of the cold and the fruit is off the tree by December.

THE PROFITS ARE BIG AND GETTING BIGGER. YOU CAN GET A 10-YEAR CONTRACT FOR YOUR FRUIT—PLANT YOUR TREES NOW. DON'T DELAY. THE PRICE IS GOING UP.

Let GIBRALTAR, the world's greatest olive growers, plant you a 5 or 10-acre tract at Bloomington, on terms to suit you. The proof is there, the proof of soil, of water, of climate. See the flourishing trees, examine the soil and satisfy yourself. The Southern Pacific crosses our land, the Santa Fe a mile distant, the Riverside trolley but a block away; schools, stores, churches—practically every convenience of modern life is at hand. Join us in the great forward movement in the olive industry and MAKE MONEY. We will plant your grove and care for it. Come in NOW for information about the tree, prices and easy terms.

FOR SALE— SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY LANDS. PORTERVILLE DISTRICT. THE CHOICEST PIECE OF ABSOLUTELY FROSTLESS CITRUS LAND IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The locations that were proven frostless during the last cold spell will stand anything, but are a few and far between. We have one of them. Property consists of 220 acres in a sheltered cove back of Porterville. The 100 acre grove of Hill Bros. immediately adjoining, consisting of two-year-old trees, was absolutely untouched by the frost. Not a leaf was curled. The self-registering thermometer on the property gave the lowest temperature as 30 degrees. The security and safety offered in this piece of land makes it worth a large sum, but we will deliver it for one week for $175 per acre. The soil is a rich, red, dry bog and the water conditions are proven, there being a lift of only 25 feet and 12 inch wells on adjoining properties are producing from 20 to 40 inches. See owners— ERLE M. LEAF, LAURENCE MACOMBER, Security Bldg. BLANKENHORN & RATH.

IF YOU NEED—

MONEY.

72 cents a week repays a $50 loan in 50 weeks. $1.50 a week repays a $50 loan in 50 weeks. Other amounts in same proportion.

If your small bills worry you, get them together and pay them with our money. Have but one place to pay. If you own furniture, piano, horse, and wagon or other chattel property, the money is yours on your promise to pay.

You can repay us in small weekly, bi-weekly or monthly payments, arranged to suit you. Credit once established with us is like a bank in time of need. The size of your income makes no difference, we trust to your honesty.

If inconvenient to call, phone or write and we will send our confidential agent to your residence to explain our terms.

You will be agreeably surprised at our liberal methods. No publicity. Nothing unreasonable. Just plain, good business methods. We quickly advance any amount needed on FURNITURE, PIANOS, HORSES, WAGONS, LIVE STOCK, ETC. You can repay us in small monthly or weekly installments to suit your convenience.
If you owe any money, or need money for any purpose, why not give us a chance to explain our method with no cost to you.
All our terms and charges are carefully figured out to you in exact figures and we give you a copy of these figures when the loan is made.
No chance for a misunderstanding and absolutely no misrepresentation.

TO LOAN—

It will cost you nothing to call and procure our terms before you decide to get that loan. We know that our interest charges are less than those asked by other companies and if you will only take the trouble to compare rates, you too will find that our terms are the best. We loan on HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, PIANOS, HORSES, WAGONS and CATTLE, leaving them in your possession, keeping the matter strictly confidential and only charging you for the actual time you use the money. No trouble to answer questions. If you are unable to call at the office, phone us and our agent will call on you without charge whether you borrow or not.

We make a specialty of loans where the borrower is not drawing a salary, by taking chattel security, and in no case are any papers recorded or any publicity.
We also make loans to people drawing a salary. Why? Because a person drawing a salary has a steady income and is easily located to meet our payments, and not because that is our security.
The salary is not bought, neither does the EMPLOYER or any one else know of the loan.

A PERSONAL INTERVIEW IS SOLICITED.
Which will in no way obligate you, should you not want to borrow.

EARTH'S POLES ARE WOBBLING.

TRAVEL AROUND IN A SIXTY-FOOT CIRCLE.

Scientists Have Taken Nineteen Years to Determine This Fact by Studying the Movements of Stars, Billions of Miles Distant, by Day and Night.

[Washington Post:] Astounding as it may seem, the poles of the earth are wobbling about apparently at random, but confining their travels within a circle of sixty feet in diameter. Should Peary again make the trip to the North Pole he would find his flag, which he planted there on his last trip, nearly fifty feet from the spot which he would now locate as the true North Pole. It means simply this: If the true North Pole were a little black ball on the smooth, glassy surface of the Arctic ocean, it would be perpetually rolling around in an aimless sort of fashion within a circle of thirty feet radius.

After nineteen years of tireless and thorough research and investigation Prof. George A. Hill of the naval observatory, in conjunction with experiments made by other scientists all over the world, has established the fact that the staid old earth is wabbling on her axis.

If Cook did discover the pole, as well as Peary, their flags might have been sixty feet apart, but, according to observations taken at the time, they might both have located the pole according to the reading of the stars. A point which is the North Pole today would not be the North Pole tomorrow. Moreover, no one can predict where this nomadic pole will be the next minute, the next hour or the next year. The Arctic explorer may pitch his tent somewhere within the circle of sixty feet and place his finger on what he supposes to be the pole. Like some living thing, this little point, which has for more than a century been attracting all sorts of men from the various corners of the earth, will be crawling away from him all the while.

Its speed is worse than snail-like. It has never been observed to travel farther than four feet in a week. Sometimes it requires more than a month to cover a yard. In six months it has described an irregular semi-circle of about sixty feet diameter. No orbit or path of oscillation has been determined by Prof. Hill in his almost lifetime experiments.

If a man should come in possession of a piece of polar property and it should be stipulated in the deed that the exact point of the pole should serve as a corner-stone he would have to keep moving his fences about to avoid possible prosecution for trespass. If Uncle Sam marks the North Pole with a monument to some of the brave heroes who gave their lives in the attempt to discover it, he must needs mount it on runners and keep it on the move. A permanent stone covering the race track of the pole would have to be as large around as a circus ring.

Prof. Hill is working with six or eight other astronomers, who are stationed at observatories as near as possible on the same parallel of latitude as Washington—38 deg., 54 min., 20.4 sec. The most important stations are Washington, Cincinnati, Mizusawa, Japan; Tschardjui, Central Asia; Carloforte, Italy; Gaithersburg, Md. The central station has been the Berlin observatory.

The authentic North Pole is not, according to the astronomers, the pole which men point out on the charts. In 1909 the wandering pole passed within a foot of the charted North Pole, and according to Prof. Hill it wanders home just about once in every fourteen years. Since then it has contented itself with moving about in a sort of irregular spiral curve, sweeping farther from the charted pole, sweeping back again, then out again, and so on, traveling in curves all the while.

Take an ordinary school globe, mounted on a pivot extending through its center. Glue a pencil to the North Pole so that it protrudes in a line with the pivot. Fix a pad of paper at right angles to the pencil and touching its point. Spin the globe around, and so long as the globe is not joggled the lead traces a small dot upon the paper. Oscillate the pivot and the pencil traces a snake-like coil. This is what the earth would do if a colossal pencil were attached to the North Pole and allowed to write its record upon a fixed sheet in the sky. Thus you see that the trouble with old mother earth is that her axis is not still. It has two motions, one revolving and the other oscillating.

A technical explanation of how the astronomers have proved this would surely befuddle the layman. In popular terms the scientist, through two separate telescopes, watches the apparent movements of the stars, billions of miles distant. He selects a few of those whose positions have been well established and which can be seen through his instruments by day as well as by night. Day after day, week after week and year after year he observes the latitude where he is. Instead of following paths by straight sweeps the stars stagger across them and back again. These staggerings represent the changes in latitude. Now, if our latitudes are slipping down and up over the earth as hoops over a barrel, the poles of the earth must be changing. Vega, one of the constellation of the harp, is the principal body consulted. Many astronomers agree that our sun and all its bodies, including the earth, are hurrying at a mighty rate through the heavens in the direction of Vega, and that within something like a billion of years we shall crash into it or pass it.

All level, deep strong soil; 2 miles to electric railway. Part overflow from back water. U. S. Government work will reclaim. Can be made to produce $40,000 per year now. Subdivided would sell for $150, $200 per acre; plenty water for irrigation.

Other large holdings at Wholesale Prices.

HARRIGAN, WEIDENMULLER CO., 345 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

LAND PRICES ADVANCED.

Delano Growers Noting the Trifling Damage Done by Recent Cold Spell Reappraise Land.

DELANO, Jan. 12.—The weather assuming its normal condition discloses that citrus trees in this locality are not injured as much as expected. Experts claim some orchards are not injured at all and in some instances even the leaves on the trees set out the past season are not falling but still green. In other localities here the percentage of loss is estimated to be not more than 1 per cent.

This condition is claimed to be due to the underlying warm water being so near the surface that the ground is kept warm and thus trees do not become frozen or frosted like they do where it is deep to water. Those having orange land for sale have increased the price $25 to $50 per acre on account of orange and lemon trees showing so little effect of the cold weather.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Al Cheney of Los Angeles has just completed a quarter section for sowing alfalfa and has commenced work on a 480-acre tract. On this he will erect substantial buildings and install a model dairy.

George D. Carter of Pasadena has just completed a quarter-section alfalfa ranch.

G. P. Lux of Los Angeles is preparing the development of his 400-acre tract for alfalfa.

Thomas Haymond of Pasadena has commenced leveling for alfalfa on his 1500-acre tract recently acquired.

W. J. Wallace of Los Angeles and president of the Sierra Vista Ranch Company, is pushing the work of developing water on their four-section tract for oranges. They now have half a section of citrus fruit growing and have been operating here for the past three years, so that this section is no experiment for them.

DEATH VALLEY.

BY EDWIN B. STARR.

"I've just come back from the valley, boys,
Of which you've all heard tell
Where the sun's fierce breath is a wraith of death,
Only one degree from hell.
On the glittering sands with outstretched hands
The mirage will beckon you on
Like the siren of old, in your search for gold;
You'll follow till water is gone.

"I wandered one day to that valley, boys
Lured on by its mystic spell
I was thirsty and sore—and what is more
I was alone in that burning hell.
I found at last a bubbling spring, that came from the burning earth
I stooped to drink at the water's brink
And thanked God for giving it birth.

"I knelt me down on the scorching ground
Then shrank with bated breath;
For there in the mull lay a grinning skull!
I stood in the shadow of death.
The bubbling water was poisoned, boys;
The victim had drunk from its wave.
I cursed the pool with its waters cool
As I shallowed a lonely grave.

"I sank me down near the spring, boys,
And gazed across the pool
While the sun's rays red o'er dead ocean bed
Changed to the night so cool
I've often thought of that night, boys,
As I lay in the moonlight's glare
With upturned eyes to the starlit skies—
And coyotes for company there.

"Afar in the desert a night bird shrieked; the creature was growing bold.
I shuddered and thought of the cost it brought
This searching for desert gold.
I've played the game in all its forms;
Sometimes I've made it pay;
But nevermore on dead ocean's shore
Will I search for a single day.

"My story is almost over, boys;
I've only this more to say:
If you're looking for gold and are brave and bold
The valley may lure you away.
But I've had enough of its devilish heat,
Enough of its hellish brand;
For I would not wait at the pearly gate
While my bones bleach on the sand."

CADDIES AND GOLFING.

A Sheriff's Sticks Carried All Afternoon by a Man Whom He Had Sentenced for Poaching.

[Windsor Magazine:] One day as Mr. Balfour was going out for a round at St. Andrew's, he waved genially as he passed to a caddie of his acquaintance, who returned the wave with that nonchalance of the gamin which is said to be next to the ease of a cultivated gentleman. The writer's friend observed: "I see you know Mr. Balfour?" "Ou ay," said the caddie, "us Consairvatives a' kens ane another."

Once upon a time in a northern golfing city the law was administered by a Sheriff of great kindness of heart. He had a favorite caddie, a sad poacher in his spare hours. This worthy was known on the links by his Christian name alone. One fine day in court the Sheriff sentenced a poacher, who failed to appear at the bar, to $5 or three months. A warrant was at once made out for the culprit's arrest, the court rose and the Sheriff went to golf.

All that afternoon the caddie carried for him. As they drew near the last hole a policeman appeared and seized the body of the caddie. "My hat!" cried the Sheriff, "are you the poor chap I sentenced this morning?" It was even so. Sorrowfully the prisoner departed. The Sheriff was heard to murmur: "If I had only known—" Then remembering his high legal office he left the remark unfinished.

Of the caddie's contempt for lesser callings than the golfer's there are many examples. A professor—not Putter, but a Scot of equal eminence—was making a very poor show on the green. The caddie eyed him loftily and then sighed: "Ay(ay, professor, ye may be verra fine at the mathematics, but it takes a man o' genuine abeelity tae be a gowfer."

LOOK FOR BLUE SPOTS.

This Mark on Your Spine Tells Whether You Are of Mongolian Descent or Something Else.

[Omaha Bee:] It has been recently noticed by scientists who have been studying the interesting and mysterious Navajo Indians that the Navajo baby invariably has a blue spot at the base of its spine. The spot is sometimes as small as a dime and sometimes as big as one's hand. It closely resembles a bruise, but it is due entirely to an extraordinary pigmentation. The spot may disappear before the child is 5 years old, but always returns later in life when this is the case.

The scientists have come to the conclusion that this spot is proof positive of the Mongolian origin of the Navajo. And they also make the astonishing assertion that it is present in many European and American children whose parents can trace their genealogy for generations back and are certain that there has been no admixture of Mongolian blood.

The Journal of the American Medical Association says that the blue spot in this location was first mentioned by Bealz, who found it in Chinese, Japanese, Malays, Koreans and the Burmese; 94.7 per cent. of Malay children have it. Consiglio has found the blue patches on about 2 per cent. of the children in Northern Italy, and believes that to be certain proof of ancient Mongolian ancestry.

It has long been known to science that Chinese characteristics persist longer, as inherited factors, than those of any other race. The oblique eye, and particularly the abnormal development of what is commonly called the third eyelid, have been found cropping up when the original Mongolian ancestor was five centuries removed. The third eyelid is the remnant of the nictating membrane, which covers the eye of birds instead of the eyelid of the mammal. The little red bunch of muscle in the corner of the eye next the nose is a survival in man of the reptilian ancestors of both bird and beast. Why it persists more in the Chinese than in other races is not known.

But the blue spot on the spine is The Navajo Indians, it has been suspected through many causes, are closely allied to all Mongolian races. And, in fact, all the American Indians show traces of this origin. They must, however, have crossed from the old world ages ago. The cause of the blue spot being found in Europeans of untarnished family records can probably be traced back to the Mongolian invasion in Europe in 453 A. D. From there the remote Mongolian trace spread with emigration to the new world.

Two of the Beautiful Homes Now Being Erected in Hollywood.

House for John Wilde.

House for Emily A. Wilson.

Attractive Dwellings for Northwest Los Angeles.

The site of the Wilde place is a knoll in Hillhurst Park, that of the Wilson house, a fine tract on Hollywood boulevard. The Milwaukee Building Company planned and is building both residences.

PLANADA FARMS

MERCED COUNTY

The Cream of California's "41 Blue Ribbon" County

—the richest part of a county that literally walked away from all California—taking forty-one Highest Awards for farm, garden, orchard, and vineyard products—at the Sacramento State fair.

PLANADA FARMS are unbeatable for raising figs, grapes, olives, peaches, all kinds of vegetables, pears, plums, apricots, almonds, alfalfa and grains. Dairy conditions are ideal. Large markets a few hours away—reached by a daily train service of ten passenger and eight freights from Santa Fe depot on the lands.

$75 Per Acre---Up with terms to suit. Planada soil is a rich alluvial sediment. Its climate is even—no extremes of heat and cold. At Planada the farmer should make some of the largest profits ever made on Merced county produce.

No Weed Seeds

Irrigation is entirely by concrete pipe; can't possibly carry weed seeds as open ditches do. Water is abundant—and cheap. Water connections furnished free. Plenty of service water within 15 to 20 feet. A greater volume at deeper levels.

TENANTS SECURED.

Hotel Broker Reports Leasing of Apartments, Rooming-house and Hotel—Two Nearing Completion.

E. M. Whilton, hotel broker, reports the following leases on apartment-houses and hotels: To Mrs. Carrie M. Barker of Los Angeles, ten-year lease on thirty-room apartment-house now being completed at No. 1467 West Twenty-third street, total rental, $20,000. The house will be known as the Carolinn apartments. Peter Ahlers is the lessor.

To Mrs. Myrtle Randolph of Los Angeles, ten-year lease on twenty-room rooming-house under construction at northeast corner Grand avenue and Temple street, total rental, $12,000. Philip Eicholtz is the lessor.

To Mr. Shumate of Los Angeles, four-year lease on Knox Hotel, No. 317½ West Fourth street. The Knox contains seventy-five rooms. The lease calls for a reported total rental of $30,000. Mrs. George M. Curtis is the lessor.

PLANS FINE HOME.

Wealthy Southern Lumber Man Buys Valuable Site in Westchester Place—Will Improve at Once.

Judson C. Rives, a wealthy retired lumber man from New Orleans, has purchased the northwest corner of Westchester place and Twelfth for a consideration of $24,000, and will erect on the property a residence costing in the neighborhood of $35,000. Plans for the home are being prepared by A. F. Rosenheim. The sale was made for Robert Marsh & Company, by Webber & Bell, of W. I. Hollingsworth & Company.

The lot has a frontage of 160 feet and a depth of 150 feet. The residence will be sixty feet wide and seventy feet long. It will contain twelve rooms and will be of tapestry brick, with terra cotta roof. The house will be finished in hard woods, with the bathrooms in marble and tile.

PALM PLACE OPENED.

A large sum of money has been expended in improving and beautifying Palm place, which is the latest realty offering of L. D. Loomis & Company. The tract is situated on the Venice Short Line. The improvements include water, gas and electricity and the street work is in.

FINE HOME COMPLETED.

The first of four attractive residences has just been completed, and the other three are nearing completion, in Michillanda, the new residence park on Huntington drive. The completed home faces Huntington drive and stands on a lot 98x200 feet. It contains eleven rooms, with three large sleeping porches. The place is of cement plaster exterior.

Residence Paradise.

FINE DWELLINGS FOR HOLLYWOOD.

TWO HANDSOME PLACES FOR FOOTHILL SUBURB.

One Home Will Occupy Sightly Knoll in Fashionable Hillhurst Park Tract—Other Under Construction on Hollywood Boulevard Plot.

The coming to the front of Hollywood as a suburb of exclusive residential districts has been one of the most interesting of the realty developments of the past few years. The past year saw the establishment of at least two fashionable subdivisions which bid fair to rival any in the Southland as residence show places. Meanwhile all Hollywood is being beautifully and compactly built up.

Probaby the most notable of the new tracts opened in Northwest Los Angeles in 1912 was the Hillhurst Park tract of William Mead, which stretches in an unbroken line from a point just east of Vermont avenue to a point just west of Western avenue and being along the north side of Los Feliz boulevard. The northern line of the property is well up on the sides of the hills, which form the southern boundary of Griffith Park. A large sum of money has been expended and is now being spent in the improvement of the tract.

All along that portion of Vermont avenue which extends through the tract Mead is installing handsome electroliers similar in design to those on Orange Grove avenue in Pasadena and which consist of twelve-foot copper posts crowned by sixteen-inch globes. Electroliers only a little less elaborate are being installed along Aberdeen, Inverness and Hillhurst avenues, all within the property. Mead, Arthur Letts, W. F. Cummings and Homer Laughlin, owning all the land on both sides of Los Feliz avenue from Vermont to Western, have already dedicated sufficient land to make that thoroughfare 120 feet in width and will soon make arrangements to pave it for the entire distance.

The fourth beautiful residence to be started in Hillhurst Park since its opening last fall is now being built by the Milwaukee Building Company for John Wilde. The house, which will occupy a fine knoll on Glendower street, was planned by the same company and will follow Spanish lines. It will be of cement plaster exterior and will have a roof of red clay tile. The house will contain twelve rooms, with three sleeping porches and several balconies. It will be finished in hard woods and enamel and will contain three baths. The ground treatment will comprise an elaborate layout of terraces, lawns, plantings, drives and walks.

Another handsome Hollywood home designed and now being built by the Milwaukee Building Company is that of Mrs. Emily A. Wilson at No. 4521 Hollywood boulevard. The Wilson place will occupy a four-acre site which is to be elaborately landscaped. It will contain fourteen rooms, with three baths, and will have a shakes exterior and shingle roof. The interior will be in hard woods. A circular staircase is an attractive feature of the arrangement.

THOUSAND AN ACRE.

Forty-Acre Navel Grove Sold to New Yorker at High Figure—Property Well Improved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LINDSAY, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One thousand dollars an acre was secured for a forty-acre orchard by Frank L. Wingard of Long Beach during the past week. John M. Wright of New York was the buyer. Before the recent cold snap the price was placed at $35,000, at which price the property was refused. Both Wingard and Wright visited the south immediately after and saw the damage which had been done there. Wright then returned and offered to buy at the first figure, but was informed that the price had advanced $5000.

The grove consists of eight acres of 4-year-old Valencias, nine acres of 4-year-old navels, six acres of 3-year-old navels, eleven acres of 3-year-old olives, three acres of 4-year old olives and three acres of bare land. There is a small family orchard and every improvement in buildings and pumping facilities. The sale is regarded in this section as being one of great importance, revealing as it does the sterling value of Lindsay grove holdings.

ELECT OFFICERS.

The Lorena Heights Improvement Association began its third year on Thursday evening with the election of officers and directors at No. 3504 Stephenson avenue. The association now has a membership of about 100 property owners. It has been identified with a number of important improvement enterprises.

CALIFORNIA'S PROGRESSIVE MARCH

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

California continues its progressive march. The year just closed has been a record one in most cases for volume of products and returns to the producers.

The Federal government is preparing large aid to the marketing of crops by improving river navigation. The State has entered upon a comprehensive highway system, giving ready communication between interior points. The Southern Pacific, Northern Electric and the Vallejo Northern Electric railroads contemplate much improvement in the vicinity of Sacramento, including large systems of wharves on the west side of the river. Large tracts of land near Redding and Arbuckle will have deep well irrigation. The Oro Electric Company has contracted for 20,000 horse power with the Northern California Power Company for reclamation work.

The Schlichten Ramie Company, organized with a capital of $2,500,000 by moneyed men of Los Angeles for the growing and manufacture of ramie, is preparing to operate 8000 acres near Lerdo, Kern county. The Murdock ranch, Glenn county, has been sold for $125,000, to be subdivided. One hundred and twenty-one acres dairy land near Loleta, Humboldt county, has been sold for $60,500. Seven thousand acres near Shafter, Kern county, is being subdivided. Two ranches aggregating 3500 acres near Galt have been sold for subdivision. Purchase of the Sargent Cattle Ranch near Stockton for $500,000 by George Shima, the Japanese "potato king," is reported. The Elwood Cooper ranch, 1800 acres, near Santa Barbara, has been sold for $125,000. All these land movements are reported for December by the California Development Board. It goes without saying that many other land deals were made during the month, some of which have already been noticed in the columns of The Times.

A large asphalt refinery, 3000 barrels capacity, is to be erected by eastern capitalists near San Luis Obispo.

Large sales are reported from Alameda county. Among them are the Fair properties near Newark; the Hirsch lands near Irvington; the Meek holdings, at San Lorenzo.

The California Delta Farms Company (largely Los Angeles men and Los Angeles capital), has bought 40,000 acres for $2,000,000, which, with the Lee Phillips (also Los Angeles) holdings, give them a total of 65,000 acres.

Eleven thousand acres in Yolo basin will be opened for settlement in January by the West Sacramento Land Company.

California exports of canned and dried fruits in 1912 have been large. The October exports by sea from San Francisco to all ports totaled a value of $11,282,000. In November they were $11,300,000, of which $1,558,700 was for the Atlantic Coast, via Tehuantepec and Panama routes.

Deciduous shipments so far, exclusive of apples, 13,340 carloads. Citrus shipments to December 16 were 3928 carloads.

Rice culture has proved successful in Kern county and in Butte county; the erection of a rice mill in Sacramento indicates that rice culture will become a permanent industry of California.

Turkish tobacco has made good yields at Yeltern, Tulare county. Cotton growing has been successful near Porterville.

California contributes 175,000 tons of the country's 614,000 tons beet sugar production. The area will be much increased in 1913 if Congress leaves the sugar tariff alone.

EXPENDITURE FOR EDUCATION.

Not far short of thirty million dollars was expended for public education in California in 1912 fiscal year, as follows:

Elementary schools	$16,910,430
High schools	6,862,735
Kindergartens	205,454
University, Normal schools, etc.	5,500,000
Total	$29,478,619

Adding for private schools, colleges, academies, music and so forth, the educational expenditure of California for the year was fully $36,000,000, or $3,000,000 a month. The march of education in California is more than progressive—it is all-conquering.

The average daily attendance in elementary and high schools and kindergartens during the year was 414,078.

NEW YEAR FULL OF PROMISE.

Trading Is Brisk Throughout Porterville Field.

Numerous Sales Attest to Interest in Land.

Alfalfa and Dairy Tracts in Good Demand.

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 11.—Apparently recovered from the brief depression of the holidays, the realty market has opened auspiciously for 1913. Trading in alfalfa lands has been especially brisk this first week.

One of the large deals of the week was the sale of approximately 1600 acres of the Pixley district dairy lands to Selah Chamberlain, a merchant of San Francisco. Chamberlain purchased the section of land belonging to the Laney brothers and a half section adjoining, from B. F. Retherford. The consideration for the property is not given out. Chamberlain will set the entire tract out to alfalfa.

H. B. Harrison, a Long Beach property owner, and G. D. Heaton of Winnipeg, have closed for the purchase of a section of general purpose land situated in the Lindsay district. The section was purchased from Hall, Brownell & Myers of San Jose. The buyers are improving the property.

J. A. Uzell, recently from Southern California, has purchased from T. A. Bump of this city, a forty-acre alfalfa ranch situated in the Lois district, just south of the city limits. Uzell will develop the property as a dairy and stock ranch. Water has been put on the place and a portion of it is out to alfalfa.

J. H. Miller and his son, A. H. Miller, who came here recently from Los Angeles, closed today for the purchase of forty acres of alfalfa lands in Westfield, just north and west of the city limits. The tract was purchased from C. F. Boettcher of Porterville. The Millers expect to engage in dairying.

F. L. Smith, a San Francisco merchant, has purchased from Anton Konda, one of the pioneer orange orchardists of this section, twenty-five acres of oranges, situated just south of the Worth section. The consideration is given at $24,000.

An exceptionally good price was received recently by J. H. McConnell of the Exeter district for a seventeen-acre orange grove sold to Thad P. Bovee, formerly of Los Angeles. The tract is planted to two-year-old early navels and brought $12,500.

John A. Shelley, a recent comer to this district from the south, has purchased a tract of eighty acres of alfalfa lands, situated on the Lindsay road, from George Waddell. Shelley will improve the property.

Standard Stock Advances Wednesday Night

Promptly at midnight, Wednesday, the price advances—advances, you understand, because the assets behind the company compel an advance. And we're running this advertisement to give you an opportunity to join us before the raise. Now then, we're not going to urge you to buy—we'll simply give you the evidence in the case—you can draw your own conclusions.

We've been established about 6 months.

We number over 900 stockholders.

We own 4 big tracts—3 in Los Angeles, 1 in San Diego.

We're run on the Daylight Plan—our books and records are open to any one at any time.

We're building on 3 tracts today—our Moneta-Manchester—our San Diego tract, and at Harbor City.

Our recent financial statement showed a surplus of between $40,000 and $50,000.

We operate a well organized commission department in addition to our building and subdividing business.

We have incorporated in our charter two unique features which are an absolute guarantee of the genuinely co-operative character of our organization—one provides for the exchange of any of our real estate offered for sale for our stock, the other insures your equity in any property purchased from us.

Palm Place

Large, High Class, Fully Improved Home-sites at Surprisingly Moderate Prices

PALM PLACE—located on Washington and Venice Boulevards and Venice "Short Line," between Los Angeles and the sea. An offering which because of its intrinsic value and many evident advantages is conceded to be the finest in its district.

PALM PLACE is not an afterthought. The lots have been subdivided from acreage which was bought at a time early enough to permit careful selection. That's why in Palm Place you find superior location and natural advantages. Don't you think it would be a good move on your part to get a home-site in a "First Choice" subdivision?

PALM PLACE is right in the center,—in the very heart—of the great building and improvement movement marching outward from "Los Angeles to the Sea." Bounded on one side by Venice Boulevard and the Venice "Short Line" and on the other by Washington Boulevard, it cannot be missed by this development movement.

PALM PLACE sites possess individuality. Noted landscape engineers superintended the subdivision and were instructed to spare no expense in producing desirable effects. Over $100,000 has been expended to date. A trip over the superb winding, palm-lined boulevards of this masterpiece will show how well these engineers planned.

PALM PLACE lots are exceedingly large, (105x170 feet, upwards.) You can plan landscape beautifying features which can be carried out in fullest detail, because of the presence there of perfect climate, soil and water conditions.

PALM PLACE offers busy business and professional men an opportunity for relaxation and outdoor recreation. The daily ride by auto to and from the city will be greatly enjoyed. The gorgeous, panoramic view includes mountains, city and sea.

PALM PLACE has modern conveniences,—water, gas, electricity. Frequent cars—24-minute ride to the city. 24-foot parkings—6-foot sidewalks—crushed rock street work. The prices are exceedingly moderate and satisfactory terms can be arranged.

This Is An Opportunity of the Present. It Won't Wait for the Future

If you are a home or investment seeker, you will lose if you don't act now. Try the cut-off from Washington Boulevard to Venice, via Palm Place—or go down in one of our machines. No trouble to show you. Courteous representatives will gladly show you around.

House of Hollow Terra Cotta Construction.

Interesting dwelling planned by Parker O. Wright for George H. Lockwood.

UNUSUAL MATERIAL.

New West End Dwelling Will Be Constructed of Hollow Terra Cotta Blocks, With Plastered Exterior.

Plans for a house of unusual construction have just been completed by Parker O. Wright. The dwelling will be erected by the Jacob Niederer Company for its vice-president, George H. Lockwood, and will occupy a sixty-foot lot on Delaware drive, north of Pico street. It will be built entirely of hollow terra cotta blocks, the exterior being plastered with white cement.

The first floor will contain a hall, living-room, dining and breakfast-rooms, kitchen, pantry and servants' quarters. The hall, living and dining-rooms will be wainscoted to the tops of the doors and windows in Circassian walnut. The breakfast-room will be in white and mahogany. In the living-room will be an electric fireplace faced with glass mosaic. The second floor will contain two bedrooms in white enamel, a dressing-room in white mahogany and a billiard-room in oak, together with a tile bath and a sleeping porch.

A charming feature of the place will be a brick terrace twelve feet wide across the entire front of the dwelling. The plans call for a veranda and pergola at the rear. The cost of the house is given at $12,000.

ALONG THE SOUTH COAST.

Tract Owners at Balboa Announce Extensive Improvements—Los Angeles Company Invests.

BALBOA, Jan. 11.—The owners of the Balboa Bayside tract announce their intention of improving their entire 700 feet of bay frontage during the next few months. The improvements will include a fifteen-foot cement walk and a heavy concrete bulkhead embellished with artistic concrete lighting pillars.

The F. H. Redpath Company of Los Angeles has purchased fourteen lots on one of the canals at West Newport, and will build a modern bungalow on each. Among the recent purchasers of lots at East Newport are W. L. Roberts, Miss Grace Murray and Miss Ruth Johnson, all of whom will build bungalows.

Over two-thirds of the Newport Heights tract, which overlooks Newport Bay, has been sold out since it was placed on the market last summer. May C. Lincoln, it is announced, will build a college to be known as the School of Ideal Philosophy on Newport Heights during the coming season.

With the new year came the starting of many projects in Huntington Beach. The old pier, which has stood the buffeting of the Pacific for many years, is being torn out to make way for the new $75,000 structure. It is hoped by the trustees that actual construction on the pier will be started within a month or six weeks. Huntington Park will also carry out a great deal of street work during the coming months. Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Tenth streets are to be paved from Ocean to Palm. The installation of gas was begun last week.

CASH TRANSACTION.

EL SEGUNDO, Jan. 11.—The largest transaction of the year to date at this place was concluded last Wednesday, when Mrs. Hetty Colby of Chicago purchased four lots and two blocks of El Segundo property at a reported cash consideration of close to $30,000. Mrs. Colby's purchase is in the center of the unsold part of the town and near the route of the new car line from Hawthorne. The sale was made by the El Segundo Land and Improvement Company.

JOINS LOCAL COMPANY.

W. T. Moore, formerly of Columbus, O., has become identified as the managing director of the Guarantee Building and Investment Company. Moore has been in California for about three years. Before coming West he was for twenty years identified with the building and investment business in his former home city.

BIG NORTH END HOTEL OPENED

SPLENDID FIREPROOF HOSTELRY AT SECOND AND CLAY.

Foundations of New Northern Building Sunk Thirty Feet Into Ground, To Level of Hill Soon in Anticipation of Future Razing of Bunker Hill.

The improvement of the north end of Bunker Hill, the new Northern Hotel at the corner of Second and Clay streets, has just been completed and will be opened to the public tomorrow by Frank L. and Blanche L. Crampton, who have taken over a ten-year lease on the property from H. W. Braun.

The building is a two-story, reinforced concrete structure, built with the idea that at some future date the hill will be removed and facing foundations running thirty feet into the ground, so that at any time a story of excavation will add two stories to the structure and obviate the necessity of tearing it down. It was built at a cost of $200,000 and contains 80 guests rooms, all of them connecting with bath. W. J. Saunders is the architect.

Circulating ice water on all floors is an innovation in hotel building in this city and this with a complete vacuum cleaning system, steam heating of the latest type and double telephone service in all the rooms are specially featured. Another novelty will be a large parlor on the fifth floor, particularly fitted up for the women guests and furnished in the French style.

The remainder of the house is furnished in solid oak and mahogany. The main lobby faces Second street, the entrance being under a large marquise. Italian marble, mahogany and tile are used in the lobby finish. The furnishings are in mission oak trimmed in red leather.

The dining and grillrooms are on the ground floor, with an entrance on Clay street. Both are furnished in mission style. On this floor are located also the laundry, linen and workrooms. The basement is given over to engine and boiler-room. The hydraulic elevators will be used for passenger service and one for freight.

Mr. and Mrs. Crampton, who will operate the property, came here from Seattle, where they had several hotels. They were also pioneers in the hotel business in Alaska. The Arnole Hotel on Flower street was originally built and operated by them for about a year prior to the present one. The European plan has been adopted in the Hotel Northern.

OFF FOR CANAL.

W. I. Hollingsworth, president of the W. I. Hollingsworth Company, and Herbert Earlescliffe of Santa Barbara, left during the past week for an extended trip, with the Panama Canal as the objective point. Hollingsworth and Earlescliffe intended to visit New Orleans in their itinerary, taking a steamer at that point for the Isthmus. They expect to return about February 1.

Beverly Hills

Location and General Environment

Beverly Hills is located between Los Angeles and the grand old Pacific. It skirts the foothills west of Hollywood and might very properly be called an extension of the Wilshire District. The Los Angeles Country Club adjoins Beverly Hills on the West. This property is high, sheltered and commands a most magnificent view of mountains, valley and ocean.

Improvements Made by the Company

This property was laid out by a famous landscape gardener and the Company has already expended more than a million dollars in improvements. Broad winding palm-lined avenues, cement gutters, curbs and sidewalks; beautiful parks, fountains and water lilies. A complete modern sewerage system with connections at each lot, are some of the advantages offered.

Public Utility and Other Advantages

The resident of Beverly Hills enjoys the use of telephones, water, electric lights and gas at city rates. All public utilities, such as unsightly poles, are in the alleys. The electric railway furnishes a quick, frequent service to both Los Angeles, Hollywood and the Beaches. There are few subdivisions in the world possessing as many attractions as Beverly Hills.

Values, Prices and Terms

The lots at Beverly Hills are large, 80 to 100 feet wide by 160 to 260 feet in depth. The present prices are very low considering the location, improvements and size of lots. You can buy now at $25.00 to $40.00 a front foot. Liberal terms are made.

How to See Beverly Hills

The Pacific electric car on Hill Street will take you direct to Beverly Hills, or you can go by automobile, by way of Wilshire Boulevard or Hollywood via the new Foothill Scenic Boulevard. If you prefer you can telephone our office and we will arrange to take you in our motor car. Our agent at the Beverly Hills station will be glad to show you the property any time.

APPLY TO COMMISSION.

Company Organized to Furnish Torrance With Public Utilities Asks Issuance of Bonds and Stocks.

Application has been made to the State Railroad Commission by the Torrance Water, Power and Light Company, recently organized, to furnish public utilities to the new town of Torrance, for authority to issue $200,000 worth of stocks and bonds against the water system now being installed in the new industrial city. The system will supply the residence and business district of Torrance, the Union Tool Company, the Llewellyn iron works, the traction plow and auto truck factory, the Pacific Metal Products Company, the Acme brass foundry, the Pacific Electric shops and other big plants. The system being put in consist of twelve miles of thirty-three-inch pipe, five miles of twenty-inch pipe, 40,000 feet of eight-inch pipe, 30,000 feet of ten-inch pipe and 60,000 feet of mains from four to sixteen inches in diameter.

J. S. Torrance, of the Domingues Land Company, has arranged for the expenditure of an additional $100,000 at the new town. With 100 homes for working men already constructed, Torrance has arranged for the construction by building companies of an additional lot of small houses, and will build fifteen high-class homes to cost from $3000 to $5000 each upon the company's account. In addition, the company has signed a contract for the construction of a pearl button factory at the new city.

UP-TO-DATE APARTMENTS.

Among the many up-to-date apartment-houses now nearing completion in this city is an attractive three-story structure of seventy rooms which is being finished by the Maine Building and Investment Company for S. Barton Brown on Alvarado Terrace, near Hoover street. The building is 50x135 feet in size and is of stucco exterior. Architecturally, it suggests the lines of the mission types. The building is supplied with a low-pressure system of steam heating, vacuum cleaning, hot water and other modern conveniences. The entrance vestibule is in marble and tile, and the main hall and lobby in oak. The property is high and sightly and overlooks a large part of the west end.

THE THIRTY-SECOND.

The Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Company has established at Montebello its thirty-second olive tree propagating plant. The Montebello plant is located on the main boulevard to Whittier and within eight miles of Los Angeles. In the plant general nursery stock will be grown in addition to olive trees. Rapid progress is reported in the grading and oiling of the fourteen miles of streets in the same company's new 1897-acre olive and citrus fruit tract at Bloomington.

PENCIL LEAD FROM MEXICO.

ALSO NEARLY ALL GRAPHITE USED FOR MANUFACTURES.

Mines Give Evidence of Having Once Been Coal Beds, but the Substance Is Now So Soft No Explosives Are Required for Its Removal.

[Pittsburgh Gazette Times:] It is a noteworthy fact not generally known that from the isolated Santa Maria mines, situated about sixty miles southeast of Hermosillo, Mex., comes the graphite which provides the lead for 55 per cent. of the pencils used in the world. This has been the unbroken record of the Santa Maria property for the last eighteen years. The pencil does not contain much graphite, to be sure, but when the millions that are in daily use in all parts of the world are considered, the aggregate quantity of lead material for their manufacture is very large.

The Santa Maria graphite deposits are the largest upon the American continent, so far as known. They are owned by a syndicate of Americans headed by Eugene McSweeney of Saginaw, Mich. The product of the mines is shipped to Saginaw for treatment, where it is ground and separated by steam of air flotation and bolting.

In many respects the location and development of these great graphite mines in Western Mexico have been attended with romantic and tragic features. They are situated in the heart of the Yaqui Indian country, and during the long years of turbulency when the Mexican government was endeavoring to bring these untamed savages into subjection the little mining camp was in constant danger of being attacked by them. Raids upon the outlying settlements were frequently made and mining prospectors not infrequently met death at the hands of the Indians. Only a half-mile from the headquarters house at the mines three men who were developing another graphite deposit were killed by the Yaquis. During the more recent revolutionary disturbances, however, the district has been comparatively free of depredatory bands of rebels, and mining operations have been going on without interruption.

LUBRICANTS FROM GRAPHITE.

While 80 per cent. of the pencils that are used in the world contain graphite from the Santa Maria mines, this comprises a very small part of the property's output. Most of the graphite is used in the manufacture of lubricants, for which purpose the product must be very pure and free from grit. A large tonnage is also consumed in the manufacture of paints, foundry facing, powder glazing, electrotyping and stove polish.

It was in 1867 that these graphite deposits were discovered. Their remoteness from railroad transportation facilities and the comparatively little use to which graphite was being put caused little interest to be taken in them, and they remained idle until 1911, when considerable exploration was done to discover their probable extent and the quality of the product. It was in 1895 that the present American owners obtained control of the property and opened up the mines on a large scale. They have operated them continuously ever since then, and for several years the mines have been one of the chief sources of graphite in the world. This Mexican graphite is of the amorphous or non-crystalline variety. There is another variety of graphite which is called crystalline or flake, the latter not being available for pencil making because it is incapable of fine pulverization, remaining always no matter how finely divided, in the form of mica-like flakes, and for the same reason its presence in high-grade paints and lubricants is said to be undesirable.

It is a distance of twenty miles from the Santa Maria mines to La Colorada, the nearest railroad point. A branch line of railway runs from La Colorada to Torres on the Sonora division of the Southern Pacific.

The depth of the workings in the Santa Maria mines has reached more than 175 feet. The graphite bed is from nine to ten feet in thickness. It occupies a very irregular position. The mass of the product, which has been worked out, reached a thickness of twenty-four feet and had a breadth of seventy-five feet vertically and 150 feet horizontally. The graphite is an soft and friable that a large lump can be taken in the hand and crushed to small particles. It has a velvety surface and is smooth to the touch. So easily mined is it that all the work is done by pick and shovel, no explosives being required. Assay samples show 95 per cent. of graphitic carbon, while an analysis of the run-of-mine product gives 86% graphitic carbon.

ORIGINATED IN COAL BEDS.

It is claimed by scientists that graphite in various parts of the world has been formed in a number of different ways and that the derivation of some of the deposits is not known. It is stated, however, that in the Santa Maria mines the origin of the graphite is plainly shown to have been from coal beds. The region where the mines are situated is almost a desert for nine months of the year. During the rainy season in July, August and September, however, vegetation quickly springs up and the country is covered with a rank growth of grass and other herbage. There is a scarcity of timber with the exception of thorny trees and shrubs, and all lumber that is required at the mines is shipped in from the United States. The temperature in the greater portion of the mines is high during the day time and there is much competition among the miners as to which of them shall be employed for the day shifts in the principal workings of the property. Notwithstanding the fact that the temperature in the lower workings is so great that miners work clad in a pair of trousers, with sandals on their feet, they find the underground workings cooler than that on the surface.

One of the problems that had to be solved was the securing of a sufficient supply of water for the use of the laborers and stock. Wells have been sunk at several points within a radius of a mile of the headquarters house and the water is pumped to a tank by means of gasoline engines. The families of the miners are each allowed ten gallons of water daily, this quantity is measured out each morning and carried away in five-gallon cans.

The graphite is hoisted to the surface by means of gasoline engines. It is then spread out in the sun to dry, the drying process is finished in sheds, and it is then packed into piles in the sacks and is hauled to La Colorada in wagons each pulled by ten to twelve mules.

The manufacture of the graphite in the United States is done in Jersey City, other being treated in Germany, from which country it is exported to Europe and to the countries of Asia and to far-

Direct First Mortgage

Investment---Notes of Original Mortgagor---Not Our Promise to Pay

"Six Per Cent. and Safety." The conservative man's ideal investment is fully realized in the First Mortgage Notes offered by us.

These notes provide the absolute safety of a first mortgage loan. They are the notes of the mortgagor, secured by him with first mortgage upon improved Los Angeles Real Estate, worth more than double the amount of the mortgage. Title to property, your invested principal and the interest on it guaranteed.

You Can Invest $100, $200, $500, $1000 or $100,000

Protected by First Mortgage—Principal and Interest Guaranteed

For information just read here how these first mortgage notes are developed. We will say for illustration, that "Home Builders" has built a snug little home for you, upon which there is a first mortgage of $2000. In giving this mortgage you have done so to secure the note which you gave for this sum. Now, then, in place of making just one note for the whole amount, you make several notes of say $100, $200, $250, $500, etc., to the amount of the $2,000.00. It is these notes we offer the investor. First mortgage secured and to doubly protect the buyer they are certified to by the Title Insurance & Trust Company, who as trustee holds the mortgage. Is that not simple? And, they are just as safe as they are simple. You can buy one or more of these first mortgage notes to the amount of money you have to invest—we will give you a list of properties thus mortgaged so you can go and see the security offered. Come and let us talk it over.

"Home Builders" Will Declare Its Regular Cash Dividend Jan. 31.—Are You a Stockholder?

STRAIGHT TALKS

By Pacific Home Builders

What We Want We offer you shares of PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS stock at $2 each. The number of shares at this price is very limited. On our last offering of an allotment of shares there was a large oversubscription. We want the widest distribution possible on the small block of this stock that is left. We appeal especially to the small investor and give the opportunity of buying on a 10 monthly installment plan which enables you to begin the purchase of 10 shares on the payment of only Two Dollars. Don't be too late. We want you to become one of our shareholders.

Why We Want It Our reasons for placing this allotment of our stock on the market are based upon the earning power of each dollar as invested and administered by the experts of the PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS. Many thousands of new homes are in demand each year. Our business is to meet that public demand. We make a profit on the land we sell because we buy large tracts of acreage and sell by the lot. We not only make a good profit on the lots but gain money as well on enhancement in value of the adjoining lots which we hold. We also make a profit on building the houses. We buy material by the carload and trainload, and naturally make the largest measure of profits and at the same time are able to sell at lower prices than builders who have to buy in small quantities. Our general Real Estate, Renting and Insurance Departments are also sources of large revenue which goes to swell the dividend returns to shareholders.

What You Get The latest business statement of the Company showed Three Dollars of gross assets for every share of outstanding stock. The Company has been earning better than 24 per cent. on the capital representing the outstanding stock. The dividends have increased within a year from 8 per cent. to 12 per cent. on par, with indications that the rate will go to 14 per cent. by the first of April.

In making these statements we speak to you only along the lines of achievement backed by stability. Our growth has been on the solid lines of safe successes. Our three great tracts in the Angelus Group—Angelus Park—Angelus Tract—and Angelus Addition form the highest grade contiguous group of Home Building properties within quick touch of the business and shopping districts. We are only 15 minutes from Broadway. Our La Ramada Tract also is the cream of the Foothill residential district. Our Angelus Park Tract, containing 222 acres, has enhanced approximately 37 per cent. in the last five months. Our operations follow the pathways of safety, solidity and security. Our real argument is the EARNING POWER of MONEY as proved by our actual operations. Every statement we make is backed up by the facts. Our record proves that every promise we have made has more than been fulfilled.

Dividend Just Declared The regularly quarterly dividend amounting to 12 per cent. on par was declared January 6. It is payable to all stockholders of record January 31. Buy stock now and participate in this dividend. Guarantee Fund protection is afforded you.

"One by one the ROSES FALL"

THE MONEY OCTOPUS Has Seen Its BEST DAY

The Money Trust, who, in September last controlled $5,891,670,000 of the people's money, when the maximum was reached in the history of this country; the over-capitalized Food Trusts; the Standard Oil; the Steel Combine with its billion dollars capital; the violators of the Inter-State Laws, in restraint of trade, under indictment by the Government, including railway officials, and in fact all the great interests that have been a menace to the progress of the United States for so many years, are being smashed and busted right and left by our Government with the iron hand of the law as "Carrie Nation" smashed the (mahogany) bars over which the balmy fluid was served in Kansas but a few years ago. Every issue that carries with it the least semblance of oppression to the people, will have its day. Every issue will spend its forces except RIGHT, but the issue of RIGHT WILL PREVAIL until the end of time. While the Money Trusts and their supporters will find that the American people have lived at last to realize that their money can be handled so as to earn its full earning-power, and that the owner of the dollar can and will, from now on, affiliate with men in small syndicates, form among themselves and handle individual enterprises, whereby the full earning profits will be divided among themselves pro rata, according to the money invested, and that the Portly Trust Promoter, the vicious octopus (the interests) and the smooth-tongued financier have at least had THEIR DAY.

It has been a long struggle, but it has reached us at last. We, as a nation, have been crying aloud for years against the oppression of Food Trusts, Money Trusts, Standard Oil, etc. Now that we have begun to break away from the power in force, let us unite together and continue to weaken their power. It is up to us to do it. We CAN DO IT, and WE WILL DO IT. The legitimate and honest method of doing so is to support the legitimate, small corporations or syndicates that are formed of responsible men for the purpose of carrying out successfully some enterprise of merit. With such institutions in the field of commercialism, and officered and directed by men of integrity and by men of ability, they should receive the support of the investing public, and instead of the public allowing their money to be handled by the interests and receive little or nothing in return, they should place themselves in a position to participate in the earnings of their dollar by being a shareholder in the company which actually is using THEIR DOLLAR to work with.

How stupid of us to feel that we need intermediate or middlemen to handle OUR MONEY for us. The great system of oppression will wane as the morning dew before the rising sun, and from now on we will feel the effect to such an extent that we all will be considerably the richer thereby.

In this connection attention is called to the CITent out of the earnings on your investment, and also ative Company, which guarantees to pay you 12 per cY BUILDERS INVESTMENT COMPANY, a Co-operpermits you to participate in the profits of the Company. In addition it will receive your stock in full or part payment as the case may be on a HOME or TRACT of ground which you may select from the holdings of the Company. The stock of the Company you can purchase either for cash or on the installment plan. It will be to your interest to investigate.

YOU WANT THE MOST FOR YOUR DOLLAR THAT IT WILL EARN. NOW OPPORTUNITY knocks at YOUR DOOR and presents a way for you to secure this competency that you so much desire, IN SUCH A MANNER that while your savings are earning this competency you are in addition receiving the maximum amount in the matter of interest that your savings entitles you to.

You are participating in the accumulative earnings which your savings and that of others like you, who have placed them in a co-operative company directed by men and officered by men who have made a success of business for themselves, and are now making a success of the Co-operative Company in which you and they are the shareholders.

The literature which the City Builders Company has issued and which will be mailed you on request details the plan on which the company operates, tells you "Who's Who" in the company, explains how they pay you 12 per cent per annum guaranteed and pay it quarterly, shows you the earning power of your dollar and how you can make ready for the rainy day. There is no mystery about it. The facts are set forth in plain language and need no interpretation. It is your opportunity. Call, phone or write now.

CROWNING FINE KNOLL.

Handsome New Riverside Home Promises to Be One of Southern California's Residence Show Places.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 11.—[Special.] One of the most charming residences under construction in this vicinity at the present time is that being erected by George B. Linnard on Victoria Heights, in this city. The design, which was planned by Arthur B. Benton of Los Angeles, architect of the Glenwood Inn and other notable structures, promises, in fact, to be one of the show places of Southern California.

The house will stand just above Hawarden Drive and will occupy the crest of a beautiful knoll which commands a panorama of the entire country around. It will follow the contour of the site and will cover a ground area of 90x80 feet.

The ground floor of the dwelling will contain a garage and servants' quarters in addition to the regular heating plant and storage space. The two upper floors will contain a total of sixteen rooms, with a number of verandas, balconies and sleeping porches. The interior finish will be in hardwoods. In the house will be a number of fireplaces of various sizes. The exterior will be of adobe to the line of the first story, with rough stucco finish above. The roof will be of red tile.

LEASING ACTIVITIES.

H. L. Suydam reports the following leases: Building, at Nos. 16-18 Stephenson avenue, for John Walker, to the Ginseng Company, bottling works; building, at Nos. 24-26 San Fernando street, for Gus E. M. Bastenchury, to William H. Hoeges Company, for manufacture of tents.

FIRST BUSINESS BLOCK.

The Pacific Home Builders report that they will start construction in the next few weeks on the business block in Angelus Park. The building will be erected by the regular construction staff of the company at a given cost of about $15,000. The location is on Brand boulevard, directly opposite the site that has been selected for the union passenger station of the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric lines. The structure will be modern Gothic in style, with concrete foundations, brick exterior walls, steel supports, slow-burning timber construction, composition roof and glazed brick front. The building will contain four stores and five lodge apartments.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern California Home Builders was held yesterday morning in the assembly room of the company in the basement of the Consolidated Realty building. Officers for the new year were re-elected as follows: President, E. W. Pauley; vice-president, J. A. Barnes; secretary and treasurer, R. O. Young; director, S. L. Conde. Dr. H. G. Culverd was added to the board of directors.

TRADE COURTS FOSTER PEACE.

New York Strikeless Union Brings Harmony.

Unique Organization Stands Test of Time.

Novel Method of Handling Labor Disputes.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Leaders of the industrial world, stirred by the spectacle of a mid-winter strike affecting more than 300,000 people, are finding relief in New York's unique "strikeless union." Here the various branches of the clothing trades are contributing dissatisfied men and women to the throng of cutters, the cloak and skirt makers bending over their tasks, asking for the wages for which they refuse to strike every once in a while and confident that no disputes are in sight which the "trade court" cannot settle.

This trade court, which has averted many strikes since the last general strike of cloak and skirt workers in 1910, is proving the real panacea for labor ills in "that particular part of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Technically, officially, it is known as the board of grievance and into its listening ear the workers and the manufacturers pour their tales of dissatisfaction. If the grievances cannot be settled by this trade court, there is a superior organization in the board of arbitration, acting as a tribunal of appeal. The trade court includes in its personnel a disinterested public man, and to the framing of the so-called "protocol" in September, 1910, and the inception of the career of the "strikeless union." Amicable relations between employer and employe have come in the wake of turbulence. Co-operation has succeeded bickering and bectoring on both sides has failed.

Under the protocol, the Board of Arbitration and the Board of Arbitration were established, the disputants having equal representation in the boards. The first is composed of seven members, the manufacturers and the workers each contributing five. The Board of Arbitration is composed of one representative of the employers, one of the workers and a third from the general public. The success of the system is evidenced from the fact that the Board of Arbitration has found it necessary to sit but once in the last two years which have elapsed since the peace treaty was signed.

A PERMANENT SOLUTION.

The protocol was not merely a temporary armistice at a time when both sides were weary of strife, but it was a permanent solution of difficulties. It established a minimum wage scale; a forty-nine hour week of fifty hours, a joint board of control for the regulation of sanitary conditions in factories, and the abolition of the "preferential shop," the manufacturers met their employes more than half way. The "closed shop" had sent its spies up and down the backs of employers for years past. Although before a strike, the demand was not made for union labor be-fore. The peace treaty pledged employers to give preference to union men where applicants for employment were of equal ability. It provided for all time the blacklisting of leaders. In return the unions agreed to stand responsible for their employes, to guarantee the best work from them, and to formulate a code of discipline which would settle petty disputes between foreman and workers.

Grievances of all the unions in the industry, are the cloak and skirt makers, in the matter of proper sanitary conditions in factories. The protocol provided for a board of sanitary experts, a unique and original arrangement. This board consists of seven members, four nominated by the manufacturers and two by the workmen and one to represent the public. The sev-enth has the authority to establish rules of sanitation to which both employers and workmen are com-pelled to conform.

Two quarters, it is stoutly maintained, will be saved in the event of the present strike among the cloak and skirt makers will lead to an extension of the protocol to cover all branches of the garment workers' activities.

Verdict Possible.

The New York Commercial:] The jury in the case of the Indianapolis jury after a period of twelve weeks, in which the testimony of the prosecution was completed by very able counsel, is the case of the forty labor leaders charged for conspiring to dynamite in quantities and in such a manner convenient for the purpose, under the approval of the union throughout the country, will have a trial as ever occurred in the province of criminal jurisprudence. A decision was given the morning in the assembly-room of the company in the basement of the Consolidated Realty building. Officers for the new year were re-elected as follows: President, E. W. Peckham; vice-president, J. A. Barnes; secretary and treasurer, R. O. Young; director, S. L. Conde. Dr. H. G. Stout was added to the board of directors.

A NOSE-BITING AFFAIR.

[EDITORIAL.]

OF ALL the incomprehensible and utterly asinine labor-union eruptions that have been chronicled, since the deed of the man who bit his own nose off to spite his face, the strike in New York of the Hotel Waiters' Union beats Banagher, and Banagher, as the saying goes, "beat the devil."

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon of December 31, a general strike of the Ganymedes was declared. It is not recorded that the Hebes followed their example.

New Year's Eve was of all nights a tipping night. It was the night of nights when largess flowed on Pactolian streams from the pockets of eaters into the pockets of those who were accustomed to minister unto them. Yet what did the white-aproned and clean-shaven waiters do? They abjured the opportunity of the year. They picked up bricks from a lot on which excavations for a new building were under way. They stored those bricks under their coats and held them behind their backs. Then they proceeded to the hotels which had refused their demands, and whose provident proprietors had secured non-union waiters to take their places and attempted to enter them with a view of brickbatting the new men and incidentally making of the soup, the fish, the entrees and the plates containing the same, a heterogeneous mass of mixed and unattractive provender.

The Waldorf-Astoria was one of the salient points of attack. Its proprietors were prepared for the invasion. They had lined the halls and lobbies with special officers. An enthusiastic and exceedingly athletic policeman seized the leader of the strikers and threw him out of a window. Fortunately for the thrown one the incident took place on the first floor.

Policeman O'Bannon was a ground floor man. He believed in going to the bottom of things. His inclinations led him in the direction of capturing rioters instead of throwing them out of a window. He repaired swiftly to the rear of the crowd and yanked Picket Eugene Coster out of the swinging entrance doors by his collar. Policeman Dobbyn fought his way through the crowd and joined him. Revolvers in hand, they captured and link-handcuffed three more of the strikers. Then the strikers ran.

It was now 11 o'clock at night and word went out that twelve of the recalcitrant hotels had acceded to the demands of the waiters. Those demands were that the feed of waiters be improved, that fines be abolished, that they be not forced to buy their uniforms from hotel proprietors and that there be no discrimination against union men in discharging or employing hotel waiters.

The demands were not unreasonable, but could they not have waited a day or two before making them? Why throw up their jobs on New Year's Eve and lose their tips?

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

THE New York Garment Workers' strike is on in full force with fully 125,000 workers are out, and suffering for want of food, rent-money and other necessities has already begun. Some of the charitable organizations have thus early arranged to do what they can to cope with the situation, which will daily become more distressing. The strike has extended to the busheller's branch of the men's clothing trade, adding 7000 to the army of voluntarily unemployed. Bushellers are the tailors who do the fitting and altering of ready-made clothing before it is delivered. They want a 20 per cent. raise and a minimum wage of not less than $18 a week. This garment workers' strike is peculiar in that while it takes in all the branches, each branch has its own demands and grievances. That divergency of demands will likely do more than any other thing to break up the strike as a whole. If one branch gets what it wants, or what it compromises on, that branch will likely go back to work without waiting for the other branches to get what they are willing to accept in settlement. Union labor under its present selfish leadership goes "out" for what it may get for itself rather than for what it may help other union labor to get. Altruistic principles are not plentiful in the present baily-led labor circles. If all the New York garment-making go "out," they will be a striking body of 50,000.

All the unions involved are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor (Gompers and Co.) and Gompers has sent word, says Bernard A. Larger, secretary of the United Garment Workers, "that the A.O. of L. stands ready to aid in the strike." It is not at all likely that the aid promised will be financial, as last year, out of nearly $200,000 income (every dollar of it, union labor wages money,) Gompers and Co. only paid out $4192 for "strike benefits" (its own report for 1911-12) and only $6484 the year before, out of about the same income. The writer doubts whether federated union labor, as a whole, or even a majority of it, is aware of this significant fact.

If, as expected, the women's various garment makers' unions also go on strike, 70,000 more workers will go out, of whom 90 per cent. are women and young girls. These have been preparing for a strike for two years. They demand a union agreement (recognition of the union) and a working week of fifty hours or less, the wages demanded to be agreed on by union committees in the various shops. If it comes, this women's strike is to have the support of the Women's Trade Union League. Given such a strike the suffering will be intense if it lasts over two or three weeks. Also, women strikers are usually the most unreasonable of all strikers, except, perhaps, the I.W.W.'s (Haywood gang) and they are not genuine strikers, but Socialist-anarchists.

Already violence of a serious character has been begun by the United Garment Workers' strikers, men and women. They are storming plants, dragging out workers, and forcing them to join in the strike. They are storming the buildings in mobs of 500 or more, swarming up the fire escapes like monkeys with the police after them. Even yet, after the strike has been on for twelve days, no formal demands have been made of the employers. Abraham Gordon, of the Executive Committee of the United Garment Workers, says the strike is likely to extend to other cities. He intimates Baltimore, where he is one of the union officials, and where 10,000 garment workers make demands which they are determined to enforce.

In New York City, forty-five halls have been engaged by the strikers for gathering places. Violence is said to be discouraged by the strike leaders, though it is occurring. Four thousand factories are affected and picketing by the strikers is general. Members of the women's garment workers unions expected to go on strike classify as:

Dress and shirtwaist industry	35,000
White goods shops	20,000
Wrapper and kimono trade	6,000
Total	71,000
Add men's garment workers, now out	125,000
Probable total number of strikers	196,000

What loss that vast "area of trade disturbance" will mean to the wholesale and retail clothing trade of New York, and indeed, of the whole country, is impossible of estimation at this time. Orders for spring delivery will be held up and largely canceled. Already the daily loss of wages and profits, particularly the former, is enormous. Forty thousand women are involved in the present strike of 125,000. New York's normal annual productions of men's and boys' clothing has a value of $350,000,000. This strike is the largest in New York for years, and the first strike there in this industry. The unions mainly involved are:

Union—	Members.
Brotherhood of Tailors (coat tailors)	25,000
Overcoat and Sack Coat Makers' Union	5,000
Trousers Makers' Union	12,000
Vest Makers' Union	12,000
Knee Breeches Makers' Union	3,000
Children's Jacket Makers' Union	2,000
Boys' Reefers Union	2,500
Pressers' Union	10,000
Lithuanian Tailors' Union	2,000
Custom Tailors' Union	6,000
Total union members	70,000
Other associated workers	46,000
Total workers on strike	125,000

Philadelphia threatens a "sympathy" strike if employers there assist the New York employers by filling their contracts. As usual, the public will "pay the freight" in this strike. Ready-made clothing will be scarce and prices will go up, and that without the strikers' getting any of the advance they create.

The hotel waiters of New York did not strike on New Year's Eve as ordered. They were too busy gathering in the always generous tips of that evening. Nor have they struck since. The International Hotel Workers' Union boasts a membership of 12,000, and called a general strike, but it did not "go" in New York, not in Albany, nor elsewhere. The I.W.W.'s tried to make it "go" at the Astor House of New York, with bricks, but it was "no go."

The trolley lines of Yonkers, N. Y., are tied up in a strike and the trouble may extend to all the lines in Westchester county—practically a part of greater New York. The men's complaint is against the president of the road for "perversity, persecution and petty tryanny." The immediate alleged cause of the strike was the discharge of three Yonkers motormen for refusing to break in a new motorman who did not belong to Yonkers. They allege an oral agreement to give the preference for jobs to Yonkers men. The new man did not have a union card. That was, doubtless, the real reason for the strike of 200 men.

"I am not ready to believe," said Judge Anderson at Indianapolis, "that organized labor yet stands for the things that have been shown here. This is not a trial of labor unions, but of union officials accused of wrong-doing."

Boycotting by labor unions is a dangerous business, as the personal property of each member of the union may be attached to pay the resultant judgment for damages, as is just now the case in the famous Hatters' Union case in Connecticut.

What use is the American Federation of Labor (Gompers & Co.,) to the "federated" thirty-eight convicted at Indianapolis? Gompers says the federation has no means. What about the nearly $200,000 a year of union labor wages, money it has been gathering in for years past?

Will union labor ever find out what was really done with the $200,000 of its money which Gompers & Co. specially collected and sent to Darrow?

Fully $200,000 of union labor's wages money was wasted in defense of the union labor dynamite conspirators at Indianapolis. That $200,000 would have brought many necessities and comforts for union labor's wives and children, as also would the $200,000, also union labor's wages money, sent by Gompers & Co. to Clarence Darrow.

The Sun of New York says: "The verdict at Indianapolis clears the air. Things appear in their just proportions now. The preposterous idea that capitalists destroy their own property to injure organized labor will no longer find credence. Union labor is not rotten at heart or unsound of head. Its cause, honestly conducted within law, is just, but sometimes the cause is betrayed by unworthy leaders (Gompers, for instance—editor, Times,) by men of perverted judgment, or men naturally vicious and lawless (Haywood, for instance—editor, Times.) Union labor, to enjoy the full confidence of the community, must purge itself of such leaders (Gompers and Haywood, for instance—editor, Times.) The verdict in the Result in Loss.

STRIKES GROW MORE COMMON.

THEY ARE FOR LESS CAUSE AND ARE LESS SUCCESSFUL.

Financially the Country Is Very Much Worse Off for the Strikes That Have Been Called During the Past Three Years Than If They Had Never Occurred.

[The American Employer:] A writer who is evidently a well-informed and intelligent member of one of the strongest trades unions affiliated with the Federation of Labor contributes to Pearson's Magazine the following highly interesting article relative to the cost of strikes.

He says: Unions are now striking more frequently for less cause and are less successful. If union men, as a whole, did not have an exaggerated idea as to the benefits derived from strikes, I would have no occasion to speak. It is necessary to correct the mistake. We need a few cold facts to show us where we stand.

The strike is pictured to us as a boon. We are shown our increase in wages due to strikes and told to be thankful that we have such a powerful weapon close to our hand. There we have been misled. Whatever else the strike may be, it is not a boon. It does not put money in our pockets. It has not helped us bear any easier the increased cost of living but actually has helped to increase living cost. Financially, we are very much worse off for the strikes that have been fought out in the past three years, than if those strikes had never occurred. During that time the strikes cost us over $100,000,000. That is the strikers' loss alone. It does not count the loss to industry as a whole. But, even of the strikers' loss, we have had returned to us a very small part.

Take last year. According to the report of Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, boiled down to results, there was a direct loss of wages of $25,836,700, due to strikes during 1911. In addition, there were dues and assessments paid by all union men amounting to $35,000,000. That money was used either to aid strikes or carry on the machinery of strikes. The two sums make a total of $60,836,700, the union man's contribution to strikes. In return for this outlay there was an increase in wages amounting to $8,329,200. Subtract this from the total cost and we have $52,507,300, the net loss to unions due to strikes during 1911.

This startling loss is never figured out for us. But in comparison it was just as bad the year before and the year before that. I can prove it by the reports of Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor and the annual reports of the Bureau of Labor issued by the United States government. It is only when the figures from these two sources are placed side by side that their surprising significance is shown. . . .

Nor is this the only money directly out of pocket. The savings spent by union men while on strike is another large loss. There is no way of determining what this is, but the benefits paid by other unions to eke out the savings are in themselves no inconsiderable figure. During 1911, the report of the American Federation of Labor shows the strike benefits to have been $4,709,550. Unfortunately, we cannot even estimate the amount of the savings spent, so we will have to get at the total cost in another way.

As secretary of my local union, I knew that about 0 per cent. of the money collected goes to the grand lodge and 60 per cent. is used in donations to other unions and for local expenses. Our local union averages fifty members and had, during 1911 a total expense of $1047. This is an average of $20 a man for the year. The same figure can be arrived at by other means, though Secretary Morrison's report does not help us in this respect.

The point I wish to bring out is that every union man contributes an average of $20 a year for the privilege. For the 1,756,735 union men (the writer evidently limits union men to A.F. of L. members) in this country that makes a total of $35,000,000 for the year. That fund is a war fund. All except what goes for running expenses is available for strikes or to keep up the machinery and pay the salaries of the men who engineer the strikes. It can be called the great national strike fund. Totaling it with the direct loss in wages we get more than $60,000,000, the gross annual cost of strikes. Total national gain in wages due to strikes is not figured out by Secretary Morrison, but he gives the number of men involved, the number benefited, and the individual increase in wages. A tedious problem in arithmetic shows that the total gain is $8,329,400. Compare that sum with $60,000,000, or in wages, and you see in an instant how unprofitable strikes are for the even with the $25,000,000 direct loss strikers.

It is known, at least to union leaders, that strikes cost more than the direct benefit from them, although I doubt that many realize that the average cost of strikes is $52,000,000 a year. I have heard this matter discussed and the argument advanced is that the money expended in strikes is in the nature of an investment and whatever is gained in the way of increased wages is interest on the investment. In this case the $8,000,000 returned for the $52,000,000 investment of 1911 would look like 15 per cent. But, I regret to say, that whole argument is fallacious. The $52,000,000 is not an investment. There is no tangible asset for it. That money was spent. It is a war cost. The 15 per cent. is all that was saved. Next year there will be another $52,000,000 "invested" and another 15 per cent. return on the money. But how about the "investment" of this year and last year? Next year we will require another $52,000,000 to earn a loss to ourselves of 15 per cent.

These reports show two important tendencies. The number of strikes and the cost of these strikes are increasing faster than the membership in the labor unions. This is a bad tendency, but it has double significance in the light of the fact that the percentage of successful strikes is decreasing. This assertion is so certain to be denied that I shall prove it at once. Fortunately, the proofs lie in Secretary Morrison's reports.

In the past three years the number of strikes annually has advanced from 693 to 1359, although the number of organizations has only increased from 109 to 115 and the membership from 1,482,872 to 1,756,735. This is an increase in strikes of 83 per cent. in three years. The expense has been in proportion. Taking the strike

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Enormous are the yearly pay rolls in our mining industry, totaling fully $700,000,000 a year, an increase of $300,000,000 a year in only seven years.

The chief of them are:

	Pay roll.	Per cent. Increase.
Coal, bituminous	$302,794,175	54.5
Coal, anthracite	[illegible]	172.3
Coal, total	280,697,941	69.2
Copper	45,060,017	56.6
Precious metals, total	27,765,468	—6.2
Deep mines	24,465,781	—11.1
Placer mines	3,199,827	44.7
Petroleum and natural gas	24,823,551	40.3

Clay	1,586,059	41.6
Sulphur and pyrite	992,998	100.3
Talc and soapstone	607,129	77.1
Quicksilver	486,135	—53.1

The wage-earners number 1,093,286 and the salaried employees 46,694, making a pay roll total of 1,139,980 workers.

American mining is a large and good wages-paying proposition, which suffers heavy loss (chiefly borne by the workers) every time a strike of miners occurs. Living expenses go on just the same during times of voluntary idleness as during periods of involuntary idleness. What earthly sense is there in us wage-earners bringing upon ourselves such loss by voluntary idleness through strikes?

The wage-earners in mining classify and rank as follows:

Form of mining—	Wage earners.
Bituminous coal	548,729
Anthracite coal	172,104
All coal miners	743,283
Copper	55,143
Iron	52,720

Gypsum	3,778
Bluestone	2,175
Sulphur	698
All other mining	8,775

This vast army (1,139,980) of mining wage-earners are turning out a product worth nearly $1,500,000,000 a year, on a pay roll of fully $700,000,000 a year, based on a capital investment exceeding $4,000,000,000. The mining wage-earners in California are:

Industry—	Number.
Petroleum and natural gas	7,607
Copper	2,810
Precious metals	2,625
Granite	1,319
All mining in California	22,258

Four Millions at Fifty Cents a Day.

The Ministry of Labor of France reports that 4,000,000 French women are working for a living and that their wages average 50 cents a day. Outside statistics put the figure as low as 40 cents a day. Is it any wonder that "irregular cohabitations" are more relatively frequent perhaps in France than in any other country?

Jobs Open in Los Angeles.

That the job is still chasing the man (in spite of the I.W.W. and other gatherings of self-idle men) is evident from the fact that the following, among many other, jobs are advertised as being vacant in Los Angeles and vicinity.

London is threatened with a bakers' strike for a minimum wage, and better conditions. The men want a fifty-four-hour working week, an hour each day for dinner, and a minimum wage of $7.50 a week for bake-house men, and $8 for factory hands.

THE RIGHT TO WORK.

Any Attempt to Restrict this Individual Liberty Should Be Severely Dealt With.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] Italian laborers in this country, as a whole have acquired a reputation for industry and peaceable behavior, though it has been occasionally marred by a turbulent and violent element. One of the worst instances occurred this last week just across the Hudson River, at the Edgewater coal yards. There was a strike for higher wages, over there, and there is a general belief that it was stirred up by that body of agitaters who have no real organization, but who arrogate to themselves the imposing title of the Industrial Workers of the World. At all events, there was the usual effort to fill the places of the strikers, and, as there were threats of violence, the Sheriff of the county provided defenders for the "strike-breakers." The result was an attack by an armed force of Italian laborers which resulted in the killing of two men and the serious injury of several others. Some of the perpetrators of this deadly assault have been arrested, and the authorities are in pursuit of others.

It is important that this opportunity should be used to teach a needed lesson on the rights of workmen, and it is to be hoped that "Jersey justice" will prove equal to the occasion. Whether or not the wages and labor conditions of these Italian workmen were what they should have been does not appear, and is not altogether relevant to the main question. If their places could be readily filled on the terms and conditions on which they were employed, the presumption is that these were or they would not attract the needed labor. In any case, others had the same right to seek the work for what was offered since the strikers had given it up because the terms were not satisfactory to them.

This right to work as well as the right to refuse to work is entitled to protection. Those who desire to accept work when others give it up must be defended against violence, if law and order are to mean anything for workingmen. Such an attack with deadly weapons upon strike-breaking workmen and their defenders, is no more to be tolerated than a raid by bandits. Those who participate in it and cause manslaughter should be severely dealt with as a lesson regarding the limits of the rights of labor.

Union Men's Property Attached.

A dispatch from Danbury, Ct., says liens have been filed against real estate of 116 members of hatters' unions in that city to obtain judgment of $240,000 won by D. E. Lowe & Co., in the United States Court, in Hartford, two months ago under the Sherman anti-trust law in a boycott case.

At South Norwalk, Ct., United States Marshal Blakeman has also attached the property of all local members of the hatting trade to satisfy the judgment secured by Lowe & Co., of Danbury against the United Hatters of North America in the famous boycott case.

Machinists of the National Railways of Mexico are on strike, and are looking for the engineers to join them. Chances of settlement are slight.

With Socialist Mayor Lunn of Schenectady out of Little Falls, N. Y., and held for trial for strike agitation, the textile strike in that city has been settled.

LAST OFFER 20-CENT RATE

At a logical juncture comes HIBERNIAN HOME BUILDERS' first share-price advance, to 22½ cents, Jan. 20.

Steady restraint on the part of our directors has prevented a price rise until developed property values and an active building program have made inevitable the first increase.

Only seven days remain during which you can buy shares in this unrivaled investment at the 20-cent rate.

By prompt purchase you will share in the 12½ per cent profit on par, which will be added to all investments, Jan. 20.

This era of increase is coincident with an era of construction activity on our building tract, on 84th Place near Main and Moneta.

Our architect, A. H. Stibolt, well known throughout California as the designer of Loma City and Planada, is now at work on five modern 6-room bungalows.

These attractive residences are already in demand and will be sold before finished. Equities in our shares can be exchanged for equities in these houses.

HIBERNIAN SAFETY FOR SAVINGS HOME BUILDERS

Our Guarantee Fund, already larger than any similar local fund at corresponding date, is a special attraction for careful investors.

There is no protective fund like this. It grows by automatic accretions; is backed by our shareholders and is under independent management.

This fund stands behind the small investor. It means your money back up to 10,000 shares.

Invest in HIBERNIAN HOME BUILDERS' shares and take the turn on the road to prosperity. Buying at 20 cents you get latent values, which our building program will force steadily upward.

Cut out the coupon and come in at once. Our office staff awaits your convenience every night till Jan. 20 up to 9 p. m.

One dollar monthly will buy 100 shares. Pay cash if you like. Use the coupon for inquiry.

News of Interest to the Daily Breadwinner.

MR. DARROW'S AIM.

He Talks to the Unbaked in Their Language and Offers Nothing Better Should State of Anarchy Occur.

[San Francisco Commercial News:] Clarence Darrow has been meddling again in the affairs of the unions in Utah and Nevada and advising with that other arch trouble - maker, Charles Moyer of Steunenberg murder fame. Darrow varies the monotony of his existence by delivering himself of near wisdom, in a lecture tour.

Here are some sample rhetorical tricks.

"Men have been sent to jail because they raised money to buy food for women whose husbands were out on strike."

Were this true it would be a monstrously unjust thing. Darrow's word is gospel to some people. Do you, who read this, believe that ever, in the United States, such a thing has happened?

Darrow says:

"When they find a labor organization is a combine they never give it thirty days to comply with the law—they send its president to jail."

Does anyone reading this know of any such case? Does any one know of a labor organization president being sent to jail? Does Mr. Clarence Darrow, lawyer and trouble-maker, know of any such case?

Darrow says:

"The country is filled with cripples and orphans because the courts have twisted the law so that the poor man couldn't possibly recover damages when hurt."

Is this true? Are the courts responsible in any manner for the orphaning of children or the crippling of operatives? Of course not. Yet, Mr. Darrow, in his vindictive hate of all order and government would so impress the mind of his hearers that they would believe the courts had actually orphaned and crippled people and then refused redress.

"The judges say that if a man is foolish enough to go down and work in a railroad yard, he ought to lose an arm. It's a careless business, like burglary. A man ought to be a judge."

Is it true that any judge has ever said such a terrible thing directly or by inference? Do you, Mr. Darrow, dare to say that you can cite a case wherein a judge delivered himself of such a pronouncement?

Mr. Darrow should be pilloried on his own epigrams. There isn't anything wise, or anything true, in any of them. They breathe a hopeless dissatisfaction and they do not provide a shadow of a remedy, though every word contained in them scintillant with truth. His appeal is to the lowest passions. He talks to the unlaked, the language of envy and hate, unreasoning in its malice and as devoid of logic as the ravings of a maniac.

There is one question this brilliant paranolac has never answered. What does he propose to do once his end has been secured, once a revolution is started? Mr. Darrow, supposing that "the greatest revolution this or any other country ever saw" and which you hunger for with drooling hops, occurred. Supposing all the wheels of industry should ston" what would you, Mr. Darrow, suggest take place next in order to remove the real and imaginary evils you complain about and remove them permanently? In looking over your works, we find nothing but hopeless fantasies, no remedy is suggested, no plan is drawn, no provision is made to take the place of the present order of things. What is your idea?

Will the fact that the lower element in society, which, by the way has existed from the pre-Adamite socialist condition to the present day, be capable of being other than the lowest element? Will the stoppage of all production permanently level all people to a dead inefficiency where ambition to excel, envy to acquire, necessity to achieve, acquisitiveness, lust of power, and all the good and bad impulses to cause men to strive are gone? And if this is to be the result of Mr. Darrow's dream of anarchy what has he to offer to make sane people believe this to be a desirable condition?

All Mr. Darrow seems to aim at is to make people utterly miserable if they believe and intensely angry if they disbelieve him, and Mr. Darrow does not seem to mind which effect obtains. His aim is between the two, to so manage that he is retained in case of trouble and always at a fat fee. So, there is method in his madness.

Trial Was a Fair One.

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times:] Conviction of thirty-eight of the forty defendants in the dynamite conspiracy cases which have been on trial for so long in the United States Court at Indianapolis is the climax of one of the most dramatic chapters in the history of criminology in this country. During the trial a number of defendants were either cleared or the evidence was so insufficient that the District Attorney moved for their discharge, thus reducing to forty the number whose fate rested with the jury after the judge had delivered his charge. It has been a long-drawn-out proceeding. The case of the prosecution had been painstakingly prepared and the evidence presented was minute in its detail. The defense was conducted with ability. There is no room for doubt that the trial was a fair one. It is not the last word, however. The defendants still have another day in court. They are entitled to and will claim the right of review by a higher tribunal.

On the part of the prosecution of this case there has been a clearly perceptible disposition to avoid even an appearance of persecution. The case was conducted with an apparent intention to ascertain the truth of the crime that was committed—to ascertain who were guilty—and not for the mere purpose of securing convictions. Not all prosecutions are conducted in this spirit, but it is the one that should control in all cases. That it has controlled in this instance goes far to convince the public which has not been able to follow all the ramifications of the evidence that in the conclusion substantial justice has been done.

Webster, Mass., has an acute strike of textile workers in the Arden mills of the American Woolen Company. The I.W.W. national organizer has called a general strike in all the mills, here and elsewhere, of that company, particularly the 30,000 workers at Lawrence Mass., who are ordered to strike again. Ettor and Giovanetti are to lead the general strike from Fitchburg. If a general strike results more violence may be expected. The California State Federation of Labor opposes the fixing by law of a minimum wage for women. The firemen on the eastern railroads still show a strong desire to arbitrate rather than strike, but they still want two firemen instead of one on 2000 of the largest locomotives. They say that will increase earnings in a greater ratio than expenses.

Strikes on and Off.

celebrated case at Indianapolis proves how imperative the necessity is."

The expected strike of the garment workers of New York City is on. It affects 4000 shops and 150,000 men, women and children, and that amid the rigors of an eastern winter. Shortly, accounts of great suffering will doubtless reach us daily. About a thousand strike pickets are on duty. As yet the demands of the workers have not been presented to the employers. That savors strongly of the I.W.W. tactics of the blow and the word instead of, as is more fair, the word and the blow. What the strikers asw, however, is abolition of the subcontract system and child labor; a 20 per cent. wage increase, with a minimum wage scale of $10 a week for women and $16 for men; overtime work to be paid for at the rate of time and a half, holiday overtime at double rates ,and clean and sanitary workshops. It is alleged that subcontracting leads to labor in dark tenements, evidently a fair allegation. As to the abolition of child labor there should be no question. It ought to be abolished in every trade and industry for the sake of the future of our nation, even though parents need (or think they need) the money their children can earn at the expense of body, intellect and education. Foreign-born workers are far too ready to send their children, even the younger ones, to work in this country, following the custom prevalent in the low-wages countries of Europe and elsewhere. Child labor needs no prevention by law if parents will only see their duty and do it. Such a law is necessary, however, to make some parents, far too many, unfortunately, do their duty towards their children, who should not be regarded and treated just as industrial chattels. Parents frequently and purposely understate their children's ages to employers. In other words parents are primarily more to blame for child labor than are employers. If parents did not voluntarily send the children out to labor there would not be any child labor. Children cannot be seized and made to labor by employers. Nor should clothing be made in tenements, all more or less unsanitary, but in clean, sanitary factories. As to the demands for increased wages, they must be settled, finally, by the immutable law of supply and demand, which applies as much to labor as it does to pig iron or any commodity.

Even the modified wages and extra help demands of the firemen on the fifty-two eastern railroads would cost the companies $9,000,000 a year, or 25 per cent. advance on present wages. The "extra "help" (two firemen on the larger engines) demand has been rejected by the companies. The firemen want arbitration under the Erdman act, rather than the plan of arbitration followed in the case of engineers. Word from Cananea, Mex., is that with the three principal strike leaders in prison at Hermosillo, all the copper workers have gone back to work and the strike is off.

Albany (N. Y.) waiters did not strike on New Year's eve, as proposed. Waiters' jobs are easily filled. What has union-labor to show for the nearly $3,000,000 which it has directly paid over to Gompers & Co. in the past thirty-two years?

The Gompers institution is a useless affair and costs union labor an average of $200,000 a year to keep up. And what for? What really good work for labor did Gompers ever perform? One of his union-labor incomes is $5000 a year salary. Is he worth it?

New York City theater musicians have taken to striking just a moment before the performances should commence. What about the rights of the audiences with bought-and-paid-for seats?

Railway strike troubles in Spain are spreading from Barcelona to the main southern lines. Prudence is urged by the Central Committee of the Railway Men's Union. The government has taken military precautions against violence.,

A strike is on at one of the Philadelphia theaters against the use of an "automatic fiddler." Are pianolas in danger?

A grand jury at Chicago is investigating the strike of electrical workers against the Postal Telegraph Company. All over the United States wires have been cut, heavy cables have been cut with axes, and telegraph poles have been sawed down, causing many thousands of dollars loss.

It put another phase on union-labor boycotting now that the homes of union men are being attached to recover judgments rendered against the unions to which the men belong, as just done in 189 cases in Danbury, Ct. In this case the Federal Court's judgment is for $252,130.

Don't lose sight of the fact that strikes have cost American workers the direct loss of $300,000,000 wages in the past twenty years. The indirect loss was beyond estimation.

Arbitration is also having its way with the masons of Albany, N. Y., who stopped work by a strike on the capital rebuilding. The men are back at work pending the arbitrators' decision.

The strike of 500 weavers at Utica, N. Y., lasted only two days. The cause of the strike was the refusal of the mill management to discharge two non-union workers. The two are still working.

Doubtless at Socialist Mayor Lunn's instigation, twenty-five children of the Little Falls strikers are being exhibited for days and days in Schnectady, N. Y. Socialists established this practice in connection with the late strike at Lawrence, Mass., when large numbers of such children were purposely (note that) clothed in rags and painfully exhibited in New York City. The practice is outrageous and creates disgust instead of sympathy in the minds of law-abiding people.

There is such a boom in the baby carriage trade that agents of the I. W.W. are organizing the workers for a strike.

Belfast (Ireland) dockers have gone on strike and the coal heavers have joined them.

The French Socialist one-day strike against war was a fizzle. It did not affect the ordinary appearance of Paris.

A schoolboy strike of somewhat large dimensions in New York was settled the other day by spanking the leaders. Not a bad plan. Many adult strike leaders need similar treatment. One thousand Mexican miners are now on strike at Cananea, Mex., but the smelter is still working.

The Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia dealt a hard blow to the violent Kanawha striking coal miners in upholding martial-law and refusing to relese the military prisoners. They were taken in arms against the State.

London has a taxicab strike. Five thousand drivers are out. Petrol at 26 cents a gallon, instead of 16 cents, is the cause. London has 8000 taxicabs.

The men's garment-workers strike is costing the strikers a loss of $250,000 wages daily.

The Story of John Davis, the Most D... Money in the World, Who Is N...

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A new man, and a big man in his dimensions, in his energy and in stirring achievements along his line, is hereafter to counsel the President and to "appreciate," making use of a professional word favorite verb of his own, such criminals as may counterfeit the bonds and currency of the United States.

In the meanwhile, up to March 4, he will protect Woodrow Wilson against the schemes and attacks of counterfeiters, anarchists, and other assassins. William J. Flynn is his name. Going further, he is one of the greatest of living detectives. Better still, possessing a phrase and a testimonial from John F. Wilkie, whom he succeeds as chief of the secret service, "he is an absolutely honest man."

A real detective does not look like a detective. Nor does Flynn. He is six feet in stature and must weigh 190 pounds. His hair is black, though he is 45 years old, and his eyes, large and uncommonly intelligent, are very keen. Unnecessary words in his opinion, are as wasteful and unwise as unnecessary motions. He has been in a "battle of wits," as he calls it, with counterfeiters for fifteen years; and of the time he was stationed in New York, the busiest center for the circulation of spurious silver in the United States, also the greatest market for bogus bank notes and the meeting place for the outlaws engaged or about to be engaged in that nefarious and most unprofitable business.

Counterfeiting has never paid. All counterfeiters, if they live into old age, die beggars. At least half of their days, moreover, are spent in prison. Still, many men turn to counterfeiting in the teeth of all experience. So Flynn has had no leisure in which to cultivate the pleasant art of conversation. He is as blunt and matter-of-fact as J. P. Morgan. One would guess, looking at him speculatively, that he owned elevators, farms and factories out West or was digging tunnels and building bridges somewhere in the East.

HANGS ON LIKE A BULLDOG.

Large, mountainous almost, up and down, as well as circumferentially, Flynn is lively of head and brisk of foot. Pounding has been at the root of all his success—persistent hanging of the man or the gang he has got out to break. He never forgets, nor does he ever give up. After years of steady work he put the members of the Luppo-Morella gang of blackhanders and counterfeiters in the penitentiary. He "broke them up," as he told me, one at a time, always getting nearer and nearer to the hidden leaders. Luppo and Morella were finally "apprehended"—every one in the secret knew they would be, with tenacious and tireless, on their trail. Luppo was sent to the Federal prison in Atlanta for twenty-five years, Morella's sentence was even

"I would describe a detective," Mr. Flynn replied in answer to a question, "as saying that he ought to have natural ability, though secondary, and a whole lot of other things."

Once, spoke William J. Burns, who was Mr. Flynn's associate in secret service, and who earned his last year chiefly by hunting men, "There is nothing else to it," said to me in Chicago. "common sense." Mr. Flynn obliging is elaborating his answer, "is more than one gives it by a definition. It not only governs a man's vision, his processes, and his labor, but his personal demeanor. ...said, however, that spurious notes get into banks among the deposits of grocers and small merchants. An expert receiving teller knows them at a glance. He immediately sends word to us. We take the counterfeit bill to the merchant who deposited it with the bank in the hope that he will remember the physical characteristics of the man from whom it was received. Ordinarily he can give us no help. The same counterfeit slips into other banks. So we keep on going to tradesmen, tobacconists and saloon keepers until we find some one who can fully or partly describe the person we are hunting. After that, things move more easily for us. We eliminate suspected criminals whom the description does not fit. By and by we catch the man we are after. It is a long, tedious task, but it is interesting to the detective who likes his business.

"At the end of the seven years, Luppo, Morella and all their confederates were in the penitentiary under sentences ranging from fifteen to thirty years. They took an honest man to Highland, their manufacturing headquarters, and, under threats of death compelled him to do their printing. We learned his story and he assisted us considerably. The photo-engraving plates on which the counterfeits were printed disappeared, however, before we raided the plant at Highland. Nor have we ever found them. A Morella counterfeit is occasionally taken in at some bank, which shows that a few of the notes are still in circulation."

"Tell me the story of John Davis, the English counterfeiter," I said.

"From my point of view," Mr. Flynn answered, "John Davis is a remarkable character. There are men who excel him as photographers, or as etchers, or as engravers, but he is the ablest all-around counterfeiter in the world. Moreover, aside from his skill as a mechanic, he is a very shrewd and resourceful individual. I am glad to say that a sentence of thirteen years necessitated an involuntary retirement from his customary employment. He is now safe within the walls of the Atlanta penitentiary. Some day he will regain his liberty, and I feel sure he will come straight to Washington and call on me. We met each other twice under peculiar circumstances. His case, let me add, is one of the biggest and most interesting that has occurred within my experience.

COPIED OLD BROCKWAY'S PLAN.

"About fourteen years ago a counterfeit $10 note was put in circulation at a race track near the city of New York. The scheme was similar to the one originated many years ago by William Brockway, who studied chemistry at Yale University, and later ranked first among the counterfeiters of his time. Brockway planned to make bets of $25 through confederates on a special day at all the race tracks in the United States, and get good money in change for the bills of a large denomination, which he had just counterfeited. Brockway's plan failed; he was caught before he could put it into execution. The one tried later by Davis, the copy, you understand, was moderately successful.

"It developed that John Davis, whom I then knew as John Leiberman, was the leader of the band. He got away but we apprehended all of his associates and sent them to the penitentiary. At this point John Davis himself drops out of my story for a time. He will be there, but so shadowy in outline as not to be recognized by an outsider. He vanished, as I said, but he was not forgotten. Months afterward a man who gave his name as Jacob Stern asked the paying teller of a New York bank to give him American currency for £160 of English bank notes. The teller was suspicious. He told Stern that the clerk in charge of the foreign exchange was at luncheon, and to come back in half an hour. Then he called me on the telephone.

"I was at the bank when Stern returned. The notes, I had seen, were counterfeit. I apprehended Jacob Stern and took him before a United States Commissioner. He said he had found the money in the street. We could not disprove his statement and he was released. He went to St. Louis, but we kept our eyes on him just the same. When Stern and I left the bank two of his confederates, one of whom was a young man named Barmash, watched us from the opposite sidewalk. They had over $100,000 of counterfeit Bank of England notes on their persons. I knew nothing about them at the time—the fact came out afterwards. They guessed that Stern was in trouble, and caught the next ship back to England. Thus ends the second section of the story about John Davis.

WHEREIN JOHN DAVIS BLUNDERED.

"Meanwhile the Davenport counterfeit, as it was called, was passed on innocent bystanders in London. It was not a very good imitation. The Bank of England relies on the complicated watermark in its paper for protection. Its notes otherwise are easily copied, being plain specimens of simple printing and lithographing. The solicitors of the bank offered a large price for the Davenport plate. Advertisements were published in the newspapers of England. The money would be paid and no questions asked, the lawyers promised. John Davis walked into their office one morning and claimed the reward. When he acknowledged that he made the plate, the solicitors almost dropped dead from astonishment.

"Well, to shorten my story of John Davis, let me say that he had blundered. As a matter of fact, the Bank of England had not as yet discovered that he had counterfeited one of its notes and that his watermark was even better than the one he had imitated. Davis believed the bank was trying to get his plate. Also, he was sore. Barmash, one of his partners, and the father of the young man I spoke of a while ago, had run away to South Africa with $300,000 of the counterfeit notes. Davis thought he would claim the reward and start the detectives on the trail of Barmash. Word, as he had hoped, was telegraphed to South Africa by Scotland Yard. Barmash, on deck, as his vessel was nearing port, saw a police boat coming out. He was a sly old party and heaved his counterfeit money overboard.

DAVIS COMES TO THE UNITED STATES.

"I went to London as a witness against Davis. The solicitors, you see, after some conversation and explanation, called an officer and had John Davis pinched. The upshot of the whole matter was that detectives from Scotland Yard took Davis to Holland, gave him $1500, and warned him never again to set foot in Great Britain. He was a dangerous man and they wanted to pass him along to some other country. Presently he came unnoticed into the United States. Soon thereafter I learned that some one was trying to exploit a counterfeit $10 note. The plate had been made, a few samples had been run off, and a group of little merchants on the East Side of New York were arranging to sell counterfeit money to friends and customers at about one-third of its face value.

"We located the printing plant at Revere, in Massachusetts. The building stood on a hill, and, therefore, we had to approach it carefully. One of our men, short of stature, dressed in the uniform of a telegraph messenger, rapped on the door. Just then a covered wagon drove up to the house. On the seat, wearing a grocer's apron, sat another of our detectives. The rest of us were lying down on the bottom of the wagon among some empty baskets. When the door was opened the supposed messenger boy showed an alleged telegram. The next moment all of us were in the house. John Davis and I were surprised to find ourselves face to face. We got everything—the men and the plate. The whole gang, including the small merchants, were sentenced to the penitentiary.

"Our work most of the time, however, is less spectacular. It is drudgery, as is all labor that is useful and produces results. The little counterfeiter who spends a dollar for plaster, base metal, and plating material causes us a great deal of bother. He makes $20 worth of spurious quarters and destroys his molds. Then he passes his coins in the dusk of the afternoon among shopkeepers, many of whom are foreigners."

SECURITY HOME BUILDERS OF LOS ANGELES

To Safely and Profitably Invest Your Earnings

Security Home Builders is Making Wonderful Progress

HUNDREDS of people in Los Angeles and throughout the United States have purchased stock in this young, yet exceptionally strong Company.

THESE people know that a co-operative home building company conducted on safe, sound business methods, as this Company is conducted, is sure to make a wonderful success.

THEY know that their money placed in a company backed by real estate, and managed by such capable men as direct the affairs of this Company, is absolutely safe and will earn big dividends.

EVERY act of this Company is made for the benefit of all shareholders.

EVERYBODY is treated exactly alike—there are no favorites or chosen few, all paid full market value for their stock, and all share alike in the entire profits.

THERE are no transactions but what will stand the most rigid investigation—the past records and business dealings of our Officers, Directors and Members of the Advisory Board, are above reproach.

OUR success has been phenomenal, and the reason is because of our clean methods of doing business.

THERE is nothing that can honestly be said against us.

EVERY shareholder, and every person who knows us have a good word to say for Security Home Builders.

WE are all putting forth every effort to make Security Home Builders one of the greatest organizations of its kind.

SO great has been the confidence placed in us by the investing public that we need not sell another share of stock to continue our building operations, and make big profits for our shareholders.

BUT this Company is a co-operative Company. Co-operative in its strictest sense; organized with the intention of letting everybody who can invest one dollar, or one hundred dollars, a month share in the profits we make; making more for everybody who will place confidence in us, than they could possibly make for themselves.

YOU may have lost money in other kind of investments, and for that reason are a little doubtful, but even the person with the most pessimistic views surely cannot doubt the future of Los Angeles.

LOOK at the building that has taken place in this city in the past five years—look how Real Estate values have gone up and are daily jumping by leaps and bounds to higher prices.

REGARDLESS of all that has taken place, this city has only just started to grow.

GREATER fortunes can be made in the future than have been made in the past.

BUT the person who is going to make the money, and profit by the rapid growth of this great city, is not the one who hesitates until it is too late, and then says, "If I had only known."

TAKE a few dollars every month, all that you can spare from your earnings, and buy Security shares.

YOUR profits will mean independence in old age, or if misfortune should overtake you, or you should be able to send your children through college from your profits, or start in business for yourself, or accomplish some other desire that you may have.

REMARKABLE GROWTH.

Figures Just Compiled Reveal Wonderful Advance of Glendale in Past Seven Years—Sales Reported.

GLENDALE, Jan. 11.—Figures just compiled show that in the course of seven years Glendale has experienced a growth in population of from 1000 to 7000 people, and that during that time the assessed valuation of the city has grown from $500,000 to $3,500,000. The floor space for business purposes in this city has about doubled during the past year, while the building permits for the year for business purposes amounted to $139,000.

So rapid has been the growth of the Methodist Church of this place that the trustees of the church decided at a meeting held this week to enlarge the present structure. The main auditorium will be enlarged and two additional rooms added, the cost to be in the neighborhood of $5000.

The Trustees of this city have secured an option on a lot on Broadway, between Louise and Kenwood streets, with the intention of erecting on it the structure which is to house the new automobile fire engine to be purchased by this city. The price asked for the site is $3000.

John H. Zipprodt has sold a lot in the Glen Ena tract on Lomita avenue, east of Glendale avenue, to H. Vergil Cowan and a lot in the same tract to Harry G. McBain. Both purchasers expect soon to begin the erection of homes. Thomas Addison has purchased of Julia R. Beers three lots of the Kate C. Palmer tract on Belmont street, north of Fifth street. It is understood that homes will be erected on the property at once. Mrs. Olive L. Nelson has sold her property on Everett street, above Broadway to Mrs. Maude S. Potter.

B. F. Patterson has just had plans drawn for a new residence to be constructed on Belmont street, south of Third. The old Penn property on Howard street, above Third, has been purchased by C. M. and C. R. Lunn and Arlie Gilhousen.

DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED.

At a meeting held yesterday by the stockholders of the Los Angeles Investment Company the present board of directors of that company was elected to succeed itself. The directors re-elected were Charles A. Elder, W. D. Deeble, George M. Derby, Charles Cassat Davis, A. L. Bagley, Harry M. Rodgers and A. P. Thomson.

WHY WE SELL STOCK

Our business requires capital. We can take your money and make more money for you than you can make for yourself.

Home Seekers' Building Corporation is doing a very large business in the planning and erecting of bungalows, Swiss chalets, and other types of residences, for lot owners who have not sufficient cash to build.

At this time the company is especially busy in the raising of cottages in certain districts, and changing them into flats.

In all these cases the company loans whatever amount (within reason) is required to help the property owner finance the proposition.

The company makes a good profit on the building work and in addition has a profitable investment in the loan.

There is no mystery about this proposition—it's just plain business.

We firmly believe that our stock at the present time offers an unexcelled opportunity for large profit.

Stock is now selling at 50c per share. It will advance soon to 60c per share. The par value is $1 per share. Regular quarterly dividends are paid at the rate of 8% per annum on the selling price.

LATENT WEALTH

Many country districts of Southern California are dormant for lack of organized effort to develop.

THE LATENT WEALTH IS THERE—teeming plant life in soil, water at slight depth, and California sunshine over all.

And undeveloped, the land may be purchased at prices of from one-fifth to one-half its developed value.

It is to take advantage of these conditions that the California Acreage Home Builders has been organized—to develop fruit and farming land—TO APPLY HOME BUILDING METHODS TO COUNTRY ACREAGE—to buy land at wholesale and sell at retail — TO MAKE MONEY FOR ITS STOCKHOLDERS.

The Oil Industry.

NEW OPERATORS ARE ATTRACTED.

Kern River Company Enters Fullerton.

Midway Ouput Likely to Show Decrease.

Santa Fe Well Spouts in Midway.

Expectations are that the Kern River Oilfields Limited will soon begin drilling on a twenty-seven acre tract recently acquired in La Habra Valley. The entrance of this company—which has heretofore confined its operations to the northern fields—into the Fullerton field, is another instance of how developments there within the last year have attracted the attention of operators in other sections of the State.

The lease of the company is somewhat to the south, but in the immediate vicinity of present operations. Most of the operators who have recently entered have acquired property in this portion of the valley, and undoubtedly as a result of this activity the field will be considerably extended. Within the past few months another company new to this section has started operations—the North American Oil Consolidated.

Altogether there are probably fifteen strings of tools running in the valley. The Union Oil Company is at present the most active in this respect, with five in operation. The Amalgamated Oil Company is working on four wells, two of which are cemented. The Petroleum Company has one well going down. The Doresby Oil Company is working on a new well. The Walker-Brand is still drilling near the Doresby. The Avanners Oil Company operates near the Amalgamated.

The production of the valley is at present over 5060 barrels a day, the greater part of the oil coming from the Amalgamated's lease. The Union and the Petroleum Company are also serving an output from two wells apiece. The Doresby Oil Company has brought in one well.

NEW OBJECTIVE.

The Bixby ranch, at some distance from these operations, may also become a new objective. Considerable interest has been manifested in this part of the field, which is strictly wildcat, and the Standard recently acquired a lease and has started work on a well. Some of the big company's wells stand as outposts of the valley operations, and may be considered as part of the activity centering there.

The Kern River Oil Fields Limited recently entered the Santa Maria field, and is apparently extending the scope of its development work considerably. Its advent into the Fullerton field following closely upon that of the North American Consolidated Company bears out the forecast that there is likely to be quite a migration of northern operators to the district.

Present indications are that the Midway production for December will show a decrease, as compared with November, because of the shutting down of a number of wells producing under eighteen gravity. The last few months have also been rather unfortunate in that a number of large gushers have ceased producing, because of collapsed casings, sanding up, etc. The Pacific Crude is out of commission as is also the great K. T. and O. gusher. The casing collapsed in the Union Oil Company's 5000-barrel McLeod well. The Midway Field's well, which came in with about a 5000-barrel output, sanded up some time ago. A number of other big wells have met with difficulties of various kinds. It is probable that if the Midway field shows a decline, figures for the State will exhibit a falling off in the December output, as compared with the November. It is likely, however, that the under eighteen-gravity producers will shortly enter the lists again as strongly as ever.

MANY OLD WELLS ARE DEEPENING

NEW SAND RESULTS IN RENEWED ACTIVITY.

Effect of Union's Newlove Strike Felt in Operations in Oil Fields Tepusquet Harbors an Oil Mystery Activity Pronounced Around Fugler's Point.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA MARIA, Jan. 3.—Since the most important work in the Santa Maria oil district is the deepening of old wells in the main field, which was stimulated by the success some months ago, of the operations of the Union-Newlove tract, when well No. 21 was put down to a third sand. This well previous to deepening had been only a very ordinary well, but when it struck the third sand became a gusher and has been a very consistent producer since.

On neighboring tracts similar deepening operations are carried on and the "old" field is by no means exhausted. The third sand is encountered by certain local drillers the first and is seldom shown much oil, in fact in most cases it has been barren. Heretofore the second sand has furnished the production, and even this has been a "false sand," being in many cases brown shale. The third sand, which is now the objective point, is a true sand and seems to be rich.

The companies to follow the lead of the Newlove are the Pond, the New Pennsylvania, Wise Bond and the Brookshire.

On the Pond lease, Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 29 are deepened. All of these wells have been good producers but have fallen off. They are expected to be greatly increased.

On the Dome holdings Nos. 11 and 12 are deepened. Dome No. 11 is drilling and has landed the 10-inch casing at 2300 feet, with a good showing reported.

The New Pennsylvania Oil Company is deepening No. 1 and drilling a new well, No. 7, which is 1000 feet deep in the eight-inch casing.

The Rice Ranch Oil Company is confining most of its present activity to the drilling of the new wells, Nos. 11 and 12. No. 11 is 2700 feet deep in eight-inch casing, and has a showing in rich brown shale. No. 12 is 900 feet deep in the 12½-inch casing.

The Brookshire Oil Company is deepening No. 2. This well is one of the pioneers and was doing seven to twelve barrels daily. The hole is now at 3400 feet and the showing is extremely good.

The Western Union Oil Company has rebuilt rig No. 11, which was burned to the ground last month in the fire, which occurred from the sudden gas blow-out, the derrick and tool-dresser were badly burned, but are mending rapidly. No. 13 is drilling and is down 500 feet in the surface sands.

The Fugler's Point district seems to be booming just now and new activities are the rule of the new year. Besides the Bradley Canon Oil Company, the Fugler Ranch Oil Company and the Kern River are in the race for honors in the new district.

The Fugler Ranch Oil Company, under charge of A. A. Dundore, the well-known Los Angeles oil operator, is down 700 feet, with the casing one-half-inch casing. The showing is extremely good.

The Kern River, with Rowe Stevens in charge, has just laid to rest well No. 1 completed by the Fugler Brothers and will spud in this week. The well is admirably located on the spur line from the Pacific Coast Railway has been run almost to the foot of the derrick. This does away with any necessity of teaming, and is expected to be a big time-saver in operations.

Farther to the south, on the Bixby ranch, the Carraam Oil Company has moved its rig over about 300 feet and has started drilling again. The first well met with a sudden check to an attempt to carry on operations as far as possible. The result was a bad cave-in.

Well No. 1 of the Bradley Canon Company, on the Jose Del Valle, southeast from the Palmer well, is being redrilled. Some trouble was encountered in pulling the casing, and the hole is redrilled from the bottom of the ten-inch.

The Santa Maria Midway Oil Company, operating in Tepusquet, is drilling from 3500 feet and is down to about 3600. The ultimate depth of this well is watched closely, under that some definite idea with regard to the Tepusquet territory may be gained.

It seems strange that, as the operations in the Huasna and Tepusquet districts have proved highly successful results. All indications point to the presence of a large deposit of petroleum somewhere in the vicinity, and less an authority than Ralph Arnold, the eminent geologist, states that it should be found in the Tepusquet or Huasna districts. But where it is, no one seems to be a sort of "Dutton" question: who's got the money? Some first-class driller, who formerly worked on the Kernal well, which was located about two miles from the Tepusquet and Santa Maria Midway, has stated in interview that the Tepusquet well showed the best prospects that he had ever drilled. This well, owing to casing troubles, was abandoned after having been drilled to a depth of about 1200 feet. Work was not resumed. Yet it stands before the world as a first-class prospects, and as the Tepusquet has produced no oil.

Notes and Personals.

One day last week the Santa Maria loaded 130 cars with asphaltum for the El Segundo refinery. A considerable portion of this was brought here on account of the demand for this heavy asphaltum for use in the citrus groves.

The Alaska Pioneer Oil Company on section 33, 31-32, has been making rapid progress on its well, which was recently started to be drilled with a rotary.

The Palmer Union Oil Company is to drill a new well on its property with a rotary. This will be the first use of this drill in the Santa Maria field. The company's property is in Cat Canyon. The hole is now down 1000 feet.

The Record Oil Company, which is reported to be down 1000 feet, is making a day. Something like 10 per cent. of this is said to be oil. This well came in with a gusher and is near the Miller & Lux property in the Santa Maria field.

The Santa Fe well in the Bixby section 6, 32-33, is reported to be making 1000 barrels a day. The well is down about ten feet up in the sand.

F. H. Hillman, of the Standard Oil Company, left last night for Los Angeles. He was in this city for a few days.

Imperial Valley Exhibit

We have been asked by the IMPERIAL VALLEY PUBLICITY BUREAU, at El Centro, to exhibit at our suite of offices in the Los Angeles Investment Building, AN IMPERIAL VALLEY COTTON EXHIBIT, also photographs furnished us by this association. This particular exhibit was on exhibition at the BROADWAY DEPARTMENT STORE for ten days. Any one desiring to see this exhibit and to get samples free of Imperial Valley Cotton should call immediately at our office.

The CALIFORNIA LAND AND HOG COMPANY are operating at MELOLAND, which is the new town in the Imperial Valley. At MELOLAND is the State and University of California experiment stations.

Cotton, dates and citrus fruits grow luxuriously at MELOLAND COLONY.

Do you know anything about the profits of Hog raising? Ask us. Alfalfa-fed Hogs can be raised for 3c a pound. The market is from 7½ to 8c.

This Company plans to own the largest Hog ranch in the Imperial Valley. A limited amount of the Treasury shares are now being sold to equip this ranch with registered stock. According to the IMPERIAL VALLEY PUBLICITY BUREAU 50,000 Hogs are raised annually in the Imperial Valley. Our estimate is that half of this number are raised within the vicinity of MELOLAND COLONY.

On January first we announced in this paper the offering of our Treasury shares at 10c. During the past ten days we have sold 40,000 shares. Yesterday a Garden City man reserved another 25,000 shares. This means that the allotment for the purpose of equipping this registered stock ranch will be over-subscribed before the month closes. The stock will positively advance on February first.

We publish weekly, IMPERIAL VALLEY BIG OPPORTUNITIES, which is the only weekly devoted to the entire Valley.

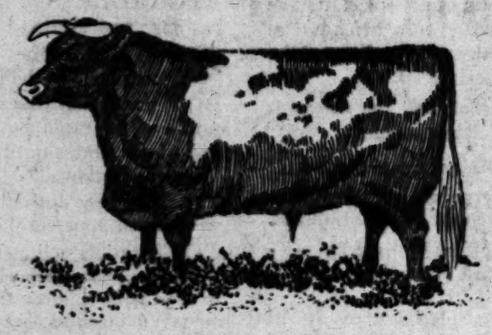
Millions of Live Stock



Mean Millions of Profits

Absolute Certainty of Another Sharp and Quick Stock Advance

The phenomenal subscriptions to the Los Angeles Union Stockyard's stock mean an inevitable sharp advance VERY SOON--possibly without notice. The allotment of stock laid aside to sell at $1.00 has already been about half subscribed--and several big investors are now considering taking large blocks, which would IMMEDIATELY wipe out the remainder.

There is no reasonable possibility that this stock will remain at $1 more than a few weeks--IT MAY BE ADVANCED ANY DAY.

The only safe thing for you to do--if you want to get into one of the biggest and surest fortune-making propositions ever launched in Los Angeles--is to

Buy at $1.00 NOW—While You May

We tell you candidly this is one of the epoch-making opportunities. Take our word for this only to the extent of INVESTIGATING. Get the rock bottom facts in the case--and you will be convinced beyond doubt that Los Angeles Union Stockyards stock is really BETTER than it has ever been pictured. We believe in conservatism. We would rather understate than overstate. But the plain unvarnished facts are so big--so vital--so plain--so full of opportunity--that no intelligent man can shut his eyes to them.

Consider that the Southwest is the great stock raising region of the United States--that, according to government census, there are over five and one-half million head of live stock in this region--right at the door of Los Angeles--ready to come in by the logic of conditions just as soon as stockyard facilities are provided.

--consider that all these millions of live stock are forced to take the long haul to Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha, purely and simply because Los Angeles is not prepared to receive them.

--consider that a conservative estimate of the profit on all these millions of live stock which should come through Los Angeles is nearly $1 per head.

There is no question that Los Angeles Stockyards, so ideally situated, possess even greater profit possibilities than the Stockyards of Eastern cities. The great Panama Canal about to be completed will give Los Angeles an immeasurable advantage over all other stockyard cities in low transportation to Eastern markets.

We advise you to investigate NOW and reserve some of this stock at once.

Every share is secured by valuable city realty. Stock may be paid for in installments. Send for booklet telling the whole story.

MANY OLD WELLS ARE DEEPENING.

NEW SAND RESULTS IN RENEWED ACTIVITY.

Effect of Union's Newlove Strike Felt in Operations in Old Field. Tepusquet Harbors an Oil Mystery. Activity Pronounced Around Fugler's Point.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA MARIA, Jan. 9.—Probably the most important work in the Santa Maria oil district is the deepening of old wells in the main field. This was stimulated by the success, some months ago, of the operators of the Union-Newlove tract, when well No. 21 was put down to a third sand. This well previous to deepening had been only a very ordinary one, but when it struck the third sand became a gusher and has been a strong and consistent producer since.

On neighboring tracts extensive deepening operations are carried on and the "old" field is in the ascendency. The third sand is called by some zone "C." According to certain local drillers the first sand has seldom shown much oil, in fact, in most cases it has been barren. Heretofore the second sand has furnished the production, and even this has been a "false sand," being in reality broken brown shale. The third sand, which is now the objective stratum, is a true sand and seems to be rich.

The companies to follow the lead of the Newlove are the Pinal Dome, New Pennsylvania, Rice Ranch and the Brookshire.

On the Pinal lease, Nos. 2, 28, 24 and 29 are deepened. All of these wells have been good producers, but have fallen off. Their yield is expected to be greatly increased.

On the Dome holding Nos. 10, 11 and 12 are deepened. Dome No. 14 is drilling and has landed the ten-inch casing at 2200 feet, with a good showing reported.

The New Pennsylvania Petroleum Company is deepening No. 4 and drilling a new well, No. 7 to 2000 feet deep in the eight-inch casing.

The Rice Ranch Oil Company is confining most of its present efforts to the drilling of the new wells Nos. 11 and 12. No. 11 is 2700 feet deep in eight-inch casing, and has a nice showing in rich brown shale. No. 12 is 900 feet deep in the 12½-inch casing.

The Brookshire Oil Company is deepening No. 2. This well is one of the pioneers and was doing only ten to twelve barrels daily. The hole is now at 3400 feet and the showing is extremely good.

The Western Union Oil Company has rebuilt rig No. 51, which was burned to the ground last month. In the fire, which occurred from a sudden gas blow-out, the driller and tool-dresser were badly burned. Both are mending rapidly. No. 52 is drilling and is down 500 feet in the surface sands.

The Fugler's Point district seems to be booming just now and new activities are the rule of the new year. Besides the Bradley Canyon Oil Company, the Fugler Ranch Oil Company and the Kern River are vieing for honors in the new district.

The Fugler Ranch Oil Company, under charge of A. A. Daugherty, the well-known Los Angeles oil operator, is down 700 feet, with the twelve and one-half-inch casing. The showing is extremely good.

The Kern River, with Reeves Stevens in charge, has just had its rig for well No. 1 completed by the Patterson Brothers and will spud in this week. The well is admirably located and a spur line from the Pacific Coast Railway has been run almost to the foot of the derrick. This does away with any necessity of teaming, and is expected to be a big time-saver in operations.

Farther to the south, on the Bonetti ranch, the Carranza Oil Company has moved its rig over about fifty feet and has started drilling again. The first well met with a mishap which was recently started. It is drilled with a rotary.

The Palmer Union Oil Company is to drill a new well on its property with a rotary. This is said to be the first use of this drill in the Santa Maria field. The company's property is in Cat Canyon. The hole is to be put down ten thousand feet.

The Record Oil Company's well is reported to be doing about 200 barrels a day. Somewhat less than one per cent. of this is said to be water. This well came in with a flow estimated at about 1000 barrels per day and is near the Mays Oil Company property in the Midway.

The Santa Fe's well No. 17, in section 6, 32-33, is reported to be making 1000 barrels a day, and is now down about ten feet up in the oil sand.

F. H. Hillman, of the Standard Department of the Standard Oil Company, left last night for the north. He was in this city for a day or two.

"The Pigs Is Pigs" Express Agent Enlightens Rudolph on a Current Subject of Great Moment.

BY ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.

"Will ye a quarther iv a dollar in ye'er pocket, Rudolph?" Mike Plannery asked his assistant, as the office boy presented his week's bill.

"Sure," said Rudolph cheerfully, "you ask me? You want to borry a quarter?"

"Will ye let t' that now?" exclaimed Mike with exasperation. "Do I borry ut? Iv coorse not! I'm supposin' I'd ask ye iv ye had a quarther iv I wanted t' borry ut? Ye know me! D' ye mean I've a char-ack-ter?"

"I said mid dot," said Rudolph, "You haf goot character."

"Is ut?" said Mike, breathing deep. "Ah what made, iv a man iv char-ack-ter beggin' a quarther iv him iv ye,' Rudolph? Whin I'm in a good char-ack-ter annybody'll lind him money. A good char-ack-ter is th' security awn which Esther Morgan says so. A man iv a char-ack-ter kings hand out th' dollar! Whin I feel th' need iv a loan I'll not ask ye for a quarther whin I've but t' stip into th' next prisidint iv th' Gob-iv-th'-mount carry away me arrums full iv ponjy-dollar bills. 'Ye'er th' man th' money man. 'Michael Plannery,' says I. 'An' how much ye is wantin' this mawrnin'?' says he. "Well, sor,' says I, 'I owe th' bye for a week's pa-apers, is twinty-five cints, but I'd not wish to run shoort iv cash before pay day. Can ye lit me have sivin million dollars?' 'I hate t' handle small change,' says he, 'cud ye accomodate me be carryin' away twinty-five million.' 'As a favor t' ye, I will,' says I. 'Thank ye,' says he; 'Jawn, shovel out five bales iv thim frish yelly backs for Misther Plannery.' 'In th' matther iv security for th' lind iv th' loan—' says I. 'Tut! Tut!' says he. 'What's security bechune gintlemin iv char-ack-ter?' Hev ye a clean rechord, Misther Plannery?' 'None cianer,' says I. 'Ye attinded Sundah-school regiar whin ye was a la-ad?' 'Sivin days a week,' says I. 'Fine!' says he, 'an' ye niver robbed annywan exsipt in th' usyul way iv business?' 'No, sor,' says I. 'Do ye bate ye'er wife?' 'Not since she's grown th' wad iv muscle awn her arruma,' says I. 'D' ye play bridge for keeps?' says he. 'Th' sight uv a carrd gives me nossha,' says I. 'Great!' says he; 'Jawn, mek that tin bales iv cash, an' hev th' truckman deliver thim at Mr. Plannery's shanty. He has wan iv th' bist char-ack-ters I iver loaned money awn. Annytime he dhrops in hand him th' key t' the money bin an' turrn ye'er face th' other way.'

"Did I ask ye iv ye had a quarther because I wanted th' lind iv a loan iv ut, Rudolph? Iv coorse not! I on'y wanted t' prove there was no Money Trust, be indisputable ividince. Ye've the' quarther, so there's no Trust. Iv there was a Trust, 'wud-ve got th' quarther be this time. I know, for I've been investigated. At Wash'n't'n, where th' investigations come from.

"The' raypoort in th' pa-apers tells ye the' whole sthory. 'Th' minor malefactors havin' been disposed iv, Michael J. Plannery, the money king, was called t' the' chair iv inquisition. "'Now, sor,' says Misther Untermyer, 'ar-re ye th' Plannery that is th' boss iv th' gang iv high-binders, and if so why, and give th' names an' dates. Thank ye. Can th' gang round up all th' money in th' wurruld, Misther Plannery?' 'No, sor,' says I. 'I've we oud we'd iv done ut long since.' 'Do ye know anny money ye've not clamped awnto?' 'I do,' says I; 'Rudolph Schwartz has twinty-five cints, an' I've a syspicion Maggie hild out fifty cints awn me la-ast pay-day. That's sivinty-five cints. Maybe somewan has a dime I've lost thrack iv. That'd be eighty-five. I raymimber whin I was a baye Pat Hullihan lost a cint down th' hole in th' sewer cover in th' Mint' Warrd, an' no wan iver raycovered ut. That'd be eighty-six, all told, or maybe ninety-five cints, runnin' loose. An' I'm on'ly boss iv eight billion dollars, or eighty. I forget which.'

"'Thank ye. Now, Misther Plannery, can annywan borry money of ye?' 'I bet ye! Ye've but t' ask me, an' ye can have all ye want, if I like th' looks if ye'er face, but I don't.' 'Ye find money awn th' looks iv a man's face?' 'I bet ye!' 'How much?' 'Th' limit.' At this point iv th' proceedin's th' inquest was intherrupted be th' scramble iv th' raypoorters an' th' generality iv spectatoors t' reach th' bank office iv Misther Plannery an' get a hunk iv th' money befoor th' mode iv lindin' changed. Nine out iv tin sthopped t' have their faces massaged befoor entherin' th' office iv Misther Plannery's money shop, and some permanently wrecked their faces thryin' t' look like min iv good char-ack-ter.'

"So, ye see, Rudolph, there's no money trust. There's can't be. Just whin I get all iv th' money clamped up in me coal bin I dhrop me clay pipe awn the stone walk an' out has t' come 2 cints t' buy another pipe, an' whilst there's 2 cints wandtherin' around th' wurruld there's no money trust. That's the difference betwane money an' other things, they tell us. Whin I've conthrol iv 80 per cint iv th' canned eggs iv commerce I'm an egg trust, an' whin I've no conthrol iv Bryan at all he's a throuble trust, but whilst there's two dollars an' foorty cints in dad's ould sock behint th' rafter awn th' top floor there c'n be no money trust. Maybe I've packed away near all iv th' money there is in me coold stoorage bin, but I'm no money trust. I can't be. Whin I don't like th' shape iv ye'er nose an' rayfuse ye a loan iv sivinty million

What We Will Accomplish in 1913

The Opening of Our New Tract BRYN MAWR Will Soon Be Announced.

There is every reason to believe that 1913 will see the the new Bryn Mawr Tract entirely developed and built over with beautiful homes. Other subdivisions are to follow in rapid succession. But the profits from this one tract alone will show 333/4% on the entire capitalization of this company.

Taking into consideration the income from our other holdings, I know that I am conservative when I say that those who purchase Suburban Development Company Securities NOW--prior to the advance to $1.75 a share, on or before January 20th--will make at least 333/4% during 1913.

A Florida Land Offer
Backed By Sound Bankers

Here's a Florida land offer that is unlike any ever put up to you level-headed business men—because it is not backed by the typical "fly-by-night" land company.

Solid, conservative, shrewd bankers and business men like yourself are putting this great Wauchula land on the market—and these men are doing this not for the profit or benefit that they might get out of it now, but what it will mean to them and all investors later! Wauchula is not a mushroom town that is going to be forgotten ten years from now. It is a prosperous little city of 1500 people, with two flourishing banks, modern stores, graded schools, churches, lodges, etc.—and it is growing and getting better every month!

In this prosperous, ideally located country where Wauchula is located, health, wealth and happiness is awaiting many a discontented Northern man—and it's the kind of wealth that every man longs for. $5000 a year income and better is waiting here for you at Wauchula, Florida, but it's up to you to make good. You've got to make good on your desks now; you can't sit around and expect your employer to pay you unless you do your work thoroughly. Consequently you can't just skimp out an existence and you're only helping your rich employer to become richer!

Hundreds of settlers here are prospering. So can you. They're making from $1000 to $5000 and more annually. You can do it just as well. A 10 acre plot is big enough. A small first payment and then $1.00 a month per acre allows you to "pay as you go," and you're interested yourself in Florida land that never goes down. It knows a crop failure or a "hall down" where consistent energy was put forth.

Wauchula, Florida

The True Combination Soil—3 Hours From Tampa

The genuine Wauchula combination soil is equally well adapted to citrus fruit and vegetables. You place your young orange and grape fruit trees. Then you put out beans, cucumbers, onions, watermelons, or sweet potatoes between the rows. Vegetables keep you going. They furnish your living expenses. They pay for your land. And all the time your grape fruit trees and orange trees are developing. Soon they'll be producing the huge results.

Your income increases steadily. And when your trees are once established and bearing, you will find yourself in the car owning class—that is, independently fixed for the rest of your life.

Combination soil makes it possible for you to attain this property on a very small investment. Growing vegetables between the rows of trees is the secret of the fortune building by men who came here with very little money.

Here at Wauchula in the beautiful Peace River Valley are all the elements necessary to produce the finest grape fruit and oranges in profusion. The famous Wauchula combination soil—the right altitude—well distributed rainfall—fine drainage. No wonder citrus fruits are flourishing here. No wonder we can furnish letters showing astonishing incomes that have been earned and are being earned here today. You can earn one of these incomes, and, remember, you have a year for inspection before you decide. We don't rush you. We want you to know what you're doing.

Wauchula is not only a first-class locality for earning. It is a delightful little city to live in. No negroes in Wauchula. A safe, pleasant place to bring your family.

A three hours' ride brings you to Tampa, a thriving metropolis, one of the great flourishing cities of the South. Rapid, rail transportation to northern markets direct from Wauchula.

Write for Banker's Guarantee and Convincing Facts

We want you to investigate this offer. It is absolutely unlike any other Florida land offer. In fact, we know of no land anywhere that is being backed up in this way. Bankers of established reputation guarantee the land. You can make your reservation. You can inspect your plot at any time within a year. If you are not satisfied absolutely beyond any question, we'll give you back your money. You get every cent—and with 6 per cent interest for the time we have had it.

The treasurer of this company is president of the Florida Citrus Exchange. The other officers are bankers whose records you can investigate. They put their personal work back of every feature of this offer.

Now—get the truth—get the facts. We'll send you letters from settlers to prove our statements.

The Olive Tree Is King and Gibraltar Has 11,000,000 of Them

Stability is the basis of success. The stability of the olive withstood the recent low temperatures, proving more surely than ever the large consistent profits from growing the tree and planting the acres and foretelling the unparalleled future of the hardy olive. The tremendous demand for the olive tree and the olive orchard will tax to the limit the vast nursery resources of Gibraltar.

BLOOMINGTON WITHSTANDS THE FROST

Demonstrating the superiority of this, the premium district. The planting of the Gibraltar-Bloomington tract is now under way. The great profits of the tree and orchard will be shared by the thousands of Gibraltar's share-holders. If you want the greatest earning power in an unlimited field, join your dollars, few or many, to the more than a million others now working and earning on a basis of absolute equality. The keen foresight and wisdom of the president and directorate of this company in selecting the olive as the foundation of Gibraltar's nursery and orchard departments and their expertness in buying Gibraltar's great tract of frostless land in the premium district of Bloomington has now been exemplified. Buyers are offering a premium for Bloomington oranges.

Gibraltar is planting its 1897 acres of citrus and olive land at Bloomington and is also negotiating for thousands of acres more. As fast as is consistent with good business, Gibraltar is buying, developing and planting additional tracts of land.

dollars there's nawthin' I c'n do t' stop ye fr'm borryin' th' two dollars an' foorty cints fr'm dad, excipt two things. He won't lind ye ut, an' he's not got ut t' lind. He owes us for th' rint.

"So ye see, Rudolph, th' question befoor us is a duplexity: First, Is there a money trust? and, second, Can it be desthroyed? Th, answer t' th' furrst half is 'No,' so all we need know now is how t' desthroy ut. An that's simple. Some uv thim wud be puttin' a keg iv gunpowther undther th' Stock Exchange in hopes that wan iv th' nood statchooettes awn th' froont iv ut wud maybe fall throo th' front office iv Jawn P. Morgan & Co., an' mek a hole big enough for some iv th' liquid cash t' leak out. Th' thrue way is t' boom th' cope industhry, an' promote th' Venus business.

"If what some iv thim think is thrue an' Jawn P. Morgan has a scoop net around th' biggest part iv th' money iv th' wurruld ye can easy get ut away fr'm him. All ye need is enough shop-worn copes an' second-handed Venusses de Milo. What a cope may be I dunno, but there's nawthin' Misther Morgan will spind money for more gladly. Wave a well antiquated cope befoor him an' th' P. S.&D. stock can pant like a six-day bicyclist for al he cares, until he's paid out siv'ral cartloads iv good money, an' th' cope is safe in his cope box. Hundthreds iv fearliss hunthers roam th' wilds iv th' jungle ready t' shoot th' cope, awn th' wing or awn th' hoof, at his ixpinse, an' hang th' ixpinse. Show him enough copes an' yet can wrest all iv his money away fr'm him, easy.

"'Tis th' same whin Misther Morgan sees th' stony Venus iv entiquity, an' th' hand-painted pictchoor. To buy thim is his pleasure, an' he's wan iv thim that ar-re sthrong for pleasure befoor business. Anny time iv th' day he'll give over reconsthructin th' steel industhries iv th' wurruld t' buy a marble Venus that's minus a couple iv arrums an' two toes short, or t' pay a ton iv cash for a painted pitchoor, sivin to tin centuries out iv date.

"Thim that complain because Misther Morgan has rounded up most iv th' money iv th' wurruld do wrong t' blame him. He'd spind it, an' be done with ut, iv th' ancients had been awn th' job full time. Th' Congrissional Committee needs but hunt up a good gang iv ancients an' set thim t' wurruk constructin' last year's copes, an' Venuses that wint through th' wreck, an' pitchoors be wan iv th' long deceased, an' Misther Morgan wud be short iv cash in a week. Ye can't blame a man for absint-mind edly corrallin' th' money iv th' wurruld between copes."

"Say, d' you want I should stay here all day for that quarter, or do I get it now?" asked the paper-boy, impertinently. Mike looked at him reproachfully.

"Ye desthroyer iv th' wurruld!" he cried. "Don't ye know I've no money? Wud I be talkin' anarchistically iv th' money kings iv I had? Rudolph," he said, with an appealing smile, "will ye lind me th' quarther till pay day?"

"Mebby you could easier borrow tin million dollars mit sooch a fine character you got, yes?" suggested Rudolph. "All you should need vould be sooch a fine character, yes? Efferybody lends on character, yes?"

"Sure!" said Mike as he took the quarter from Rudolph's reluctant hand and gave it to the paper boy. "Sure! 'Tis th' rule iv th' financial disthricts. Char-ack-ter is all ye need t' borry money fr'm th' bank. List! I med a pome iv ut:

Strikes Grow Common.

benefits paid as a gauge, it rose from $1,862,636 in 1909 to $4,709,550 in 1911, an increase of 152 per cent. Of course, all other strike expenses were on the same scale.

Membership, meanwhile, has steadily advanced, but nowhere nearly so fast as the strikes. In 1909, the gain in membership over the previous year was 83,601. In 1910 it was 220,209, but in 1911 it fell back to 117,506. Yet in 1911 there were 532 more strikes than in 1910 and 666 more than in 1909.

Now that this is plain, we must look squarely in the face of the painful fact that the number of successful strikes is decreasing. We are evidently striking much oftener, for much less cause, and we are losing. In 1909 there were 341 successful strikes out of 693, or 49 per cent. In 1911 there were 642 successes out of 1359, or 47 per cent. This is an apparent loss of only 2 per cent., but it is really greater. At the end of 1909 only 9 per cent. were still pending. At the end of 1911 there were 19 per cent. pending. And strikes that have been long pending, as we all know, may result in compromises, but they are not likely to be real successes.

There is, however, a more accurate gage in the strikes of the five strongest organizations. In 1909 they were the Carpenters, Brewery Workers, Painters, the United Mine Workers of America and the Typographical Union. They won 55 out of their 117 strikes, or not quite 50 per cent. By 1911 the order of strength had changed somewhat, the Garment Workers and Teamsters taking the place of the Brewery Workers and Painters, but for purposes of comparison they do as well. Out of their 98 strikes, they won 39, which is only 37 per cent., a very important decrease in the number of successful strikes. This shows that the stronger organizations do not decrease the number of strikes or increase the percentage of successes.

TARIFF CUT BAD FOR BORAX MINES.

PROPOSED MEASURE MAY KILL SMALL INDUSTRY.

Chamber of Mines Says a Reduction Is Likely to Eliminate Boarx Mining from the United States. Present Wholesale Price as Low as in Europe.

The Chamber of Mines and Oil, which last Thursday adopted resolutions protesting against any reduction in the existing tariff on borax and borate products, has issued the following statement regarding the industry:

"In view of the fact that the entire production of borax in the United States is virtually derived from four producing mines in this State, the industry may be defined as essentially Californian. The crude ore is principally colemanite, a borate of lime, and its content of anhydrous boric acid varies considerably, owing to the presence of impurities. The total production for the present year, from present indications, will be in the neighborhood of 4100 tons monthly, with an approximate valuation at the mine of $29 per ton.

"The present wholesale price of refined commercial borax, a chemical combination of boric acid and soda, is $3.75 per 100 pounds. Incidentally the wholesale price in the United States is as cheap as in Europe.

"It is estimated that the industry provides employment for about 1000 men; that salaries and wages will approximate $2000 to $2500 daily; that the average monthly purchase of supplies, very conservatively estimated and excluding machinery and equipment, will reach $50,000. Los Angeles, being the nearest to the mines, secures the business. It is, therefore, that the industry is entitled comparatively, and one which to warrant protection ment.

"Any reduction in tariff will, we feel confident, eliminate borax United States, and in time will not tend to the consumer, but tion will open the market to foreign America. Asia would also help throw out of United States and used in this industry it up from a gross of of 5959 short tons 1912.

"It is interesting to the growth of the dustry, there has been reduction in the ore. Thus in 1... 5959 tons netted the or $100 per ton. tion of 53,... them but $1,... ton. Statistics the Federal authorities that the price of acid to the steadily reduced

"Even with the... afforded by the competitors found report in 1911 for United States... cluding boric acid of about $24,000.

"The facts prove the limited products in the reduction in the merely mean the foreign mine and with the United States cost than at present duction is to eliminate State, the development gradually lessen hold upon Enlargement of Queen Smelter Necessitates No Increase in Working Force—Six Thousand Tons of Ore Shipped Daily from Warren District.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Jan. 9.—The mines of the Warren district around Bisbee are shipping to the smelters at Douglas nearly 6000 tons of ore a day, an increase of 50 per cent. over the shipments of this time last year. The older companies all are hiring more men and they are getting better pay. They change shifts at the collar of the shaft and are allowed their lunch on company time, thus reducing hours to something less than seven and a-half a day, for which they receive $4, an increase averaging over 50 cents a day.

An immense amount of development work is proceeding at all times around the Copper Queen and the mere matter of equipment to handle the products of its hundreds of miles of workings is a serious consideration. Possibly the most important work is the installation of a new hoist at the big Sacramento shaft. The older workings at the Czar are prepared for the introduction of the top sluicing system, with which the final work on that famous old property will be done.

The company is still drilling in the development of its porphyry and schist ground, from which within the next few years undoubtedly will be fed one or more great concentrating mills in this locality.

It is noted that the enlargement of the Queen smelter—providing for the treatment of at least double the quantity of ore—has been done along such lines of economy that the force of operators has not needed to be increased and remain about 900 men.

In the Queen smelter at Douglas a reverberatory furnace with three roasters and four additional converters of the most modern type are to be added to the two similar ones in use. In the converters the lining is of novel character, allowing for the desulphurizing of more than 2000 tons before relining. This is a matter of marked economy, as it enables the company to dispense with forty-five men formerly busied on nothing but relining.

The neighboring smelter of the Calumet and Arizona Company, practically being rebuilt, will be completed by July 1.

Western States Home Builders

Public Confidence So Strongly Manifested That Over 200,000 Shares of the Capital Stock Were Sold at the Opening Price of 15 Cents Before the Company Even Issued Its First Public Announcement

Able and Practical Men Direct It, With L. W. Blinn as President

The Western States Home Builders is new only in organization. Capable and reliable business men direct its affairs. Men long identified with the business interests of Los Angeles, have combined in this company, to participate in the enormous profits sure to follow the increasing building activities of the future.

Mr. Blinn is giving this organization his personal attention. For many years the active and successful head of the L. W. Blinn Lumber Company, with vast interests extending to all parts of Southern California and the west, he brings to the company a larger grasp of affairs, a greater experience in building, and building materials, and a more powerful executive capacity than falls to the lot of most new companies.

A Broader Scope Is Given to the Operations of the Company

It will not confine its efforts to Los Angeles, nor to the development of any single section. Greater Los Angeles, and the remarkable advance of all Southern California will enlist its activities.

Branch Offices Will Be Opened Wherever Conditions Justify

We will assist subscribers in building their home in the town in which they live. Plans and locations will be provided. If you own your lot, we will build for you. If you do not own it, we will aid you in buying it.

The Stock You Buy Today Is Exchangeable for a Home at Its Actual Value

It will be accepted by the company the same as cash, on homes of the company. It is stamped with an actual cash value the day it becomes stock. With the whole broad field of Southern California before it, the company aims to give the small investor and the man of limited means the privilege of using his stock as cash in securing a home, wherever he may be.

The Company Will Lend Its Aid to the Development of Growing Towns

We build homes anywhere in Southern California, on the installment plan. The remarkable progress of the future will not be confined to any one locality, nor will the operations of this company. With able minds to direct its course the company is planned on broad expansive lines, to take advantage of the greatest profit with the greatest degree of safety, wherever the path of development may lead.

This First Public Issue of Its Capital Stock Is Offered at 15 Cts. Per Share

Knowing the gratifying returns received by original stockholders in other successful home building companies, no man or woman, desiring to invest wisely, can afford to neglect this opportunity to participate in its prosperity, by securing a foothold NOW, in the stock of this company at this small opening price.

Capable Management Assures the Utmost Limit of Success with Every Dollar Fully Protected All the Time

The funds secured will be utilized in buying and subdividing properties, erecting residences and business buildings, and selling them for cash, or on installments. The money is neither loaned nor invested, in any field outside the company's own operations. This means that ALL shares participate in ALL profits of the company.

Other successful home building companies have returned vast dividends to their original stockholders. With the rapidly advancing values of properties secured; with the legitimate profits on homes built and sold; with the constantly accruing interest on contracts, and the ordinary avenues of profit open to this company, in its larger field of operation, it is safe to predict that the success of the most successful one will be duplicated by the Western States Home Builders and that men and women investing now will participate in a measure of profit possible only to original shareholders who buy at original prices.

But You Must Act Promptly as the Issue Is Limited and Selling Fast. The Price of 15 Cents Per Share Is Guaranteed for No Stated Time

Cash or Installments

DISCOUNT FOR CASH 3%

Each share will participate in the quarterly dividends declared by the company, based on the amount credited on account of each share. No interest charged on balances due.

Installments accepted as follows:

250 Shares cost	$ 37.50, payable	$ 3.75 monthly
500 Shares cost	75.00, payable	7.50 monthly
1000 shares cost	150.00, payable	15.00 monthly
1500 Shares cost	225.00, payable	22.50 monthly
2500 Shares cost	375.00, payable	37.50 monthly
5000 Shares cost	750.00, payable	75.00 monthly

For the Benefit of Wage Earners and Others Who Cannot Come During Regular Business Hours, This Office Will Remain Open Every Night This Week Until 9 o'Clock.

It is Mr. Blinn's opinion that the greatest measure of success will be assured by the greatest possible number of stockholders. Co-operation is the keynote of this organization. Seeking, therefore, the largest number of individual stockholders, not more than 5000 shares of stock will be issued to any one person.

As low as 100 shares may be purchased, thus throwing wide the opportunity to people of moderate means, whose co-operation is most urgently desired.

Over 200,000 shares were subscribed without public effort, by those who realized the unusual nature of the opportunity.

The advertised price of stock is not guaranteed for any definite time. There is a certain initial issue at the price of 15 cents and no more.

Fuller's Earth.

MOJAVE, Dec. 15.—Q.: I am a Times reader and find much to interest me in the rare minerals department. I am an old Colorado hard-rock miner and am sending three samples. Nos. 1 and 2 from different points of very strong vein in high mountains. No. 3 I am unable to name the dark, brilliant part of the rock. I find it plentifully in vein with traces of wolframite, and I desire to inform you further: Sample No. 1 is from a big vein thirty-five or forty miles from Mojave; is it Fuller's earth or what? No. 2 is from above, on same vein, and some of it has a pink cast. No. 3 is from a strong, and far traceable, vein in extrugged and high mountain, and at a point where some wolframite has been found. Mica packed and broken; what is this black in sample?

T. W.

A.: Always glad to hear from Colorado miners as it is a State in which we mined, more than in any other of the West.

A miner coming from Colorado, to mine or prospect in California, is beset with difficulties relating to ores of many metals; the coloring is different and confusing with all, but so it is whenever we examine ores and minerals from different western mining camps.

Colorado miners are "great" on prospecting in "extremely rugged and high mountain" districts, and but few of them go much on the theory of valuable gold quartz (in veins) at sea level.

Sample No. 1 is white Fuller's earth. No. 2 is an edible variety of steatite (soapstone) which is seldom met with in Colorado. The pink coloring matter in this is Rhodochrosite (manganese carbonate) but is not in any way comparable with the crystallized Rhodochrosite which occurs at Fairplay, at Alma, and elsewhere in Colorado.

No. 3 is (matrix) Gneiss chiefly, and it is somewhat on the order of wall-matter which occurs at Ward; near Eldora, and near Nederland, Colo. Micaceous iron ore is in the mass (hematite,) with graphite, molybdenite, and manganese dioxide sparingly present.

If No. 2 occurs as float, there is a chance for molybdenite. No sample carries tungstic acid of commerce, and judging by the samples, the prospects appear as doubtful money makers.

Hornblende and Epidote.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Q.: Please say what this rock is? From near Victorville, San Bernardino county.

R.R. (A WOMAN.)

A.: Glad to hear from you. The rock is named at the subheading, and it carries biotite (black-mica) with trace of copper. It represents very poor "ore" if expected to mine at a profit.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Magnetite Crystal.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Q.: Crystal of some metal in this blue envelope of The Times.

"SUBSCRIBER."

A.: While the sample very much resembles certain silver ore, at sight, it is simply iron peroxide. Correspondents must pay more attention to the fact that a letter is required with all samples submitted to this department. We regret to state that there are five communications before us consisting of sample and envelope only. It is impossible to reply to correspondents without some data to build upon.

Magnesite.

CORONA, Dec. 12.—Q.: With this I send you a small sample of white mineral that effervesces in muriatic acid. My text-book places it as lime; is this right? The vein I got this from is not over eight inches wide, and in some places it goes to one inch. P.B.D.

A.: Your text-book is probably some old work on chemistry, as "muriatic acid" is somewhat ancient for hydrochloric acid.

Carbonates may be detected by means of hydrochloric acid, usually diluted with an equal quantity of water, but nitric acid, or sulphuric acid, diluted with water to a 50 per cent. solution afford the same result. These dilute acid solutions when dropped on carbonate of lime for instance, give an effervescence, and carbonic acid (bubbles) escape. Carbonic acid being the weaker acid it naturally gives way to the stronger acid, for which carbonates have an affinity. The sample is an impure magnesite (carbonate of magnesium) with impurities iron oxide (limonite) and carbonate of lime present. It goes into solution slowly in the presence of nitric acid or sulphuric acid, either acid diluted one-half with water. The sample is altered Dolomite, in an impure form.

Dolomite.

PASADENA, Dec. 14.—Q.: Please name this mineral; state its composition and commercial value. Found ten miles north of Pasadena. P.J.S.

A.: The sample is magnesium limestone, and is composed of (approximately) lime carbonate 54.35; magnesium carbonate 45.65, percentages as stated. Carbonate of iron and carbonate of manganese are present in the sample in traces only. Material represented by the sample has too low commercial value for use in the manufacture of Epsom salt, in California.

High-Grade Stibnite.

FLINT (Idaho) Dec. 17.—Q.: I am mailing you a sample of antimony ore taken from a lead of about seven inches wide and ending on the line of the Republic group of claims. Depth of shaft, where taken, 102 feet. I desire to know the per cent. of antimony in this ore. Is it silver ore also? F. P. W.

A.: The sample carries approximately 60 per cent. antimony, and it will assay high in silver.

Potassium.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—Q.: Please describe the carbonate salt of potash, and how is it made chemically pure? Describe the method of crystallizing potash silicate. Your answer to the two questions will guide me over a task that is important for me to know how. B. F.

A.: Glad to hear from you. Potassium carbonate can be obtained from wood ashes, and from ashes resulting from the incineration of kelp and other plants and vegetables. Natively potash is combined with silicates chiefly, such as mica and the feldspar group. By erosion and disintegration of these minerals potassium becomes present in the soil, and is taken up by plants, and the ashes of plants differ in the potassium salt obtained. "Chloride and sulphate of the element are found in sea water, and in large deposits in Stassfurt, at Madgeburg, and in Galicia, where they were left by the evaporation of the water of enclosed seas."

There are vast beds of one-time lakes in many of the western localities of the United States from which it is hoped that potassium salts will be obtained at a working profit, but as yet practical and positive results are not obtainable, nor will the knowledge be obtainable, as to the value of many of these deposits (especially those of Nevada,) for one year at least.

It is well to state that potassium sulphate is formed by sulphuric acid acting upon potassium chloride, and is a by-product in a number of technical operations; it crystallizes without water in rhombic prisms and is soluble in ten parts water. It is employed in the Le Blanc process in the formation of potassium carbonate. The primary salt of potassium sulphate is an acid salt.

Wood ashes are lixiviated with hot water and the resultant liquid contains "impure potashes." The filtrate is evaporated and the residue ignited. The impure potash thus obtained carries, with the carbonate, the chloride, the sulphate and other matter. For the purification of these salts water is added, and this dissolves the easy soluble carbonate, leaving the other salts in separated condition. To obtain chemically pure potassium carbonate simply ignite so-called cream of tartar and the same salt is obtained by heating the primary carbonate.

If by "potash silicate" you refer to potassium silicate (ordinary water glass) it is proper to state that the compound "does not possess a constant composition and cannot be obtained crystallized." Such water glass is obtained by solution of silicic acid or "by solution of silicic acid (amorphous silicon dioxide) in potassium hydrate." By the fusion of silica with potassium hydrate or with potassium carbonate water glass is formed and opal silica is an example of native water glass, as it were.

A concentrated solution of potassium silicate becomes dried up if exposed, and as such is a glassy mixture. It changes in time to an opaque body and when powdered dissolves in boiling water. Ordinary quartz (silicon dioxide) is not "soluble silica," and it is well to bear the distinction well in mind.

ANECDOTES OF AGED ASTRONOMER

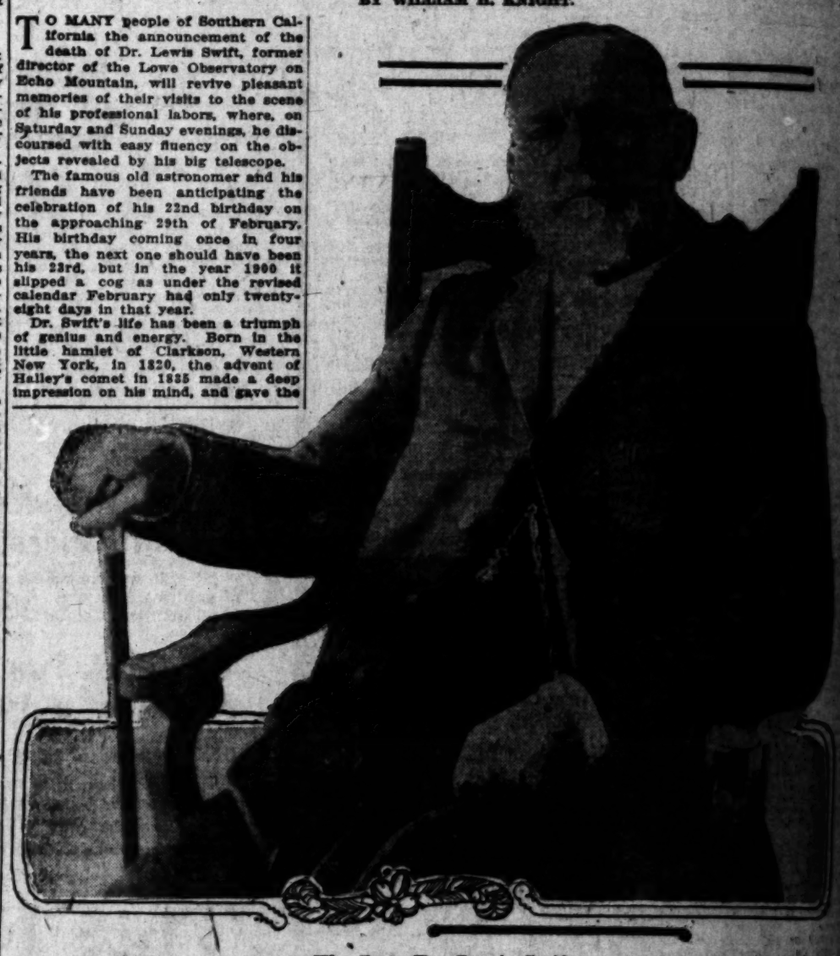
The Late Dr. Lewis Swift—Lived Ninety-Two Years, But Had Only Twenty-Two Birthdays—Discoverer of Fifteen Comets and Twelve-Hundred Nebulae.

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

TO MANY people of Southern California the announcement of the death of Dr. Lewis Swift, former director of the Lowe Observatory on Echo Mountain, will revive pleasant memories of their visits to the scene of his professional labors, where, on Saturday and Sunday evenings, he discoursed with easy fluency on the objects revealed by his big telescope.

The famous old astronomer and his friends have been anticipating the celebration of his 22nd birthday on the approaching 29th of February. His birthday coming once in four years, the next one should have been his 23rd, but in the year 1900 it slipped a cog as under the revised calendar February had only twenty-eight days in that year.

Dr. Swift's life has been a triumph of genius and energy. Born in the little hamlet of Clarkson, Western New York, in 1820, the advent of Halley's comet in 1835 made a deep impression on his mind, and gave the trend to his future career. Completing his academic education, he went to Rochester and without planning to be a professional astronomer, constructed a rude telescope, mounted it on the flat roof of an old cider mill and began a series of observations that were to place his name in the roll of fame.



The Late Dr. Lewis Swift,
Veteran astronomer and famous discoverer of comets.

Here he engaged in a successful search for those mysterious travelers from distant space which come unheralded within our ken, blaze up with unwonted splendor as they draw near and circle round the sun, and then disappear as mysteriously as they came.

There were many astronomers in other parts of the world, some of them observing under ideal conditions, but this eager young amateur had the faculty of seeing things. If a strange, faint, hazy object suddenly appeared anywhere above the horizon, it could not escape those keen young eyes.

So rapid and brilliant were his discoveries that the attention of the astronomical world was drawn to this strange figure perched with his rude instruments on the Rochester cider mill. At length a local millionaire—H. H. Warner—built an observatory for his use, and the citizens of Rochester presented him with a splendid sixteen-inch Alvan Clark equatorial-mounted telescope. It was a noble gift and quickly did the recipient prove the wisdom of their donation. In three successive years he received as many medals from abroad for comet discoveries.

He then began a systematic search for nebulae, which no previous explorer into the profound depths of space had noted. By constant additions their number grew into an extensive catalogue till in the early '90s he was without a peer in those departments of observational research, comets and nebulae. Of the latter about 1200 are to his credit, only exceeded at that time by the two Herschels, the younger of whom had the advantage of some years' residence in the southern hemisphere.

Among the medals which he received was the grand Lalande prize of the Paris Academy and the bronze medal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific was awarded to him for the discovery of the famous many-tailed comet of 1892. He was elected member of various American and foreign scientific bodies, including the Royal Astronomical Society.

In a few years the Rochester Observatory was encroached upon by the expansion of the city, the glare of the street lamps interfered with his work, and he found it necessary to secure another location free from that objection. Meantime Mr. Warner had met with financial reverses and could not come to the astronomer's aid.

Under the circumstances Dr. Swift found it expedient to accept the offer of Prof. T. S. C. Lowe, who built an observatory for his use and his telescope a quarter of a mile from the then fine hotel on Echo Mountain. There he delighted throngs of visitors with his popular discourses on astronomical topics—the annual march of the constellations and the erratic movements of the planets furnishing fresh objects for observation and comment on each successive weekly gathering.

He remained on the mountain for ten years, doing much research work. Mrs. Swift and his son, Edward, were with him a part of the time and life passed pleasantly with the veteran astronomer. On several occasions he knew the thrilling experience of making a new comet discovery. I stopped at the hotel one night and by appointment went up to the observatory at midnight to see him while engaged in his professional work.

He was located on a platform outside the building, his eyes glued to the four-and-a-half-inch comet-seeker. As he heard my step, without looking round, he called out: "Knight, come here; take my seat and you will see two little stars in the field; between them is a hazy object. I don't know whether it is a comet or a nebula. I will go to my charts and see if they show a nebula at that spot. If you see that it moves the least bit towards either of those stars, call out to me instantly, for if it is a comet I must telegraph at once to Harvard and Harvard will telegraph to Berlin, and from these two centers dispatches will be sent to every observatory in the world."

It was plain that Dr. Swift was very much agitated. His nerves were tense with the suspense of expending discovery which would place his name in the news columns of the morning papers in both continents. For the moment I was equally excited. I watched the hazy object with an intensity that could be measured by no adjective. I then knew the overpowering sensation of the astronomer when he makes a new discovery of world-wide significance.

Presently the doctor came out of his library and in a tone of deep disappointment, said: "It's no use to watch any further; it's a nebula." I think my own disappointment was equal to his. For a moment I had felt the thrill of those tireless watchers who, in every civilized country on the globe, are patiently scanning the heavens night after night, when suddenly there sweeps into the field of their telescope an unmistakable object that, if they can be the first to announce it, will give them immortal fame.

Dr. Swift had a fund of anecdote and reminiscence. He once showed me a long letter from Omaha, in which the writer endeavored to prove that the weather is governed by the periodic helions of the planets. The writer wrote back that he would present him as many storms recorded in different parts of the world at the time of planet aphelions as the correspondent could find at the perihelions. He added that if he failed in the attempt he would present the correspondent with his big telescope to pay the expressage to Omaha.

One evening, soon after his arrival at the Lowe Observatory, he climbed to the top of his queer astronomical chair, and pointing his telescope down on the southern horizon, said: "For the first time an object of interest that is never visible in northern latitudes—the southern cluster known as Omega Centauri—which contains upwards of 10,000 stars—is a universe in itself. Only an astronomer knows the joy of such a vision."

At length Dr. Swift burned his long and amiable companion, and went East to engage in stellar photography, and then, sadness of sadness, eyesight became dim and he could no longer perform the duties of an astronomer. He went from the observatory to one of his daughters in Rhode Island, being succeeded by Prof. Edgar L. Larkin, who officiated at the telescope. Later he returned to the home of his daughters in Marathon, N. Y., where he has just closed his eventful and distinguished career.

Mines and Mining in the Great Southwest.

Past and Future.

GOLDEN DAYS NEVERENDING.

Nite Leads in Production of Yellow Metal.

Many New Developments in Nineteen-Twelve.

Added Impetus to Activity This Year.

[Special Correspondence to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—California still leads the gold-producing states of the Union. In 1911 the Golden State regained her ancient supremacy after being displaced from the position for a time by Colorado and Alaska, and 1912 recorded the permanency of the position. Advices from all districts indicates an increase in the state gold output of $21,000,000 for the year, a substantial advance over the figures of 1911, and all indications point to a largely-augmented output for 1913.

The past year was not only a notable one from the producers' standpoint, but was even more remarkable from the way of development—development that spells the prosperity of the mining regions for the future. New districts were brought into the spotlight, while many old fields again garnered into themselves the glory that had been declared had departed.

The situation of prosperity was particularly evident in the quartz-mining districts. Along the great Mother Lode belt flourished as never before, and the year's developments confirmed this belt one of the most valuable gold deposits in the world. The intersection of the vein ore at a depth of 3720 feet in the Kennedy mine indicates the wonderfully persistent nature of the Mother Lode veins and the activity of the zone shifts after other districts have had their glory forever.

Amador, formerly a county where mining was on the decline, firmly entrenched itself at the head of the mining counties and may have come to be known as the greatest gold producer of the entire State. Yuba relied exclusively on the golden output of its dredgers, but Amador has the more permanent lode mines. Nevada, Shasta, Sierra, Calaveras, Tuolumne, Kern and other counties the year was a record one.

Placer mining also made excellent gains, with Yuba, Butte and Sacramento the heaviest producing counties. Fields were profitably exploited in every county, while Shasta and Trinity placers gave up their treasures to the exacting buckets.

A number of new dredges were constructed, and work commenced on others for service in the coming year. The Marysville Dredging Company arranged for the building of a seven-cubic-foot gold boat, the largest ever constructed in California, and have it in commission before the year is done away.

The Natomas Consolidated replaced some of its wooden hull boats with others of steel, and built a number of new bucket elevator and suction dredges. Los Angeles people were heavily interested in dredge mining in Monterey and other fields, and an increasing percentage of profits found their way to the metropolis of the State.

The Yuba Consolidated of California, operating parts of gold ships in the Hammonton and Oroville fields, continued to be the foremost gold yielder of the State. Yuba Consolidated gold mines maintained second place. The two giant companies produce one-fifth of the dredger gold in the State.

Honors among the quartz mines are claimed by both the North Star and Kennedy mines. The North Star, in Grass Valley, had a good year in production and disbursements of dividends, but its great rival, the Kennedy, near Jackson, is pressing for supreme laurels. It is impossible to tell which made the record for some months, and estimates will be largely approximate. The Kennedy is the deeper, but the North Star is of superior quality.

Other gold mines were the South Eureka, Argonaut, Bunker Hill, Midas, Gladstone Consolidated. Utica mine, a copper mine of somewhat smaller importance.

Shasta county, Nevada county, continued to hold first place among the counties in point of production, but in value of output, but the Kennedy, Amador, made extensive. Los Angeles capital was particularly active in many of the mining and central counties, and valuable properties have been developed by the energetic Angelenos.

The closing event of the year was the Big Bend Grade rush. The discovery of the camp of High Grade, in Fresno county, commenced late in the year and several good properties apparently in the district also, has Los Angeles capital heavily active, and many valuable properties are controlled by them and their associates. Fresno, on the Sunshine and Yosemite Valley groups in the close-by, are particularly encouraging.

COPPER SITUATION.

The production of copper naturally centers in the districts in the counties. Plumas, Shasta, Tuolumne, Fresno, Calaveras and Butte counties recorded important developments, and it is expected that many districts will within a few years be noted producers of the red metal.

Among the Plumas copper properties of particular interest, the Walker group is sufficiently high in copper content of considerable importance. In this district the Walker Mining Company is about to exercise a purchase option against the property, and the copper output for 1912 probably will exceed that for the 1911 output. Reports from the district indicate that the ore bodies of copper are of a higher grade than those of California mines generally. Of this, about 38,000,000 pounds came from the mines of the Mammoth Copper Company, operated by the Mammoth Copper Company, Calaveras Copper Company, Shasta Copper Company, and the Walker Mining Company. The Calaveras Copper Company has a modern plant and will be a producer in 1913. This company is one of the developments of the Heinze interests under the closing weeks of the year. The Mountain Copper Company shipped high-grade ore from its Keswick mines to the Martinez smelter. The Balaklala, Bully Hill, Trinity, Afterthought, Blue Ledge and other large companies made no attempt at production.

With the fume problem controlled, the copper mines of California would have no difficulty in yielding 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 pounds of copper annually. In fact, this amount may be looked for from Shasta county alone as soon as the situation improves. Under present conditions most of the large mines are idle, not because of lack of commercial ore, but because fumes generated in smelting damage agricultural crops. And it has always been the case in California that when any mining activity discommodes the grangers, the miners must quit work.

The farmers ruined the hydraulic miner; now they are just as zealously crushing the copper producer. Numerous attempts have been made during the year to perfect devices for the absolute control of the noxious fumes, but with scant success. Hopes are cherished for the solution of the vexing problem this year, as in one or two instances indications favor success. But until this pleasant anticipation becomes a reality, copper mining in California will continue sternly restricted.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS.

The year marked the successful culmination of efforts to smelt iron ore on a commercial scale with the electric process. The Noble Electric Steel Company installed a new plant at Heroult and is arranging for a heavy output of high quality pig iron. That this method will be applied in other districts throughout the State is certain.

The labor situation was gratifying throughout the year. The miners are showing a disposition to listen less to the ravings of professional agitators and walking delegates, and to hearken more to the counsels of common sense. Employers and employees are showing a greater desire to deal equitably with questions, and peace prevails where formerly red violence held sway.

No Chrome or Cobalt.

ACTON, Dec. 15.—Q.: Since I sent my last letter and samples I have come across two, what I think are, better samples of the rock in my prospect "B," and I suggest that chromite and cobalt might be present with the iron. All through the vein is a kind of sandstone, and the rock and matrix are stratified. With the stratifications, running at right angles to the hanging-wall; although the sandstone runs in all directions. Is there any value attached to these? I judge the vein to be about ten feet wide, but the mineral is not so thick as samples. D. M.

A.: It is very much of a question whether or not you are in "true formation," and probably the locality is all twisted up and turned topsy-turvy. The sample is chiefly iron (magnetite, hematite, and limenite,) and in the mass we find quartz, baryte, calcite, and trace of rose-red rhodochrosite (carbonate of manganese.) Cobalt and chrome absent.

Iron and Manganese.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Q.: A prospector residing near Cedar City, Utah, sent me the enclosed iron and requested me to send it to The Times and ascertain its value. The claim where it comes from is fourteen miles south of Cedar City, and it is said to run very high in platinum. R.

A.: The sample represents a high-grade ore of iron and manganese oxides, but it does not carry platinum.

Tonopah.

ORE CONTINUES RICH IN WINZE.

Mizpah Mines Has Promising Outlook.

Directors Are Well Pleased With Prospects.

Merger Again Encounters Good Values.

[Special Correspondence to The Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Jan. 8.—Developments on the Mizpah Extension are among the most promising in the history of the camp and Manager Arthur Lawry predicts that he is more than likely to bring the mine into the producing ranks before snow melts. The Mizpah Exchange shipped one carload last fall and, if present indications count for anything, they imply regular shipments.

The winze in which the rich ore was struck has been sunk to a depth of twenty-six feet from the 1000-foot level, and a crosscut shows the vein to be fifteen feet wide without the hanging wall being encountered. The ore-shoot has maintained an average of two feet in high grade, the values ranging from $80 to $120 per ton.

The semi-annual report issued by the directors of the company expresses satisfaction with the progress so far made since connection was effected with the Belmont workings last September. This permitted of extensive work on two veins on the 1000-foot level with the fruits beginning to show. Both veins strike east and west and dip to the north. High-grape values were met in several places, but these were not continuous.

The last body of ore passed through averaged two feet in width and is valued at about $18 per ton. Present work consists of drifting on the vein to the southwest, which will be continued, as the vein at all times has been well defined and the quartz holds continuously, although the values are more or less variable. The report concludes with the statement that indications are so favorable that a change may be expected very soon.

BELMONT MINE.

This week the west drift on the thirteenth level, footwall branch, of the Belmont vein, which has been in a fault, has begun to show some fair grade ore, although still mixed with some fault matter. A new raise started has opened up a fair ore face. The main east drift on the vein continues to be extended in good ore. From this level a southwest crosscut, which is run to pick up a continuation of the ore body cut three weeks ago is still in the Belmont fault.

The Tonopah Merger has again broke into splendid ore in a raise from the 1070 level. This raise, shortly after started, opened up some splendid specimen ore, which continued for about thirty-six feet, when the rich streak which averaged two feet, was passed through, leaving a face about six feet wide of $30 to $35 ore. Last week specimen ore was again exposed in streaks with enhanced values.

This property is developed to justify the re-erection of a mill next spring. Manager Kirhen declares a very large tonnage of pay ore has been exposed for future extraction. No ore is being stoped, the present shipments being drawn from development work only, but the returns show a profit over and above all operating costs. Preparations for sinking the shaft another 100 feet are in progress, and actual work will begin next week. This may cause a temporary abatement of shipments.

The new vein cut above the 400-foot level on the Tonopah Extension has been proven up to be twelve feet wide between walls and while its general average value would be deemed low grade, it carries streaks and bunches of good ore which will be explored by drifts. In the meantime the south cross-cut in which it was encountered is continued to the south boundary of the property to cut another vein system that is believed to extend through that portion of the ground.

In the Montana the most important development in the past nine months is the demonstrating of the existence of a new streak of very rich ore in the hanging wall of the east end of stope No. 162 and it has also been proved by a raise that this will extend thirty-five feet down to the level below while its extent in length is yet to be explored.

The ore-shoot in stope 162 discovered last March, has been a prolific producer of nice specimen ore in addition to which it has furnished a heavy tonnage of good grade milling ore, and is still far from nearing exhaustion, while the new discovery of the rich hanging wall streak will enrich the lower grade mill ores for many months to come. On the 700-foot level the east drift on a series of good stringers has emerged into a width of two feet of solid ore of good grade.

West End has resumed the sinking of the main shaft from the 600-foot level with the 1000-foot point as the ultimate goal. To carry this out without waiting for the new compressor plant a third shift of miners has been put to work and an air hoist has been installed on the 600-foot level for sinking from that point.

While no important development has occurred in any part of the mine the ore in the west workings continues to maintain a width of from ten to twenty-five feet of excellent milling grade and occasional streaks and bunches of rich ore are encountered.

"The Handwriting on the wall."

¶ We who live in Los Angeles need no Daniel the Prophet to dechiper "the handwriting on the wall."

It is as plain to us as though lettered in fire on the Western Sky—1913! 1914! 1915! Stand for the three "fat years" ahead of us—! Our subscription books have been open for six days. We are pleased to announce a sale of over 300,000 shares up to Saturday night. A very gratifying sale. We wish to thank those who have all so generously responded.

WE can all read the signs of the times, but the question is: Will we profit by them? Any schoolboy can read, but it takes a philosopher to "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" that which is so plain to all eyes.

The three fat years ahead of us are the golden years of this wonderful empire that skirts the Pacific.

The completion of that great waterway that is to bring the East and West into closer communion—the Panama Canal; the Owens River Aqueduct project, which will furnish, not only water of the highest degree of purity, but cheap electric power, which will attract manufacturing plants to this favored section; the harbor of Los Angeles, the first port of entry for ships of all nations coming through the Canal, as well as those which come across the Pacific from the Orient; the two Fairs which will attract millions to Los Angeles, who have never set foot in this Paradise Land before—these are some of the things ahead of us in the three fat years—1913, '14 and '15.

Meanwhile the city of Los Angeles is growing, growing, growing, and adding to her civic beauties as well as to her wealth!

A million strong in 1920!

* * * * * * * * *

What part are you going to play in all these happenings?

An interested spectator, or a man with an interest in a co-operative company which is actively engaged in enterprises of great magnitude?

The "looker-on" never gets anywhere—neither does the "hanger-back."

The man who will make the money during these three fat years and afterward, will be one who will argue something like this:

"Now here is a new company, home builders and subdividers."—"I can get in this company for 10c a share."—"The stock is sure to rise, because they already own a beautiful property at Laurel Canyon Heights worth a quarter of a million dollars, where homes are now being erected on all sides, representing hundreds of thousands of dollars." — "Laurel Canyon Heights is the last of the close-in Mountain property."—"And they will take on other subdivisions, build them up and sell them at a profit."

"I SHALL GO IN AND CO-OPERATE WITH THIS COMPANY AND GET MY SHARE OF THE DIVIDENDS WHICH ARE BOUND TO COME DURING THE THREE YEARS AHEAD OF US," and afterward.

That man will never be pushed into the discard when his hair grows gray and he reaches the age limit.

The 10c stock he will buy today will be growing more and more valuable, and his dividends will grow proportionately.

All it requires is a little foresight.

People who study the California situation know that there is only a limited amount of this land.

When the European invasion comes—a peaceful one—and the millions over there begin pouring in here seeking homes, what will be the result?

Why this: Every acre of land upon which water can be thrown will be worth from $1000 up.

This will be an empire devoted to intensive farming.

The great tracts which this co-operative company will secure will be divided into small farms, and sell at fancy prices.

All because the area is restricted and the great majority of people are seeking a more congenial climate, where the blizzard king is not in control eight months out of the twelve.

* * * * * * * * *

A word with you: A personal heart-to-heart word.

Have you been wavering, wondering where would be a good, safe place to put your surplus cash each month?

The 6 per cent. mortgage is safe, but no safer than the stock of a Home Building Company that is more apt to earn 18 per cent. than 8 per cent.

Take an 18 per cent. investment—by way of illustration:

Say you have $1000 to invest.

$1000 invested in our shares at the opening price would purchase 10,000 shares.

These should go to $1.00 per share the first year.

Say they only did half as well—$5000.

At 18 per cent. the annual income would return $900.00!

$900.00 per year on an investment of $1000.00! Think of it! If others are getting it, we can.

An 18 per cent. stock is easily worth $1.00 and your holdings should represent $10,000.

These figures may sound overdrawn, but there are plenty of cases to prove them conservative; plenty of cases right in this city.

Why not let us get together and talk this important matter over?

If these figures are true then you certainly want all of this stock you can pay for.

If they are not true, you don't want them at any price.

What's the quickest and surest way of finding out?

SIMPLY THROUGH A PERSONAL INVESTIGATION!

Either call or write and put us on the rack; make us explain our plans in detail from end to end.

In this way we can best get your confidence and after that your co-operation.

'13, '14, '15, Three Years of Plenty

Three years of plenty! Three years during which Los Angeles shall have emerged from "a Coast city" into the principal port on the Pacific Coast.

Wake up! Don't put it off until tomorrow, for that day never comes. DO IT NOW.

It is all in making the beginning, taking the first step; the habit is soon formed and it's the best habit anyone can form, for it leads to fortune.

We have limited the first allotment of shares at 10c; next allotment will be higher.

Naturally you will want to buy at the very lowest figures possible.

A raise of price of even 1c a share on 100 shares is a clean profit of $50.00 in 24 hours.

This is not to be passed up if it can be obtained by a little forwardness.

Our shares are worth double the opening price, but in order that we may secure a large list of stockholders and scatter our stock over a wide area, we have decided to offer this first allotment at 10c, and to raise the price at our discretion.

Two New Ones.

OLDFIELD MAKES NEW WORLD'S AUTO RECORD.

Covers a Mile in a Fraction More Than Thirty-six Seconds—Tetzlaff Beaten at the Start by Barney—Maggone in Remarkable Sprint Breaks Old Mark for Five Miles in Competition.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

TWO world's speed records were shattered on the Motordrome board yesterday afternoon, in the most successful automobile race meet ever held in Southern California.

In the first heat of the world's track championship match, between Oldfield and Tetzlaff, Barney drove his 60-horse-power Christie into a new world's track record of 36 1-5s. This is four seconds faster than the former world's competition time and faster than Oldfield's own exhibition time.

Pete Maggone, at the wheel of a 90-horse-power Fiat, won the five-mile two-for-all event in the remarkable time of 3m. 15 3-5s. The former world's competition time for this event was 3m. 27s.

BARNEY SHINES.

Oldfield was the bright star of the meet. Before the heat was called every believed that Tetzlaff had the contest clinched. There were many who backed their belief with substantial coin.

Barney went on the track early in the afternoon and satisfied himself that his car was running to suit him. He, however, never went near his machine before the race, except once at the request of some amateur photographer.

The champion spent the time before the main event talking to friends in the grand stand, while the mechanics were inside the enclosure. He was confident that he would win and told his friends that he would give them a new record.

GOOD START MADE.

The cars got off to a perfect flying start. Tetzlaff had won the toss and got the pole. As George Adair dropped the blue flag, Barney stepped on it and shot ahead of Teddy as if he had been boosted with a stick of dynamite.

Inside of 100 yards the race was over. He took the pole and increased his lead to fifteen yards before the half-mile post had been passed. Tetzlaff opened up another notch at this stage of the game but the gap remained the same for most of the race.

After the race, Barney said he did not open up with all he had, because it was not necessary; and to tell the truth, there is more speed in the car than the track would stand, so there is no telling what the speed would have done, had he been pressed by the Fiat driver.

Conditions for the races were perfect. The track was in excellent shape, owing to the recent rains which had washed all dust off the track.

There were more automobiles in-

BARNEY OLDFIELD IN LAST RACE TODAY.

Barney Oldfield said last night that he drove the hardest race of his career against Teddy Tetzlaff yesterday afternoon.

"I won the heat, but the hard race will come tomorrow," said the champion last night, "and I will do the mile under 35s., if necessary, to beat Tetzlaff. He is a good man and it takes a good man to beat him. I am going to win the second heat tomorrow and quit the track for all time. It will be my last race and I must win. I went into this meet simply to show that I am not the dead one that some people seem to think I am."

side the Motordrome during the meet yesterday, than were ever assembled there before.

Both the drivers and the officials of the W.A.A., were well satisfied with the day's programme and predict even a greater attendance and a better race card for this afternoon.

The first race started promptly at 2:30 o'clock. George Jorimann in the Maxwell won, in 4:33 flat, and Arch Kincaid in the Studebaker "20," took second.

Three Fiats appeared in the second race and finished in a string. Maggone jumped into the lead at the start and gradually climbed away from the field for the whole race. Frank Verbeck crowded George Hill out of second place in the last half mile.

Arch Kincaid in a Studebaker "20," won the five miles, free-for-all handicap. George Hill in a Fiat took second, and Frank Verbeck, also driving a Fiat, took third. Kincaid's time for the five miles was 5:1 3-5.

Tetzlaff drove an exhibition mile against time, but failed to establish a record, his time being 36 2-5.

Oldfield attempted to lower the far-long record, but failed. This mark is 21 4-5 and Oldfield's time yesterday for the distance was 22 1-5.

This afternoon, the second heat of the world's track championship match is to be run off; and if necessary, the third, as the best two out of three heats, wins the match.

FAT—LEAN MEN ARE WINNERS.

Easily Beat Middleweights in Golf Match.

Woodcock Beats Armstrong in Twenty-Hole Match.

San Gabriel Beats Annandale in League Match.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Two important golf events took place yesterday afternoon. The first league match of the season between Annandale and San Gabriel on the links of the San Gabriel Country Club, and the Middleweights vs. Fats and Leans' match at the Los Angeles Country Club.

San Gabriel won the league match 4 to 3.

The Fats and Leans won the match at Beverly, 20 to 13.

The latter event was in the nature of a try-out to discover who's who in Southern California golf for the coming season. It was open to visitors from other clubs. Seventy-eight matches were played.

Obviously it is better to be either really plump or positively skinny—middleweight would appear to mean mediocrity in the sacred realms of golf.

Seventy-eight souls tried their skill in yesterday's match at the Los Angeles Country Club, wherein every fat man and every lean man was matched against a middleweight in the great Who's-Who struggle for fame and glory. Nat Wilshire, with his well-fed air of comfortabe assurance, captained the Middleweights and led them on to defeat—defeat, mind you, and with such names as Macbeth to head the list. The score was 20 to 13.

Edward Tufts captained the Fats (embonpoint is a much more delicate word, I am sure) and L. T. Bradford, wrist watch and all, captained the Skinnies.

Charles Orr, who is playing so very much better this season than last, went under to Norman Macbeth, one of the brave thirteen to save the Middleweights from ignominy. Windsor Walton defeated F. H. Edwards. Dashing Frank, with just a soupcon more unostentatious dash, H. Johnstone, that means the handsome Hugo, crushed Walter Cosby, the great debater (to whom, by the way, a beautiful medal was presented at the banquet for his skill in unsolicited argument.)

Julius A. Brown, the donator of the handsome cup for which competition starts next Saturday, tied his match with L. T. Bradford. G. H. Schneider and J. W. Wilson also tied. Likewise those arch-conspirators, Tufts and Wilshire.

Maurice Ginn defeated Dr. Requa, W. R. Leeds defeated K. K. Parrott, and F. D. Hudson defeated S. P. Hunt. J. B. Cook won his match from C. A. Henderson and J. E. Nevin from A. G. Gage. R. H. Ingram won from S. C. Dunlap, but R. D. Lapham, that new man from the Midlothian Club, snuffed E. H. Bagby's light out.

V. E. Goodwin beat W. W. Woods. C. H. Knappe defeated George Steckel, A. L. Schwars beat H. A. De Wit, and E. T. Pettigrew beat A. N. Davidson. George J. Kuhrts beat C. F. Noyes and Walter Van Pelt beat C. W. Pendleton, which was an achievement for W. V. P.

The other matches were:

Walter beat Crutcher; Keller beat Sale; Foster beat Monnette; Coffin beat Wilson; Gould beat Snyder; McKinstry beat Joyce; Elliott beat Cash; Parsons beat Euhillinger; Denis beat Dunn; MacKegan and Fulton tied; Bohan beat Newlin; Ellis beat Barker; Smith beat Brown; Sherer beat Troesher; Long beat Taylor; Ellis and Waddell tied; Ross beat Herron; Hunt beat McCall; Shirley beat Bickler.

The Middleweights were the compulsory hosts at the banquet in the evening, naturally, and it was a sumptuous affair which included a beautiful imitation cabaret show and lots of good things to eat.

Very Tight Fit.

ANNANDALE IS A CLOSE SECOND.

BEATEN BY SAN GABRIEL IN FIRST GOLF MATCH.

Woodcock's Team Proves Its Class Over that Captained by Armstrong—Champion Loses to Mission Land Leader by One Hole in Very Exciting Match.

San Gabriel won the first golf league match of the season on the links of the San Gabriel Country Club yesterday afternoon, defeating Annandale by 4 to 3.

The visiting team was captained by E. S. Armstrong, Southern California champion, ex-Coast champion and champion of the Annandale Country Club. He was supported by E. N. Wright, A. A. French, M. P. Mears, E. R. Williams, W. K. Jewett and W. L. Hall.

The San Gabriel team included H. N. H. Woodcock, captain; George Cline, Robert L. Tatum, Conde Jones, Frank Wade, J. L. Marsh and A. C. Scales.

The most exciting match of the day

FROM A CARR WINDOW.

MY anxiety will not subside until Jess Willard gets a manager.

Not that I care a whoop either for Jess Willard or his prospective manager, but I have a natural instinct for self-protection.

The possibility of having another gabby tin-horn sport sitting around on one's typewriter telling how good he is, darkens the whole future for me.

The only request I have to make of Jess Willard is that he select a deaf and dumb man to handle his business affairs.

* * *

I have suffered from them all; but the New York crop which came out with the heavyweights, were the worst of them all.

In sports at least, I am afraid I am hopelessly prejudiced in favor of western men.

Of all the managers, the one who most nearly resembles a human being is Billy Nolan. Bill and I have been side by side since the Gans-Nelson fight at Goldfield. His cold-blooded, chilled-steel manner, appeals to me. Likewise his keen intelligence.

A lot of these managers will sit around and try to tell you that they are devoting their sweet young lives to their fighters because of a spiritual affinity that binds them. Bill makes no pretense of any personal feeling in the matter. He has always been perfectly frank in saying that he would just as soon be managing a hardware store or an ice factory.

There is just one case in which I know that a real feeling exists between a fighter and his manager; this is between Ad Wolgast and Tom Jones.

Tom thinks as much of Ad as a father could of a son. I never remember anything more touching or genuine than Tom's grief the day they took little Ad away to the hospital to be operated upon.

Tom makes a lot of noise and genuinely gives the impression of being agitated almost beyond human endurance, but he is all gold in the heart. And I could hope nothing better either for Willard or for my own peace of mind than that he and the heavyweight aspirant should hook up.

If Joe Rivers holds out, the manager in which future I have the most confidence is Joe Levy.

Joe has some severe faults, the worst being that of suspicion. About the worst discourtesy I ever heard of being offered to the newspaper men was when Joe Levy used to ask them to step out of the room while Rivers was being weighed, before the Wolgast fight.

In other circles, the trust in newspaper men is implicit and unbounded—and nearly always justified. I don't know any set of men in whose honor I would as soon trust as in a bunch of reporters.

Men who stand high in the business world have learned this. One of the meanest tricks that public men now play on newspaper workers is to call them all in and tell them "in confidence" something that is likely to leak out, thus shutting their mouths effectually.

Before Joe has gone very far he will learn that nothing inspires distrust so quickly as distrust.

Except for this fault, Joe is a fine little fellow, gentle in character and as shrewd as a Glasgow Scot. I hope he will make a million dollars, before Rivers fizzles out, as he surely will pretty soon. Joe won't last long, because he is rather dull and lacks the self-control that goes with brains.

Coming down to a late crop of managers, I must admit that Tom O'Rourke is like a red rag to a bull to me.

There isn't a thing personal in this, for I never spoke ten words to him in my life, but to see that pompous old person strutting around with a cane as though he had just been notified of his election to the United States Senate, gets my goat.

It seems to me that a man who has attained his age without achieving in life anything better than the superintendence of a fat-headed prize fighter, has small cause for a Senatorial demeanor.

From managers who strut, good Lord, deliver us.

The august colored editor of the Liberator has favored me with a marked copy of his paper which contains the following reference:

"The genius editor of The Times and a small bunch of local newspaper men of his caliber are making a laughing stock of themselves by proclaiming McCarty heavyweight champion of the world, because their attacks upon Jack Johnson on account of his color has made Jack rich."

I followed the editorial feverishly through to the end in the hope of finding out what particular caliber I found out in the next paragraph from the end that I am of small caliber; the editor says so.

But anyhow, I am comforted by the reflection that the scribe who wrote, "because of their attacks upon Jack Johnson on account of his color, has made Jack rich," will never be the heavyweight champion of the world in English grammar.

HOGAN BUYS PITCHER PAPE.

Vernon Leader Gets Pitcher from Red Sox.

Formerly Played on Graham's Senator Team.

Hap to Select New Training Grounds Next Week.

BY HARRY WILLIAMS.

"Happy" Hogan scored heavily yesterday in the buying scramble of the Coast league magnates for supremacy in 1913, and Larry Pape of the Boston Red Sox will wear a Tigers uniform next season.

Pape was purchased outright, and the deal was the result of several three-cornered deliberations between Stahl, Maier and Hogan. When the Boston manager swung himself aboard an eastbound train at 10 a.m. yesterday, the deal was closed as far as he was concerned, but is required confirmation, and this was forthcoming in a telegram from Boston last night.

SHOULD HELP TIGERS.

The purchase of Pape will materially strengthen the Tiger twirling staff. The newcomer is a big, strong right-hander, who can work every day if necessary. He is not a total stranger to Coast league fans, having played with Sacramento two months in 1910, when the Boston Red Sox were using that club for a farm. He developed so rapidly that Boston soon recalled him and he responded by winning ten out of eighteen games. In 1911 for a percentage of .556, which placed him above Charley Hall.

Last season with Wood, Boston, Collins and O'Brien carrying the club along at top speed, Pape was not forced to do much work, and should be as fresh as the proverbial daisy when he reports to the Tigers.

THOMAS WANTED.

Efforts to get Stahl to part with a catcher were unavailing. With Carrigan, Cady, Nunnemaker and Thomas on his staff, it was believed that he could be induced to release one of them to the Tigers. Thomas was the man wanted, as he had previously played on the Coast. This would have made him especially valuable, as knowledge of a batter's weakness is a great asset for any backstop.

The acuteness of the Tiger catching situation, however, was materially relieved last night when Hogan received a wire from the Nashville club stating that waivers finally have been secured on "Rowdy" Elliott. Pittsburg was purchased by Hogan while he was attending the minor league

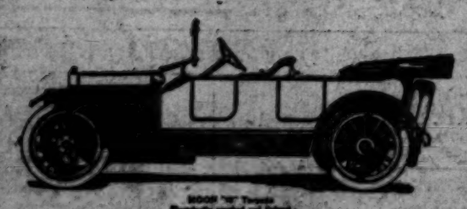
MOON



MOON "48" Torpedo
Handsomely stocked and finished

Figures don't lie—here are the measurements

In the MOON "48" Torpedo the distance from the back of the front seat to the dash is 55 inches—allowing plenty of leg room and to spare.

In the rear compartment the distance from the back of the front seat to the back of the rear seat is 40½ inches.

It's not enough merely to have thick upholstery—you've got to have the leg room. MOON cars are provided with luxurious upholstering, and they give you leg room, too. This is only possible in a long wheelbase car in which every inch of space is properly utilized for the comfort of the passengers.

The same careful designing and high engineering standards control every detail of MOON construction.

MOON cars are right!

The MOON Electric Cranking and Lighting System adds very little weight to the car. The starting unit weighs but 60 pounds—a mere trifle for the extra speedway reserve strength of the MOON.

MOON "48" Torpedo, completely equipped, $1985
This model is also built in all other bodies, as desired

GOVERN ALL SPORTS AND AVOID PECK OF TROUBLE.

Committee of Three to Handle Affairs Under Direction of Larger Organization—Ideas Advanced by Man Who Has Been Long in the Game May Help Us to Solve Some of the Knotty Problems.

BY W. E. RUESS.

WHY not let a committee of three, working with the heads of each department of the new association, handle the affairs right here on our home ground, each member to be a man vitally interested in whatever branch of the sport his department happens to represent? In that way you will get impartial treatment, get treatment that will be sensible because the man on each committee who understands the inside and the make-up of each branch of the sport will straighten away his colleagues so that they will understand the business side of it, and they in turn will influence him from the sportsman's side. They can then submit their decision to the head of their particular branch and he in turn can confer with the big, grand chief, who, if necessary, can call in an outsider or some other head of another branch to decide any vexatious question that may come up.

A man at the head of each one of these departments will have power enough in any contest that is going on to disqualify any contestant that he sees in the race, and whom he really knows to be unfit, and his power should be far-reaching enough to be beyond criticism, and he should be a man wealthy enough, and one with no ax to grind, so that his decision would be absolutely unbiased. Let him give decisions, which, whether right or wrong, would make it an honest, clean decision, anyhow.

This is merely a suggestion of mine that I would like to see acted upon, and I believe now, the same as I believed when I told you some three or four years ago, that you would see us break away from the A.A.A., and that you will see an organization formed that will be far-reaching and will control all sports of all kinds. The fact that it is controlled by one body and that suspension in one branch of sport means suspension in all, will give us clean sports.

It will also do more toward stopping take promotion schemes than anything else in the world, for the simple reason that a body of this kind will have a membership that extends into every hill and dale in the back country, that will go away out into Arizona, that will go into New Mexico, into Nevada, in fact, wherever red blood runs in the veins of the men who like clean sport.

A letter sent by an organization of this kind questioning the intentions of a promoter of any kind at all, would quickly make financial loss stare him in the face and naturally would stop any foolishness or shady promotion schemes that the public has been forced to stand for.

Now, I realize, and I believe everyone else realizes, that to form an organization to handle automobile racing and automobile sport as a whole will cost a lot of money; in other words, officers and officials will have to be maintained, and maintained right. It will cost but little more to handle all of them, and in that way it will make the expense lighter all around to everyone concerned, and will centralize everything. Not only this, I do not believe we should affiliate with any other city, with the understanding that the headquarters are to be in that city; if, in order to get another city to come with us and give us their support we have to agree to make our headquarters there and give them the publicity head officers of an association of this kind within its boundaries would naturally get. I believe we would be confessing a weakness and a fear that we could not pull this off alone and acknowledge the fact that we would be afraid to go ahead unless we felt we would have someone else behind us.

LET'S DO IT.

The right spirit to take up a proposition of this kind which is the kind that says "we are going ahead and we are going to do it—if you want to swing with our bunch hang on, otherwise go with some one else, but we are going to play alone if the rest of you don't want to play with us" and believe be, they will quickly fall in line with us.

Southern California has been the scene of bigger automobile races, better aviation meets, better athletic contests than any other place in the country, and for the life of me I cannot see why headquarters of an association of this kind should go to another city, and if Los Angeles has started this movement, I believe Los Angeles should be the city to derive any benefit from it. With an athletic club, like we have in our city, with the men behind it and with the automobile business in the condition that it is in Southern California, I personally feel that Southern California, and particularly Los Angeles, is the place to have the headquarters for an association of this kind.

A great many arguments can be brought forward to bear me out in my suggestion to form an association of this kind. The greatest of them all, I believe, is the fact that Southern California is the one spot where everybody wants to come and live if they can.

GREAT ROAD RACERS.

We have the fastest road racing course in the world. We have the fastest one-mile track in the world; world's records of all kinds are held on our tracks. College athletes have broken all kinds of records here in Southern California. Fishing records of all kinds have been established in the waters surrounding Southern California. Aviation contests have been pulled off in which all kinds of records were made, and some of the greatest athletes in the world as well as most of the best baseball players, start for Southern California just as soon as the snow begins to fly in the East, or if they are even threatened with cold weather.

It is admitted without a doubt that we have the finest athletic club that there is anywhere in the country, and also that we can stay out of doors practically all the year around. It makes Southern California the ideal place for sports of all kinds on land. Then again, the beautiful harbor and bay at San Diego, figure how well it is adapted for speed with motor boats and racing crafts of different kinds, and figure out in our own outer harbor between San Pedro and Long Beach what kind of contests could be pulled off, and you can readily see that sports of all kinds can be governed by one body.

If this is done and it is decided to govern all kinds of sports by one body more you will find we will get a great many recruits in the ranks, you will get more support, you will interest men that you do not dream of interesting today, and they will all come forward and try to do their little part to help us form an organization unlike anything else in the world, just as Southern California has produced the champion road race driver of the world, and just as one of the greatest heavyweights who ever lived, came from Southern California. Just so, let's form the greatest and best organization to control sport of all kinds, in Southern California, and last, but not least, let's resent an attempt to take the headquarters to any other city, and keep it entirely and wholly in Los Angeles.

Knockers Knocked.

RAILROAD AUTO MAN SAYS CONDITIONS ARE NOT BAD

ACCORDING to W. S. Wheaton, automobile agent for the Salt Lake Route, no good reason offers on the part of the automobile agents of Southern California, or the orange growers, for that matter, in their seeming willingness to be cast down on account of the recent freeze.

It is bad, but has been worse; and according to statistics compared to other great crops in portions of our country, we have much to be thankful for.

Even the recuperating possibilities of this great country and climate are so manifest and rapid that optimism and good work in the face of the present situation should be unanimous.

There is no need to misrepresent or ridicule, for that is ingratitude, and an untruth that brands itself and which any comparison of facts positively refutes.

"One has only to return to many memories of the great Middle States, the Southern States, and recall, for example, how often Georgia has failed her peach harvest, or Illinois and Missouri lost their apples, or Iowa her corn, or Dakota and Kansas their grain, often years in succession.

"As far as California statistics prove to us, our wonderful resources have not failed us in the past fifteen years.

"On all sides you hear the cry that the past three years have played havoc with California business. In my estimation the closing of the past year's business does not warrant any such statement. We have never had a bad year but what it has left a trail of good, and that is what this little spell is going to do, as will be shown to those of you who come from less-favored localities and which every man who has ever lived in the East knows to be a fact. It is an admitted fact that bad years, especially winters, are invariably followed by better years. As proof of this statement, take the year 1912 in every section east of the Sierras.

"It is time now to quit knocking; the loss is not so great as our first scare indicated. While everybody feels the effect of the freeze, which is an unusual condition, no catastrophe has happened except in the minds of those who only think they know.

"As far as automobiles are concerned, they will not be affected, and the demand will continue to increase. It is high time for us all to get together and acknowledge the facts as they are, and the year 1913 will far eclipse the year that is past, regardless of old Boreas."

Tom Williams,
Manager of the H. O. Harrison Company, and the [illegible] by the automobile man on the Country Club [illegible]

Special Exhibit of Beautiful Limousines

"Limousine Week" at the Hudson Display Room

Come See the Rich Luxuriousness Embodied in These Handsome Closed Cars—the Masterpieces of the Body Builders' Art.
The Special Exhibit Gives You This Opportunity.

LIMOUSINE Week at our display room means that you can here see limousines in which the imagination of the most fastidious can find nothing lacking in character, tone or completeness.

The New HUDSON "54" limousine body is designed by recognized artists—men who build $5,000 and $6,000 closed cars.

These limousines embody the master strokes in body building. The secret behind their surprising beauty, comfort and roominess is that the Hudson Motor Car Company is this year building 10,000 chassis. There is not a maker of high priced limousines who builds over 2,000 pleasure cars, and there is but one who has reached that output.

Hence the Hudson Company buys materials in 10 times the quantity that the average limousine builder does. For his production is smaller and material cost heavy.

Consequently at $1,750 less you can secure in the New HUDSON "54" the same beauty, comfort, quality, richness and tone that last year you were obliged to pay $5,000 and $4,000 for.

Mechanical perfection is taken care of by the fact that the car is the creation of 48 picked engineers, with experience in 97 famous factories of the world. These men had a hand in building over 200,000 automobiles.

In concentrating all this vast experience in one car they worked under Howard E. Coffin, America's foremost designer.

The HUDSON limousine is electrically self-cranked and electric lighted. It has a full complement of lamps, consisting of dome light, running board illuminators, head lights, side lights—in fact there is nothing that you can picture that is lacking in this beautiful limousine.

May we show you these cars during our special exhibition? We should heartily welcome a visit from you at our display rooms.

CANADIAN CAR ON EXHIBITION.

First Time in History an Invader Is Seen.

Big Men at Head of This Auto Concern.

Closely Resembles French Renault Machine.

For the first time in the history of automobile manufacturing on the American continent, there is to be exhibited at an automobile show in the United States an imported car made in America. The Keeton Motor Limited of Canada has a display at the importers' salon at the Hotel Astor, which opened January 2 and closes January 10.

The Keeton car is made at the factory of the company located at Brantford, Ont. The company was formed some time ago with $200,000 paid up capital and is manufacturing cars for the Canadian, English and Colonial business.

Forrest M. Keeton, who has been well known to the automobile manufacturing industry since its earliest days, is president of the company. J. B. Detwieller, of the Canadian Steel Company, is vice-president and treasurer; W. G. Houck, vice-president and sales director; A. Sweet, secretary; W. J. Verity, president of the Verity Plow Company, and Percy E. Verity, also of the Verity Plow Company, are stockholders and directors.

The Keeton follows closely the lines of the French Renault car, but is more graceful in appearance and has a longer wheel base. It combines all the qualities for comfort and luxuriousness found in the European cars, and has attracted attention in all motor centers of Canada, where the greater portion of the product of the company for 1913 has already been contracted for.

Canadian people will this year use every car the company can turn out with 30,000 square feet of floor space and many hundreds of men.

Plans to enlarge this factory are already going forward, for the company has found a demand not only in Canada but in European countries for the car.

CUTTING INVADES MANY FOREIGN AUTO CENTERS.

The Cutting Motor Car Company of Jackson, Mich., reports the foreign business of the company to be expanding so rapidly that it is with difficulty that they can keep the demand supplied.

During the past two weeks, shipments have been made to Jamaica, Cuba, China, New Zealand and Australia.

The buyers in the foreign countries have taken to the Cutting and the moderate price has fast made it popular. It is expected that when the new "Six" is completed, the demand will be greatly increased.

The executives of the Cutting factory have found the foreign market so great and with the faith they have in the sales possibilities of their product abroad, they have taken time by the forelock and secured live agents in Italy, (Porto Rico, Cuba, England, Spain, Russia, Sweden and Jamaica.

The company already has general distributors located in Brazil, New Zealand, Australia, China and Portugal.

The State of Oregon boasts 1182 licensed motorcycles, of which 751 are in one county—Marion. Of the 751, Salem (Or.) has 486, thus clinching the title of the banner motorcycle town of Oregon.

Harry E. Patterson of Pittsburgh is one of the latest to join the constantly growing squad of motorcycle transcontinentalists.

HOOSIER AUTO TOURERS TO VISIT THIS CITY.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Details of the proposed tour of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers Association from Indianapolis to the Pacific Coast, which will attract from thirty to fifty entries, were made public today by H. C. Bradfield, chairman of the Press Committee of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

"Our expedition will be the boldest trip ever attempted," said Bradfield. "It will not be a contest, but will be patterned after the two events which we ran in 1911 and 1912, and will be a trip promoted for the purpose of showing the products of Indiana concerns; only the Hoosier makes are eligible.

"We propose to make our getaway from Indianapolis July 1, although the only points which are certain to be a part of our itinerary are St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"Between these points there are choices of direction which are being investigated.

"There will be few rules to govern the tourists. Two divisions will be maintained, one for pleasure cars, and the other for motor trucks. From Indianapolis to Kansas City, the tourists will sleep in hotels; after this the nights will be passed in organized open camps with exception of the stops in Denver and Salt Lake.

"The party will probably remain in San Francisco for three or four days and then tour to Los Angeles. It has been suggested that we ship our cars from Los Angeles to Portland by boat, a visit to the great Northwest being contemplated."

After the Business.

PORK PEDDLERS RACE IN JACKSON CARS.

CHARLES H. THOMPSON has at last been successful in getting shipments of Jackson cars from the factory, and for the first time this season is able to make deliveries of his two leading models, the Olympic "35," and the Majestic "45."

Three types are now being shown, finished in maroon, gray and blue. These are five-passenger touring cars and one seven.

A shipment of roadsters is due to arrive tomorrow. These are the models that have proved so popular in Los Angeles.

The Cudahy Packing Company owns seventeen of these Jacksons and all are in active use. The cars are used by the salesmen, who drive to all parts of Southern California.

The machines get hard usage as they are sent over all kinds of roads and at a swift pace.

There are often races from town to town by rival salesmen. The fact that this company has bought so many Jacksons speaks well of the work these cars have done.

The Pacific Coast Beef and Provision Company has three Jacksons in use. These are also used by the salesmen, who cover the southern end of the State.

Swift & Co. also use three Jacksons, and the races between the rival meat salesmen often bring together Jackson cars.

A Real Blockade.

LOVERS ARE SNOWBOUND VANCE WORRIES AT HOME.

WARREN VANCE is planning to attend the Chicago Automobile Show, while his partner, James J. Canavan, is snowbound somewhere in Utah. This combination did not worry Vance last night, when he received a wire from the Cartercar agent in Ogden, saying that the train on which Mr. and Mrs. James J. Canavan are returning on their honeymoon is stalled in the deep snow.

The happy bride is enjoying a unique honeymoon. She left the frozen East four days ago with the proud bridegroom. They were hurrying to San Francisco, where they expected to spend a week prior to making their home in Los Angeles. Vance was prepared to leave for the automobile show the moment his partner arrived. Now the Vance-Canavan partners are separated by a bank of snow that may keep them apart longer than either had planned.

The Cartercars are on the way. Here is another complication. At least one member of the firm must be here when those friction-driven 1913 models get here. Harry R. Radford, vice-president of the Cartercar Company, was here two weeks ago. He will meet Vance in Chicago. He has promised the shipments by January 13, and James J. must arrive in time.

The Dayton Board of Health has asked an appropriation with which to buy a motorcycle for its sanitary officer. The board members said they must either have a motorcycle or additional officers.

UNCLE SAM BUYS MOTOR TRUCKS.

POWER WAGONS FOR SERVICE AT WEST POINT.

Two Machines Sent to Manila Will Be Used for Salvage Work in the Fire Department and Be Put to Hard Test on Old Roads Built by Spaniards.

Four Alco trucks are the latest addition to the United States list of motor vehicles being used in its service. Two of these trucks are to be sent to West Point post while the others will be in salvage work in the fire department at Manila.

One of the machines to be sent to West Point is of three and one-half tons capacity. It is fitted with a stout body and is used to haul hay, grain and provisions for the horses stationed at the post. It also transfers materials used in the maintenance of the different buildings.

The other machine, of two tons capacity, is equipped with a self-dumping body and hauls coal from the railroad to the different buildings on the reservation.

A hard test will be put upon these trucks, as there is a 15 per cent grade, which will mean a constant climb from either direction in approaching the army post.

According to regulations the trucks have to ascend the hill with a full capacity load at the rate of six miles an hour.

The two machines sent to Manila have a course over much poor roadway which makes traveling actually difficult.

CARBURETOR COMPANY ISSUES CHALLENGE.

THE Jensen Carburetor Company has challenged the Stromberg to a test of economy and mileage per gallon of gasoline, to be run from New York to Los Angeles. Same make of car to be used, race to be run over same roads and start from New York at same time. Cars to be equipped with gauge to register every particle of gasoline consumed and take receipt every place gasoline, oil and supplies are procured.

Carburetors to be enclosed and sealed and not to be touched or adjusted until the Times Building in Los Angeles is reached.

The Los Angeles Times, the Chicago Tribune, Kansas City Star and New York Herald to make the rules and select roads. The loser is to pay all expenses and a forfeit to be decided upon.

This challenge was given to the Los Angeles Times representative and has been issued by Otto L. Nick, local manager of the Jensen Carburetor Company, to the Stromberg Carburetor Company.

If the challenge is accepted by the Stromberg people the incident will be unique in the automobile industry. It would be a long test and a severe one, and certainly the winner would deserve all the credit that would be his.

The manager of the Jensen company has recently come to Los Angeles, but so favorably impressed was he with the city that he has already started the manufacture of the equipment.

There is a great demand already and they expect to do a great business, and Nick says he knows no better way to show what his carburetor will do than to enter into the contest to which he has challenged the Stromberg. Both are popular, and it is a question which will win.

Nick is one of the oldest men in the industry, having owned and run an automobile shop at Miles City, Mont., in the days when farmers were more opposed to them than at the present time.

He relates at one time when making the run from Milwaukee to Wankisha, farmers had covered the roads with glass and tacks, and all he did on the trip was mend punctures. He states that the greatest trouble experienced by drivers in those days were in the carburetors not getting the proper mixture.

The Jensen carburetor, which Nick manufactures, is self-adjusting to heat, cold, speed and altitude. He is sure that in a trip from New York to Los Angeles he would have a fine chance to win.

Squandered Money.

EASTERN EXPERT CLAIMS CARELESS DRIVING COSTLY.

THAT careless driving is the cause of thousands of dollars loss to drivers and owners of motor cars, because of the useless wear on tires, is the opinion of Harry R. Radford, general manager of the Cartercar Company, who was recently the guest of Warren Vance of the Vance-Canavan Company in this city.

"The average man does not pay half enough attention to his driving," said Radford. "He runs along as fast as possible and nine times out of ten he stops too quickly.

"Drawing up too quickly, even though the wheels do not slide, causes a severe friction on the tires and of course, great wear. I have seen men make a practice of seeing what short space they can stop their cars in.

"It is my belief that almost one-half of the usual wear on tires is useless. Of course, in a fraction transmission car, where there are no jerks or jars the wear will be much less than with the gear car; even that wear could be reduced by careful application of the brakes in stopping.

"The men who run their tires for a distance of from ten to fifteen thousand miles are as a usual thing, very careful drivers who realize that all strain on tires means a personal loss to them.

"With the Cartercar, which has a friction transmission, I believe this tendency to careless use of the brakes is more apparent than with drivers of other cars, for the simple reason that the driver of the friction car knows that with careless driving he will still get greater mileage from his tires, and he figures that it is not necessary for him to try to secure such an excess service from his tires."

WINNING MERCER LOOKS GOOD TO VISALIA MAN.

THE Mercer roadster that finished second in the road race at San Diego New Year's Day has been purchased by A. B. Weathers of Visalia and will be driven by him in contests held in the San Joaquin Valley.

Within a short time this car is to figure in a match race with a Buick "Forty" owned by the Waterman boys of Fresno.

A road race was held at Visalia New Year's which was won by a Mercer owned by Weathers. Waterman had a car in the race and was beaten.

Immediately he offered to wager $1000 that Weathers could not beat him around the course. This bet was accepted and the money posted.

The car that performed so creditably in the San Diego race will be used in an effort to annex this thousand.

The motorists of the San Joaquin Valley are said to be race mad. They have some kind of a contest every holiday and so enthusiastic have they become that many private owners are stripping their machines and starting in the races.

Weathers has always been in the money with his Mercer, but wanted a car equipped with racing seats, large tank and other racing accessories.

PAIGE 25—$1050

AT LOS ANGELES

For those who want a car smaller than the Paige "36," our 1913 line offers the Paige "25," a car value—price considered—just as remarkable as the "36."

The Paige "25" is a car of proved success. Even lacking some of the refinements and some of the equipment of this 1913 model, the Paige "25" last year established sensational success.

Careful construction, and real workmanship, made this car a leader in the thousand dollar field.

For 1913 we offer the two most popular body types of Paige "25," Model Brunswick, 5-passenger touring car, $1050, and Model Kenilworth, a snappy, graceful roadster, $1050.

The price—only $1050—seems impossibly low when you consider the car and its equipment.

Paige "25" is regularly equipped in nickel trimming with rain-vision windshield, silk mohair top, top boot and curtains, Stewart Speedometer, 5 nickel and black enamel lamps, Presto-O-Lite tank 5 demountable rims, extra tire irons, horn, pump, jack, tools, etc.

BARNEY BEATS TED TETZLAFF.

Fiat Man Says He'll Take Heats Today.

Championship to Be Decided Two of Three Heats.

First Meet Under New Sanction Is Great Success.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

Five thousand excited spectators at the Motordrome yesterday afternoon saw the first automobile track meet ever held under a sanction from the Western Automobile Association. It was the best race meet ever carded and held thrills every minute for a throng that waited until the last event was turned.

Barney Oldfield "came back." The man who was suspended by the Automobile Association of America, in the height of his career, showed that he still is a champion of champions. With that front-wheel-drive Christy, the funniest, freakiest car that was ever sent on a track, Oldfield not only defeated Teddy Tetzlaff, but established a new world record for a mile, a record that will be allowed by the W.A.A., disallowed by the contest board of the A.A.A., but that will make the motor world sit up and take particular notice.

EXPERIMENTAL MEET.

Until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon this first meet was an experiment. When the inclosure began to fill with automobiles, the Motordrome management took courage. What matter if the track is "outlawed?" With the public flocking to see a race meet under the W.A.A., and with the best men in Los Angeles as officials on the track, there was no need to worry.

Roy P. Hillman acted as referee. Hillman is under suspension from the A.A.A. He is oe of the most efficient referees in this country and acted in this capacity at the last Santa Monica road race, where he came under the ban of the A.A.A. His rulings were decisive, but his instructions to Oldfield and Tetzlaff just before the match race were dramatic.

"The man who draws the pole must stay low on the track," said Referee Hillman. "The man who passes his opponent and takes the pole, must do so only when he is a car's length in the lead. This race is to be run strictly according to our rules, with favors to no one and may the best man win."

The setting was much like that of a championship prize fight. The men returned to their cars ready for business. It was to be a race, but the crowd seemed to favor Tetzlaff. The Fiat man looked like a winner. Oldfield seemed nervous.

They came to the tape with Starter George Adair and Chief Timer W. E. Ruess, ready to send them away. It took one turn of the oval before they were ready. The start was perfect. Thousands of eager-faced fans saw those two cars shoot away. They came to the line together, but that was the only time the race was even. Oldfield won at the start. He jockeyed Teddy out of the pole before they had reached the half-mile mark.

STEPPED ON HER.

"I'll step on her and never look back," said Oldfield as he climbed into his car. His hand shook as he grabbed the wheel of the Christy. Large wagers were offered in the pits that Tetzlaff would win. It's true that Teddy recovered much of the ground lost at the start, but Oldfield finished more than a length ahead in the greatest race ever seen on a track.

Asked for a statement after the battle Tetzlaff, in his own peculiar style, said: "Why, the best man won." Then turning to Barney he said: "Barney, old pal, you beat me fair and square, but I'll beat you tomorrow." To tell the truth, however, it was as much a surprise to Oldfield as to Teddy himself, at Tetzlaff was confident of victory and Barney knew that unless he could get that Christy to working right he would lose.

ALL ARE OUTLAWS.

Was it a question of nerve? Well, both the men had showed their nerve by defying the A.A.A. Both of them by agreeing to race had forfeited the chance to race at Indianapolis, unless W. A. Schimpf can arrange an armistice when he comes out here. Frank Garbutt will be ready to treat with Schimpf, but unless that meeting is for peace, and there is no indication that it will be, Oldfield and Tetzlaff, and every man who drove yesterday, will be barred from race meets that are held under a sanction from the A.A.A.

Oldfield is the greatest drawing card now on the boards. Tetzlaff is a close second and is rising rapidly into a premier place. Oldfield will retire soon. Unless Teddy defeats him today Oldfield will be the speed king.

WORLD BEATER.

Bob Burman never saw the day he could defeat Oldfield in a mile race. The talk of the challenge was a joke. Burman yesterday would have been defeated by Tetzlaff. The race was close. Oldfield won in 36 1-5 seconds with Tetzlaff close behind him, but with the heart taken out of him by that flash at the start.

Had Tetzlaff driven in the match the same as he did in the exhibition mile which he turned alone in 36 2-5 seconds, the result might have been different. He says he will win today.

"I'll take two straight heats tomorrow afternoon," said Tetzlaff last night. "I know where I made my mistake at the start. Watch the Fiat tomorrow."

Oldfield will start as the favorite this afternoon, however, in spite of the fact that Tetzlaff will be out with his Fiat early this morning and will practice steadily.

Among the prominent automobile dealers who took an active part in the meet yesterday are P. H. Greer, president of the Automobile Dealers' Association; A. M. Young, manager of the last Santa Monica road race and under suspension from the A.A.A.; Joseph Oller of the Studebaker Bros. Company; C. Fred Grundy, head of the Grundy Motor Sales Company; Attorney E. E. Hewlett, the Fiat agent and owner of the Fiat racing cars; Walter Hempel, George Jordan of the R.C.H., and Eddie Lingenfelder, W. E. La Casse, manager of the local Studebaker branch and P. A. Renton, head of the Renton Motor Car Company.

POPULAR CHAMPION.

"I don't know what you are lookin' through when you look at it that way," said Spark-plug. "But he will be just as popular as a Presbyterian picnic at a Knights of Columbus picnic.

"You forget what a picturesque character he is," said the sporting editor. "The cowboy clothes and the long hair—"

"Aw," grunted Spark-plug scornfully, "he's a box car bum wit a pair of fringed gloves on."

"He's the champion of the world now, gentlemen," reminded the sporting editor.

"For a minute he is," said Spark-plug.

"Only a minute?" laughed the sporting editor.

"The first time that guy gets a real punch in the snoot he'll quit like a quitter," said Spark-plug with conviction.

"How do you figure that?" asked the sporting editor. "I have seen no evidence of it."

"Oh, you aint saw no evidence of it?" said Spark-plug sarcastically. "I guess you didn't see that Jim Flynn fight, did you?"

"Yes, I saw it," said the sporting editor.

"Well, there was one time in that fight," said Spark-plug, "when Luther was sighin' fer home and mother. That was somewhere around the fifth or sixth round. Flynn rushed him pretty hard up against the ropes and I seen McCarty turn around and look over to his corner—scared sick. It was just as though he was sayin', 'I thought you told me he wouldn't hurt me!'

"It only lasted a minute because that poor old thick-headed, clumsy fireman couldn't hurt anything faster than a house-mover. But after that round you'll have to show me that this McCarty ain't yellow."

PLUCK AND BRAINS.

"Spark-plug, you're crazy," said the sporting editor. "Luther's a plucky fighter."

"He ain't got brains enough to be plucky," retorted Spark-plug.

"Does it take brains to be plucky? Some very stupid men are very brave," replied the sporting editor.

"There is two kinds of nervy guys," said Spark-plug sententiously.

"There is one kind like Jim Flynn that's brave like a bulldog because they ain't got no better sense. There's another kind that knows just enough to be scared. Then there's a third kind that knows they are scared but got brains enough to be nervy anyhow, making the scared part of 'em lay down and behave.

"McCarty, he's one of them second kind."

THE MURDERED GOAT.

"Come on now, Spark-plug; tell us the real reason why you are so sore on McCarty. I know you always tell the real reason last."

"Well," said Spark-plug, reluctantly, "it was on account of that goat. That was about the worst I ever see."

"What was it?" asked the sporting editor.

"You know while McCarty's wife was peeling spuds up in Dakota to keep from starvin' this big stiff was buying up menageries down at Venice. One of the things he bought was a little goat. Honest, that little thing was as loving as a dog. It followed him everywheres he went.

"The day he packed up and got ready to go to Denver that good-for-nuthin' bum took the little goat out in the back yard and made a bet wit some of them rummies around the training camp whether he could kill it wit one blow or two. They put down the money and McCarty took a hatchet and beat the life out of his little pet.

"Oh, he's a fine guy all right," said Spark-plug. "He's the best description I know of something to give you a pain."

Another Guess.

RIVERS MAY DEFEAT CROS

Eastern Experts Believe He Will Be Winner.

Both Fighters Said to Be in Fine Condition.

Brother Andy Declares They Are Not Mexicans.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Both Joe Rivers and Leach Cross enter the Empire A.C. ring in the pink of condition. Still eastern experts pick the plucky western boy to win. Today a good crowd at the New York sports went out to Westbury Inn to watch Rivers train. For two weeks he has run six miles each forenoon in company with a staff of handlers. Every afternoon finds him at the punching bag, pulling and skipping the rope, winding up the arduous work with five or six hard rounds of sparring with several boys who need the rough.

JOE IS GOOD.

Rivers feels pretty good today, with a big crowd that looked on closely as the westerner to process. He worked the pulleys fifteen minutes, skipped the rope twenty minutes, whaled away at the punching bag for a quarter of an hour or so, and hands literally speaking, made the leather fly bag, made the spectators shudder. He has the kick of a mule, all agree.

For three rounds "Parson" Jack Hirsh took a fine walloping from Josephus. Rivers held back his punches, fearing he would hurt the Chicagoan. He danced and sparred around, gritting his teeth and making an exhibition, the while declaring "that's the way I'll go at Cross."

A rugged youth came out to spar with Joe's slams for two more rounds, while it lasted it was a great go. Rivers let fly his right and while his partner looked for it ran full tilt into a smashing left which completely carried him off his feet. Rivers's left paw is a wonder. There's no difference between the two.

LIKES NEW YORK.

Not many may know it but Rivers is a student of human nature. He says our folks suit him splendidly whatever he has seen of "New York city" impresses him favorably and he expects to return here now and then in quest of engagements.

"Hello, Mexican Joe," greeted a stranger, while Joe was clad in his "working clothes."

NOT A MEXICAN.

"Nix on that Mexican stuff," said Andy Barra, who is on the scene for my little brother. "He's no greaser than you are."

"It makes me laugh," said Brother Andy when the subject is broached. "Why people call the kid a Mexican I don't know. He's no greaser. His folks are Spaniards. How does that strike you? Joe was born in Los Angeles and so were the rest of us. We used to be a fighting family. The old man hung around the gym and used to say, he picked up everything he knew.

"Before I knew it he was mixing it with a lot of the kids around the neighborhood. To my surprise he started in to like it, and though the folks objected he persisted on sticking and before long I never saw the like of it. I couldn't help saying so, even if he was my brother."

ANOTHER HARD ONE.

Rivers declared the hardest proposition he ever fought was with Jim Flynn, the flame when he engaged in the ranks on the Coast.

"Our eyes were closed, our faces were blood streaming down our chests, and the laughing Joe. The sleep potion in the Caramba mixture. I think of that scrap. I think of that scrap."

"Do you expect to win?" the sporting writer gently asked.

"You know the way I'll go at Cross was we could draw.

Joe Levy, Rivers's manager, declares he has put $50,000 into the kid's pocket by handling the finances. Joe Levy knows the game and is a wise one at matchmaking as he proved in the Billy Nolan.

Jack Britton of Chicago is almost as heavy as he placed for a fight at New Orleans with Willie Thomas. Britton tipped the scales five hours before the bout at 144 pounds and Thomas 144 1/2 pounds when they entered the ring.

All Lined Up.

MERMEN SWIM IN FEBRUARY.

Great Programme for Athletic Club Tank.

Sprints Expected to Show Best Southern Men.

High School Honors to Be Decided in Spring.

BY GREY OLIVER.

The first swimming championships of the winter season are to be held in the big tank of the Los Angeles Athletic Club on the night of February, 23, and the chances are that the occasion will be one of the gala events of the year. Les Henry is chairman of the Swimming Committee of the big club, and he promises something good in the aquatic line. It will, be ladies night, and this will add attractiveness to the affair.

The contest will be primarily for club swimmers, but it is the intention to have a number of outsiders in the various events.

The programme is to be a long and varied one and the features of it will be the dashes at fifty and 100 yards. A number of entries are already in for these and many more are expected before Washington's Birthday.

In addition to these things, there is to be a water polo game to be played under the new rules. These have been changed considerably since last season, for instead of the ball being a small one, it is now as large as a basketball and cannot be handled with one hand, as before. Two teams are to be selected from the club swimmers and these are to be made about as nearly even as possible in strength. High and fancy diving will be on the card and the best the club has in these branches will be shown. Furthermore, Chairman Henry will have a water push ball game and this is always an interesting thing for the spectators.

Henry states that he has plans stewing for the High School and Intercollegiate championships to be contested for in the club tank sometime this spring, but the dates will not be announced for several weeks. Harold Harrell, captain of the University of California swimming team, who is also a member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, is to appear here with three of his fellow students from Berkeley and the Stanford swimming team is expected to compete.

SPORT SPARKS.

Snappy Items Gathered From the Wide World of Sport—The Ringside and Diamond.

The followers of the Chicago National club are in the depths of woe. "Red" Gilligan, the "peerless batboy" of the club, announced that he would follow Chance to the New York Americans. Gilligan has been a familiar figure at the West Side Park for years. He signed a regular contract each year like a player and trained as hard as one.

This year he "held out" to see what Chance was going to do. Joe Tinker, manager of the Cincinnati club, left today for Kansas City to attempt to sign Kling as a catcher. Kling says he never will play again, but Tinker does not think the statement final.

Rumors that the boxing lid again would be lifted in Kenosha were dispelled today by Mayor Head. It had been reported that Eddie McGoorty would fight either "Knockout" Brown or Jimmy Clabby here.

"Nothing doing," was the terse reply the Mayor gave to the proposition.

"Kenosha is off the fight map and that ends all attempts to reopen boxing here," he said.

November, 25 and 27, have been agreed upon tentatively as dates for running the 1913 grand prize and Vanderbilt cup automobile races on the Savannah course, according to announcement made tonight by President Harvey Granger of the Savannah Automobile Club.

Artie G., was awarded first place in the Derby of the United States field trials at Lotohatchie today. By this victory he also wins the American futurity stake. The horse is owned by S. B. Duryea of New York.

George Slosson won his 2000-point 18.2 balk-line billiard match, with Koji Yamada, the Japanese, by 89 points at Chicago, although his opponent took the last block of 750 to 400. Yamada played a remarkable game, making a high run of 123 and at one time bidding fair to overtake Slosson.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GOLF.

No. 2. The Annandale Team.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THe league team of the Victoria Golf Club will be selected from Robert D. Osburn, Harry G. Pattee, E. N. Hillegas, E. R. Howe, R. W. Salisbury, T. J. McGuerrin, T. O. Hewitt, C. O. Evans, R. D. Skelley and Martin Chase. The captain has not yet been enthroned but he will be either Harry G. Pattee, who has officiated for the last seasons, Martin Chase who shines in so many departments, or Robert D. Osburn, the most experienced and reliable player on the team.

The Riverside links have received one or two improvements since last season but No. 9 is still the longest hole with 575 yards, with No. 5 the shortest, 128 yards. The threat to move that dramtically spectacular first tee has not been carried out for which the ardent feminine gallery offers much thanks.

Robert D. Osburn.

Affectionately known as "Ol' Mongoose," a player who has almost grown up with California golf, seen it evolve from a primitive sort of golf-hockey to the finished product it presents today. Plays a good steady game, a practical golfer of the reliable variety; has just won the Chase cup for Chace score of season with 67. Distinguished himself several times last season, defeated Jack Jevne at Riverside by 2 up at a time when the Bush Champion was at the shimmering zenith of his game. Defeated Tatum at San Gabriel, and the invincible McLaughlin of Annandale. Likewise clipped Conde Jones's wings on the San Gabriel links the day after Jones had broken the record for the couse. Made a good showing in most of the invitatin tournaments. Is a valuable man on the team, good-tempered, humorous, far removed from a Count D'Orsay in general aspect. Possesses a handsome wife, who endures golf as a stern duty, likewise an eligible daughter with a pretty name.

Harry G. Pattee.

Can and often does play a very fine game. Came second with 71 in Chase score cup contest. Did not make a consistently good showing last year but enjoyed the distinction of defeating Woodcock of San Gabriel by 5 up and 4, the only other player besides Macbeth to defeat him in the team matches. Won one or two minor events at Riverside and Redlands and finished up the season by doing the 14th in 2. Won his match from Elmer Williams at Riverside but lost most of his visiting matches. Looks well in a black and-gold blazer. Married, personable, good-company.

Martin Chase.

Excels in the department of driving and plays an excellent game when he is in exactly the right mood. Has had brilliant exhibitions to his credit but can play as badly as the west on occasions. Won a good percentage of his team matches last season, notably that against Hugo Johnstone of Annandale at Riverside by 5 up and 4. Played the best match of the day when the team visited Annandale, carrying E. N. Wright to the nineteenth hole and only losing by a putt. Visited most of the invitation events but not necessarily with a view to taking home any trophies. Married, pretty wife who is likewise a good golfer, is a good host, dresses so well that he has earned the title of "Beau" Chase. Specializes in caps.

E. N. Hillegas.

Plays a good average game and defeated J. V. Eliot of Annandale in a good match at Riverside. But was unlucky on many occasions and saw some crushing defeats at the hands of Conde Jones, Norman Macbeth, Michael Mclaughlin and R. L. Tatum, all of whom won by large margins. Is nevertheless a good man on the team and will undoubtedly redeem his reputation this year if he is not called upon to tackle the star players too often. Married, earnest, does not suffer from golf nerves.

• •

R. W. Salisbury.

A good player, well known on the Coast. Visits many invitation tournaments and generally wins some distinction. Drives well and held the limelight at Riverside by doing the first in 1 from that spectacular tee. Was runner-up in Riverside's invitation event when Jevne captured the honors—played a fine game during that contest. Figured among the first six in several qualifying rounds. Was defeated by J. W. Wilson by 1 up in one of the few team matches in which he participated. Married, dresses well, nice manners.

Proved a very good team man the year before last but was unlucky in losing a number of matches last year that should by rights have fallen to his share. Played some excellent golf during the invitation tournament last year and won honor with the second best qualifying score in the championship event at Annandale. Defeated R. N. Wright at Riverside but only lost to Arthur Braly by a single putt against the Los Angeles team. Reached the semi-finals in the invitation event when Jevnue, who was playing brilliantly at that time, won by 2 up and 2. Was defeated by Jewett at Annandale and by George Cline on his own links. Married. (Mrs. Howe golfs and only missed being her club champion by a putt) goe dtempered, enthusiastic.

T. J. McGuerrin.

A player who managed to develope a good game late in life. Was not seen much in California last season but was in the semi-finals at Del Monte the year before against Dr. Fredericks. Has beaten Armstrong in private matches several times on the Salt Lake links. Will be welcomed back to Southern California.

Hewett, Evans and Skelley stand ready to fill the gaps and each of them have several good matches to their credit. Hewett gave Lee Stephens of San Gabriel a crushing defeat but received similar treatment from Brand at Annandale himself. Skelley came third in Choice score cup contest with 72.

"They have all sorts of weather and road conditions in and around Fergus Falls, Minn., but the town's three rural mail carriers, Tomhave, Davis and Haarstick, use their motorcycles regularly with unvarying good results.

Too Much Coldness.

GOOD SPORT REPORTED ON VARIOUS DUCK CLUBS.

REPORTS were relatively better at the various duck clubs yesterday as there was comparatively a small number of hunters down. The cold weather they declare, will not be the usual thing until the days and nights are longer. The shooting has been so poor at some of the clubs that few sportsmen have ventured down.

At the Sunset club, but three men shot and those were Dr. Schiffand Lord and George Adams. The birds got the limit early of course and sprig. The birds were as plentiful as usual, owing to the weather. Adams got a number which are the first taken at this club this winter. Lord got the big birds will and Schiffmann but four men on the ground in Karl Klokke and two guests; but all got the limit. Birds were plentiful and the boys did not have to wait long for all they needed.

There was nothing stirring on the Algonquin, but there were a few members down on the Sunset, Lomita and Del Rey. Few others turned in any reports.

Tom Potter, Jeff Chandler, Parker, Teesel and a guest shot at the Canvasback Club and all of these got the usual limit early of sprig and spoonies.

Recently, the Saturday squads have dwindled down to almost nothing, for most of the men have transferred themselves to the Sunday and Wednesday squads. There will probably be a bunch down today, if the boys are not afraid of the daylight iciness.

Philadelphia motorists are not only hoping to run the heretofore annual Fairmount Park race next year, but also have their eyes on one of the other big races, either the Grand Prize or the Vanderbilt.

WHALE CAPTURED OFF CATALINA ISLAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The launch Camilla, owned by Lord and Mason, came into harbor last night, having in tow a thirty-five-foot whale of the sperm species which they discovered about ten miles off the island.

Four times the tow line parted and as many times Capt. Mason made fast. It was a dead weight until smooth water inside the breakwater was reached and the hunters were able to lash the whale's tail to the launch; then the trip home was made in safety. The carcass is tied up at the city docks.

DETROITER

100% AUTOMOBILE

$1000
f. o. b. Los Angeles

The New Detroiter Roadster—one of the handsomest cars made—regardless of price.

You naturally are looking for the best value possible—everybody is.

THEN LISTEN—

Detroiter cars, both touring and roadster, are—serviceable above all; roomy, graceful, distinctive. Able to stand the hardest work; mechanically right—with long stroke motor, multiple disc clutch, full floating rear axle, platform rear springs, left-hand drive and center control.

The Detroiter motor, 25 H. P. ball bearing (imported) throughout is the most accessible made.

The rear spring suspension is full platform, shock absorbing. Brakes are of tremendous grip. The rear axle, full floating, is doubly ample in sustaining power and houses gears that cannot fail.

Complete Equipment

Top, with side curtains and slip-over dust cover; windshield; electric lighted throughout with combination side and tail lamp, two large electric headlights; quick detachable demountable rims, speedometer, tire irons; complete tire and repair tool kit, robe rail and extra rim.

A most appealing and common-sense feature in Detroiter Roadsters is the rain-proof, dust-proof rear deck with two compartments, ample to hold a pair of inflated tires, and the biggest suitcase made. No tag-ends anywhere. One of the handsomest cars made, regardless of price.

Take a little time—read this all over again. The price you have to pay for automobiles justifies you in spending a little time in comparisons and investigation and we court both (expert preferred). Ask the posted and reputable agents of high-priced cars what the choice is in the low-price division.

The car is an absolutely honest production, the price is right, and the low upkeep cost is one of the biggest points in the DETROITER'S favor.

The Trojan Leaders
Are men experienced in every angle of the college track and field game and should make the 'varsity famous this season.

The Triumvirate.

EXPERIENCED MEN LEAD TROJAN TRACK TEAM

Dean Cromwell an Authority Among Southern Athletes — Comstock, a Local Product, Has Won Many High School Titles—Linton Smith, Varsity Captain, Has Come Back to Form.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

THE Trojans have returned to the ancient form of Roman government this season, and the destinies of the track and squad will rest in the hands of a "Triumvirate" which would give any organization of Caesar's time a great run for the money. Head Coach Dean B. Cromwell; Asistant Coach Boyd Comstock and Capt. Linton Smith make a splendid combination for craft, experience and cleverness.

All these assets will be needed before the season is over, as the University has one of the most extensive schedules this spring that has ever fallen to the lot of a southern varsity cinder squad. The Trojans are to branch out this season and besides meeting all the local colleges, Stanford and California will take a whirl with the University of Missouri and the University of Chicago in dual competition in the Middle West.

CROMWELL LOCAL MAN.

Dean Cromwell is what might be termed a typical southern coach. He graduated from Occidental College in 1902 and while there was one of the Tiger's most versatile athletes in the field events. After leaving Occidental Cromwell competed for the Y.M.C.A. for five years and got better each season.

In the fall of 1907 he entered the University of Williamette and in 1908 carried off high honors in the Northwestern College conference meets. By this time Dean had learned a great deal and had seen all the great athletes and coaches of the West in action. He came South just as the Trojans found themselves without a coach. He was hired as the head coach and began with the football team in 1908 and stayed with it until 1911, when the University switched to Rugby, but in track he has always been the one last authority of the South. He knows conditions here better than any other man and also how to get results out of local athletes.

DEAN'S THEORIES.

He is full of theories, but unlike so many who make every man conform to a certain rule, he makes a rule for each man. This is probably the secret of his success. For example, he took Ben Ward last week and studied his form in starting for the high hurdles and decided to change his feet at the start.

This was done and Ben clipped 2-5 of a second off the first fifteen yards of his race. The lengthy hurdler needed a drive in his start and Dean got it there. This was also true of Kelly, though everybody in the United States claims to have taught the world's champion Trojan how to correctly climb the sticks.

Cromwell has made such men as Throop, Martin, Lennox, Walton, Smith, Grant Richardson, Earle, Trotter and Ward out of raw material, and this galaxy of stars holds a number of the southern intercollegiate records at the present time. Cromwell's success may be summed up by saying that he knows how to teach his men form; he is like a good engineer, who gets the last mile of speed out of his machine and still does not hurt the machine.

COMSTOCK MAKES GOOD.

Boyd Comstock comes from U.S.C., and while there was something of an all-around man. He was picked on the all-southern team in 1906 which defeated Stanford, and during the next two years at the local university scored heavily in the pole vault, shot put and hurdles. After leaving U.S.C. he took two years at Harvard, where he studied the eastern coaching methods.

On returning from Harvard he took the Redlands High School and later went to Riverside for a season. Success followed him in both places. Comstock then took the reins of the Citrus Union High School in hand. With absolutely no material but a lot of willing cooperation he built up a team which in two years twice won the California Interscholastic and last year he took it to Chicago and won the National interscholastic championship. Such a recommendation hard to beat anywhere in the annals of prep athletic history.

Manager Bovard, realizing that the Trojan squad was going to be unusually large this season and that no other man would be needed so that every member could have a reasonable amount of personal attention, has secured the services of Comstock, who already he has been of considerable assistance and has brought out some likely stars from the "raw material."

THE VARSITY CAPTAIN.

Capt. Linton Smith is a product of college and got his preparatory training at the Hollywood High School, where he was considered one of the most promising young athletes in the South. On entering college Cromwell got busy with him and even before the season was half over had Linton running the mile in better than 4:35. He was also a dependable competitor in the 880 throughout the season. He has a great finish in both of these events, and has won many races with a nervy sprint in the last few yards.

Last season he had a bad year and did not show up to the best advantage in his freshman year, until the season was almost closed, when he came back. This year he got an early start and now is running better than ever before in his career at this time in the training campaign. It is said that though Smith was going to one of the most famous track teams in the country sprinted under the Cardinal colors, he appreciates the opportunity and is proving of very much assistance to the coaches.

CALIFORNIA CHATTER.

With the opening of the spring semester at the University of California interest centers around the track and crew men.

Coach Christie has expressed himself as well pleased with the early look and says California will be over Stanford.

Harry Wood of Los Angeles, captain of this year's varsity, is a consistent worker in the two and mile runs, in which events he will represent California.

Ed Stanton, California's crack sprinter, who was forced to leave the field last year, is on the job again and has just returned from a trip to Mexico.

Young Wheeler, who showed some promise, should be a valuable man to work hard to make a place on the varsity, as he has frequently done 10.1 in the 100-yard dash.

Two other freshmen who have shown marked promise are Ed Fix and George Clark, both of Los Angeles.

George Clark is playing in the vantage in the quarter-mile and is sure of a place on the varsity squad.

Marcus J. Lee of Los Angeles turns to California from Pomona and is a member of the varsity relay team, having made the trip to Chicago.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

A Bulldog Grip

Here's the very last word in a Non-Skid tire. Let us prove it to you.

A tough, double-thick tread.
Deep-cut, sharp-cut blocks.
An irresistible grip.
And a tire that endures. The blocks meet at the base so the strains are distributed just as with smooth-tread tires.

Goodyear experts ended rim-cutting by inventing No-Rim-Cut tires.

They added 25 per cent to the average tire mileage by making these tires 10 per cent oversize.

They tested out 240 formulas and fabrics, by actual metered mileage. And they built at last a record-breaking tire.

As a result, Goodyear tires now outsell all others. And the demand is still doubling about once in eight months.

Now This Tread

Now comes this ideal Non-Skid tread. It took these experts three years to perfect it.

An extra tread, as thick as the regular, vulcanized on to our regular tire. The toughest tread ever known.

Sharp edges and angles, facing every direction.

Blocks deep and tough, and immensely enduring.

And blocks that spread out so the strain is distributed. Not centered on any small part of the fabric, as in all other non-skids.

See them at our showrooms, or at any Goodyear dealer's. One glance will win you to this ideal tread, for nothing else serves even half so well.

COE LEADS WINNERS.

Gorman Stars Win Mercantile Pennant Under Billie's Management. Team Meets Fast Squad Today.

The Gorman Stars, winners of the Mercantile League title, will take a fling today with the Los Angeles White Sox. The latter team has been winning its games with great regularity and think that to defeat the Stars under the bench management of Billie Coe will be an easy matter.

Coe has wrought wonders with his ball team. Taking a bunch of green players, he developed a strong offensive organization that has walked rough shod over all the teams playing Saturday and Sunday ball in the South. Billie is a clever boxer and general all-around athlete, but his ability to handle a baseball team comes as a decided surprise to all the amateur fans in the South.

Young Watson, a freshman of some promise, should force Stanton to work hard to retain his berth on the varsity, as the former has frequently done 10.1 in the 100-yard dash.

Two other freshmen who have shown marked ability are Will Fie and George Clark, both of Los Angeles.

George Clark is showing to advantage in the quarter mile and is sure of a place on the freshman squad.

Marcus J. Lee of Los Angeles returns to California this week. Lee is a member of the varsity crew, having made the position last year.

JOE TINKER'S WIFE.

The wife of Joe Tinker, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is returning to leave Chicago. She says she likes baseball all the year around, but no matter what success her husband has in Cincinnati, she will not sever all her ties with Chicago friends.

Diverse Opinions.

GREAT FIGHTERS DIFFER IN TRAINING METHODS.

Old-Time Knuckle Men Always Wanted at Least Two Months for Work and Hated Crowds—Present Day Boxers Like the Spotlight—Jim Flynn Is the Most Consistent Worker.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

PROFESSIONAL boxers have varied and peculiar ways about training, and their leisure time is passed in many different ways.

While the system of training for a boxing contest is practically the same each has a somewhat different method of conditioning and different ways of passing their spare time around a training camp.

The conscientious trainer has little time for anything else outside of the hard, monotonous grind, and if there is weight to make it is still a harder task.

The old-timers seldom had an audience during their training stunts and were exclusive, while the modern boxers take from four or five days to two weeks. It depends entirely upon their condition, the circumstances under which they are to box, and the weather. The less work, of course, leaves more time for pleasures and rest.

The knuckle fighters were placed in the hands of a competent trainer who alone was responsible for the physical condition of the fighter and he was on hand at all times.

POOR TRAINERS TODAY.

Many of the so-called trainers of today are nothing more than masseurs, as the training is often done by the boxer himself. He also is the sole master of his leisure moments are to be passed.

The old-timers seldom had an audience during their training stunts, and were said to be close to the fighter or manager to even get a peep, for the training was done in private and the camp doings were a secret.

Quite some of our present day boxers doing their grand stand stunts are depriving them of the privilege of charging 10 cents or a quarter to their training camp.

Most of the old-timers trained at roadhouses far from the end of a car line and a visit meant a long walk, unless you were fortunate enough to borrow or hire a horse and rig.

Don't let anybody tell you that training faithfully for a fight is a cinch. There are few fighters that like that part of it. Still, I have seen few that make the best of their work by getting all the pleasure out of it they can.

LAVIGNE HATED IT.

George ("Kid") Lavigne, who held the lightweight title for more than five years, never liked training. He was fortunate in not being compelled to make weight. Lavigne cared little for crowds around his camp and less for the notoriety of the fighting game. Neither did he believe in doing much training those times. If the opportunity offered, he liked hunting, and would tramp many miles over the country after small game. The rest of his time was spent in quiet card games and such pastimes.

Ad Wolgast trained as the notion took him, for he was boss of himself, as Lavigne had little, if anything, to say about it. His wonderful strength and the fact that he fought often, did not require of him as much work as many fighters. Still, there is no question that he would be champion longer if he had done more training. Abe spent much of his leisure hours in bowling and attending theaters and cared little at what time he retired.

PETER WORKED HARD.

Peter Jackson, the great Australian colored fighter, and in my opinion the greatest of his race, was a good trainer and stuck close to his work. He had a passion for fast horses and never could get into his clothes quick enough to get in a seat behind a fast horse.

He did all his training on the Coast at old Joe Deaves's roadhouse, on the Lorenzo road outside of Oakland, and could be seen any afternoon on the road, traveling up and down the road at a three-minute gait, looking for a brush with someone. It was a pleasing sight to see this big black horse coming down the road behind a fast horse, all smiles.

I want to say that if he were alive today, automobiles would have no use for him, for he loved horses too much.

Tom Hickey was a hard and conscientious trainer, and had little time for anything else. Tom was up at 6 o'clock in the morning for a short walk and at 8 o'clock he was on the road, and he hit it hard until 11. After a swim and lunch. Shortly after, he slept until 3 in the afternoon. After his afternoon work it was a massage, a short rest and supper at 6 or 6:30 o'clock every night.

Hickey had little time for pleasures, and no wonder he was tough.

JEFF A GRINDER.

Jeffries was the hardest worker I have ever seen and could do as much as any three men, without tiring. While he was not particularly fast, he was conscientious and a good trainer. Jeffries perhaps put on more clothes on the road as any man who ever fought. I have seen him run three miles without stopping, with thirty pounds of clothes on, and perspire like an engine, and when finished with his massaging, he was not good enough to rough house every one in the camp.

Jeffries was training in the mountains, much of his spare time was taken up with hunting and fishing. Jim could never resist a chance of this kind and it was good for his physical welfare.

When training in the city, he put in his time in pool and card playing after the day's work was over, with an occasional visit to the theaters.

FITZ WAS JOLLY.

Bob Fitzsimmons got about as much fun out of his training as any of his opponents ever got in the game. Bob was a good trainer and spent few idle moments. When not at work or in leisure, he usually had a pet lion, a great Dane dog or some other animal of this kind to pass time with, and when he was not at this, he was looking for an opportunity to play jokes on his sparring partners and was as full of fun as a kid.

Jack Dempsey was the most restless fighter I have ever seen. He was a glutton for work and often overdid himself, and on these occasions was as cross as a bear and fussed a lot. He was never happier than when he was in front of and his trainers always had a hard time keeping him down.

Dempsey often said it was Corbett's love for handball that lost him his fight with Corbett with Bob Fitzsimmons. He would never stop as long as he had a chance to win.

Dempsey was a bundle of nerves and seldom rested when he had the time. His training was passed in games of shuffle board, if there was not, it was baseball or joking and joshing his friends and sparring partners.

Dempsey was always fond of the stage and paid frequent visits to theaters during his training.

JIMMIE WAS EASY.

Jimmie Britt was somewhat like Corbett in his training, but used much better judgment in the amount of work he did. Jimmie believed in working hard when it was time to do and resting when he had the chance. A very good boxer, Britt put about as much action in his training as any of the fighters, used speed and more speed with him and the way he would step in a fight. Jimmy, like many fighters was a strong believer in the theaters. An occasional visit to the theaters or a horseback or automobile ride was his favorite pastimes for him. If not these, he liked to meet and entertain his friends. Jimmy was another who liked a good crowd around him while at work and always kept an open house without any admission charge.

Tommy Ryan was a finished, methodical and a good trainer, always keeping his training down to business and cared little for crowds around him.

Joe Gans's method was very similar to Bat in his training and cared nothing for crowds. He did his work just as well if alone with his sparring partners as when there was usually spent in a quiet way around the camp, playing pool with his sparring partners and friends. He was very seldom seen on the road and seldom got enthusiastic over it as others did. He had a few friends and pals, to which he was always very loyal.

FLYNN A GLUTTON.

Jim Flynn has put in his time in the fighting game to his great systematic training more than to any other thing.

Jim is the most consistent and methodical trainer I have ever seen. He has worked hard and plenty, and had few leisure moments. He was a believer in working on the minute and stopping at a set time. Flynn was a glutton for training camp when he once started and set his whole mind on it.

Flynn is always at a certain time, ate and slept at a certain time and showed a ring in perfect condition. It made him a tough proposition.

Flynn was a fast worker in training, but did not require as much work as others. He always took good care of himself. His time was taken up in playing and trundling his baby around and he had no worry over his family affairs. He was also a regular attendant at the theaters.

Training as a fighter makes it. The weight makers have the hardest work. But many try to get as much pleasure out of life as possible.

BOWLING NOTES.

A class A individual tournament comprising eight entries is to commence at the Cosmopolitan bowling academy on Monday night, continuing thereafter for seven weeks on each Monday and Friday evening. Every contestant is scheduled to bowl once a week until he has bowled against every other player a match for the best six out of eleven games.

Prizes consist of a gold medal for first place, and $30 to be divided in the proportions of $40, $26 and $1 for the best three scores in won games.

The schedule of the first week follows:

Monday, January 13—Arbogast vs. Darrow, and Stasch vs. Cochran. Friday, January 17—Hayes vs. Turner, and Tetzlaf vs. Thorkeldsen.

The schedule of the first week in the four months' tournament of the Mercantile Bowling League has been cast as follows:

Tuesday, January 14, on Majestic bowling alleys—Ben Travatos vs. Smugglers; on Orpheum alleys—Henry and Cornetta vs. Richard Mansfields; on Long Beach alleys—Hansons vs. New Bachelors; on Lyceum alleys—National Tailors vs. Hallenbergers.

Mrs. C. M. Turner rolled several games in an informal match last week at the Cosmopolitan alleys, with an average of 231. Doubters are invited to inspect the record.

E. M. Strawn, who is a member of the Ben Travato team, as organized to compete in the Mercantile League tourney, rolled 300 on the Majestic alleys a short time since, this game being one of two in which he made twenty consecutive strikes. Next!

The two leading teams in the Interurban League tournament clashed at the Majestic alleys on Friday night, with the anomalous result that the winners lost and the losers won. That is, the Capitols won two out of three games, giving them the tourney lead, but the Tuxedos made totals of 2327 pins to 2321 for the Capitols. Five men were engaged on each side.

TWO COMERS FOUND IN TRACK AND FIELD SQUAD

There are two dark horses on the U.S.C. track squad that may develop into point-winners this year, according to Coach Dean Cromwell.

The first is Bettinger, in the shot-put. Last season he had form, but could not get enough distance to make the varsity.

When college opened this fall he at once started to work with the sixteen-pound pellet and slowly has been rounding into first-team material. Comstock has been working with him and says that he should be a valuable second and third place man throughout the season.

The remaining unknown quantity is a youngster named Bardley. To look at him one would never select him for a promising track man. He is of a slight build and wears glasses, but on delving into the dope-book, it seems that he won the 100, 220 and high jump in the Rocky Mountain interscholastic championship meet while attending Denver High.

Last year he made exceptionally good time, considering the fact that he had to run two heats in each of the races named and had to jump against a big field in the high jump, but he has the dope, it seems, so it may pay to watch him when the meets come along.

WINTER RUNS ON FAST MOTOR BIKES.

Winter runs which are being planned and conducted by many motorcycle clubs throughout the country, demonstrate that the motorcycle is an "all-the-year-round" machine.

Fair skies and summer breezes are appreciated by motorcyclists, but they are not willing to forego the pleasures of motorcycling just because of snow and cold.

The Queen City Motorcycle Club of Cincinnati, is one of the clubs that believes in winter motorcycling activities. Its members have formed a winter-riding squad and a series of snow runs during the winters months have been planned.

The first is booked for January 12, when the motorcyclists will take a spin of thirty-five miles to the famous Ft. Ancient Hills.

The Wanderers' Motorcycle Club of Toronto, Ont., also has its "hat in the ring."

Its members propose to continue the club runs right on through the winter, regardless of the snow and the cold.

The Salt Lake City (Utah) Motorcycle Club has 100 members on its charter list.

Rambler

A New Cross Country $2025

Rambler

WITH GASOLINE AND ELECTRIC LONG STROKE MOTOR

Dual Ignition, Top, Wind Shield and Speedometer

THE unit gasoline and electric motor has won for the Cross Country the leadership of the medium-priced field.

Eighty per cent. is our increase to date over last year's sales.

In spite of this popular success and ignoring the old idea of yearly models, we announce a new Cross Country at $2025 with unit gasoline and electric, long stroke motor, fifteen per cent. increase in power and dual ignition.

Just Press the Button

To start, press a button; note, there is just a single operation. Press another—you light the lamps.

The gasoline and electric motor is but one advantage of the Cross Country. It is a car of exceeding beauty, richly finished in dark Brewster green. Rakish, low and balanced perfectly, it has grace, suggestion of speed and lines that catch and hold the eye.

Rare Comfort

It's the easiest riding car we know. You may tour all day with pleasure and return without fatigue. Lots of leg room in front and rear; plenty of elbow room at the wheel, which turns easily but firmly; long springs of deliberate action.

You will never know the meaning of Jeffery service until you get a Rambler. Any one of thousands of owners will tell you what it is. Nearly six hundred distributing dealers and branches form the organization which backs it up.

Jeffery Stability

Behind them is the Jeffery Company, with forty years of manufacturing experience. Ask your banker or consult Dun & Bradstreet as to our responsibility.

Back of this organization is a great factory making ninety-six per cent. of all parts and maintaining a one-half million dollar stock of duplicate parts for the benefit of owners.

10,000 Mile Guarantee

These then are the things you get in the Cross Country:

Gasoline and electric long-stroke motor for starting, lighting and power—dual ignition.

Appearance that makes owners proud.

Comfort rare and pleasing that particularly appeals to women.

Ten Thousand Mile Guarantee backed by the Jeffery Company.

Are not these reasons enough?

The power of the Cross Country gasoline and electric motor has been increased fifteen per cent. by providing a 5-inch stroke.

This gasoline and electric motor has the simplest and most effective means for starting and lighting ever made. It saves weight, bearings, chains, gears, complicated wiring and operates silently.

Silent and Simple

The usual cast-iron fly wheel of the ordinary engine is left off. Parts forming the electric motor generator take the place of the fly wheel.

The only wearing parts, other than those of all gasoline engines, are the motor generator brushes, which are made much larger than necessary—ample for mileage of three seasons of ordinary use.

Specifications: Unit gasoline and electric motor, four cylinders, long stroke, 4½x5, 42 horse power. Started electrically by push button. Ignition: Dual, magneto and battery. Wheel base 120 inches. Tread: 56 inches, option 60 inches. Wheels: 36x4 demountable. Tires: Goodyear or United States, 36x4.

Body styles: Five-passenger, $2025. Four-passenger, $2025. Roadster, $1965. Special touring body, five adults and two children, 37x4½-inch tires, $2225. Sedan four-passenger, all enclosed, with shock absorbers, $2725. Gotham, five-passenger limousine with two extra disappearing seats, shock absorbers and 37x4½-inch tires, $2975.

A Car of Beauty

Finished in light Brewster green with black beads and hair line gold stripe, with wheels to match. Polished metal parts are nickel, with bonnet, fenders and fillers in black enamel.

Equipment: Top and envelope, wind shield and speedometer; two 11-inch electric head lamps, flush electric dash lamps and electric tail lamp; extension lamp; tonneau, hinged robe rail, adjustable foot rest; complete tool equipment.

The Enclosed Types

The Sedan is four-passenger of the exclusive enclosed type. Entrance to all seats from the curb side. All the advantages of an electric without its limitations.

The Gotham is a limousine type, regularly accommodating five passengers, but with two extra folding disappearing seats. A rare combination of utility and elegance.

On Electric Cars Pneumatic and Solid Tires Are Doomed

Four years ago every electric car was equipped with pneumatic or solid tires. Today over half of the electric cars cars carry neither of these types.

The great majority now carry Motz Cushion Tires.

It probably won't be long now until a pneumatic-equipped or solid-tire-equipped electric will be an unusual sight.

Pneumatic tires lost out because they proved too treacherous, too troublesome—and too costly.

Solid tires lost out because they failed utterly to protect the occupants or the delicate parts of the car from rough bumps and jolts.

Motz Cushion Tires won out because in four years they proved to be BOTH easy-riding and trouble-proof. And because they reduced tire upkeep to a small item.

Shock-Absorbing Tires

Motz Cushion Tires, which have ended puncture and blowout troubles, opened people's eyes to the fact that a tire to be shock-absorbing and easy-riding does not have to be filled with air, liquid or any other kind of a filler. Amazing resiliency can be obtained by the use of purely mechanical principles.

See the double, notched treads (A in picture,) which prevent skidding and distribute the weight to the sides.

The sides are undercut (see B,) which allows free action of slant-wise bridges (see C.) These bridges are elastic. They give and yield like the air in a pneumatic tire. Note D in the picture, showing shock-absorbing qualities when tires runs over a stone.

Economy

No user of Motz Cushion Tires is burdened by tire-repair expense. Or by carrying extra, emergency tires. Or by having to buy new tires every few months.

These tires are specifically GUARANTEED for 10,000 miles, two years.

Would any pneumatic tire-maker dare guarantee his tires that long?

Did ever another tire offer such economy as this?

Adopted by Electric Makers

No matter what kind of an Electric you choose, the maker will equip it with Motz Cushion Tires if you so request. He will be glad to do it, knowing he's giving you a trouble-proof car and one that's well protected from the shocks of road contact.

Don't buy a fine electric and then spoil nine-tenths your pleasure by accepting any old tires. Look into this tire question. Send now for our and read the amazing facts about the tire that's capturing the electric field. A postal, sent today, brings this book by return mail. Send specifications—name of car, model, size of rims, etc.

DETROITER

100% AUTOMOBILE

$1000
f. o. b. Los Angeles

The New Detroiter Roadster—one of the handsomest cars made—regardless of price.

You naturally are looking for the best value possible—everybody is.

THEN LISTEN—

Detroiter cars, both touring and roadster, are—serviceable above all; roomy, graceful, distinctive. Able to stand the hardest work; mechanically right—with long stroke motor, multiple disc clutch, full floating rear axle, platform rear springs, left-hand drive and center control.

The Detroiter motor, 25 H. P. ball bearing (imported) throughout is the most accessible made.

The rear spring suspension is full platform, shock absorbing. Brakes are of tremendous grip. The rear axle, full floating, is doubly ample in sustaining power and houses gears that cannot fail.

Complete Equipment

Top, with side curtains and slip-over dust cover; windshield; electric lighted throughout with combination side and tail lamp, two large electric headlights; quick detachable demountable rims, speedometer, tire irons; complete tire and repair tool kit, robe rail and extra rim.

A most appealing and common-sense feature in Detroiter Roadsters is the rain-proof, dust-proof rear deck with two compartments, ample to hold a paid of inflated tires, and the biggest suitcase made. No tag-ends anywhere. One of the handsomest cars made, regardless of price.

Take a little time—read this all over again. The price you have to pay for automobiles justifies you in spending a little time in comparisons and investigation and we court both (expert preferred). Ask the posted and reputable agents of high-priced cars what the choice is in the low-price division.

The car is an absolutely honest production, the price is right, and the low upkeep cost is one of the biggest points in the DETROITER'S favor.

The Trojan Leaders

Are men experienced in every angle of the college track and field game and should make the 'varsity famous this season.

The Triumvirate.

EXPERIENCED MEN LEAD TROJAN TRACK TEAM

Dean Cromwell an Authority Among Southern Athletes — Comstock, a Local Product, Has Won Many High School Titles—Linton Smith, Varsity Captain, Has Come Back to Form.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

THE Trojans have returned to the ancient form of Roman government this season, and the destinies of the track and squad will rest in the hands of a "Triumvirate" which would give any organization of Caesar's time a great run for the money. Head Coach Dean B. Cromwell; Assistant Coach Boyd Comstock and Capt. Linton Smith make a splendid combination for craft, experience and cleverness.

All these assets will be needed before the season is over, as the University has one of the most extensive schedules this spring that has ever fallen to the lot of a southern varsity cinder squad. The Trojans are to branch out this season and besides meeting all the local colleges, Stanford and California will take a whirl with the University of Missouri and the University of Chicago in dual competition in the Middle West.

CROMWELL LOCAL MAN.

Dean Cromwell is what might be termed a typical southern coach. He graduated from Occidental College in 1902 and while there was one of the Tigar's most versatile athletes in the field events. After leaving Occidental Cromwell competed for the Y.M.C.A. for five years and got better each season.

In the fall of 1907 he entered the University of Willamette and in 1908 carried off high honors in the Northwestern College conference meets. By this time Dean had learned a great deal and had seen all the great athletes and coaches of the West in action. He came South just as the Trojans found themselves without a coach. He was hired as the head coach and began with the football team in 1908 and stayed with it until 1911, when the University switched to Rugby, but in track he has always been the one last authority of the South. He knows conditions here better than any other man and also how to get results out of local athletes.

DEAN'S THEORIES.

He is full of theories, but unlike so many who make every man conform to a certain rule, he makes a rule for each man. This is probably the secret of his success. For example, he took Ben Ward last week and studied his form in starting for the high hurdles and decided to change his feet at the start.

This was done and Ben clipped 2-5 of a second off the first fifteen yards of his race. The lanthy hurdler needed a drive in his start and Dean got it there. This was also true of Kelly, though everybody in the United States claims to have taught the world's champion Trojan how to correctly climb the sticks.

Cromwell has made such men as Throop, Martin, Lennox, Walton, Smith, Grant Richardson, Earle, Trotter and Ward out of raw material, and this galaxy of stars holds a number of the southern intercollegiate records at the present time. Cromwell's success may be summed up by saying that he knows how to teach his men form; he is like a good engineer, who gets the last mile of speed out of his machine and still does not hurt the machine.

COMSTOCK MAKES GOOD.

Boyd Comstock comes from U.S.C., and while there was something of an all-around man. He was picked on the all-southern team in 1908 which defeated Stanford, and during the next two years at the local university scored heavily in the pole vault, shot put and hurdles. After leaving U.S.C. he took two years at Harvard, where he studied the eastern coaching methods.

On returning from Harvard he took the Redlands High School and later went to Riverside for a season. Success followed him in both places. Comstock then took the coaching of the Citrus Union High. Before he had built up a team which in two years twice won the California Interscholastic and last year he took his team to Chicago and won the National interscholastic championship. That is a recommendation hard to beat anywhere in the annals of athletic history.

Manager Bovard, realizing that his Trojan squad was going to be an unusually large this season and that no other man would be needed, so that every member could have a certain amount of personal attention, procured the services of Comstock, and already he has been of wonderful assistance and has brought out many likely stars from the "raw material."

THE VARSITY CAPTAIN.

Capt. Linton Smith is a product of college and got his prep school training at the Hollywood High School, where he was considered one of the most promising young distance men in the South. On entering U.S.C. Cromwell got busy with his form and before the season was half over Smith Linton running the mile in 4:32 3-5. His work also a decided factor in the 880 throughout the season. He has a great finish in each of these events, and has won many a race with a perry spurt in the final few yards.

Last season he had a bad year and did not show up to the best advantage his freshman year, until the season was almost closed, then he came back. This year he got an early start and now is running better than ever before in his career at this time of the year. The training campaign, though Smith was going to be one of the most famous track men of the year, sprained under the Cardinal and Gold colors he appreciates the responsibility and is proving of very able assistance to the coaches.

CALIFORNIA CHATTER.

With the opening of the new semester at the University of California interest centers around the track and crew men.

Coach Christie has equipped the tank as well pleased with the work he took and says California will be over Stanford.

Harry Wood of Los Angeles, captain of this year's varsity, is doing consistent work in the mile and half mile runs, in which event he will represent California.

Ed Stanton, California's crack sprinter, who was forced to leave the field last year, in the 100 and 220, has just returned from a trip East.

Young Watson, a freshman, has some promise, should he be willing to work hard to remain with the varsity, as the former has frequently done 10.1 in the 100 dash.

Two other freshmen, Lee and Clark, shows marked ability in the mile. Fis and George Clark, both of Los Angeles.

George Clark is showing advantage in the quarter and is sure of a place on the squad.

Marcus J. Lee of Los Angeles returns to California this year and is a member of the varsity crew. Rowing made the position hard to get.

JOE TINKER'S WIFE.

The wife of Joe Tinker, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, refused to leave Chicago. She remained there baseball all the year around, no matter what success her husband had in Cincinnati, she will not leave her ties with Chicago.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

A Bulldog Grip

Here's the very last word in a Non-Skid tire. Let us prove it to you.

A tough, double-thick tread.
Deep-cut, sharp-cut blocks.
An irresistible grip.
And a tire that endures. The blocks meet at the base so the strains are distributed just as with smooth-tread tires.

Goodyear experts ended rim-cutting by inventing No-Rim-Cut tires.

They added 25 per cent to the average tire mileage by making these tires 10 per cent oversize.

They tested out 240 formulas and fabrics, by actual metered mileage. And they built at last a record-breaking tire.

As a result, Goodyear tires now outsell all others. And the demand is still doubling about once in eight months.

Now This Tread

Now comes this ideal Non-Skid tread. It took these experts three years to perfect it.

An extra tread, as thick as the regular, vulcanized on to our regular tire. The toughest tread ever known.

Sharp edges and angles, facing every direction.

Blocks deep and tough, and immensely enduring.

And blocks that spread out so the strain is distributed. Not centered on any small part of the fabric, as in all other non-skids.

See them at our showrooms, or at any Goodyear dealer's. One glance will win you to this ideal tread, for nothing else serves even half so well.

COE LEADS WINNERS.

Gorman Stars Win Mercantile Pennant Under Billie's Management. Team Meets Fast Squad Today.

The Gorman Stars, winners of the Mercantile League title, will take a fling today with the Los Angeles White Sox. The latter team has been winning its games with great regularity and think that to defeat the Stars under the bench management of Billie Coe will be an easy matter.

Coe has wrought wonders with his ball team. Taking a bunch of green players, he developed a strong offensive organization that has walked rough shod over all the teams playing Saturday and Sunday ball in the South. Billie is a clever boxer and general all-around athlete, but his ability to handle a baseball team comes as a decided surprise to all the amateur fans in the South.

Diverse Opinions.

GREAT FIGHTERS DIFFER IN TRAINING METHODS.

Fine Knuckle Men Always Wanted at Least Two Months for Work and Hated Crowds—Present Day Boxers Like the Spotlight—Jim Flynn Is the Most Consistent Worker.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

PROFESSIONAL boxers have varied and peculiar ways about training, and their leisure time is passed in many different ways.

While the system of training for a boxing contest is practically the same, each has a somewhat different method of conditioning and different ways of passing their spare time around a training camp.

The conscientious trainer has little time for anything else outside of the monotonous grind, and if there is weight to make it is still a harder task.

The old-timers seldom had an audience during their training stunts and grinds, while the modern boxers take from four or five days to two weeks. It depends entirely upon their condition, the circum- stances which they are to box, and the weather. The less work, of course, more time for pleasures and rest.

The modern fighters were placed in the hands of a competent trainer who was responsible for the physical condition of the fighter and kept him at all times.

POOR TRAINERS TODAY.

Many of the so-called trainers of today are nothing more than masseurs, as rubbing is often done by the boxer himself. He also is the sole master of his leisure moments are to be passed.

The old-timers seldom had an audience during their training stunts, and it was left to close to the fighter or manager to even get a peep, for the work was done in private and the camp doings were a secret.

While some of our present day boxers doing their grand stand stunts are depriving them of the privilege of charging 10 cents or a quarter for training camp.

Many of the old-timers trained at roadhouses far from the end of a car- line and a visit meant a long walk, unless you were fortunate enough to own or hire a horse and rig.

I'll let anybody tell you that training faithfully for a fight is a grind. There are few fighters that like that part of it. Still, I have seen many make the best of their work by getting all the pleasure out of it possible.

LAVIGNE HATED IT.

George ("Kid") Lavigne, who held the lightweight title for more than a decade, never liked training. He was fortunate in not being compelled to fight. Lavigne cared little for crowds around his camp and less for the ceremony of the fighting game. Neither did he believe in doing much training those times. If the opportunity offered, he liked hunting, and would walk many miles over the country after small game. The rest of his time was spent in quiet card games and such pastimes.

Jeffries was well trained as the notion took him, for he was boss of himself, and nobody had little, if anything, to say about it. His wonderful strength and the fact that he fought often, did not require of him as much training as other fighters. Still, there is no question that he would be champion longer had he done more training. Abe spent much of his leisure hours in driving and attending theaters and cared little at what time he retired.

PETER WORKED HARD.

Peter Jackson, the great Australian colored fighter, and in my opinion the best of his race, was a good trainer and stuck close to his work. He had a passion for fast horses and never could get into his clothes quick enough to get in a seat behind a fast horse.

He did all his training on the Coast at old Joe Deaves's roadhouse, on the Alameda road outside of Oakland, and could be seen any afternoon on the road, traveling up and down the road at a three-minute gait, look- ing for a brush with someone. It was a pleasing sight to see this big black fellow coming down the road behind a fast horse, all smiles.

It is safe to say that if he were alive today, automobiles would have no charm for him, for he loved horses too much.

Jim Flynn was a hard and conscientious trainer, and had little time for play. Tom was up at 6 o'clock in the morning for a short walk and at 8 o'clock he was on the road, and he hit it hard until 11, had a swim and lunch. Shortly after, he slept until 3 in the after- noon. After his afternoon work it was a massage, a short rest and supper and at 8 o'clock every night.

With the exception of the seller little time for pleasures, and no wonder he was tough.

JEFF A GRINDER.

Jeffries was the hardest worker I have ever seen and could do as much as any three men, without tiring. While he was not particularly fast, he was conscientious and a good trainer. Jeffries perhaps wore more clothes on the road as any man who ever fought. I have seen him run three miles without stopping, with thirty pounds of clothes on, steam like an engine, and when finished with his massaging, was just enough to rough house every one in the camp.

After training in the mountains much of his spare time was taken up with hunting and fishing. Jim could never resist a chance of this kind and it was good for his physical welfare.

When living in the city, he put in his time in pool and card playing after supper, with an occasional visit to the theaters.

FITZ WAS JOLLY.

Bob Fitzsimmons got about as much fun out of his training as any fighter ever got. Bob was a good trainer and spent few idle moments. When at leisure, he usually had a pet lion, a great Dane dog or some other animal of this kind to pass time with, and when he was not at this, he was looking for an opportunity to play jokes on his sparring partners and was as good at it as he was at fighting.

Fitzsimmons was the most restless fighter I have ever seen. He was a man of nerves and often overdid himself, and on these occasions was as cross as a sick child, and fussed a lot. He was never happier than when he was working in front of and his trainers always had a hard time to keep up.

Tommy Ryan often said it was Corbett's love for handball that lost him a battle with Bob Fitzsimmons. He would never stop as long as he had a chance to win.

He had a bunch of nerves and seldom rested when he had the time. His only training was passed in games of shuffle board. If there was not, it was baseball or joking and joshing his friends and sparring partners.

Bob was always fond of the stage and paid frequent visits to the theaters when training.

JIMMIE WAS EASY.

Jimmy Britt was somewhat like Corbett in his training, but used much more in the amount of work he did. Jimmie believed in working hard and resting when he had the chance. A very good boxer, he put about as much action in his training as any of the fighters, speed and more speed with him and the way he would work a fight. Jimmy, like many fighters was a strong believer in the theaters. An occasional visit to the theaters or a horseback or auto ride was favorite pastimes for him. If not these, he liked to meet and talk with his friends. Jimmy was another who liked a good crowd around him while at work and always kept an open house without any charge.

Joe Gans was faithful, methodical and a good trainer, always keeping his training hours and cared little for crowds around him.

Terry McGovern was very similar to Bat in his training and cared nothing for crowds. He did his work just as well if alone with his sparring part- ners. His time was usually spent in a quiet way around the camp, playing cards with his sparring partners and friends. He was very fond of all and seldom got enthusiastic over it as others did. He had many friends and pals, to which he was always very loyal.

FLYNN A GLUTTON.

Flynn was his time in the fighting game to his great systematic training more than to any other thing.

He was the most consistent and methodical trainer I have ever seen. Plenty of work and plenty, and had few leisure moments. He was a be- liever in getting on the minute and stopping at a set time. Flynn was a model training camp when he once started and set his whole mind to it.

He went to bed, arose at a certain time, ate and slept at a certain time and entered a ring in perfect condition. It made him a tough proposition.

Tommy Ryan was a fast worker in training, but did not require as much work as Flynn. He always took good care of himself. His time was taken up in playing and trundling his baby around and he had no time to devote to his family affairs. He was also a regular attendant at the theaters.

Training is such a fighter makes it. The weight makers have the hardest work. But many try to get as much pleasure out of it as possible.

BOWLING NOTES.

A class A individual tournament comprising eight entries is to com- mence at the Cosmopolitan bowling academy on Monday night, continu- ing thereafter for seven weeks on each Monday and Friday evening. Every contestant is scheduled to bowl once a week until he has bowled against every other player a match for the best six out of eleven games.

Prizes consist of a gold medal for first place, and $80 to be divided in the proportions of $40, $24 and $1 for the best three scores in won games.

The schedule of the first week fol- lows:

Monday, January 13—Arbogast vs. Darrow, and Stasch vs. Cochran. Fri- day, January 17—Hayes vs. Turner, and Tetzlaf vs. Thorkeldsen.

The schedule of the first week in the four months' tournament of the Mercantile Bowling League has been cast as follows:

Tuesday, January 14, on Majestic bowling alleys—Ben Travatos vs. Smugglers; on Orpheum alleys—Henry and Cornetts vs. Richard Mans- fields; on Long Beach alleys—Han- sons vs. New Bachelors; on Lyceum alleys—National Tailors vs. Hallen- bergers.

Mrs. C. M. Turner rolled several games in an informal match last week at the Cosmopolitan alleys, with an average of 231. Doubters are invited to inspect the record.

E. M. Strawn, who is a member of the Ben Travato team, as organ- ized to compete in the Mercantile League tourney, rolled 309 on the Ma- jestic alleys a short time since, this game being one of two in which he made twenty consecutive strikes. Next!

The two leading teams in the Inter- urban League tournament clashed at the Majestic alleys on Friday night with the anomalous result that the winners lost and the losers won. That is, the Capitols won two out of three games, giving them the tourney lead; but the Tuxedos made totals of 2326 to the 2331 for the Capitols. Five men were engaged on each side.

TWO COMERS FOUND IN TRACK AND FIELD SQUAD

There are two dark horses on the U.S.C. track squad that may develop into point-winners this year, accord- ing to Coach Dean Cromwell.

The first is Bettinger, in the shot- put. Last season he had form, but could not get enough distance to make the varsity.

When college opened this fall he at once started to work with the six- teen-pound pellet and slowly has been rounding into first-team material. Comstock has been working with him and says that he should be a valuable second and third place man through- out the season.

The remaining unknown quantity is a youngster named Bardley. To look at him one would never select him for a promising track man. He is of a slight build and wears glasses, but on delving into the dope-book, it seems that he won the 100, 220 and high jump in the Rocky Mountain interscholastic championship meet while attending Denver High.

Last year he made exceptionally good times, considering the fact that he had to run two heats in each of the races named and had to jump against a big field in the high jump, but he has the dope, it seems, so it may pay to watch him when the meets come along.

WINTER RUNS ON FAST MOTOR BIKES.

Winter runs which are being planned and conducted by many mo- torcycle clubs throughout the country, demonstrate that the motorcycle is an "all-the-year-round" machine.

Fair skies and summer breezes are appreciated by motorcyclists, but they are not willing to forego the pleasures of motorcycling just because of snow and cold.

The Queen City Motorcycle Club of Cincinnati, is one of the clubs that believes in winter motorcycling activi- ties. Its members have formed a win- ter-riding squad and a series of snow runs during the winters months have been planned.

The first is booked for January 19, when the motorcyclists will take a spin of thirty-five miles to the fa- mous Ft. Ancient Hills.

The Wanderers' Motorcycle Club of Toronto, Ont., also has its "hat in the ring."

Its members propose to continue the club runs right on through the winter, regardless of the snow and the cold.

The Salt Lake City (Utah) Motor- cycle Club has 100 members on its charter list.

Rambler

A New Cross Country $2025

Rambler

WITH GASOLINE AND ELECTRIC LONG STROKE MOTOR

Dual Ignition, Top, Wind Shield and Speedometer

THE unit gasoline and electric motor has won for the Cross Country the leader- ship of the medium-priced field.

Eighty per cent. is our increase to date over last year's sales.

In spite of this popular success and ignoring the old idea of yearly models, we announce a new Cross Country at $2025 with unit gasoline and electric, long stroke motor, fifteen per cent. increase in power and dual ignition.

Just Press the Button

To start, press a button; note, there is just a single operation. Press another—you light the lamps.

The gasoline and electric motor is but one advantage of the Cross Country. It is a car of exceeding beauty, richly finished in dark Brewster green. Rakish, low and balanced per- fectly, it has grace, suggestion of speed and lines that catch and hold the eye.

Rare Comfort

It's the easiest riding car we know. You may tour all day with pleasure and return without fatigue. Lots of leg room in front and rear; plenty of elbow room at the wheel, which turns easily but firmly; long springs of deliberate action.

You will never know the meaning of Jef- fery service until you get a Rambler. Any one of thousands of owners will tell you what it is. Nearly six hundred distributing dealers and branches form the organization which backs it up.

Jeffery Stability

Behind them is the Jeffery Company, with forty years of manufacturing experience.

Ask your banker or consult Dun & Bradstreet as to our responsibility.

Back of this organization is a great factory making ninety-six per cent. of all parts and maintaining a one-half million dollar stock of duplicate parts for the benefit of owners.

10,000 Mile Guarantee

These then are the things you get in the Cross Country:

Gasoline and electric long-stroke motor for starting, lighting and power—dual ignition.

Appearance that makes owners proud.

Comfort rare and pleasing that particularly appeals to women.

Ten Thousand Mile Guarantee backed by the Jeffery Company.

Are not these reasons enough?

The power of the Cross Country gasoline and electric motor has been increased fifteen per cent. by providing a 5-inch stroke.

This gasoline and electric motor has the simplest and most effective means for start- ing and lighting ever made. It saves weight, bearings, chains, gears, complicated wiring and operates silently.

Silent and Simple

The usual cast-iron fly wheel of the ordi- nary engine is left off. Parts forming the elec- tric motor generator take the place of the fly wheel.

The only wearing parts, other than those of all gasoline engines, are the motor genera- tor brushes, which are made much larger than necessary—ample for mileage of three seasons of ordinary use.

Specifications: Unit gasoline and electric motor, four cylinders, long stroke, 4½x5, 42 horse power. Started electrically by push but- ton. Ignition: Dual, magneto and battery. Wheel base 120 inches. Tread: 56 inches, op- tion 60 inches. Wheels: 36x4 demountable. Tires: Goodyear or United States, 36x4.

Body styles: Five-passenger, $2025. Four- passenger, $2025. Roadster, $1985. Special touring body, five adults and two children, 37x 4½-inch tires, $2225. Sedan four-passenger, all enclosed, with shock absorbers, $2725. Gotham, five-passenger limousine with two extra disap- pearing seats, shock absorbers and 37x4½-inch tires, $2975.

A Car of Beauty

Finished in light Brewster green with black beads and hair line gold stripe, with wheels to match. Polished metal parts are nickel, with bonnet, fenders and fillers in black enamel.

Equipment: Top and envelope, wind shield and speedometer; two 11-inch electric head lamps, flush electric dash lamps and electric tail lamp; extension lamp; tonneau, hinged robe rail, adjustable foot rest; complete tool equipment.

The Enclosed Types

The Sedan is four-passenger of the exclusive enclosed type. Entrance to all seats from the curb side. All the advantages of an electric without its limitations.

The Gotham is a limousine type, regularly accommodating five passengers, but with two extra folding disappearing seats. A rare combination of utility and elegance.

On Electric Cars Pneumatic and Solid Tires Are Doomed

Four years ago every electric car was equipped with pneumatic or solid tires. Today over half of the electric cars cars carry neither of these types.

The great majority now carry Motz Cushion Tires.

It probably won't be long now until a pneumatic-equipped or solid-tire-equipped electric will be an unusual sight.

Pneumatic tires lost out because they proved too treacherous, too troublesome—and too costly.

Solid tires lost out because they failed utterly to protect the occupants or the delicate parts of the car from rough bumps and jolts.

Motz Cushion Tires won out because in four years they proved to be BOTH easy-riding and trouble-proof. And because they reduced tire upkeep to a small item.

Shock-Absorbing Tires

Motz Cushion Tires, which have ended puncture and blowout troubles, opened people's eyes to the fact that a tire to be shock-absorbing and easy-riding does not have to be filled with air, liquid or any other kind of a filler. Amazing resiliency can be ob- tained by the use of purely mechanical principles.

See the double, notched treads (A in picture,) which prevent skidding and distribute the weight to the sides.

The sides are undercut (see B,) which allows free action of slant- wise bridges (see C.) These bridges are elastic. They give and yield like the air in a pneumatic tire. Note D in the picture, show- ing shock-absorbing qualities when tires runs over a stone.

Economy

No user of Motz Cushion Tires is burdened by tire-repair expense. Or by carrying extra, emergency tires. Or by having to buy new tires every few months.

These tires are specifically GUARANTEED for 10,000 miles, two years.

Would any pneumatic tire-maker dare guarantee his tires that long?

Did ever another tire offer such economy as this?

Adopted by Electric Makers

No matter what kind of an Electric you choose, the maker will equip it with Motz Cushion Tires if you so re- quest. He will be glad to do it, know- ing he's giving you a trouble-proof car and one that's well protected from the shocks of road contact.

Don't buy a fine electric and then spoil nine-tenths your pleasure by ac- cepting any old tires. Look into this tire question. Send now for our and read the amazing facts about the tire that's capturing the electric field. A postal, sent today, brings this book by return mail. Send specifications—name of car, model, size of rims, etc.

The Electric Starter

you have been waiting for is now on the Best Built Car in America

YOU have not been waiting for a self-starter. You have been wait- ing for a Locomobile with the right kind of an electric motor starter, installed in the right way.

This combination, with the added advan- tage of the best electric lighting system, regardless of cost, is now available.

The new electric motor starter, adapted to the Locomobile, places it more than ever in a class by itself.

After January 1st all six-cylinder models will be equipped with the finest electric motor starter available, at an added cost of One Hundred Dollars for all models. In order that all purchasers of 1913 six- cylinder Locomobiles may be on exactly the same basis, we have so arranged mat- ters that this device may be installed on cars previously delivered, at the request of the owner, at exactly the same extra cost.

CHANCE GOES BACK TO FIRST.

Will Take Chase's Place on the Sack.

Frank Predicts Hal Will Do Well at Second.

Will Peerless Leader be Able to Stand Heat?

(BY WIRELESS LINK TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Before boarding a train last night that would carry him back to his orange ranch in Glendora, Cal., Frank Chance, newly named leader of the New York American League team, announced that he would try to "come back" as a player this year. The "Big Bear's" return to the diamond will necessitate a switch in the team that promises good results. Chance would go to first base, relieving Hal Chase, the star initial sacker, and Hal would be shifted to second base, a position he is anxious to fill. "I am anxious to get back in the game," Chance said. "In fact, it looks like I will have to play, as Chase wants to go to second. I am going to try mighty hard to come back. My legs will not give me any trouble. But I cannot say as to my head, as I have not attempted to play since my operation. I am not positive I can stand the heat. But if I am able to go through with it you will see me at first base when the season begins. There are many who think I am through as a player, but if my head does not bother me I will prove that I am as good as ever."

CHASE AT SECOND.

"As to Chase's playing second, I believe he would be a success. I saw him playing that position on the Coast and he showed me he can do as well there as on first. He is fast enough on his feet to overcome the handicap of being left-handed. He probably would not make a double play as fast as a speedy right hander but he is a speedy player. When we go to Bermuda I will be in uniform with the rest of the boys. I will work hard to get into condition. Before the season opens I will know whether I will be able to play."

Chase has already declared he would welcome such a shift. Before leaving for New York, Owner Frank J. Farrell said nothing would please him more than to have Chance return to the game. He believes that the new manager would be a greater drawing card if he were in the line-up.

FARRELL DOESN'T KICK.

Farrell, however, says Chance will be in absolute charge of the team and that he will not interfere with any plans of the manager. Farrell never kicks even when he gets the worst of it. Baseball men recall the ill fortune of the Highlanders that dates back many years and point on that Farrell never complains.

Chance will reach home Monday and will remain on his ranch looking after his orange crop until time to hurry to New York to attend the scheduled meeting in February.

HIGH SALARY.

A fan has figured out that Chance will have to grow a foot taller before he equals the height of a pile of 11 bills equal to the amount of his salary, fixed at $25,000. Placed in flat bundles the pile would reach nearly seven feet. It would take a large-sized wheelbarrow to carry away the bills should the manager get his year's salary all at once in paper dollars.

Chance will not change the name of his "Cub" ranch in Glendora, Cal., to the "Highlanders."

BREAKING INTO BASEBALL.

This Time We Have Chosen An Umpire For Our Victim.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

YEARS and years we have yearned for the opportunity to see an umpire gagged and manacled that we might say what we pleased about him. Now we find that we have yearned in vain. In private life the umpire does not differ materially from the general run of humanity.

Judging from remarks made during particularly heated moments when the race is smoking, an umpire leads a life of crime. Therefore, imagine my chagrin when I was unable to apprehend Frank Newhouse in the act of porch climbing. Believe me, friends, most of us have the wrong "dope" on the umps. None of them is perfect, proving conclusively that they are human. When the race is hot we may refer to them as "robbers," "thieves," "highbinders," "kidnapers," "sandbaggers," "stranglers," "cut-throats" and a few other things, but on second sober thought it generally is admitted that they are not such a bad lot after all. In fact, we take it all back and humbly offer our apologies after it is all over and we are in our right minds.

No one could fill the job and prove "eminently satisfactory." Umpiring is a good deal like scoring: you can't please 'em all. The greatest of the many great men who have lived from time to time could not hold down a job as umpire to the satisfaction of all concerned. Think of the things that history would be compelled to relate regarding George Washington had he attempted to handle an indicator in the Coast League. What would Abraham Lincoln ever amounted to had he accepted a position as umpire in the Union Association? Imagine what would happen to Theodore Roosevelt if he got gay and attempted to show his teeth at a grand stand full of free and untrammelled citizens who had paid four-bits to see the show. The San Juan tea party would seem even more so by comparison.

No gents, the really great and the near-great couldn't do any better than the modest individual who makes no claim to near-greatness.

But all of this is digressing.

Frank Newhouse has a "cauliflower" ear on his left side, and carries a whisk broom on the other side, the same being located in his hip pocket. Said broom is used as an implement for cleaning the home plate now and then, and brushing aside the objections of those who would dispute any decisions.

Newhouse was enticed away from the Texas League by President Baum, along about the three-quarter post last season, at a very low figure—not in salary, but in purchase price—and he is therefore regarded as morally bound to re-employ him next season, providing that the Texas League is willing to relinquish all claims to him, (meaning Newhouse, not Baum) the same being something that the Texas League, according to information and belief, is not inclined to do of its own free will. At this point we pause for breath.

Newhouse gave an excellent account of himself last season. He was pitted against Hildebrand right off the reel, and held his own from the beginning. He was one of the few umpires who ever earned a draw with "Hilde."

Newhouse, aside from his umpiring, is quite a character. He has circulated all over the sporting map and back again. He has trained everything in the United States from the U.S.C. track team to the Philadelphia Athletics, not to mention a number of celebrated Queensberry genis, pedalled a bicycle against the great Maj. Taylor, and fought twenty-three fights on his own account. Hence the "cauliflower" decorations.

Newhouse broke into the sporting game as an amateur bicycle rider in Illinois, Indiana, and other well-known States about the same time that our own beloved Barney Oldfield was riding as a professional.

He then proceeded to train "Kid" Parker for eight consecutive and winning fights. Many of our people will remember Parker through his numerous battles here with that faithful old trial hoss, Bob Thompson. Parker developed into one of the best men in his class.

Newhouse then took it upon himself to fight Young Corbett. He was forced to lower his colors to the coming champion, after seventeen rounds of hard milling. Among other Queensberry notables conditioned by Newhouse were Benny Yanger, Joe Bernstein, and Frank McPartlin.

Despite his training duties Newhouse managed to sandwich four fights into the year of 1901. He trained the Los Angeles baseball club in the spring of 1902, a short time later responding to summons to train Young Corbett for his scheduled fight with Terry McGovern at New London, Ct., an event which was prevented at the time by circumstances over which the promoters had no control. It was in 1903 that he trained the U.S.C. track team. He then invaded Portland, laid out new grounds and trained its ball team. About this time he fought George Memsic a fifteen-round draw, and trained Herrera for for one of his scraps.

In 1904 we find Newhouse training Battling Nelson for three winning fights. He was then called to Denver to prepare Jim Flynn for his fight with George Gardiner, this being the scrap that made Flynn famous.

Just to show his versatility, Frank then turned his attention to the Cheyenne (Wyo.) hose team, which broke the straightaway record for 800-pound carts by covering the distance in 23s. flatak. While engaged with the firemen he found time to develop "Muggsy" Scholes on the side.

Newhouse turned his attention to the Philadelphia Athletics in 1905, and they responded by winning the pennant, although failing in their efforts to wrest the baseball premiership of our planet from the New York Giants at that particular time.

About this time Newhouse broke a hand on the ample jaw of some manly opponent, and was advised by his physician to take a rest. He sought a new form of recreation, becoming the groundkeeper at the American League park in Washington.

It was here that he was overtaken by misfortune and became an umpire. Frank didn't mean to. He went in to relieve Billy Evans or some other celebrated arbiter in a series of games between "Rube" Foster's Philadelphia Giants, now the Chicago Giants, and the Cuban Giants. Before he got through he had six games to his credit, and his right to draw salary as an umpire was thoroughly established.

In the first game, Newhouse worked behind the bat without a protector, and this display of nerve made a hit with the president of the Virginia league, who chanced to be present. Newhouse accepted a berth in that circuit, and made his debut as a professional umpire in Portsmouth, Va., conceded by many umpires to be the most rabid baseball burg in the universe. Newhouse got away to a good start, despite the fact that the visiting team won two games, 2 to 1. On his second trip, however, the fans of Portsmouth repented of their past indifference and proceeded to mob him with all the fervor of their beings. This was done because Newhouse upheld the dignity of his office and the grand old game by firing the Portsmouth manager off the field.

Finishing the season, Newhouse trained the Colorado School of Mines football team the following fall. He umpired in the Texas League that season, and the following year again groomed the Mines gridiron gladiators. He followed this up by umpiring in the Central Association, and then became physical director of Colorado College. That year his track team won the A.A.U. championship of Colorado, and his baseball team won the State title.

He then umpired in the Texas League and the Central League and trained the St. Paul team of the American Association. The latter act took place in 1911. He trained Denver in the fall of 1912, the Grizzlies winning the pennant. He again felt the call of the wild and went to Texas, laboring there until inveigled to the Coast League by President Baum.

There may be one or two persons in the United States who have not been trained by Newhouse, but a careful canvass has failed to locate them.

FISHING NOTES.

One of the real or so-called experts hold out my hope for the fishermen on Saturday or Sunday on account of the very cold weather this week. The fish have gone off into deep water to get away from the freezing conditions along shore.

The bitterly cold weather of the past few days has kept many nimrods away from their usual haunts, for a man must necessarily be a tough one to sit out on a wharf for hours, or even cast from the shore or a launch these days. This "coldness" is probably the real reason there have been so few catches of any importance reported this month. The holidays have also interfered somewhat with the sport.

Fairly good success has been had this week at Del Rey by several fishers and they have done fairly well with yellowfins, perch and croakers. Ernie Miller braved the elements Thursday at Del Rey and returned home with a good basket of perch six or eight inches in length. He also hooked some croaker and yellowfin and stated that there were but few fishermen out and their luck was not phenomenal.

There are some yellowtail being caught at Redondo, but the water seems to be very cold, and the usual run of fish evidently got off into deep water. The catches there this week were only ordinary in quantity.

There has been practically no fishing at the southern beaches by any of the local sports, for the distance from town is too great to lure any but a few stragglers down to the ice belt.

As showing the general conditions, Secretary Abbott of the Rod and Reel Club has not had a fish registration for six weeks. The last one was for a yellowfin that weighed just above three pounds and was caught by Carl Clanssieus.

Al Reed, Pete Peterson and Ernie Miller are scheduled to fish tomorrow at Del Rey, which seems to be one of the best places in this vicinity.

Yellowtail and white sea bass are reported rather plentiful in the Catalina waters. The fishing there has been good all this month, but the weather has been so cold that few of the locals have ventured that far for their favorite sport. Croakers are biting fairly well in San Pedro Bay.

Bobby Ross declares that there is real fishing for sheepshead at Portuguest Bend, right off the rocks, where a moving-picture concern is making photos of the raging main. He has made several good catches there recently and asserts that is the place if one wants sheepshead.

Slocum reports that big trout are being hooked in the Ventura River and quite a number in the vicinity of Lompoc. Twenty-inch specimens are not uncommon.

SCRIBES TAKE SLANT AT JOE.

EASTERNERS THINK RIVERS HAS THAT VICIOUS LOOK.

Development Above Fifth Rib Considered Wonderful—Big Reach and Hitting Ability Cause Surprise. Californian Credited With Savage Disposition.

(BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] The Sporting writer of the New York Globe has this to say about Joe Rivers:

"Honest to goodness, that Rivers fellow is the most vicious-looking creature we ever looked upon in the ring. He acts the part of one who would as soon cut the other fellow's heart out right on the spot as to bid the time of day. He sends the shivers down one's back to see him tearing after the boys who are boxing with hi mhelping to get him in shape. If he doesn't scare Leach Cross, then Leach isn't going to be scared by anybody.

"But Rivers has a whole lot more than his dangerous look. He is a little fellow compared in size to Cross. From toenail to the last hair in his head he is about 5ft. 4 in. That's about four inches shorter than is Cross. But Rivers has a reach that is a bird. It measures about sixty-nine inches. Rivers is a tearing, ripping, hard-hitting lightweight. He is built from the fifth rib up like a middleweight. The muscles on him stand out like mountains in the native land of his forefathers. When he is dressed up he gives one the impression that he is round shouldered. But he isn't. It's just pits of muscle that stick out. His legs are those of a bantamweight, but he says they are big enough to carry him about. And on those legs he moves around like a bantam, too. His footwork is one of the nicest things he does, outside of his own fiendish desire to mush up an opponent. In training he forgets all about his sparring partners being inferior to him in the boxing line and he just rips and tears after them as though there was to be a result of dependent large fortunes and much glory."

Patterson was in the saddle thirty-five days, making an average run of about 125 miles per day. His best day's run was 320 miles.

Floyd De Long of Lima, O., rode his motorcycle 369 miles in one day. He left Lima early in the morning and arrived at Buffalo at 8 o'clock in the evening.

WINTER BALL VISITORS FLIT

Vacation Colony Begins to Break Up.

Jake Stahl Is the First One to Leave.

Distinguished of Tribe Have Been Here.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

When the eminent J. Corbett bade Los Angeles a reluctant adieu yesterday his departure marked the beginning of the disbandment of one of the biggest baseball colonies Southern California has put forth in the winter.

For a time it was feared that the baseball tourist camp might be a short. The stars (pun after pun) were slow in gathering, but when the second whiff of frozen rain came scurrying to Southern California. While the thawing-out factories had not been up to standard here in the winter, they were much appreciated the heat that the East has to offer, and practically all the players commenced plotting to be with us a year hence.

From now on the colony will dwindle. The players will not leave in a body. Rather, they will go away, as to speak, singly or in pairs, in ancholy little groups of two or three or five or six. Oh, what a parting there will be. Baseball players are about the best scatterers in the world. They will distribute themselves all over the map from Boston baked border to Canada's Dalhousie, some even going so far as to overflow these boundaries and reach foreign countries.

POPULAR—WELL, I'M

Did you ever stop to think, reader, of the popularity of baseball in California as a baseball winter resort? We easily hold the palm in this respect. If there are a dozen cities worth mentioning not present on the winter baseball circuit we'd like to know the reason why. Take the world's series for instance. With Jake Stahl, Harry Myers, Fred Snodgrass, Art Fletcher, Duffy Lewis, Harry Hooper, Clyde Engle, Hall and Buck O'Brien we have almost enough material for a club composed of players who helped to win the highest honors in baseball.

This is but a starter. All told a dozen major-league players could be found here, while Chance, Stovall and Dooin gave the managerial end of the league game ample and flattering representation.

We herewith submit, without fear of contradiction, the statement that Los Angeles is "Ball" headquarters. We have the distinction of being the favorite winter resort of every ball player we know, and vouches for its authenticity.

THE ROSTER.

American League—George Stovall, St. Louis; Frank Chance, New York; Red Russell Ford, New York; Earl Hamilton, St. Louis; John Stahl, Boston; Lewis, Harry Hooper and Duffy Lewis, Boston; Hall, Boston; Ole Olsen and Carl Carrish, Cleveland; Pete Schneider, Cincinnati; Ted Easterly and Joe Jenger, Chicago.

National League—Art Fromme, Cincinnati; Chief Meyers, New York; Hal Chase, all Chicago; Cozy Dolan, Philadelphia; "Foster" Schulz, Philadelphia; Jack Gervais, Bert Whaling and Hugh Canavera, Boston.

ALSO THE MINORS.

American Association—Joe Kelly, Kansas City; Homer Peel, St. Paul; Walker, Kansas City; Bill Killifer and Dave Altizer, Minneapolis.

Northwestern League—Jack Lelivelt and Fred Hoffman, Portland; Del Baggio, "Pat" Ragan, Bill Bergman, Carl Lewis, Jess Barnes, Ray Hasty, Vancouver; Johnny Bates and Joe Shields, Tacoma; Pete Schneider and Fred Hoffman; Jimmy Toner, Spokane.

Union Association—Jack Ryan (manager), Bob Whaling, Ed Hamilton and Eddie McGee, Memphis; "Babe" Ruame, Bobby Keefe, Minneapolis-Winnipeg; Cummings, Superior.

New York State League—Bill Burkett, Bill McCulloch, Utica.

Southern League—Bill Hinchman, Memphis; Al Kelly, Memphis.

Western League—Bill Rodgers, Sterling and Wachtel, Peoria; Bill Kimmelhoff, Omaha; Jack Hendricks, Des Moines; Jess Crandall, Sioux City.

Ohio-Pennsylvania League—Mike Kelly.

Wisconsin-Illinois League—Ed Marshall, Rockford.

Canadian League—Jack Bentley, Unattached—Jack Bentley, Toronto; Durham and Eddie Bennett, Buffalo.

Some may have been overlooked in the shuffle, but the above list is sufficient to make the point.

PARCEL POST CALLS FOR GASOLINE

The parcel post packages are distributed by street cars to the various sub-stations, and are then carried to their destinations by the motorcycle vans. Each motorcycle van has a capacity of 1000 pounds.

This auto service is handled entirely by men who have been in the service of the parcel post department of the Cleveland Motor Supply Co. Before this meet is through each of these two department of endeavor will be exhaustively tested. Before this meet is through it will be pretty well known just what an aeroplane will do both as a freight and passenger carrier. The use of an air ship for carrying mail will also be tried out in a more thorough manner than ever before attempted.

Perhaps the most important experiments will be made of the air-ship as a war engine.

Local National Guard officers are making extensive preparations.

THE WAR SCOUT.

The reports from the war in the Balkans have just about revolutionized the ideas of modern strategy. If it is true that such accurate report can be made of an enemy's position with such amazing rapidity, then war must be reconstructed.

But much of the war stuff that has come from the Balkans has been mere rot.

Instead of a war de luxe as we had been promised, the later and more intimate reports indicate that it is a very ordinary and most unskillful kind of fighting that is going on, the German and French military tutors to the contrary notwithstanding.

For instance, the military experts from other nations who managed to get to the front report that the much-lauded artillery operations of the Bulgarians are in reality a joke; that the gunners know nothing about covering the movements of infantry with their fire. Many other confidential reports indicate that we have been getting falsely colored versions of the doings. The reports of the use to which airships were put by Bulgaria may or not have been true.

THE ACID TEST.

As the other means of ascertaining whether these reports were true or false, Gen. Wankowski proposes to approximate the conditions that obtained in the Balkan war. Then he will attempt to use airships on both sides. Thus he will be able to ascertain whether or not the deeds recorded of aeroplanes in battle actually happened or not.

The experiments will not resemble the same fakes staged at other meets where an airship dashed over a square marked out on the ground while an aviator tossed an orange.

FAMOUS AVIATORS.

Every one in the military world knows that bomb-throwing by aeroplane is nonsense. The use to which war aeroplanes are intended is that of scouting.

Gen. Wankowski will use a large number of troops in his great sham battle experiments. Each "army" in the mimic war will have cavalry, artillery, infantry, hospital squads and aeroplanes. Such famous aviators as Didier Masson and Fred De Kor will be detailed to the two armies.

Altogether this will be one of the most important aviation meets ever held in America.

Annandale Second.

was that between the two captains, Woodcock defeating Armstrong by 1 up in 20 holes. This is the second time Woodcock has defeated the champion, the previous occasion being in the first round of the San Gabriel invitation tournament last April.

Both players showed mediocre golf during the outward half, but warmed up considerably during the homeward half, largely, I am sure, because they then had the encouragement and eclat of quite a large gallery. They were all square at the turn, halved the tenth for 3, Armstrong taking the eleventh for 4 against Woodcock's 5. They were both driving rather erratically, occasional "peaches" and many were so-so. Armstrong went out of bounds several times.

They halved the thirteenth for 5 and then Woodcock showed off with a lovely 3 at the fourteenth, holing one on those off-the-green putts that always draws a long, contented "oh" from the gallery.

Armstrong retaliated with an almost similar feat at the fifteenth. Woodcock took the sixteenth in par and then Armstrong regained his lead with another of those breathless long putts on the seventeenth. "Did you see Armstrong's putt at the seventeenth?" became the question of the hour and those that missed it feel that Fate has served them ill.

LONG PUTTS SEEN.

Long putts on both sides were, in fact, a feature of the match—the great redeeming feature. Again at the eighteenth, when the match seemed Armstrong's, Woodcock holed a long putt on the grass green, squaring the game.

Tense excitement held the gallery as the men proceeded to play the nineteenth. Woodcock was on the green with his second shot but Armstrong drove two balls out of bounds. However, he regained lost ground on the green, for Woodcock took three putts and Armstrong holed one long one.

The champion again drove out of bounds from the twentieth and yet succeeded in rimming the cup with his fourth, but the hole and the match went to Woodcock, whose putt putted.

Woodcock did the last 9 in 37 and Armstrong the 8 in 33, omitting the hole he gave up. It was interesting to watch Armstrong carefully studying the slope of the new greens—tricky feature that has been introduced at San Gabriel since the improvements in the course. That he enjoys "the engineer's eye" is obvious, for it was not there that he lost his points.

ANOTHER CLOSE ONE.

Conde Jones of San Gabriel played E. N. Wright of Annandale, and won by one up at the nineteenth. That, too, was a very close match all the way. Jones was one up at the seventeenth but missed a six-foot putt on the eighteenth, an unfortunate feat that Mr. Wright emulated at the nineteenth, losing him the match. Their medal score was 80 and 81.

Frank Wade played W. K. Jewett and won by 4 up and 3, while Robert Tatum played A. A. French and defeated him by 1 up, after another close and exciting match. Tatum is driving well again now and French plays a good steady eighty average.

WILLIAMS SHINES.

The Annandale men to win their matches were E. R. Williams, who defeated Marsh by 5 up and 4, so that there should be no mistake about it. M. P. Mears of Santa Barbara, who is sojourning in Pasadena this season, and plays for Annandale, defeated George Cline by 4 up and 3. W. L. Hall, Annandale's new member, who enjoys a Tuftian figure and a six handicap, defeated A. C. Scales by 3 up and 2. All the same Mr. Scales won the tenth in 2, never even asking his opponent to putt.

In fact, the first team match of the season was a great success and both captains are to be congratulated. The teams were very evenly matched. San Gabriel can well feel happy that she is able to make such a much better showing this year than last. The Annandale team, will, of course, be stronger when L'Laughlin and Robert Hunter arrive. The next match, also at San Gabriel, is to take place between the Los Angeles Country Club team and San Gabriel next Saturday, January 18.

KID COMING WEST.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 11.—[Special Dispatch.] Kid Williams, the champion bantamweight of the South, will start for Los Angeles tomorrow with his manager, Sammy Harris. Williams is signed up to meet Eddie Campi, the clever bantamweight of San Francisco, for twenty rounds at 116 pounds, ringside, at Tom McCarey's open-air club at Vernon on February 11. Williams is to receive a guarantee of $2000 and three round-trip tickets.

BIG SHOOT TODAY.

The Los Angeles Gun Club is to have a weekly shoot today on the club grounds at Venice, and it is expected that a large number of members will be in attendance. Regular shoots are to be held every Sunday. The annual election is to be held next month.

HANDBALL TOURNEY.

A big handball tournament is to begin at the Los Angeles Athletic Club on January 18, and a large number of entries have been promised. All of the old-timers are to enter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sadler of San Francisco, have completed a motorcycle trip of 3000 miles to Houston, Tex.

Athletic Athenas.

COURT STARS DEVELOPED IN EXCLUSIVE SCHOOLS.

BY BEATRICE BRYAN.

ATHLETICS are occupying a more important place in the exclusive girls' schools this year than they have at any previous time. The principals of the various schools have come to the conclusion that young women need physical training as well as young men.

There has been no attempt made at any interscholastic games. It is felt that the spirit of competition is bad for the girls and that sports should be encouraged solely for the physical benefits to be derived.

Huntington Hall, at Oneonta Park, is the best equipped of all the schools for outdoor games.

The campus takes in twenty-one acres. There are golf links, a hockey field and tennis courts. Also a bowling alley, which has been recently completed. Mrs. Morgan is the physical director.

There are forty girls in the school. They have no regular schedule for the games, feeling that it is better for each girl to choose her own time for the various forms of recreation.

AT WESTLAKE SCHOOL.

Mildred Dawson and Jessie Grieve are the two star tennis players of the Westlake School for Girls, where tennis is featured above all other sports. These two young women made a splendid showing in the invitation tennis tournament at Thatcher School last season and the year before. Miss Dawson is said to have the making of a national champion.

Dorothy Davis and Dorothy Young, both freshmen, are looked upon at the school as excellent players and they are aspiring to be rivals of Miss Dawson and Miss Grieve.

The Westlake School, under the able athletic direction of Miss Lillian Pressman, has developed some wonderful athletes. The girls are taught rowing and horseback riding. Especial emphasis is laid on tennis and the indoor gymnasium work.

The principals, Miss de Laguna and Miss Vance, have done everything to increase interest in tennis. The school holds a tennis tournament every two months and the principals have put up a handsome cup as a trophy and this school expects to add a new tennis court in the near future.

Miss Margery Tufts, who so ably seconded Mrs. Bundy (nee May Sutton) in the woman's doubles on the courts of the Los Angeles Country Club on Thanksgiving Day, is a product of the Marlborough School for Girls.

Last year, Miss Tufts and Miss Hughes carried off all honors at the Thatcher School tournaments. They won the doubles and Miss Tufts also won the singles.

There is an excellent tennis court at Marlborough and individual players have distinguished themselves, both on the school courts and elsewhere.

Under the direction of Miss Edith Smith, the girls have paid especial attention to dancing. They have gone in for folk dances, as well as fancy dancing.

MISS ORTON'S HORSEWOMEN.

Miss Orton's school at Pasadena has combined both the indoor work and the outdoor. Sigrid Ruth, a graduate of the Royal Institute of Stockholm, is the physical director. Dancing is given a great deal of attention, but the school has carried off honors in tennis as well.

A couple of years ago Margaret Murray won the cup in the Thatcher tournament and recently Miss Linnard and Katherine Irvine have each added a cup to the school collection.

The girls also go in for basketball and horseback riding. Miss Irvine not only is one of the best tennis players in the school, but is a fine horsewoman. In the weekly rides, which the girls take with Miss Marsh, Miss Irvine is always the bright particular star.

The town baker of Fayetteville, N. Y., John F. Enders, uses a motorcycle in his "quick-delivery" department.

He rode from Pittsburgh to Whittier, Cal., on his motorcycle, the distance being about 5000 miles.

Prof. A. V. Storm, chief of the College of Agriculture, sees great possibilities in this method and has given it his warm approval.

100-Mile Fritchle Electrics

Are the Recognized Highest Grade Electric Automobiles in the World

The FRITCHLE is the ideal town car; and its mileage capacity, light weight and strength in construction warrant its use for country work as well.

The FRITCHLE is not an assembled car. It is manufactured in its entirety at the FRITCHLE Factory.

The FRITCHLE is the handsomest and most efficient electric car built.

The FRITCHLE holds the most remarkable cross-country record ever made by an electric automobile. A trip of 2140 miles from Lincoln, Neb., to Washington, D.C., via New York City, was negotiated by a FRITCHLE, entirely under its own power, under the most adverse road conditions, and in the dead of winter. The story of this trip, interestingly illustrated, is available on application.

The FRITCHLE will actually run 100 miles on one charge. We can and will absolutely demonstrate this by road test.

He has been driving a 1910 Winton model for three years and while it is still good he wants to keep up with the late improvements in motor cars and purchased a seven-passenger model finished in brewster green with a gray stream line around the top of the body.

With a flare of trumpets the New Year was ushered in and New Year's Day was celebrated by the motor men in their own peculiar way. Scarcely was the day over, however, than the aftermath came with a rush. Business began to pick up. The lull of the holiday season was over and men of affairs smiled once more. The hoodoo was broken.

Al Faulkner was at San Diego for the road race there. It is interesting to hear his description of the race of the Mercer. According to Al, the car went through that fierce grind with great credit and finished with honors close up to the big Fiat. The race was exciting and interesting, as only a few minutes separated the leaders and for a time it was only seconds between the first and third cars. The Mercer was second, finishing in fast time.

Volney S. Beardsley was one of those who felt particularly jubilant Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The dull season was over. It had lasted only a week, but it was over, and Volney wanted to be shown, and was. Business boomed. Sales were recorded in rapid order. The Society Garage looked particularly pleasing. The New Year was ushered in with a rush, and Beardsley is once more in clover.

E. Roger Stearns celebrated the New Year by purchasing a new derby. He looks like an original Christmas pudding, fresh from Old Hengland. He bought the derby because he did not know what else to do, and he looks well in it if you don't care what you say. Now, Roger was never built for a stiff hat. He should wear a crusher, a cowboy creation, or a dunce's cap; anything but that new tile.

Earle C. Anthony, Ralph Hamlin and E. Roger Stearns left Friday morning for New York. They will take in the Madison Square Garden exhibit, the Grand Central palace show, and may swing back to Chicago, where they will view the Chicago show. Roger is in clover. Earle will carry with him his organette and Roger has agreed to sing whenever Earle and Ralph are feeling particularly well. He says he will make them sick.

Expert Opinion.

PIPAL TALKS ABOUT TRACK.

Thinks Prospects Bright for Banner Season.

Would Arouse Interest With Relay Carnival.

Many Natural Advantages of Southern Athletes.

BY J. A. PIPAL.

(Head Coach Occidental College.)

To forecast the track prospects this early in the season is often the case of counting our chickens rather prematurely. To say that Occidental will defeat Pomona or that the Tigers will be defeated by a one-sided score by U.S.C. is in all probability taking a leap into the dark in either case.

Though Pomona loses some veteran long and middle-distance men, Coach Stanton has, in Barnes, Gillette, Brooks, Heath and Kingman a mighty fine nucleus around which to build his team. Stanton's well-known ability to develop distance men and Pomona's fighting determination and college loyalty are some of the potent factors wise prophets are taking into consideration.

PROMISING FRESHMEN.

There is no denying, however, that Occidental has prospects for a stronger team than that of last year. We were very fortunate in enrolling last fall a most promising bunch of freshmen in Wilson, Annin, Cook, Foster, McClung, Squires, Lockhart, Kinney, Pettit and Hogan. If these men and a few of the lesser lights in the class, will catch the Occidental spirit of hard work and if the old men will improve, as we believe they will, we should have a much better balanced team than last year.

Just now the relay candidates are receiving much attention and we are greatly encouraged over the interest shown in the relay carnival, not only on the Occidental campus, but in all the schools of Southern California.

Cold weather and rain have kept our numbers down somewhat thus far, but I will be greatly disappointed if the squad does not number fifty men by next week. Track is the finest sport on the curriculum and every college man with two legs long enough to reach the ground and with half a lung should come out and take track work for his health if for no other reason. From the standpoint of real development and functional physical training track has all other college sports outdistanced considerably. With proper care and direction there should be no danger from track training.

A BAD IMPRESSION.

To many track and field training seems a monotonous grind and the contests an uninteresting spectacle. This unfortunate and somewhat general attitude towards the sport very naturally is transmitted to the younger generation in our high schools and colleges. Definite track work is postponed as late as possible and often too late a date entirely. Interclass meets stimulate, at least, only spasmodic interest and irregular and brief training. It is usually almost impossible to get early practice meets and when arranged they are often of the "foregone" conclusion order. Thus all along the line we feel the need of something definite to give an early and healthy impetus to our track work.

I believe that a relay carnival staged at a conveniently early date should aid greatly in arousing the interest which is due track athletics and which is usually too long dormant during the lull which invariably follows the football season. Anyone who will not enthuse over a relay race when hotly contested had better consult the family doctor regarding his thermometer of appreciation, which must indeed be dangerously near to the freezing point. A carnival of relay races well-timed will not only give an early impetus to our track season, but will aid in stimulating general and popular interest in the sport.

TO STIMULATE INTEREST.

The Pennsylvania University relay races, held annually at Franklin field, are looked upon as a "God-send" by track authorities in that section. In the East and Middle West, if college teams are to make any showing during the short track season, they are compelled to train under weather conditions which are most discouraging. Snow and slush, wind and cold rains are the usual accompaniments of the early training period. It takes a great amount of college spirit, a mountain of grit and some promise of ultimate reward to tempt the athlete to leave his "sanctum sanctorum" and become a Spartan on the field of toil, for the honor of his Alma Mater. The above-mentioned reward, for the middle-western college man, is furnished in the shape of a trip to Philadelphia, the prospect of winning a gold medal match and the opportunity to compete in a real track classic.

There is no greater athletic event anywhere than the University of Pennsylvania relay championship. Over one hundred prep schools and colleges are represented each year in this meet, while the individual entry list often exceeds one thousand.

ATHLETIC CLEARINGHOUSE.

The best-trained athletes from Harvard, Yale, Chicago, Princeton, Michigan, Brown, Cornell and every other prominent university, are seen in action in the various relays and other events. The carnival always includes the 100-yard dash, hurdles and field events. This great meet is used as a grand clearinghouse of athletic ability in the East and records made here are always used as final.

California justly prides herself on furnishing a great number of world's record men in track, but considering our climatic advantages, we should produce even a larger quota of top-notchers than we have. Our climate gives us a tremendous advantage, which we do not always use properly. As a rule the western track season is out shorter than it is in the East and we begin our season a month later than we should and then have to cut it short to make room for baseball.

OXY RELAY CARNIVAL.

In staging the relay carnival February 15, Occidental hopes, by offering this definite track event at an early date, to be of some help in stimulating general interest in track events and especially to help the high schools and colleges to start training a little earlier.

It's the "early bird" in track that catches the coveted worm. By early work, I do not mean to urge early specialization in any particular event. I refer to that kind of definite training, which relays races will encourage, when specialists in the 880 will be urged to get into condition and win the two-mile relay event. Milers who have worked with the cross-country squad during the late fall will now gladly try their hand at a shorter distance and very often training for the 880 is just what is needed during this part of the season to make them successful distance men later.

QUARTER MEN NEED WORK.

Quarter-milers, at this time of the year, need to work for general condition and endurance and will also be brought out by training to make the two-mile team. In the same way, the one-mile relay of four men will not only attract the 440 men, but the 220 artists on one end, and the 880 men on the other. The one-mile relay of eight 220 men will bring out the 100-yard-dash men, as well as the 440 men. Not only are men thus brought out to take work that will later aid them in their specialily, but often during this sort of training new stars are discovered.

ENCOURAGES PLUGGERS.

Even more important, relays encourage second-string men to get out early for definite training. For here, a sensitive athlete, who would be ashamed to run a third in a dual meet, has the opportunity to bring home first honors for his Alma Mater and receive the same emblem, of duty well-performed, as the fastest man on the relay team.

This means that a well-balanced team can be developed. Give me a team well-fortified with second and third-place men and I am willing that others should scour the earth for all the "made-to-order stars" they can find. Thus is shown what an important part a relay carnival may play in track athletics.

THE STEARNS MAN BOOSTS SOUTH.

WESTERN REPRESENTATIVE A VISITOR HERE.

The Use of the Motor Abroad Helps to Give American Automobiles a Standing in Motor Circles in Europe—Auto Conditions Good in California.

J. H. McDuffey, western representative of the Stearns company, reached Los Angeles last week on his first trip and was immediately taken on a trip to Redlands, Riverside and other points of interest around the Kite.

McDuffey covers all territory west of Denver and from Los Angeles will go north to San Francisco and from there to the Northwest, where the Stearns-Knight is getting a firm hold. He came here direct from Salt Lake City.

"The interest being shown throughout the country in the Knight motors is amazing," said McDuffey. "Everywhere I find the dealers not only enthusiastic, but having many times more prospects than they ever had before and you know prospects make business, for without the prospect you cannot make the sale.

"The almost instant success of the Knight in the United States I attribute to the work done by this motor abroad. As Knight was an American, the people were ready to accept his work, even if it was introduced abroad. The Knight motor has become almost standard abroad and if it was not so well protected by patents in this country, America would be flooded by Knight cars.

THE EXPLANATION.

"I have often been asked why there were no cheap cars on the market with Knight motors. That is easily explained. Knight wants the word Knight to stand for quality in every instance. He feels that while the motors might be all right in the cheap cars, the remainder of the machine may be neglected, so he insists that only high-grade stuff bear his name.

"The Stearns has been the most successful of the American makes for the reason that this factory was one of the leaders when the change was made to the sleeve valve.

"Before the Knight motor was adopted the Stearns company was making a car that was recognized as one of the strongest and sturdiest on the market. The improvement of the motor produced a still better car and the Stearns-Knight has been the result.

"I am more than pleased with the showing Smith Brothers are making in Southern California. Our cars are taking a firm hold here. I also want to say a word of praise about the wonderful roads. When I was in California last the roads were anything but boulevards, now it is a delight to ride for hours over the perfect roads. This is truly a wonderful land."

SCORES IN LADIES' BOWLING TOURNEY.

Complete totals for the ten games bowled last week in the woman's individual championship tournament are given in the appended table. It will be observed that Mrs. H. C. Scott leads by nineteen pins, giving the high average of 158, her total being 1584.

Every competitor made high score in at least one game of the ten, Mrs. A. J. Johnson taking that honor four times. This circumstance indicates the even quality of play which renders each contestant dangerous. In this, as in most other mundane affairs, it is reliable and consistent work which usually wins in the end, and that element in the performance of Mrs. Scott is relied upon by her friends to bring success.

The three members of the Ben Travato team, Mrs. Scott, captain, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Lapham, ran up a total of 4641 to 4490, against their former victors of the Cosmo-Machin team, Mrs. Turner, captain, Miss Scott and Mrs. Pierce. This alignment of forces is likely to be watched throughout the tournament almost as closely as the individual ratings.

Play is to be continued in a series of ten games at the Lyceum alleys Wednesday night. G. S. Lapham, official scorer, gives the following standings:

	1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	Total.	Av.
Mrs. Scott	146	164	202	191	141

SIR THOMAS HONORED BY SOUTH COAST YACHTSMEN.

THAT the recent visit to this city of Sir Thomas Lipton, the world's best-known yachtsman, has added the needed impetus to the enthusiasm already manifested in the sport by local yacht club members, was shown Friday evening by the election of Sir Thomas as an Honorary Member of the South Coast Yacht Club.

At the time of the visit of the famous yacht racer, he inspected the clubhouse and anchorage of the club at San Pedro and appeared extremely interested in the welfare of this club. When asked if he would consider a membership his reply was: "Why certainly. I would be glad to thus remember an association with a live Pacific Coast Club."

The new Board of Directors were therefore only too glad to enroll the name of "Sir Thomas J. Lipton of London, England" as an honorary member of the South Coast Yacht Club.

While the official opening of the 1913 yachting season will not be until May, the club already has important plans under way for improving, not only the physical conditions at anchorage, but for the arrangement of the season's programme of races and cruises.

Commodore C. E. W. Hubbell was acting-commodore during the most of last season and with his able board of directors promises big things for this year.

Unquestionably the opening of the Panama Canal will invite, to these waters, the large eastern racers and the Lipton Cup Race at San Francisco in 1915, will be an opportunity for Los Angeles to boost local racing. It is the hope of the directors of the South Coast Yacht Club that the city will be represented in this race by a proper racing machine. With the financial assistance of such men as Arthur Letts, who signified his enthusiasm by offering to start a yacht building fund with a subscription of $5000, the big idea promises to become a reality.

With the very best of racing weather conditions off our harbor, the South Coast Yacht Club believes that the future offers bright prospects for great things in the line of bigger boats, bigger races, and increased enthusiasm from a city that has heretofore paid but scant attention to one of the greatest and undoubtedly the cleanest of all the sports.

WINTON CHIEFS VISIT HOWARD.

GREAT YEAR PREDICTED FOR THE PACIFIC COAST.

Tour the South While Here and Though Proud of Roads at Home Give Southern California the Palm for Having the Best Highways in State.

Two recent visitors from the north to Los Angeles were H. A. Owesney, manager of the San Francisco branch of the Winton company, and George Miller, the Seattle agent.

While here they were the guests of W. D. Howard, local Winton agent. They were accompanied by their wives, and spent most of the time touring.

They made an enthusiastic report of business in the north.

According to the San Francisco agent, this will be a great year for the Winton on the Pacific Coast. In San Francisco they have found the demand greater than ever before and all the sub-agents report the same conditions.

The Northwest has always been a good territory for Winton cars, but this year they are expected to eclipse all former records.

December was the greatest month for orders in any previous year.

While the two men are proud of the reports they can give of their own district in regard to road conditions they give credit to Southern California for leading in this respect sections in the West.

pow-wow in Milwaukee, but Atlanta and New Orleans decided that they too could use him and declined to waive. Had they stood firm in their determination, Mr. Elliott would have been forced to linger in the Southern League, but they finally capitulated under pressure, and "Rowdy" will forthwith become a Tiger.

Hogan's task of rehabilitating the Tiger catching staff, however, is but half done. He expects to complete it by the purchase of Tonneman, who caught for Memphis last season. Tonneman was with the New York Americans in 1911, but lacked the necessary experience, and was shipped to Memphis. Hogan is now negotiating for him, and the deal is likely to go through unless the southern people are too stiff in their demands.

Hogan will next week begin casting around for a suitable spring training camp.

The Tigers will not train in Los Angeles. That much is certain. Hogan says that Coast league fans will not get a peep at his 1913 bunch until the opening game.

Santa Barbara and Phoenix, Ariz., are both bidding for the Tigers. A week from today Hogan will visit the first-named city and find what advantages the Channel City has to offer. He is going to Santa Barbara, ostensibly to umpire a game to be played for the benefit of Felix Martinke, who has been carrying his jaw in a sling since being hit with a pitched ball two weeks ago, but he will delve deeply into the Santa Barbara training camp proposition before returning.

"No more of these spring exhibition games against major leaguers for my men," said Hogan. "Not only do they fail to benefit us, but sometimes result in harm to the players, especially the new ones. I have a number of new men coming. They

I meeted a man one day—an' he—he was comin' along in a—a—bal-loon, an' he sed he'd bin to market an' he sed—the price o' eve'yfing is so high it's the on'y way to get enny food—an' I sed, "Wait a minnit, pardner, I'll get a marketin' basket an' you take me to market wif you," an' he sed, "O. K."

So I goed in an' I gotted a basket from Bridgie—an'—an' we goed orf an' we stopped at the "Milky Way" an' got milk an' butter—an' orful cheap—'cause the—er—angels waited on us—an' the angels can't never get back to heavving if they charge too much for somepin.

En we went to "Canis," the dog star, an' we buyed lots o' canned sparrow grass an' tomatoes an' canned peaches an'—eve'yfing an' orful cheap an' I asked a n'old doggie what was waitin' on me—why it was—an he sed, "Well, you see, the higher the fewer—in other words, the higher you go the lower the price." What-che-know-'bout-'at!

So after whiles, I taked the marketin' basket home to Bridgie an' she cooked some o' the cans of canned stuff for lunch—an'—an' mine dee-ar muvver she goed to cut the can open an' a lot o' stars fled up out o' it an'—an'—an' 'ey changed into little puppy dogs an' started to fight wif Puppo—an' Puppo sed, "Kiyi!"

So—so mine dee-ar muvver an' Bridgie an' eve'ybuddy was orful scared 'cause eve'yfing was swarmin' full o' little sky terriers an' eve'ybuddy was 'fraid they'd get the hydrant fobius an'—an' Puppo he climbed up on the mantel piece wif Bridgie's new kitty puss—Killarney Rosie—an' all the sky terriers was sayin', "Sky high! Sky high!"

THE FUR CROWN OF A SMART COSTUME

Stone Marten with Smoke Colored Aigrettes

Civet with Front Trimming

The Moleskin Bowler

A Moleskin Cap

Of Sealskin and Ermine

Baby Lamb in a Stiff Shape.

Verily, in this season of fur the smart costume is crowned with a fur cap or hat, which adds elegance, style and general becomingness to afternoon or evening gowns and caps the dress, so to speak, with undeniable beauty.

Bonnets, brimmed hats, soft unlined "toods," as the French call them, are offered by milliners to women who would greet winter with smiling faces under furry frames. Here are the best of a wide choice, offering opportunity to those who would buy or make any of the models.

With a charm of line depending on its drooping aigrettes, the hat with the round brim of stone marten bids for favor. Its small crown is of brown velvet, with a metal ornament holding the plumage in place. This sweeps downward over the brim like a cloud of smoke. The neutral tone harmonizes with any color of a gown.

A cap of moleskin has a wide turned-up brim and a soft lining of silk. At the side is a marabou brush of white, pointing toward the back and rising above the crown of the close-fitting model.

Baby lamb is stretched over a stiff shape, giving simplicity which would be appropriate for those in mourning. A small bow of purple velvet is placed across the back on the top of the round crown. The brim rolls up from the head all around, showing the softening effect of the hair to make a stiff shape becoming.

A hood that is undeniably charming is made of sealskin, with a high crown pointing in a quaint bonnet shape. A band of ermine, which can be fine coney if you wish a lower cost, is placed around the crown, a bow of sealskin at one side holding it down.

Civet fur, the new black-and-white long-haired peltry, is used in a round cap with a high crown. The hat comes down over the head and is built over a wire frame. In front, white aigrettes are mounted in a straight line, carrying out the dash of white which is so noticeable in the marking of the fur. Any piece of fur of this type can be used after this model.

Opossum forms the wide brim of a sealskin toque-shaped turban. It has the effect of distinction, lasts longer and costs less. At one side a fantaisie is placed, sweeping downward, away from the hat. Comfort is curiously linked with beauty in this model.

The becoming "bowler," or derby, with a gracefully curved brim is of moleskin, which is placed in melon-shaped sections. At the right side a stiff wheel of clipped velvet carries out the tailored effect. In this smart hat there is possibility for combination with a strictly tailored suit or an elaborate afternoon gown.

Sealskin in its glory is an ideal fabric for the main part of a hat. The richness of a fur edge, with a simple cabochon of fur surrounding a jeweled disk, is easily yours, if you will but look, listen and learn from artistic milliners.

The smallest piece of fur can be utilised by one who has an eye to the possibilities of peltry in millinery. An entire velvet toque can rejoice in a single tail or button of fur. A fur buckle combined with maline will give sufficient ornamentation to any type of hat. The narrowest strips of fur can be added at any part of a hat with modistic success.

Have you a set of furs suffering from disuse? Bring it out into the light of up-to-date millinery and add a crowning touch to your best costume that will creditably exploit your cleverness and appreciation of good style.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

CONCERNING HOME MADE BREAD.

"Who has not met with home made bread
A heavy compound of putty and lead?"

FROM the many letters asking for good recipes for home made bread I conclude that tastes have changed or the loaf improved since Hood wrote the above lines. However, we might bear in mind that he was probably familiar with the English bread—and to one who has met that on its native soil there is no cause for wonder at his abuse!

I take it as an encouraging and healthful sign that housekeepers are turning to bread making and withdrawing their custom from the bakers. It looks as though they were waking up to sundry valuable truths.

Economy may be one of the considerations which prompt them to make the change. It is authoritatively stated that the money expended for enough loaves of bread to require the use of a barrel of flour is just four times as much as for the same quantity of bread made at home. To offset this I may repeat the remark of a woman who was discussing with me the comparative cost of home made and baker's bread, and insisted that the latter was far cheaper than the former. "Because," she said, "my family eat three or four times as much bread when it's made at home as they do when I buy it from the baker!"

Of course, that is one way of looking at it. When you consider the nutriment the eaters probably get from the domestic loaf, its wholesomeness and the consequent effect upon the health, you must be impressed with the fact that there are other economies besides those of money. The bad results of eating bakery products are not always to be counted up in cash and it may cost the children reared on such stuff something besides doctors' bills to pay for the permanent damage they have received from poor and unclean food.

Facts About Baker's Bread.

Does it seem harsh to describe baker's bread as an unclean product? I grant that there are some honorable exceptions to this statement, but other facts loom up which lead me to feel that it is difficult to put the case too strongly.

Let us look for a moment at these facts—well authenticated, all of them, some the outcome of investigations into bakeries made by committees retained by those seeking to secure pure food for the people.

First, the conditions in which the bread is made. In various large bakeries the dough is mixed and kneaded by half naked men, reeking with sweat, in unventilated cellar bakeries, in the midst of unclean surroundings where dogs and cats are allowed to make their beds in the kneading vats and bread troughs when these are empty, where leaky sewer pipes run along the ceiling above the mixing trays. These were a few of the facts discovered by the workers striving to amend the conditions in which bread for the market is made.

Then the material of which the bread is compounded. Have you, clean, particular housekeepers, any notion of what goes into the attractive looking wares you find at the baker's? I had vague ideas on the subject until a business man unintentionally gave me "an eye opener" a while ago.

I had referred in his presence to the confiscation by the authorities of some hundreds of dozens of rotten eggs which had been purchased by a big baking concern, and expressed my disgust with the firm which would even consider the use of such eggs.

"There is not the least harm in them," affirmed the business man. "I was once in the wholesale bakery business myself and we bought millions of rotten eggs and used them without trouble or detection. They were submitted to a chemical process which left only the raising qualities in the eggs—the sulphuretted hydrogen—and deodorized this completely. There is no reason why they should not be utilized, and the pure food cranks are making a lot of unnecessary bother when they butt into such things."

"I'll give you another bit of valuable information to put with that," said one of the "pure food cranks" to whom I repeated the remark of the former baker. "The only articles in which these rotten eggs are used are lady fingers and angel cake. There's a tribute to your sensible set!"

* *

Loaves Exposed During Delivery.

"But these are sweets," you plead. "Bread is different."

How is it different? More is made of it in loaves, in rolls, and the like than any other kind of bake stuff. Do you suppose the bakers are so lost to all sense of profit as to let slip such an opportunity of adulteration by which they can gain a little money? Not for a moment. I cannot state positively just how adulteration of bread is managed—but from knowledge of the bakers I have faith to believe it is accomplished.

You may remind me that I have said there are honorable exceptions to this condemnation in the way of bakers who do not produce their wares under unclean conditions and who presumably employ good materials in their manufacture. This is true—and yet there are flaws in even their systems.

For instance, one firm advertises far and wide the clean and sanitary surroundings in which their bread is made. From the time the machine ground flour comes into the factory until it goes out of it in neat, crisp loaves, the naked hand does not touch it. The bread is mixed and kneaded by machinery, made into loaves and put into the oven by the same power, withdrawn and loaded into cases for distribution. And then it is sent forth without a wrapper, to be distributed to various bakers and grocers, who handle it before it is sold to you. Do you know in what state are the hands that receive it and bundle it before it is put with your order?

The other day, as I came up the street in the car, our progress was stopped by a baker's wagon, and a clear view was given of its interior. Loaves of bread were piled in it like so many logs of wood, there was nothing over them, the back door of the wagon was open, and the dust laden, germ burdened wind had full sweep over the bread that was on the way to your table and mine.

Goods Contaminated by Flies.

Have you not seen—as I have—the grocer's boy drop the reins and jump down from his seat—pausing, perhaps, to adjust the harness of his horse on the way to the back of the wagon, whence he pulls out the loaf of bread you have ordered, from where it is mixed with other foods, and carry it in his soiled hands to your basement door? Have you never wondered what especial variety of miasma the loaf acquired in the transit? You are in luck if no fleas nor flies, with germs, that if we knew how all our food was manipulated before it comes to us we would be in a fair way to reduce our diet to boiled eggs and potatoes roasted in their jackets. That is quite true, and I am entirely willing to agree that it is well sometimes not to see or know too much and to close our eyes to conditions we cannot remedy. But in the matter of bread you have a chance for self-protection. The flour is now ground and bolted under sanitary laws, and when you get a good brand it is virtually pure and clean. No one is to blame but yourself if the utensils in which the bread is mixed, the hands that touch it the bread on the step of the cart while he gathers up the other articles that have been sent home for you—the step where his muddy boots have rested while he loaded the goods into the wagon.

Of course there is no end to looking for dirt when you once begin, and you may call me, with truth, that if we knew how all our food was manipulated before it comes to us we would be in a fair way to reduce our diet to boiled eggs and potatoes roasted in their jackets. That is quite true, and I am entirely willing to agree that it is well sometimes not to see or know too much and to close our eyes to conditions we cannot are not cautious. After the loaf is it lies with you to keep it from and flies. You do not have to re flies that swarm over the bread o uncovered on the counter of the "I wish you would keep your cheese cases or at least under a netting," I said to a baker one day had been tempted into his shop by tractive display of cakes and pies window. "We can see how a lot tamination those flies may have on fore they come in here to feed us."

He shrugged his shoulders.

"We can't be burdened with hea things covered all the time," he "Most people don't mind a few fli having to shoo the things."

"Unfortunately I am one of those mind," I said, and walked out of t empty handed.

More than One Recipe.

I know what a craving of time of it is to buy your bread from the and spare yourself the work of bak But do you think you could put the and the other you may by hoping to punch better one than by makin baking the bread for your family? another way have you for economi money that will go the same length to the comfort, the pleasure, or the of your household?

You may secure cost you have to with your bread. I have heard numer housewives utter their praises, and was into details I have always found that trouble that some little detail was corrected. If you have no favorite recipe, try another. Experiment a of the many departments of house in which there is more than one sty of doing a thing.

One cook makes a bread in whic sponge and has good results. Anoth uses a sponge and yet shows you her bread. Some women cream at the be of a bread mixer and hold that bread invariably be kneaded with an ha Others praise the bread mixing machine a wonderful saver of time and labor declare that bread made in this ma nothing cannot possibly fail to come out

Select your own recipe, choose your method. "The proof of the pudding" of the bread—is in the eating," and if loaf is light, sweet, even, moderately good to the taste, the way it was make it is of secondary importance. make it yourself! Emancipate your fam from the baker and see if the change doesn't pay it every way.

"Emancipate Your Family from the Baker and See if the Change Doesn't Pay in Every Way!"

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the department I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them. Marion Harland.

"I AM sending my way of keeping raisins and currants from falling to the bottom of the cake.

"I always cook them first. This keeps them from sinking, and they do not extract moisture from the cake as they do when rolled in flour. Mrs. A."

A device quite new strange to me. How long must they be cooked? Are raisins seeded and halved before they are cooked? And is there no loss of flavor to the cake by the process? Let us hear from you on these points. So many cooks have trouble with the sinking of fruit into a clammy mass at the bottom of the cake that your simple preventive should be a veritable "find" of price.

Against Coupon Ides.

"I believe that a majority of thinking housekeepers detest as heartily as I do this premium, coupon, and trading stamp system that seems to have taken such hold of the American people.

"How many business men would stand for china or nickel being received (as 'presents, forsooth!') in goods purchased by them? Why shouldn't we women insist upon getting full value of the article desired?

"When buying soap, or salt, or yeast or oatmeal, or any other staple, why shouldn't manufacturers be compelled to give full weight instead of premium papers?

"This would simplify housekeeping and also help to keep down the high cost of living.

"Will you not take up the crusade?

"C. B. D."

A witty judge once waived aside a lot of evidence offered by a lawyer known to be a confirmed and blatant infidel who professed the new proofs with, "Your honor, we are told in holy writ, etc."

At this point the judge interrupted him: "The court declines to accept evidence in documentary form which has not already been read by the counsel presenting the same!"

The true anecdote returns to me in copying the foregoing protest. But in the present instance it is the court and not the counsel who is in dense ignorance as to the nature of the evidence, and, indeed, of the matter at issue.

Having never, to my recollection, so much as seen a trading stamp or a coupon admitting the holder to a premium, I am at a loss to put at the mercy of the case so unanimously submitted. I learn now, for the first time, that trading stamps have much to do with short weights and unjust measures. Nor am I willing to believe that sensible house mothers, suspecting this, would accept bits of paper as equivalents for the shortage.

We have hundreds of intelligent business men among our daily readers. We number least of thousands of good managers of households who try to purchase to the best advantage both staples and fancy foods. Will these let me have a succinct statement of the trading stamp system, its practical workings and the respective benefits of the same to seller and buyer? Nothing that tends to injure the interests of the American house mother is too petty for our consideration. I hold a permanent brief for her, and I would acquaint myself with the documents in the case before declining or accepting the conduct of the proposed "crusade."

A New Library Paste Recipe.

"I have read what you say of making library paste. Your plan seems to me an endless job compared with my way of preparing the same. This I am sending that you may judge for yourself:

"Library Paste.—One ounce of wheat flour, half an ounce of powdered alum, eight ounces of water, four ounces of oil of cloves or wintergreen.

"Rub flour and alum together with the water until you have a paste of the consistency of cream; stir this over a moderate fire until the paste drops from the wooden paddle in jelly. The flakes and looks like starch.

"While the mass is still hot add the essential oil and pour the paste into an earthenware pot or open jar. In the course of any hour a crust will form upon the top. Pour gently upon this an inch of water more or less. When more paste is needed decant the water, take out as much paste as you require for present use, and pour the same water back upon the remainder, repeating the process whenever paste is needed.

"Paste may be kept in this way for months, and it will never be troubled by flies. Mrs. B. G. V."

An easy and if, as you say, it is also a safe way of making paste, you have earned our thanks by contributing it for the general benefit. The water keeps the contents of the jar moist and prevents the caking to which most varieties of library paste are subject. Are four drops of preservative oils enough to prevent the water from souring?

To Get Rid of Rats.

"Will some kind reader tell me of a sure way of ridding a house of rats?

"An Albany Member."

Pending the reply of the kind reader, will you listen to something I learned for myself fifty years ago, when I kept house in the country for half the year?

Our new barn was so near the old one, built years before by a farming neighbor, that an overflow meeting of rodents from his premises colonized upon our premises. They had the place to themselves all winter long and late into the spring, and made the most of their privileges. Floors and doors and roofs were riddled, and the cellar floors cemented though they were, were undermined. They actually gnawed through leaden water pipes, and built nests in the registers of the furnace. We hired a man to bring ferrets from the city. Which cleared out the wretches—until the ferrets and their operator had time to get back to town. A fortnight later the coachman brought in from the stable a huge wire trap filled with writhing, hissing, biting rodents of assorted sizes. There were seventeen in all. If the trap had been large enough, there probably would have been seventy. An inspiration was born in my brain of the disgust of the moment.

There was plenty of liquid tar on the premises. Two of the biggest rats were spared from the massacre of their brethren. The pair were potted in the tar barrel and liberated. They made straight for their accustomed runways and disappeared in them. Next the entrances to all rat holes were smeared thickly with tar, and it was poured down drain pipes and into cracks offering egress and ingress. Finally the floors of stables and the outer sills of doors and windows were covered with unslaked lime. Inside of a week not a rat could be found upon the place. If there be one thing more irritating to the tender skin of a mouse or rat than red pepper it is unslaked lime. It sticks to the fur and eats into the hide; it gets into the eyes and makes the feet sore. The "beastie" is sensitive to physical discomfort and, strange as it may sound, cleanly of person. The tar cannot be disledged from the fine hairs of the body; it clogs whiskers and pastes eyelids together. The two baptistered compatriots of the tribe spread consternation throughout the neighborhood. Of themselves they might have rid our grounds of trespassing hordes. Combined with the tarry holes and the limed runways, they wrought wonders, the memory of which is fresh in the minds of many who knew of the affair at that time.

I have told the story to help you and others who have honestly set to signify by what means they might accomplish redemption from the curious plague of "rats, mice, and such small deer," including the red squirrels that haunt our country cottages after they are closed for the winter.

I have given the prescription to dozens of friends (tar additions), and have yet to hear of a failure where a faithful trial was made of the gummy process.

A Dishwashing Hint.

"If you have to wash dishes, etc., keep a plentiful supply of soft paper in the kitchen, with which wipe out greasy pots and pans, plates and dishes, before you begin to wash them. It will save time, temper, labor—and soap. E. T. M."

A capital idea which was recommended to us for adoption some weeks ago by another canny housemother. I know cooks and the mistresses of cooks who never allow a scrap of wrapping and packing paper to be thrown away. It is a mystery to the acquaintance of one of them how she always contrives to have quantities of clean tissue paper to lay in between her best gowns whenever she travels. She never buys it for that purpose, she explains, but folds and lays away every sheet that comes to the house in silkiness and dry goods boxes. The cheaper qualities go into the flat bag hung near the kitchen sink. Used as our correspondent indicates, the paper absorbs the heavier parts of the grease. A smear of hot water is the next cleanser. Then a dip into scalding suds leaves no oily to be taken up by the towels. Not the least advantage of the process is that towels keep clean and white ten times as long as if they were allowed to get dingy and grease soaked. A grimy, ill smelling dish towel is a housewifely disgrace.

Recipe for Spruce Beer.

"I see that 'W. C. H.' asks for a recipe for spruce beer. I send mine, hoping it is the one she wants.

"'Mrs. P. O.' wishes to get directions for putting up maraschino cherries. I am so fortunate as to be able to gratify this desire also, and I do it with genuine pleasure.

"May I thank you for the Corner? It is the part of the paper to which I turn first in opening it each evening. I enjoy it immensely. I am alone all day without a soul to speak to except my 8 months old baby. But the baby is the joy and light of my life—the darling!

"SPRUCE BEER.—This is a home made beverage. Get 5 cents' worth each of oil of sassafras, oil of wintergreen, and oil of peppermint and mix well together. Have ready in a bowl two pounds of A sugar and pour upon it half a teaspoonful of the mixed oils before stirring into it two quarts of boiling water. Now, mix in thoroughly the rest of the blended oils; add gradually eight quarts of cold water and a cake of compressed yeast. Stir long and well. Bottle at once. Let the bottles stand in a warm place over night. Then lay them upon their sides in the cellar. When used they should be served ice cold.

"MARASCHINO CHERRIES.—Stone the cherries; save all the juice that runs from them. Weigh the cherries and allow pound for pound in weighing the sugar. Drain the cherries in a colander and set the fruit upon the ice. Put juice and sugar together in a preserving kettle and cook to a thick syrup. Then add the cherries and simmer all together for fifteen minutes. This done, draw off one-half of the syrup and supply its place with maraschino. Bring quickly to the boil, keeping the kettle closely covered to prevent evaporation of the volatile liquor. As soon as the boil is reached remove from the fire and put instantly into glass jars, sealing at once.

I have never made personal trial of either of these recipes, but I had them from trustworthy sources, and have no doubt as to their excellence. Mrs. L. S."

Our Missouri housemothers have a well earned reputation for the quality of their products, and we accept the foregoing upon the indorsement of one of the band.

Acting upon the principle, continually inculcated in The Exchange, of wasting nothing that might be utilized in any way, will she let me remark that the syrup drawn from the fruit to make room for the maraschino may be boiled down into jelly or a thick conserve with which to delight the children when it is spread upon bread for supper?

Going a step further, I would [illegible] recipe call the season by suggesting substitution of whole canned cherries for the fresh. Add sugar in the right proportions, cook ten minutes and let them drain off the syrup as with fresh cherries, after which point proceed as directed in the recipe. A yet bolder innovation would be to restore color to the canned cherries by the addition of clear cranberry juice to the syrup in which the fruit is cooked.

The ingenious housemother can add seasons by experiments assisted by a [illegible] brain and justified by experience.

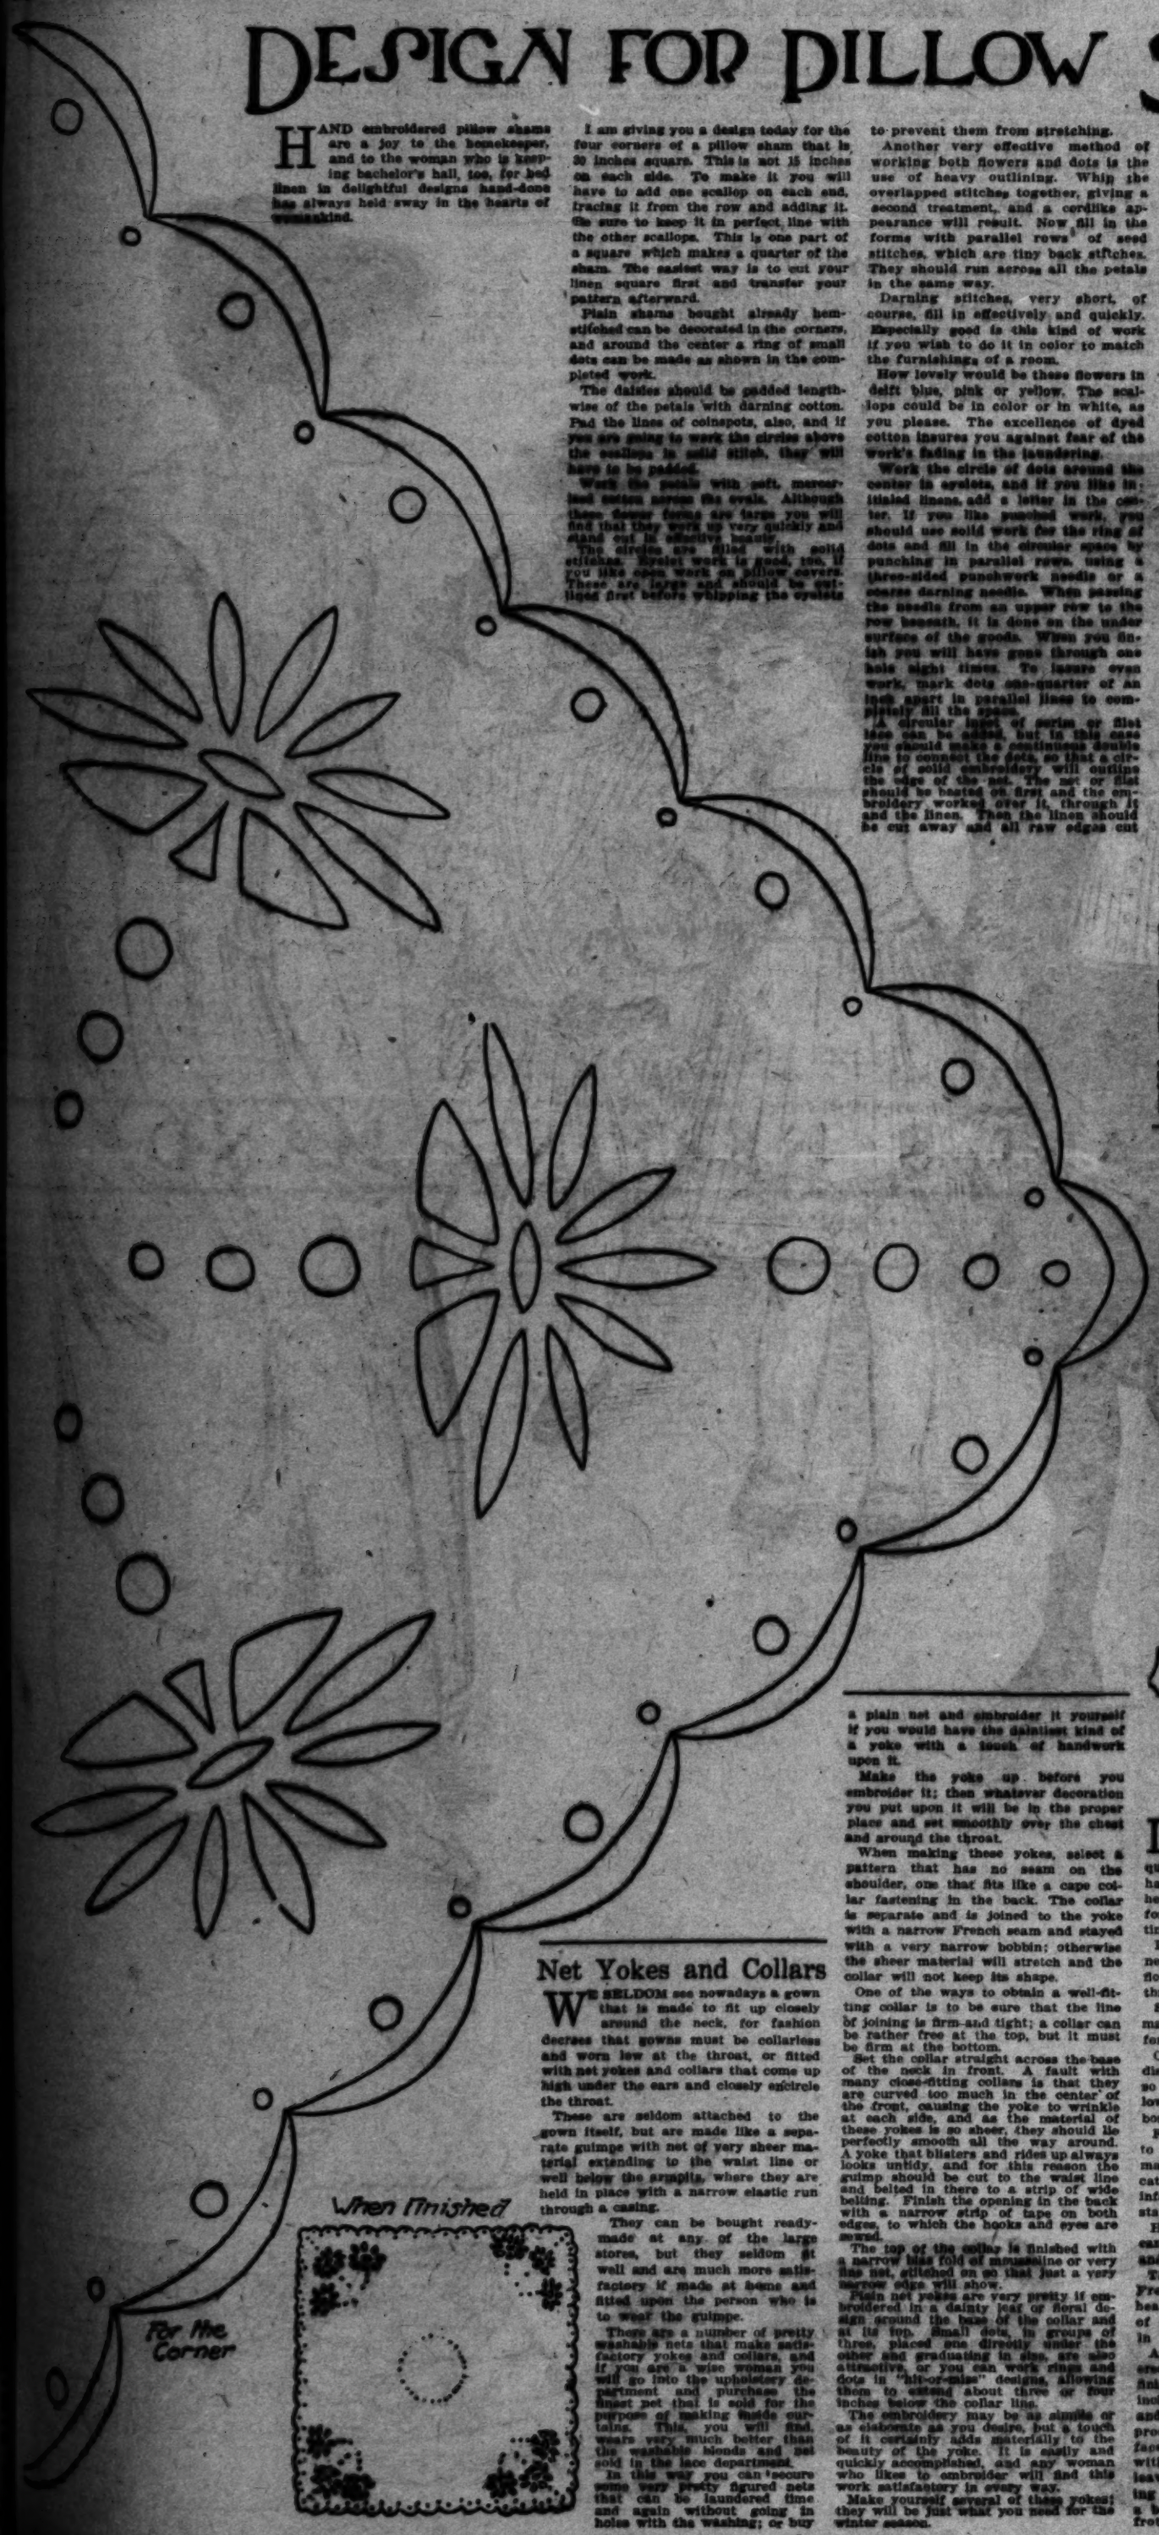
For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

DESIGN FOR PILLOW SHAM



HAND embroidered pillow shams are a joy to the housekeeper, and to the woman who is having bachelor's hall, too, for bed linen in delightful designs hand-done has always held sway in the hearts of womankind.

I am giving you a design today for the four corners of a pillow sham that is 30 inches square. This is not 15 inches on each side. To make it you will have to add one scallop on each end, tracing it from the row and adding it. Be sure to keep it in perfect line with the other scallops. This is one part of a square which makes a quarter of the sham. The easiest way is to cut your linen square first and transfer your pattern afterward.

Plain shams bought already hemstitched can be decorated in the corners, and around the center a ring of small dots can be made as shown in the completed work.

The daisies should be padded lengthwise of the petals with darning cotton. Pad the lines of coinspots, also, and if you are going to work the circles above the scallops in solid stitch, they will have to be padded.

Work the petals with soft, mercerized cotton across the ovals. Although these flower forms are large you will find that they work up very quickly and stand out in effective beauty.

The circles are filled with solid stitches. Eyelet work is good, too, if you like open work on pillow covers. These are large and should be outlined first before whipping the eyelets to prevent them from stretching.

Another very effective method of working both flowers and dots is the use of heavy outlining. Whip the overlapped stitches together, giving a second treatment, and a cordlike appearance will result. Now fill in the forms with parallel rows of seed stitches, which are tiny back stitches. They should run across all the petals in the same way.

Darning stitches, very short, of course, fill in effectively and quickly. Especially good is this kind of work if you wish to do it in color to match the furnishings of a room.

How lovely would be these flowers in delft blue, pink or yellow. The scallops could be in color or in white, as you please. The excellence of dyed cotton insures you against fear of the work's fading in the laundering.

Work the circle of dots around the center in eyelets, and if you like initialed linens, add a letter in the center. If you like punched work, you should use solid work for the ring of dots and fill in the circular space by punching in parallel rows, using a three-sided punchwork needle or a coarse darning needle. When passing the needle from an upper row to the row beneath, it is done on the under surface of the goods. When you finish you will have gone through one hole eight times. To insure even work, mark dots one-quarter of an inch apart in parallel lines to completely fill the space.

A circular insert of seriin or filet lace can be added, but in this case you should make a continuous double line to connect the dots, so that a circle of solid embroidery will outline the edge of the net. The net or filet should be basted on first and the embroidery worked over it, through it and the linen. Then the linen should be cut away and all raw edges cut away and whipped down to give a neat and durable finish. An initial can be embroidered on heavy net if a paper form is used for a firm foundation.

Make the color note one of daintiness and have it unobtrusive.

There! I have given you a good beginning for a set that will last you for years. You will never regret the few hours' work required to finish them.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric and the strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper of ordinary tissue paper trace your pattern. Before you begin, this is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and retrace the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is clear.

Hints Which Help

WHEN you have a torn buttonhole, stitch a piece of closely woven tape to the under side. Now saw the edge of the buttonhole to this and cut through the tape. Buttonhole-stitch the edge in the usual manner and it will never tear again.

* * *

Soak the whalebones taken from a discarded bodice in warm water and they may readily be straightened for further use.

* * *

On the hand-made French nightgowns there is a small long buttonhold in the center, through which the ribbon is drawn and tied. This saves the time required to sew on the made bow.

* * *

When stitching a seam in chiffon or mousseline de soie it is apt to pucker. To prevent this, place a strip of paper over the seam and sew through it. The strips used on a bolt of ribbon are excellent for this purpose.

FASHIONED FROM LACE

THIS season there has been a revival of filet and cluny lace in needlework circles. Square, oblong and long rectangular motifs are sold at the lace shops costing from 15 cents apiece upward.

These are effectively combined with linen, mercerized poplin, linen canvas, crash or ponges, to fashion the loveliest sofa cushions, table runners and scarfs imaginable.

The woman who crochets can make filet medallions with her magic needle; but those who are not familiar with the art can pick up many pretty designs in cluny, filet or Arabian lace. The motifs need not match, for many of the most attractive articles show a variety of tiny squares.

Filet crochet is, perhaps, the oldest crocheted lace; and it has great possibilities as a means of artistic development. The needlewoman who enjoys hand sewing can make exquisite window curtains by combining the lace motifs with squares of eyelet embroidery to form a border around the curtain.

To make a table runner for the library or living room, purchase a strip of linen crash in the natural color, the desired length. Select two motifs of filet lace from six to eight inches square and cut in the center of each end, cutting away the linen from beneath. Finish the ends with a linen fringe or with bands of filet insertion. A row of small motifs may be successfully substituted for the insertion. Another scarf can be made, using a double row of small motifs, joined to form bands and separated with a strip of linen.

Centerpieces of linen, with motifs of filet or cluny lace forming a border, are especially pretty.

A piece of linen twenty inches square is used for a charming centerpiece, and in each corner to set a square motif of Arabian lace in an animal or flower design. Finish the edge by crocheting a narrow picot lace around it.

Oblong sofa cushions are enjoying an enviable popularity. Ecru mercerized poplin is much used in combination with strips or motifs of filet lace.

Purchase two bands of insertion to encircle the width of the pillow and join them to a band of poplin with an inch-wide hemstitched hem down each side. Use linen fringe to finish the ends.

Pincushion tops can be made by using the small motifs in combination with squares of eyelet embroidery, to form a square or an oblong strip.

Join these motifs by whipping the two edges together, and when the top is completed stitch it to the bottom of linen. Border this with a scant ruffle with a filet or cluny lace. Small pincushions are fashioned from a single square of lace with an edging showing fullness only where the corners are turned.

Filet lace launders beautifully and wears for ages, therefore it is thoroughly practical to use for decorating the home.

The exquisite bedspreads, window draperies, door panels, pillow covers and scarfs, imported from France, are made of filet, cluny and Arabian lace motifs and squares of English eyelet embroidery. The prices asked for these lovely articles are small fortunes to most women; but if you purchase the material and make them yourself, they cost about a third as much.

These suggestions should help you when planning your Christmas gifts. Any housewife who admires dainty articles of handicraft would be delighted to receive an example of your needlework. You will find this a fascinating pastime.

Ancient Embroideries

THIS higher art needlework is becoming a hobby with many fashionable women, and this revival of interest in embroidery should be encouraged.

The queens and noble ladies of the long ago left exquisite examples of their handicraft in the priceless tapestries exhibited in the museums.

Those who enjoy doing artistic needlework are duplicating the designs created during the reigns of Queen Elizabeth, Queen Anne and Queen Catherine.

Queen Anne embroideries, with their exquisite coloring, are done with the cross-stitch. Beautiful curtains are decorated with a band of flowers embroidered on a smoky-yellow background in pink, yellow and blue. The design is wholly conventional, and has been stored away ever since the days of that thrifty queen.

Elizabethan embroideries, worked in long stitch on fine white linen, have a quaint charm. The designs are mostly of birds and flowers and scrolls cunningly interwoven, in some cases these bright embroidered rows mounted on a background of wine red.

The old-fashioned patchwork quilting is also numbered among the recent revivals. Every needleworker who has the skill should "piece" a quilt for her baby. Pretty designs are worked out on squares of a regular size with small pieces of colored silk or cotton material outlined with white. The "crazy" quilt is a conglomeration of patches—all sizes, colors and shapes sewn to the block foundation. These small squares are then joined to form the large "quilt" or "bedspread." A colonial bedroom is incomplete without a "pieced quilt."

Net Yokes and Collars

WE SELDOM see nowadays a gown that is made to fit up closely around the neck, for fashion decrees that gowns must be collarless and worn low at the throat, or fitted with net yokes and collars that come up high under the ears and closely encircle the throat.

These are seldom attached to the gown itself, but are made like a separate guimpe with net of very sheer material extending to the waist line or well below the armpits, where they are held in place with a narrow elastic run through a casing.

They can be bought ready-made at any of the large stores, but they seldom fit well and are much more satisfactory if made at home and fitted upon the person who is to wear the guimpe.

There are a number of pretty washable nets that make satisfactory yokes and collars, and if you are a wise woman you will go into the upholstery department and purchase the finest net that is sold for the purpose of making inside curtains. This, you will find, wears very much better than the washable blends and net sold in the lace department.

In this way you can secure some very pretty figured nets that can be laundered time and again without going in holes with the washing; or buy a plain net and embroider it yourself if you would have the daintiest kind of a yoke with a touch of handwork upon it.

Make the yoke up before you embroider it; then whatever decoration you put upon it will be in the proper place and set smoothly over the chest and around the throat.

When making these yokes, select a pattern that has no seam on the shoulder, one that fits like a cape collar fastening in the back. The collar is separate and is joined to the yoke with a narrow French seam and stayed with a very narrow bobbin; otherwise the sheer material will stretch and the collar will not keep its shape.

One of the ways to obtain a well-fitting collar is to be sure that the line of joining is firm and tight; a collar can be rather free at the top, but it must be firm at the bottom.

Set the collar straight across the base of the neck in front. A fault with many close-fitting collars is that they are curved too much in the center of the front, causing the yoke to wrinkle at each side, and as the material of these yokes is so sheer, they should lie perfectly smooth all the way around. A yoke that blisters and rides up always looks untidy, and for this reason the guimp should be cut to the waist line and belted in there to a strip of wide boning. Finish the opening in the back with a narrow strip of tape on both edges, to which the hooks and eyes are sewed.

The top of the collar is finished with a narrow bias fold of mousseline or very fine net, stitched on so that just a very narrow edge will show.

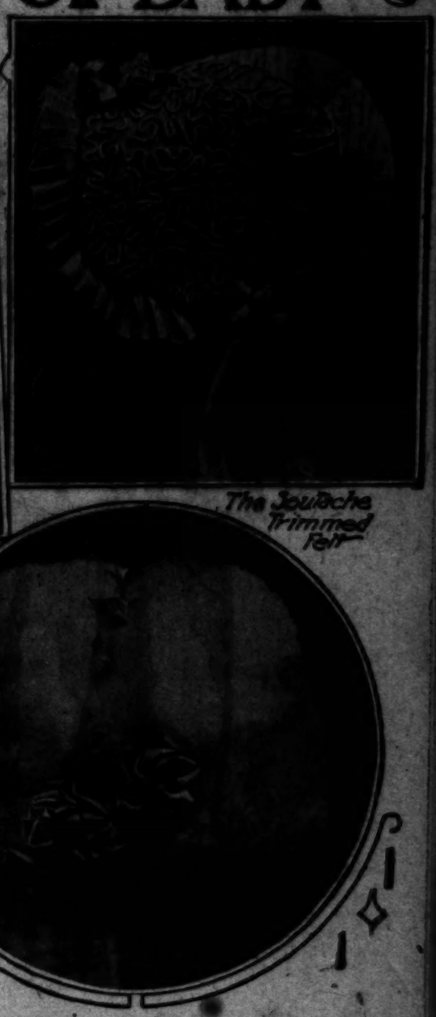
Plain net yokes are very pretty if embroidered in a dainty leaf or floral design around the base of the collar and at its top. Small dots, in groups of three, placed one directly under the other and graduating in size, are also attractive, or you can work rings and dots in "hit-or-miss" designs, allowing them to extend about three or four inches below the collar line.

The embroidery may be as simple or as elaborate as you desire, but a touch of it certainly adds materially to the beauty of the yoke. It is easily and quickly accomplished, and any woman who likes to embroider will find this work satisfactory in every way.

Make yourself several of these yokes; they will be just what you need for the winter season.

BONNETS FOR BABY

Of Corded Silk



DID you ever see anything more enchanting than dainty baby bonnets? They are so tiny, so exquisitely made. The clever needlewoman has an excellent opportunity to display her talents when making a lovely cap for her "wee sma' bairn" or for some tiny friend.

If you embroider, there are many bonnets of finest linen where fairylike flowers and foliage are worked with thread as fine as a cobweb.

Should you be deft at making handmade laces, there are wonderful designs for your active needle or bobbin.

Crocheted and knitted caps are also displayed in a great variety of models, so whichever path your cleverness follows, you can apply it to making baby a bonnet.

For the woman who only knows how to use a needle and thread there are many attractive bonnets to be duplicated. A visit to the smart shops where infants' apparel is sold will verify this statement.

Here are given three examples which can readily be fashioned with a needle and thread.

The braided bonnet is soft white French felt, shaped to fit the baby's head. Narrow rope braid or soutache of white silk is stitched on by hand in a "hit-or-miss" design.

An interlining of white flannel, covered with soft china silk, gives a neat finish to the inside. White ribbon an inch and a half in width is knife-pleated and stitched about the front of the cap, producing a soft frame for the little face. The top and sides are adorned with clusters of small pink roses and leaves formed of silk. There is nothing more appropriate for a baby than a bonnet of white swansdown. This frothy white material is warm and practical, as it can be washed when soiled.

Swansdown can be purchased in large pieces, and can be cut to fit any pattern. Line the bonnet first with flannel and then with silk. Two rosettes formed of short loops of satin ribbon trim the sides, and are joined with a garland of tiny pink satin rosebuds and leaves.

The rosebuds are formed of folded strips of pale pink satin or ribbon. A small piece of cotton covered with satin forms the center and the petals are made by winding the strip of satin about this until the bud is the required size. The rosebuds are then fastened to a strip of foliage, which can be purchased at the milliner's.

Cream-colored grosgrain silk is used for the charming little tape-trimmed bonnet. A three-inch band piped with the silk borders the cap, and the full back portion is gathered into this frame.

The bonnet is lined with china silk and finished around the edge with a full ruching of white silk. A ruffle of valenciennes lace dotted with tiny wild roses, formed of pink ribbon, attractively adorned the top of the cap.

Rosettes and tie-strings of white ribbon completed this charming model.

Baby must be supplied with her share of gifts, and a "best" bonnet will be an acceptable addition to her collection. Purchase the materials immediately and make practical use of these suggestions.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FOLK

THE DANCING CLASS

ELEANOR DEAR:

Acting upon your suggestion to send my small daughter to dancing school this winter, we attended Miss Anderson's Tuesday afternoon class.

I never witnessed a more fascinating sight; and I wager, had you been with me, you would have sketched every pretty tot there.

There couldn't possibly be a lovelier collection of dainty childhood, and I would give a king's ransom if the picture had been reproduced in oils for the world to enjoy.

Miss Anderson is a charming girl, and little Eleanor has developed the usual love for the first teacher. She wore a delightfully simple frock of pea-green crepe de chine, of ankle length and with the high waist line. The overbodice folded over a chemisette of the green crepe de chine, trimmed with two rows of covered buttons. A broad collar of white crepe de chine, with ends disappearing beneath the waist belt, and turned-back cuffs of the same material, effectively adorned the blouse.

An American Beauty rose, tucked in at the corsage, with slippers and stockings of the same fashionable hue, supplied the note of color, without which a gown is sadly incomplete this season.

The children's frocks were perfect, and even the most fluent pen could not do them justice. Mary Ellen Glenn was darling in pale-blue batiste, with a vandyke collar and cuffs of pleated lace. Hand-run tucks formed the yoke and band at the hem, while a sash of black velvet completed the costume.

Her guest, a little beauty with midnight hair and high coloring, wore an exquisite frock of white point d'esprit over pink silk. Garlands of tiny pink satin roses were festooned across the bodice and above the lace flounce bordering the skirt.

You remember what a homely baby you considered Dorothy Winton to be? Well, she has developed into the most beautiful child imaginable. Her mother uses excellent taste when selecting her clothing. Black velvet fashioned the frock she wore to the dancing class. A chemisette of tucked white mousseline de soie, with square corners and collar and cuffs of Irish crochet lace trimmed the bodice. Pomegranate-red brocaded ribbon was used for the sash and hair ribbon. Small crystal buttons of the same color adorned the chemisette.

Ethel Morgan's youngest daughter wore a charming dancing dress of white mousseline de soie. The bodice and skirt were accordion-pleated and the latter had a frill of lace at the bottom. A bolero-jacket effect of pink chiffon, caught together with a flat bow, made this a decidedly smart frock.

Eleanor wore, for the first time, your Christmas gift to her, and the white chiffon sprinkled with pale-blue flowers was especially becoming to her coloring.

She has inherited your talent for dancing and longs for Tuesday to roll around.

With best love to you and the family,

Ever fondly, MADGE.
